ADMIRAL GEORGE

DEWEY

A SKETCH OF THE MAN

By Hon. John Barrett

Illustrated. Cloth 16mo, $1 25.

THIS is a book of the moment. The author, Mr. Barrett, formerly United States Minister to Siam, spent the ten months succeeding the battle of Manila Bay with Admiral Dewey, and has made his book rather a study of the character and personality of the man than an extended biography. In so doing he has brought to light a wealth of information entirely new and intensely interesting.

Dodd, Mead & Co.'s Autumn Books, 1899

ILLUSTRATED BOOKS

AS YOU LIKE IT

By WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE. With five full-page illustrations reproduced in color by photo-lithography, and numerous drawings and decorations to accompany the text, by Will H. Low. 8vo, cloth, ... $2.50

The great success of Mr. Low's illustrations for Mr. Mabie's "The Forest of Arden," published last year, has suggested in rather an obvious way the treatment by the same artist of Shakespeare's "As You Like It."

MY STUDY FIRE

By HAMILTON W. MABIE. With illustrations by M. and G. Cowles. 8vo, cloth, $2.50

An edition of this book, illustrated with feeling and imagination, will appeal to a multitude of readers. It is a book certain to be ranked as unique and prominent among the illustrated books of any season.

RIP VAN WINKLE

By JOSEPH JEFFERSON. Being the text of the play by this famous American actor. Illustrated with a new portrait of Mr. Jefferson, and with drawings from scenes in the play, by Richard Creifelds, and five illustrations from designs by Joseph Jefferson. A new edition. 8vo, cloth, ... $2.50

Ten new illustrations have been added, all of them reproductions of the stage setting of the play as given by Mr. Jefferson.

LEGENDS OF SWITZERLAND

By H. A. GUERBER, author of "Stories of the Famous Operas," etc. With illustrations. 12mo, cloth, ... $1.50

The legends of Switzerland have never been collected in popular form.

SILAS MARNER

By GEORGE ELIOT. With 60 full-page illustrations by Reginald B. Birch. Small 8vo, with decorated cover, ... $2.00

In this series of drawings Birch rivals, if he does not surpass, Hugh Thomson and other English draughtsmen in their own field.

POEMS OF CABIN AND FIELD

By PAUL LAURENCE DUNBAR. With illustrations by the Hampton Students' Camera Club, and decorations by Alice C. Morse. 8vo, cloth, ... $1.50

The illustrations for the Selected Poems (all of them in negro dialect) have been made from photographs taken by the Hampton Students' Camera Club.

GREAT PICTURES DESCRIBED BY GREAT WRITERS

By ESTHER SINGLETON. A companion to "Turrets, Towers and Temples." With numerous illustrations. 8vo, cloth, ... $2.00

Miss Singleton has given, in connection with a reproduction in an excellent manner of fifty or sixty masterpieces by the great painters, a description of the several pictures from the masters of literature.

ICONOGRAFIA DANTESCA

By LUDWIG VOLKMANN. Fully illustrated, with plates in photogravure. 8vo, cloth, net, ... $6.50

Dodd, Mead & Co.'s Autumn Books

OLD NEW YORK ON STAFFORDSHIRE POTTERY

By R. F. HALSEY. The price for the hand-made copies will probably be $40.00; for the Japan copies, ... $100.00

This book is printed and bound without any regard to expense. It contains upwards of 160 illustrations, printed in photogravure, and with the text. The edition is limited to 250 copies on hand-made paper, and 25 copies on Japan vellum, large 8vo, cloth.

A LOOKER-ON IN LONDON

By MARY H. KROUT, author of "Hawaii in Time of Revolution." 12mo, cloth, $1.50

Miss Krout gives her impressions of certain representative English institutions which she visited, and writes most entertainingly of her personal interviews with distinguished people.

BALLADS OF BOOKS

By BRANDER MATTHEWS. New edition, handsomely printed. 16mo, cloth, $1.25

These ballads of books were collected and published years ago, but the business of the original publishers of the volume having been discontinued, it has been long out of print.

WHAT IS GOOD ENGLISH, AND OTHER ESSAYS

By HARRY THURSTON PECK, Editor of The Bookman, author of "The Personal Equation," "Trimalchio's Dinner," etc. 12mo, cloth, ... $1.50

CONTENTS: Stephen Mallarmé—Honoré de Balzac—The Human Side of Tennyson—Fifty Books—The Progress of Fonetic Refawrm—What is Good English—The Little Touches—Names—etc.

GREY STONE AND PORPHYRY

Poems. By HARRY THURSTON PECK, 16mo, cloth, ... $1.25

In this volume Professor Peck has gathered a selection from the poems which have appeared from his pen in The Bookman and other journals.

THE CARVED CUPBOARD AND LEGEND LED

By AMY LE FEUVRE. 16mo, cloth, each, ... $1.00

Miss Le Feuvre's books (most of which have been published anonymously) are too well and favorably known to require extended comment.

THE ETCHINGHAM LETTERS

By SIR FREDERICK POLLOCK and MRS. FULLER MAITLAND. 12mo, cloth, ... $1.25

These letters, which have been running serially in the Cornhill Magazine, in England, and the Living Age, in America, have created a great deal of comment on both sides of the ocean.

NEW LETTERS OF HAZLITT & LAMB

By W. CAREW HAZLITT, author of "Confessions of a Collector." 12mo, cloth, $1.50

Several of the letters in the collection supply gaps and clews which we have all along been wanting. The editor proposes to restrict himself to the formation of a sort of calendar of the little series.

MUSICAL STUDIES AND SILHOUETTES

By CAMILLE BELLAIGUE. Translated from the French. With illustrations. 12mo, cloth, ... $1.50

PARTIAL TABLE OF CONTENTS.—Ambroise Thomas, Bach, Schubert, Saint Cecilia, Chopin, Bellini, Félicien David, Jean-Jacques Rousseau, Offenbach.

COMPANION AND GUIDE TO THE OPERA

By ESTHER SINGLETON. Translator of "Music Drama of Wagner." 8vo, cloth, ... $1.25

The author has gathered together from various writers all that bears upon the more celebrated operas. She has only collected the clearest, most interesting, most attractive, and most authoritative criticisms.

THE LIFE OF GOLDSMITH

By AUSTIN DOBSON. A new and revised edition. One volume, uniform with the new edition of Dobson's works. 16mo, cloth, ... $1.25

Dodd, Mead & Co.'s Autumn Books

NOVELS AND TALES

JANICE MEREDITH

By PAUL LEICESTER FORD. Illustrated edition for the holidays. With illustrations by Howard Pyle and his pupils. 2 vols., probably, ... $4.00
Popular edition. 12mo, cloth, ... 1.50

One who has read the manuscript says:
"It is an attempt to do in the North what Thackeray did in the South with 'The Virginians' during the same period. That is to say, it is not a novel whose characters are made of generals, colonels and soldiers, and whose scenes consist of battlefields, skirmishes, and sanguinary adventures. It is a picture of the social life of the people of that time.

RESURRECTION

A Novel. By COUNT TOLSTOY. With illustrations. 12mo, cloth, . . $1.50

The book is written throughout with all the power of genius which characterizes Tolstoy's earlier novels, such as "Anna Karenina," "War and Peace," etc.

THE ORANGE GIRL

By SIR WALTER BESANT. With eight illustrations by Warren Davis. 12mo, cloth, ... $1.50

"The Orange Girl," like his "Dorothy Forster," is a tale of the eighteenth century—when the laws of justice decreed that men, women, and even children should be hanged for trifling offences.

GILIAN THE DREAMER

By NEIL MUNRO, author of "John Splendid." With illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50

Among recent English writers there is no one of whom such great things have been expected as of Neil Munro.

SIREN CITY

By BENJAMIN SWIFT. 12mo, cloth, ... $1.50

"Benjamin Swift" has a new novel, which will soon be ready for publication. It is largely a study of Naples. Unlike his previous books, this one will avoid the sexual problem.

HERONFORD

A Novel. By S. R. KEIGHTLEY, author of "The Silver Cross," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.50

A new novel of adventure, very much in the vein of "The Silver Cross."

IONE MARCH, A WOMAN OF FORTUNE

By S. R. CROCKETT. With illustrations by E. Pollak. 12mo, cloth, . . $1.50

In "A Woman of Fortune" Mr. Crockett has broken new ground. It is a story of to-day, and the heroine is an American girl, highly educated, refined and beautiful, but of independent spirit.

THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A CHILD

By HANNAH LYNCH. 12mo, cloth, ... $1.50

It is a record of unhappy childhood—of an unnatural mother, between whom and her child existed an instinctive antipathy—and the sincerity and directness of the narrative is very winning.

THE TORY MAID

By H. B. STIMPSON. 12mo, cloth, ... $1.00

The American Revolution serves as a favorite background for many of the romances of the present day, and Mr. Stimpson is a young writer who has blended a love-story with the history of that period in a most felicitous way.

THE ENCHANTED ISLES

Venetian Stories. By MAX PEMBERTON, author of "The Garden of Swords," "Kronstadt," etc. With 16 illustrations. 12mo, cloth, ... $1.50

Mr. Pemberton has here given us a series of stories not unlike those of any of his preceding books.

THE GOODNESS OF ST. ROCQUE

By MRS. PAUL LAURENCE DUNBAR. 16mo, cloth, ...

It will be of interest to know that Mrs. Dunbar is a writer like her husband. This is her first published work, however, and is a volume of short stories dealing with Creole life and character.

WELL, AFTER ALL

By F. FRANKFORT MOORE, author of "The Fatal Gift," etc., etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.50

Unlike "The Fatal Gift," this story concerns itself with social life in England of the present day.

THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF MARK RUTHERFORD

And Mark Rutherford's Deliverance. By MARK RUTHERFORD. Edited by his friend, Reuben Shapcott. One volume, 12mo, cloth, ... $1.50

THE REVOLUTION IN TANNER'S LANE

By MARK RUTHERFORD. Edited by his friend, Reuben Shapcott. One volume, 12mo. cloth, ... $1.50

The above two books are new editions of these books, which have been out of print, and, indeed, have never been issued in this country in a worthy manner.

SHAMELESS WAYNE

By HALLIWELL SUTCLIFFE, author of "Ricroft of Withens." 8vo, cloth.

The scene is laid in the moorland country, and the story follows the fortunes of the Shameless Wayne, until at last he overcomes his enemies.

ROBESPIERRE

The Story of M. Victorien Sardou's Play. Adapted and revised under his authority. By ANGE GALDEMAR. 12mo, cloth, ... $1.50

EARLIER WORKS OF HENRY SETON MERRIMAN

New and authorized edition. Revised by the author. Each, 12mo, cloth, . . $1.00

1. Suspense. 2. The Phantom Future. 3. Prisoners and Captives. 4. Young Mistley.

The only authorized edition of his early novels. The volumes are printed and bound alike, making a uniform edition. They have been revised and in part rewritten by Mr. Merriman, and are brought out by his direction and with his authorization.

A NEW NOVEL

By LUCAS MALET. author of "The Wages of Sin." 12mo, cloth, . . $1.50

Readers generally will be interested to hear that Mrs. Harrison has completed a new and important novel, and Messrs. Dodd, Mead & Company will publish it in the autumn.

WINE ON THE LEES

By J. A. STEUART, author of "The Minister of State." 12mo, cloth, . . $1.50

In his new novel the author has chosen a new theme. Its interest turns upon certain phases of the drink question, so that it may be said to be, in the better sense of the word, a problem story.

OUR LADY OF DARKNESS

By BERNARD CAPES, author of "The Comte de La Muette." 12mo, cloth, $1.50

The time of this story is the latter part of the last century—the period of the French Revolution—and the scene is laid first in England, afterwards in a little town in Belgium, and then in Paris.

A SON OF THE STATE

By W. PETT RIDGE, author of "By Order of the Magistrate." 12mo, cloth, $1.25

This author has drawn upon the lowest stratum of society in London for the hero of his story, who is a "son of the State" in that he is brought up at the public expense.

'POSTLE FARM

By GEORGE FORD, author of "The Larammys." 12mo, cloth, . . . $1.25

It is in picturesque Devonshire that the events of this story take place.

Dodd, Mead & Co.'s Autumn Books

THE GRAND MADEMOISELLE

By JAMES EUGENE FARMER. 12mo, cloth, ... $1.25

This new story is very much in the same manner as his "Grenadier," but deals not quite so largely with martial subjects. The story is a little more fully developed, and the characters more accentuated.

TRAVEL, HISTORY AND BIOGRAPHY

A HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

During the Civil War. Being Volume VI. of the History of the United States under the Constitution. By JAMES SCHOULER. 8vo, cloth, ... $2.25

The completion of the sixth volume marks the accomplishment of Professor Schouler's original plan of a History of the United States, from the beginning of its existence as a nation until the close of the Civil War.

A HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

From the Adoption of the Constitution to the Close of the Civil War. (Revised edition.) Six volumes, 8vo, cloth, ... $13.50

This final volume of Schouler's History is of great importance, not only as completing his original work but as being probably in itself the most satisfactory history of the Civil War yet written.

LIFE OF DR. JOHN DONNE

Dean of St. Paul's: 1573–1631. By EDMUND GOSSE. Two volumes, 8vo, about 400 pages each. With 12 photogravures, facsimiles, etc., net, ... $8.00

Mr. Gosse has been for many years engaged upon this book, which has been with him a labor of love. He has discovered a large amount of new material concerning Dr. Donne, and the book is filled with anecdote and incident of the most interesting character.

IMPERIAL INDIA

By G. W. STEEVENS, author of "With Kitchener to Khartum." 12mo, cloth, $1.50

In "Imperial India" the author has a subject equal in interest to any which has engaged his pen.

HOLLAND AND THE HOLLANDERS

By DAVID S. MELDRUM, author of "The Story of Margredel." Profusely illustrated. Small 8vo, cloth, ... $2.00

Mr. Meldrum has a most intimate acquaintance with Holland and the Dutch.

NATURAL HISTORY

With Anecdotes Illustrating the Habits of Animals, Birds, Fishes, etc. By ALFRED H. MILES. Illustrated with numerous colored plates. 12mo, cloth, . . . $1.50

This volume is illustrated with 20 full-page plates containing two or more subjects each. Plates are reproduced in ten to thirteen colors, and are the best pictures to be had of the birds, animals, fishes, etc.

RELIGION

THE LIFE OF LIVES

Or, Further Studies in the Life of Christ. By REV. DR. F. W. FARRAR, Dean of Canterbury, author of "The Life of Christ," etc., etc. 12mo, cloth, . . . $2.00

PARTIAL CONTENTS: Our Lord's Human Aspect—The Language He Spoke—The Age in Which He Lived—Lessons of the Unrecorded Years—Judaism—The First Anecdote—Methods of Evangelization—Forms of Teaching, their Uniqueness—Jesus and Children—The Gladness of Jesus—The Apostles—etc., etc.

TEXTS EXPLAINED

By DR. F. W. FARRAR. 12mo, cloth, ... $1.50

The book contains a great deal of the most important of Dean Farrar's exegetical writings, but is written in an exceptionally popular way.

JUVENILE LITERATURE

PATIENCE

A Daughter of the Mayflower, being volume 1 of a new series entitled Dames and Daughters of Colonial Days. With many illustrations. 12mo, cloth, . . $1.50

Mrs. Champney, whose books for young people are so well known and have been so successful, has now projected a series in which the initial volume will be published during the coming autumn. Not only the first volume, but the series as a whole, gives great promise of interest and instruction for young readers.

ELSIE IN FLORIDA

By MARTHA FINLEY. 12mo, cloth, ... $1.25

It is unnecessary to do more than to announce a new "Elsie" book, for there is a multitude of young readers eagerly awaiting the appearance of each new volume in the series.

MARGARET THORPE'S TRIAL

By LUCY C. LILLIE, author of "Mildred's Bargain," "Nan," "Ruth Endicott's Way," etc. 12mo, cloth, ... $1.25

BLUE-JACKETS OF 1898

THE CENTURY CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

Ready October 7.

HUGH WYNNE — Continental Edition.

The Century Co. has prepared for the present season a new and beautiful edition of Dr. Weir Mitchell's famous novel of the Revolution, "Hugh Wynne, Free Quaker." It is illustrated with a great number of reproductions of old prints and manuscripts, photographs of present scenes, and photogravures by Howard Pyle. Rich binding, two volumes, in a box, price $5.00.

TRAMPING WITH TRAMPS.

By Josiah Flynt.

This is a collection of the very interesting and valuable articles which Mr. Flynt has contributed to The Century, with new material, and with a prefatory note by Dr. Andrew D. White, Ambassador to Germany, who testifies to its great interest and importance. Fully illustrated, 400 pages, $1.50.

PRESENT-DAY EGYPT.

By Frederic Courtland Penfield.

From 1893 to 1897 Mr. Penfield was United States Diplomatic Agent and Consul-General to Egypt. His book is of interest to all who have been to Egypt or who contemplate a trip to that Mecca of the traveller. Profusely illustrated by Philippoteaux, Talbot Kelly, and from photographs. 400 pages, 8vo, $2.50.

THE MANY-SIDED FRANKLIN.

By Paul Leicester Ford.

In this richly illustrated and entertaining book the author of "The True George Washington," "The Sayings of Poor Richard," and several popular novels, gives a vivid and readable account of the eminent philosopher and statesman who helped to make history in England, France, and America. 500 pages, 8vo, $3.00.

Two New Books in the Thumb-Nail Series.

Rip Van Winkle.

Introduction by Joseph Jefferson. This exquisite little volume, bound in stamped leather, includes "Rip Van Winkle" and "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow." Mr. Jefferson, in his introduction, tells what changes it was necessary to make in Irving's story in preparing it for the stage. Illustrated, $1.00.

Meditations of Marcus Aurelius.

Translated by Benjamin E. Smith. The editor has selected the most characteristic of the Roman Emperor's meditations and newly translated them from the Greek, making an English version that is exact yet very readable. The latest translation of one of the greatest classics. 204 pages, $1.00.

THE VIZIER OF THE TWO-HORNED ALEXANDER.

A Novel by Frank R. Stockton.

One of the most original and entertaining of all of Mr. Stockton's books, telling the story of a man who accidentally drank the contents of the Fountain of Youth many centuries ago, and is now living in New York at the permanent age of 53. Illustrated by R. B. Birch. $1.25.

WHERE ANGELS FEAR TO TREAD.

By Morgan Robertson.

A collection of sea stories written by one who, although still a young man, has been for many years a sailor. He knows his subject thoroughly and brings to it a very decided literary gift. 12mo, $1.25.

MAXIMILIAN IN MEXICO.

By Sara Yorke Stevenson.

This is a woman's reminiscences of the French Revolution in Mexico, 1862–67. The picturesqueness, pathos, humor, and tragedy of the short-lived empire of Maximilian have never been set before the English reading world so interestingly as in this book. Richly illustrated, 8vo, $2.50.

NEW BOOKS FOR YOUNG FOLKS.

A new Brownie book, "The Brownies Abroad," by Palmer Cox; "The Dozen from Lakerim," a story of young athletes, by Rupert Hughes; "Quicksilver Sue," a wholsome tale for young girls, by Mrs. Laura E. Richards, the author of "Captain January;" "The Story of Betty," one of the most popular serials published in St. Nicholas for a long time, by Carolyn Wells, with illustrations by Reginald Birch; "The St. Nicholas Christmas Book," a selection of some of the most striking stories, sketches, poems, and pictures that have appeared in the pages of St. Nicholas in recent years.

The Bound Volumes of St. Nicholas for 1898–99.

THE CENTURY CO., Union Square, New York.

You should buy

VOYAGE OF THE PULO WAY.

By CARLETON DAWE. 12mo, Cloth, Illustrated, $1.25.

A story of piracy on the high seas that is intensely exciting.

"From the first page to the last it palpitates with excitement, adventure, and the lust of gold. Mr. Carleton Dawe has told his marvellous tale with so much spirit and cunning that one is driven, when the breathless tale ends, to the conviction that after all such 'strange doings' may very well happen."—Morning Leader.

"A vivid and exciting picture of astounding adventures. The story has the merit not too common in books of adventure of increasing interest till the end. No one will put down this book unfinished."—Daily Telegraph.

THE YELLOW DANGER. A Romance.

A GRAPHIC ACCOUNT OF WHAT MIGHT HAPPEN IF THE DIVISION OF THE CHINESE EMPIRE SHOULD ESTRANGE ALL EUROPEAN COUNTRIES.

By M. P. SHIEL, Author of "The Man-Stealers," "Prince Zaleski," Etc. Cloth, $1.00; Paper, 50 cents.

HONOR OF THIEVES.

By C. J. CUTCLIFFE HYNE. 12mo, Cloth, $1.25.

"Its dialogue throughout is of the very smartest—humorous without obvious effort, epigrammatic without apparent contrivance; the graphic force and picturesqueness of its descriptive matter are no less impressive than fascinating; its delineations of character are alike bold in outline and exquisite in finish."—The Daily Telegraph (London).

LUTHER STRONG.

By THOMAS J. VIVIAN. 12mo, Cloth, $1.25.

The locality of the story is a hamlet in the Taconic Hills, the ridge of uplands that lies in the meeting corners of Vermont, New York, and Massachussetts, where, for truth's sake, the novel was planned and written. The atmosphere of the place has got into the book; indeed, it is an open-air story, and the time of the romance from start to finish is only a few weeks, but in those weeks are crowded the inception and climax of a catastrophe of "wooing and madness."

In all its hurry and strangeness, however, the principle of cause and effect is never lost sight of; it is the natural progress of events that brings the story to its catastrophe, not the machinery of the writer—although those who have read Mr. Vivian's "With Dewey at Manila" and "The Fall of Santiago" will find that the same vividity of description that marked his histories of actualities is here in the drama of his fancies.

THE WHITE KING OF MANOA:

AN ANGLO-SPANISH ROMANCE. By JOSEPH HATTON.

In addition to being an excellent romance of love and curious adventure, it is a very carefully written historical and social study of the time of Queen Elizabeth. It is a book to name with "Kenilworth." Odd mischances befall the hero in London, out of which he barely escapes with his life. The story introduces various court scenes, in which the Queen, Essex, Raleigh, and others are made to figure. 12mo, Cloth, $1.25.

R. F. Fenno & Co., 9 & 11 E. 16th St., N. Y.

Small, Maynard & Company's Autumn Books.

An Alphabet of Celebrities

By OLIVER HERFORD $1.50

Printed in two colors, with a most attractive cover, and with borders and letters by Mr. Goodhue, Mr. Herford's new volume of pictures and verses should prove one of the most desirable of this season's holiday books.

John Brown

By JOSEPH EDGAR CHAMBERLIN . . . . . 75 cents

A new volume in the Beacon Biographies. To be issued in October.

Aaron Burr

By HENRY CHILDS MERWIN . . . . . 75 cents

A new volume in the Beacon Biographies. To be issued in October.

Child Verse

POEMS GRAVE AND GAY

By JOHN B. TABB $1.00

All who know Father Tabb's previous volumes of verse may readily imagine the delightful quality of this collection for the children. Mr. Goodhue's decorations for the cover and end-papers should appeal almost equally to the hearts of the little ones.

Differences

By HERVEY WHITE $1.50

A novel of life in Chicago—the life, in fact, which surrounds Mr. Dooley and his friends—conceived in such a spirit of humanity and written with such power and fascination of plot as to render it one of the notable novels of the year.

Frederick Douglass

By CHARLES W. CHESNUTT . . . . . 75 cents

A new volume in the Beacon Biographies. To be issued in November.

The Future of the American Negro

By BOOKER T. WASHINGTON $1.50

It is safe to say that Mr. Washington's volume, embodying as it does his matured judgment on perhaps the most vital of current American problems, will take its place among the really significant volumes of the past decade.

Nathaniel Hawthorne

By Mrs. JAMES T. FIELDS . . . . . 75 cents

A new volume in the Beacon Biographies. To be issued in October.

The House of a Hundred Lights

By FREDERIC RIDGELY TORRENCE $1.00

A volume of verses of Oriental flavor, but a flavor which will be new to the readers of Omar and Hafiz, since it derives from the lighter rather than the more serious moods of Oriental thought. The contents are happily suggested by Mr. Goodhue's format.

In Case of Need

By RALPH BERGENGREN $1.25

Mr. Bergengren's pictures are a new manifestation of the universal American humor. They are queer, delightful, and most absurdly funny.

Letters of Thomas Gray

Edited by HENRY MILNOR RIDEOUT $1.00

This little volume containing a biographical notice and a portrait, issued in a style which will delight every lover of books, is offered as the only selection available from the correspondence of one of the most charming of English letter writers.

Little Beasts of Field and Wood

By WILLIAM EVERETT CRAM $1.25

A book about some of the commoner of the "little beasts" inhabiting our Northeastern States, illustrated by twenty-four remarkable full-page drawings by the author. A book which should become immediately standard in its class.

A Local Habitation

By WALTER LEON SAWYER $1.25

A novel of the South End of Boston—no longer the South End of Mr. Howells's "Silas Lapham," but transformed into the typical boarding-house district of a modern American city.

Circulars and Catalogues on application to the Publishers,

SMALL, MAYNARD & COMPANY, BOSTON

Small, Maynard & Company's Autumn Books

The Loom of Destiny

By ARTHUR J. STRINGER $1.25

A book of stories about children (chiefly the little ragged urchins of the New York slums) which is unique in its sympathy and literary touch.

Lyrics of Brotherhood

By RICHARD BURTON $1.00

Professor Burton's previous books of verse, "Memorial Day" and "Dumb in June," have appealed to a larger audience than almost any of the younger American poets have been so fortunate as to command. The present volume should do much to widen that appeal.

Mr. Dooley:

IN THE HEARTS OF HIS COUNTRYMEN

Blue Cloth $1.25

The author of "Mr. Dooley: In Peace and in War" has included in this second collection a number of the sketches of the life of Archey Road which were represented in the former book by the papers on "Criminals" and on the "Popularity of Firemen." But the volume is none the less rich in Mr. Dooley's admirable judgments on men and affairs, ranging from the poetry of Mr Rudyard Kipling to the latest manifestations of the Dreyfus trial.

Thomas Paine

By ELLERY SEDGWICK . . . . . 75 cents

A new volume in the Beacon Biographies. To be issued in November.

Plain Talk in Psalm and Parable

By ERNEST HOWARD CROSBY $1.50

A volume of vigorous verse on life as it presents itself to the modern advocate of social reform.

The Surface of Things

By CHARLES WALDSTEIN $1.25

In the three stories which compose this book Professor Waldstein has dealt, not so much with the stronger passions which influence men and women, as with the many problems and embarrassments which come up to spoil the pleasure of ordinary social intercourse, and his book should have a very unusual interest to all cultivated readers.

Taliesin

By RICHARD HOVEY $1.00

The fourth volume in Mr. Hovey's series of dramas on the Arthurian legend, entitled, as a whole, "Launcelot and Guenevere."

The Territorial Acquisitions of the United States

By EDWARD BICKNELL . . . . . 50 cents

An impartial historical review in the same series of brief monographs on current affairs as Mr. Hale's "Dreyfus Story." It describes concisely, but with all necessary fulness, the successive acquisitions of territory which comprise the present domain of the United States.

Their Shadows Before

By PAULINE CARRINGTON BOUVÉ $1 25

Mrs. Bouvé's novel is founded, with great skill and delicacy, on the story of Nat Turner's Insurrection, the servile rising which so terrified the planters of Virginia and the South seventy years ago.

Things As They Are

By BOLTON HALL $1.25

Mr. Hall's volume, which is introduced characteristically by Professor Herron, includes, besides a series of essays, a half century of the pointed little "Fables" by which Mr. Hall is so widely known.

The Trophies

By JOSÉ MARÍA DE HEREDIA

Translated by FRANK SEWALL . . . . . Net, $2.50

Les Trophées is among the most beautiful sonnet sequences in literature, and Mr. Sewall's translation will rank, the publishers believe, as one of the most accomplished renderings of a foreign author to be found in English literature. The book will be issued in a style of special elegance, on hand-made paper and with decorations by Mr. Goodhue.

Vagaries

By FLORENCE BROOKS EMERSON $1.00

A volume of brief sketches—fancies, one may better call them—conceived more from the momentary point of view of the dramatist than in the style of the usual short story.

Circulars and Catalogues on application to the Publishers,

SMALL, MAYNARD & COMPANY, BOSTON

TWO NOTABLE BOOKS

The New Dooley Book

OWING to the author's desire to include a series of sketches, just completed, on the recent trial at Rennes, the publication of the new Dooley book, "Mr. Dooley: In the Hearts of His Countrymen," has been delayed until October. Besides this special (and most amusing) feature, the volume will contain more of Mr. Dooley's inimitable note and comment on public affairs in general, and a characteristic collection of sketches of the humorous and pathetic life of the denizens of Archey Road. The publishers believe that they are entirely justified in hoping for the new Dooley a sale fully equal to that of its predecessor, "Mr. Dooley: In Peace and in War." The price will be the same—$1.25.

Women and Economics

MRS. CHARLOTTE PERKINS STETSON'S "Women and Economics" was published a year ago last June. It is by this time familiar to the trade throughout the country. Few persons, however, realize how steadily the book has grown—and is growing—in public estimation and in consequent sales. This last Summer has seen larger orders, and from more sources, than ever. It can almost be said that any given month for the past year has surpassed the record of the month before. It is curious, too, how evenly the book is selling, so that an order from the Coast, for example, is neither more likely nor less likely than an order from New England, or from the Northwest, or from Pennsylvania. Interest in the book, moreover, seems only to have begun, and it is likely that the Fall will see it popular beyond almost any recent book of so serious a kind. The price of "Women and Economics" is $1.50.

Buck, Gertrude. A course in argumentative writing. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1899. c. 7+206 p. D. cl., 80 c. [2988

"This book arises out of certain beliefs concerning the study of argumentation, which, though perhaps not wholly novel, has as yet found no recognition in the literature of the subject. The first of these beliefs is that the principles of argumentation should be derived by the student from its practice before the practice is made to conform to the principles. In short—one may as well acknowledge it—a firm faith in the so-called 'inductive method' as applied to argumentation lies at the root of this treatise"—Preface.

the St. Lawrence. New ed. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1899. il. 12°, $1.50. [3003

Huret, Jules. Sarah Bernhardt; with a preface by Edmond Rostand; from the French, by G. A. Raper. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1899. 16+192 p. pors. O. cl., $2.50. [3004

This biography is chiefly an accumulation of dates and facts and events purporting to have been taken from the actress's own lips while she lay in the hospital after a terrible operation in February, 1898. She was born in Paris, the eleventh child of a Dutch Jewess. At the age of twelve she was baptized as a Christian, at seventeen she began to act. Her marvellous energy and her startling eccentricities are dwelt upon, and many quotations are given from the critics of many lands. The pictures show the artist in almost every rôle, and also show various rooms in which she has surrounded herself with a degree of luxury and with a variety of treasures from all parts of the world, that savor of a fairy tale of the Arabian nights. Specially describes Mme. Bernhardt's theories of "Hamlet," which she is now acting.

Hutton, F: Remsen. Heat and heat-engines: a study of the principles which underlie the mechanical engineering of a power plant. N. Y., J: Wiley & Sons, 1899. 21-553 p. il. 8°, cl., $5. [3005

Hyne, C: J: Cutcliffe Wright. Honor of thieves: a novel. N. Y., R. F. Fenno & Co., 1899. c. '95-'99. 5-303 p. D. cl., $1.25. [3006

The head of a great English shipping company, finding himself ruined by his wife's extravagance, forms a plan to sink a ship carrying half a million of English gold. He finds a desperate disappointed lover and a dare devil ship captain to carry out a plan to wreck the vessel in a secret channel in Florida. Mutinies and storms and fearful sufferings are described, then life in the Everglades of Florida. Finally a woman refuses to accept ill-gotten gold, and her lover is awakened to "honor among thieves."

James, Mrs. Florence Alice Price, ["Florence Warden," pseud.] The house in the hills. N. Y., R. F. Fenno & Co., 1899. c. 3-197 p. D. cl., $1. [3007

The house is placed high among the hills of Wales. A young clergyman in search of health disappears in these regions. His brother, a physician, goes to find a trace of him, and finds this house in a blinding snow. All the inmates act in a suspicious, mysterious, uncanny manner. A witch-like grandmother, her son, devoted to his daughter, dying of pneumonia, a brother, almost imbecile, and a farmhand, who is a giant, and fascinating and repellent by turns, are the characters, and curiosity and all manner of solutions occupy the reader's mind from start to finish.

Jokai, Maurus, Lermontov. M., and others. The golden fairy-book: comprising stories by celebrated authors; il. by H. R. Millar. N. Y., A. L. Burt, 1899. 6+320 p. 12°, cl., $1. [3008

Kaler, Ja. Otis, ["James Otis," pseud.] At the siege of Havana: the experience of three boys serving under Israel Putnam in 1762; il. by J. Watson Davis. N. Y., A. L. Burt, 1899. 10+358 p. 12°, cl., $1.50. [3009

Kipling, Rudyard. Indian tales; with original il., by L. J. Bridgman and others. Oriental ed. N. Y., H. M. Caldwell Co., [1899.] c. 6+750 p. por. O. cl., $2. [3010

Kirk, Rob. C. Twelve months in Klondike. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1899. 12+273 p. il. map, D. cl., net, $2. [3011

Describes how the little vessel Excelsior steamed through the Golden Gate, San Francisco, on July 14, 1897, bringing the news of the discovery of gold in frozen places up towards the icy confines of the Arctic. The excitement this created in the civilized world, the rush of explorers, the sufferings endured, are all graphically told, and one special encampment is described in the winter of 1897-98, where the temperature for weeks averaged 72° below zero. The flora and fauna, the glaciers, northern lights, and inhabitants are studied scientifically.

Legal directory and bank list of the Credit Association for 1899; cont. a complete list of the leading and most reliable commercial lawyers in the U. S. and Canada, a list of corporation and bank lawyers, and one or more national banks, state banks or bankers in every banking town, [etc.] N. Y., The Credit Co., [1899.] 755+77 p. O. shp., $10. [3012

Little, Mrs. Archibald. Intimate China: the Chinese as I have seen them. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1899. 15+615 p. il. O. cl., $5. [3013

In May, 1887, the author landed in China. A careful study of Chinese conditions from that time to October, 1898. She thinks the English should help maintain the Chinese empire, should invite it into paths of reform, should give it every assistance to perfect its defence and increase its commercial prosperity. She does not think England has yet adopted this policy, which would aid China and herself.

Little, W: J: Knox, (Canon.) Sketches and studies in South Africa. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1899. 9-328 p. O. cl., $3. [3014

The author reached South Africa in the late summer of 1898. He travelled about considerably in search of health. He describes the wealth of beauty and interest attaching to this part of the English empire, for which there seems to be a great future. He confesses that some of England's greatest mistakes have been made in South Africa. The Boer question and the policy of Kruger are carefully discussed.

Longfellow, H: Wadsworth. Poetic and dramatic works. New Cabinet ed. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1899. 16°, cl., $1. [3015

Meigs, W: Montgomery. The growth of the Constitution in the Federal Convention of 1787: an effort to trace the origin and development of each separate clause from its first suggestion in that body to the form finally approved; containing also a facsimile of a heretofore unpublished manuscript of the first draft of the instrument made for use in the committee of detail. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1900 [1899.] c. '99. 2+374 p. O. cl., $2.50. [3016

The compiler, who is a lawyer of Philadelphia, endeavors to follow as closely as possible the process in the minds of the various members of the convention by which the various clauses of the Constitution were formed. Many of the propositions made which were defeated have necessarily been omitted, but some have been gathered under the heading "Some important defeated proposals" The articles of the Constitution are treated consecutively, and a short index gives catchwords to different subjects covered.

Merriman, Mansfield. Elements of precise surveying and geodesy. N. Y., J: Wiley & Sons, 1899. 261 p. 8°, cl., $2.50. [3017

Narfon, Julien de. Pope Leo XIII., his life and work; from the French, by G. A. Raper. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1899. 12+237 p. por. il. O. cl., $2. [3018

Gives a vivid picture of the home where Leo XIII. was born in 1810, and describes the mother whom he adored and lost when he was fourteen. Incidentally much Italian history is given. The Pope's political policy and his plan for the Catholic Church in America receive much attention. The future Pope is also speculated upon. Copiously illustrated.

New York. Town and county officers' manual; cont. all laws relating to the affairs of towns and counties, and the powers and duties of town and county officers, [etc.;] with forms, annots., cross-references, and a digest of fees of town and county officers; ed. by Frank B. Gilbert, (ed. of 1899.)

Alb., Matthew Bender, 1899. c. 13+721 p. O. shp., net, $5. [3019

Scott. Harriet M., and Buck, Gertrude. Organic education: a manual for teachers in primary and grammar grades. Bost., D. C. Heath & Co., 1899. c. 8+344 p. (Heath's pedagogical lib., no. 35.) cl., $1.25. [3024

Seneca. Two tragedies of Seneca; rendered into English verse, with an introd. by Ella Isabel Harris. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1899. 12°, cl., 75 c. [3025

Shiel, Matthew Phipps. The yellow danger; or, what might happen if the division of the Chinese empire should estrange all European countries. N. Y., R. F. Fenno & Co., 1899. c. 3-388 p. D. cl., $1. [3026

"Look for the woman" is the keynote of a fantasia on the immediate political future of the European powers and the republics of America. The head of the Chinese nation settles in his mind that by dividing China among the civilized powers they will all become entangled in war and destroy each other, leaving China ruler of the world. Naval and land battles, tortures in Chinese prisons, a great plague that sweeps off millions of the earth's inhabitants, and many other terrible events are described with lurid details.

Shinn, Milicent Washburn. Notes on the development of a child. Pts. 3 and 4. Berkeley, Cal., University of California, 1899. 179-424 p. il. O. (University of California studies, v. 1, nos. 3 and 4.) pap., 70 c. [3027

Skrine, Francis H:, and Ross, E: Denison. The heart of Asia: a history of Russian Turkestan and the Central Asian Khanates from the earliest times; il. from sketches by Verestchagin. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1899. 12+444 p. O. map, cl., $3.50. [3028

Francis Henry Skrine was formerly a member of the Indian Civil Service, and Edward Denison Ross is Professor of Persian at University College, London. He has drawn from Persian, Arabic, and Russian authorities, and offers a consecutive history of Central Asian events from earliest days. Mr Skrine has described the mechanism of government, the development of railways and commerce, and the social life of the great cities. England supreme in India, and Russia supreme in Central Asia, find themselves face to face. On the results of their contact depends the future of Asia. The important questions of the hour are handled earnestly and with knowledge. Lavishly illustrated.

Spanhoofd, Arnold Werner. Lehrbuch der Deutschen sprache: a practical course in German for high school, academy, or college. Bost., D. C. Heath & Co., 1899. c. 11+301 p. D. (Heath's modern language ser.) cl., $1. [3029

Embodies those ideas which eighteen years of experience have taught the author are essential in the study of the German language. The groundwork consists of thirty-five carefully graded illustrative lessons, which are intended to comprise the work of one year in either high school or academy. Each lesson is divided into five essential parts, namely: development lesson, reading, grammar, vocabulary, and exercises. The grammar lessons are the basis of the work.

Thorold, W. J. The Julia Arthur book. N. Y., Meyer Bros., 1899. 4°, pap., 25 c. [3034

Tillman, S. E. Descriptive general chemistry: a text-book for short course. N. Y., J: Wiley & Sons, 1899. 10+429 p. 8°, cl., net, $3. [3035

Toudouze, Gustave. Madame Lambelle. N. Y., W: R. Jenkins, [1899.] 1+315 p. D. (Romans choises, no. 24.) pap., 60 c. [3036

Mme. Lambelle was left a widow with a young son upon the death of a young physician who sacrificed his life to save a child in a desperate case of croup and diphtheria. She became a milliner and dressmaker, and educated her son to be an architect and artist amid all the troublous days of the Franco-Prussian complications. The book leaves the son upon the eve of marriage. The pictures of French home life are drawn with skill. The book has been crowned by the French Academy.

Underwood, Lucien Marcus. Moulds, mildews, and mushrooms: a guide to the systematic study of the fungi and mycetozoa and their literature. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1899. c. 5+236 p. il. D. cl., $1.50. [3037

"With nearly a thousand genera of fungi represented in our country alone, it was manifestly impossible to include them all in a pocket guide. A line must be drawn somewhere, and it was decided to include: 1, Conspicuous fleshy and woody fungi; 2, The cup-fungi, since so little literature treating of American forms was available; and, 3, genera containing parasitic species. Most of the genera of the so-called Pyrenomycetes and many of the saprophytic fungi imperfecti are therefore omitted from special consideration."—Preface.

Ward, E. L. C., comp. Three hundred and four prize selections; especially adapted for public or parlor recitation and reading. N. Y., The Chiswick Publishing Co., [1899.] c. 2+160 p. O. (Chiswick lib., no. 7.) pap., 25 c. [3038

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

SEPTEMBER 30, 1899.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Books for the "Weekly Record," as well as all information intended for that department, must reach this office by Tuesday morning of each week.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers depend on the WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of "The American Catalogue" and so forms the basis of all trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE FALL OUTLOOK.

WE certainly may be allowed to assert confidently in the largest number of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY that we have ever issued that the business prospects for the fall and winter season are cheering and rest on good foundation. Economists, political writers, and theorists agree that history records no such period of production and consumption as that in which we in this country are living at present. In many trades mammoth plants are taxed beyond their utmost capacity, and manufacturers are beginning to fear that their facilities of capital, machinery, and distribution may come to a standstill for lack of raw material. Indeed, a scarcity of material is already felt in several trades. The demand for metals of every kind is reaching fabulous proportions. As yet, neither the practical men who are giving their whole minds to the study of cause and effect, nor the theorists have been able to account for this great boom in consumption. All are agreed, however, that production has increased out of all proportion with past progress, and all are convinced that consumption will keep steady pace with production. That this will be so in the book trade seems already settled beyond question.

We have reports from 114 publishers. These have in hand upwards of 1800 books. Though the cost of manufacture has been increased, owing to a rise in the price of paper, and such a number of books calls for a vast outlay of capital, the publishers seem in excellent spirits, and for the present are so busy that it is impossible as yet to talk over fall prospects with them. Travelling salesmen report the retailer also in a more hopeful mood and ready to stock up, although naturally bewildered by the vast number and variety of books to choose from.

The literary outlook is also satisfactory. The publishers are far ahead of last year in the quality of the books they are preparing. Last year's output was chiefly literature of ephemeral and timely interest; this year many works of true literature are announced. Novels and juveniles amount to almost one-half of the books forthcoming, but among them are many fine pieces of work, and the tone of all promises to be distinctly healthier and to make appeal to a more cultivated reading public. Historical fiction is in the lead, and history, also, is the foundation of the more notable children's books.

Some of the most important publishing undertakings are in the department of biography and memoirs. "The Memoirs of Victor Hugo," two biographies of Millais, Marion Crawford's Life of Leo XIII., Sidney Lee's "George Eliot;" "Froude," by John Oliver Hobbes; two biographies of Thackeray, two of Abraham Lincoln, Purcell's Cardinal Newman, and Edmund Gosse's "Life of John Donne," are only chosen at random from a very rich list. In general literature an eagerly-expected book will be E. C. Stedman's "American Anthology;" and students of literature will note among the announcements "The Troubadours at Home," by Justin H. Smith; "Gipsy Folk Tales," by Francis H. Groome; "The Personal Opinions of Balzac;" "The Mind and Art of Poe's Poetry;" "Browning Study Programmes;" and "The Development of the English Novel," by Wilbur L. Cross. Travel holds its own, and a book or more is announced describing almost every land. Starting "With Nansen in the North," the reader may go through all the world to the end of South Africa with Knox-Little. Valuable art works are also a feature of the season's output, and the very newest methods of reproduction of paintings and artists' drawings will be shown by several publishers. Rudyard Kipling seems still in the zenith of his fame. No less than seven publishers show on their lists books written by him, books written about him, and several calendars, birthday-books, and arrangements of his favorite verses and stories. Among the timely books are three biographies of Dewey and a multitude of books upon the political questions of the hour concerning the Philippines, the Boers, Dreyfus, various schemes of taxation, methods of election, and many books covering other more local issues.

DESCRIPTIVE SUMMARY OF THE FALL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

THE descriptive summary which here follows presents as usual, in its alphabetical arrangement by publishers, a survey of the entire field so far as the necessary information is at hand. Other books, not yet fully determined upon, will find mention in subsequent issues. In our announcement lists proper the books will be found arranged by classes, while the advertising pages will afford further detailed information as to prices, sizes, styles, etc.

THE ADVANCE PUBLISHING CO., Chicago, are coining money with the books of Charles M. Sheldon, the earnest preacher of a little church in Topeka, Kansas, who has found himself famous in two continents. His books include "In His Steps: What Would Jesus Do?" "The Crucifixion of Phillip Strong," "Robert Hardy's Seven Days," "The Twentieth Door," "His Brother's Keeper," "Richard Bunce," "Malcolm Kirk," "The Miracle at Markham," and several others. These books can all be had in paper and cloth. Uniform with the Sheldon books is issued "A Matter of Business," by William C. Stiles.

AMERICAN ACADEMY OF POLITICAL AND SOCIAL SCIENCE, Philadelphia, have in preparation "Taxation of Quasi-Public Corporations in the State of Ohio and the Franchise Tax," by Frederic C. Howe, of the Cleveland Bar, formerly Secretary of Pennsylvania Tax Conference; "Securities as a Means of Payment," by Charles A. Conant; and "Economic Aspects of British Agriculture," by Prof. John Franklin Crowell.

AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY have in press "Dicky Downy," a bird-book, by Virginia S. Patterson, with four colored plates and fifteen illustrations from life; "Pen Pictures of Mormonism," by the Rev. M. L. Oswalt, containing the experiences of one who lived three years as a Mormon; "Institutes of Moral Philosophy," by Rev. Dr. Lyman B. Teffts; and "Round the World and Palestine," by Rev. R. S. MacArthur, the talented New York preacher, who has also written "The Celestial Lamp and Other Sermons." Other works of religious interest will be "Christ in Creation," by Augustus H. Strong; "The Messiah in the Psalms," by H. M. King; and "The Manual of Church History," by A. H. Newman.

THE AMERICAN BOOK CO. have in preparation a long list of text-books, which are classified in the preceding list in this issue under the heading Education, Language, etc.

THE AMERICAN NEWS COMPANY has purchased the entire limited paper edition of Stanley J. Weyman's "Under the Red Robe," which was issued in this country by Longmans, Green & Co. in 1894, and by virtue of its successful dramatization has become a very popular novel. This book is added to their People's Library, which already contains "The Celebrity," by Winston Churchill; Kipling's "Soldiers of Fortune;" Hall Caine's "The Manxman;" Hope's "Prisoner of Zenda" and "Phroso;" Marie Corelli's "Sorrows of Satan;" and James Lane Allen's "The Choir Invisible." These copyright novels now controlled by the American News Company by arrangement with their several publishers in this neat paper edition are enjoying enormous sales.

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY, New York City, have added twelve new volumes to their very popular Heart Life Classics, running the number included in the series to forty-eight. "At Opening Doors," by Howe Benning, is an encouraging story for young, ambitious, energetic graduates from colleges and high schools; "Father Jerome," by Mrs. H. A. Clark, deals with the Spanish Inquisition; "A Bonny Boy," by Julia MacNair Wright, tells boys many ways of being both good and happy; and there is in preparation a new edition of "Sabbath Nights at Pit Coonans," by the author of "Sandy Scott's Bible Class."

D. APPLETON & CO. announce numerous works of general or special interest. Edward Stanton Maclay's "History of American Privateers" will be a companion volume to the same author's "History of the United States Navy," and will furnish a comprehensive and careful account of perhaps the most picturesque and absorbing phase of American naval history. Mr. Maclay has gathered together his material from many forgotten monographs, from unpublished log-books, from personal narratives, and his intimate and vivid record of perils and daring at sea will form a stirring chapter in American history. Another book with a salt-water flavor will be Frank T. Bullen's "Log of a Sea-Waif," in which a sailor's life is again described with force and knowledge by the author of "The Cruise of the Cachalot." The literature of personal biography will be enriched by John Sartain's "Reminiscences of a Very Old Man," in which the eminent engraver tells of the persons he has met and the changes he has witnessed in his long career of almost a century—1808–1896—during which he was in touch with literary and artistic circles and had a wide acquaintanceship with men and women of distinction. Contributions of serious value will be the fifth volume of McMaster's "History of the People of the United States," covering the period through the administrations of Adams and Jackson and giving special emphasis to the development of the democratic spirit and the gradual growth of humanitarian and socialistic movements; "The Principle of Taxation," an endeavor to formulate and describe a science of taxation, by the late David A. Wells; and "The Comparative Physiology and Morphology of Animals," by Prof. Joseph Le Conte. A very important addition to geographical literature is announced in the "International Geography" with the companion volumes of the new Geographical Series. The former will be a comprehensive and up-to-date conspectus of the science of geography at the end of the nineteenth century, prepared with the co-operation of seventy prominent geographers and illustrated by nearly 500 maps and diagrams specially prepared for the work; while the latter will embrace twelve volumes, each devoted to a special region, and together forming an authoritative account of the world, especially as a field of human activity. The first volumes in this series will be "Britain and the North Atlantic," by H. J. Mackinder, and "Scandinavia and the Arctic Ocean," by Sir

Clement R. Markham. Additions will be made to all the Appleton series. In the Literature of the World Series "Russian Literature" will be reviewed by K. Waliszewski; "Evolution by Atrophy" will be a new volume in the International Scientific Series; new additions to the International Education Series will be "The Secondary School System of Germany," by F. E. Bolton, and "Advanced Science Teaching," by E. G. Howe; in the Library of Useful Stories Prof. H. W. Conn will tell "The Story of the Living Machine," Edward Clodd "The Story of the Alphabet," and Prof. G. F. Chambers "The Story of Eclipses" and "The Story of Inorganic Chemistry;" while to Appletons' Home-Reading Books will be added "The Story of the Fishes," by J. N. Baskett, "Harold's Quests," by J. W. Troeger, "The Insect World," by Clarence M. Weed, "About the Weather," by Mark W. Harrington, "The Story of English Kings," by J. J. Burns, "Chronicles from Froissart and Stories from the Arabian Nights," by Obdam Singleton, and "The Family of the Sun, and Some Great Astronomers," by E. S. Holden. As usual the general medical and technical publications of this house will be strengthened by new works, titles of which are given elsewhere in our classified list under the headings Medicine; Useful Arts; Education, etc. In fiction there are some interesting announcements. Anthony Hope will have a new romance, "The King's Mirror;" "Averages," by Eleanor Stuart, will deal with life in modern New York society; Felix Gras' strong romance, "The White Terror," has been translated by Mrs. Janvier, thus completing his trilogy upon the French Revolution; J. C. Snaith has a vigorous historical novel in "Lady Barbarity;" Maarten Maartens will give brilliant pen portraits of "Some Women I Have Known;" "A Voyage at Anchor" will be the title of a new novel by Clark Russell, telling of a two months' holiday spent in an old hulk off the Kentish coast; and there will be new editions of Gilbert Parker's "Pomp of the Lavilettes" and of Barton's "Hero in Homespun;" while other titles will be found elsewhere listed under Fiction. Books for young people promise well. "The Half-Back," by Ralph Henry Barbour, will be a breezy story of school life; Hezekiah Butterworth tells in graphic fashion "The Story of Magellan" and the discovery of the Philippines, and has also a tale of early Massachusetts history, entitled "The Treasure Ship;" "Dewey on the Mississippi" will be a timely addition to the Young Heroes of Our Navy Series; and in "The Book of Knight and Barbara" Dr. David Starr Jordan has made a remarkable contribution to children's literature, this being a collection of stories—some original, some imitative—told to the writer's own children, and illustrated with selected drawings made by many other children to whom the book was submitted for illustration and criticism.

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON have secured 150 sets for the American market of the édition de luxe of Canon Ainger's "Life and Works of Charles Lamb," printed from type on antique paper and richly bound in sateen cloth. They will also have new editions of the Fordham edition of "The Works of Edgar Allan Poe," with Richard Henry Stoddard's memoir and introduction; of Mary Cowden Clark's "The Girlhood of Shakespeare's Heroines;" a new copyright edition, with two new chapters, of "The Story of John G. Paton; and a new edition, with new matter, of "The Story of Mackay of Uganda." They have in press "The Progress of Dogma," by Prof. James Orr, a series of ten lectures; and "The Christology of Jesus," by Rev. James Stalker, giving the teaching of Jesus himself concerning his divinity. "The Book of the Twelve Prophets," by George Adam Smith, will complete The Expositor's Bible; and there will be a new work by Handley C. G. Moule, entitled "Colossian Studies."

RICHARD G. BADGER & CO., Boston, have several volumes in preparation which are sure to have the attractive exterior associated with the imprint of this concern. "Illustrated Ditties of the Olden Time" are compiled by an anonymous hand; "A Life of John D. Barry," by Julia Marlowe, has been added to the Sock and Buskin Biographies; and books by Kipling, Hood, Poe, and Rossetti are to be added to the Botolph Classics. Several volumes of fiction have engaging authors and promising titles; among them are "Camp Arcady," by Floy Campbell; "The Sirens Three," by Walter Crane; "Pepys's Ghost," by Edwin Emerson, Jr.; "Vassar Stories," by Grace Margaret Gallaher; "From Yanco to Las Marias," by Karl Stephen Herrman; "The Sicilian Idyls of Theocritus," by Marion Mills Miller; "Old Madame, and Other Tragedies," by Harriet Prescott Spofford; "The Price of Blood," by Howard Pyle; and several others, of which full titles may be found in the preceding classified list under the heading Fiction.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY will issue a new and revised edition of W. I. Lincoln Adams' "Amateur Photographer," which has become the standard handbook and guide for the beginner in photography; a new edition of Arthur W. Dow's "Composition," a book on art, presenting the main features of the new system of instruction which the author has so successfully developed in Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y., and in the Art Students' League of New York City. A book for young people is also forthcoming, written by Albert Biglow Paine, to be called "The Beacon Prize Medals and Other Stories," telling the little trials and triumphs of boys and girls in home and school, and proving many of such boys and girls to be little heroes and heroines.

A. S. BARNES & CO. have just issued "The Mind and Art of Poe's Poetry," by John Phelps Fruit, professor of English language and literature in Jewell College, Liberty, Mo., who bases his study on the Stone & Kimball edition of Poe's works, collected and edited by E. C. Stedman and Professor Woodbury, of which the tenth volume furnishes a complete Variorum text of the poems. Reference is made to this edition by volume and page. Turning from the poetic to the severely practical, they will also bring out "Quantitative Chemical Analysis," by Nicholas Knight.

BAY VIEW PUBLISHING CO., New York City, announce that they have purchased all the plates and stock of the Rodgers Co., of Philadelphia, and will issue their line of 16mos in the early fall. They will be put up in different styles in the Excelsior edition in handsome embossed cloth; the Half Leather Series, daintily bound with elaborately tooled backs, and the Devotional Series, very choicely bound. The volumes in all these series are selected from the most noted authors. For separate titles the Trade List Annual for 1999 must be consulted.

BETTER WAY PUBLISHING COMPANY, Grinnell, Iowa, will issue during the fall "Self-Supporting Churches and How to Plant Them," illustrated by the life and teachings of Rev. Dr. C. H. Wheeler, for forty years a missionary at Harpoot, Turkey.

DREXEL BIDDLE, Philadelphia, will have ready in the late fall "Arctic Romances," by Albert White Vorse, to be illustrated from ten paintings by F. W. Stokes, the leading artist of the world in Arctic scenes and subjects. Both Stokes and Vorse were members of Peary's expedition of 1892, and have drawn their material largely from that expedition. Mr. Vorse assisted Professor Heilprin in making the explorations on which the new maps of Greenland are founded. Their other publications will come under the head of Fiction, and will include a new edition of W. E. Norris' "Giles Ingilby;" "Strong as Death," by Guy de Maupassant, translated by Teofilo E. Comba; "Madame Paradox," by Mrs. Ormerod; "Caroline Brooks," by Caroline Brooks; and "In the Bivouac of Life," a collection of romances, by Sarah P. Brooks.

THE BOWEN-MERRILL CO. will have among their fall publications "Book-Lover's Verse," a compilation of the happy verses that have been written about books and their makers, edited by Howard S. Ruddy, whose work on the Rochester Herald has added so much to the literary value of the journal. In fiction the announcements promise "The Legionaries," by Henry Scott Clark, a story of the famous ride made by Morgan's cavalry through Indiana and Ohio during the Civil War; "The Black Wolf's Breed, a Story of Adventure Happening in France and in French America During the Reign of Louis XIV.," by Harris Dickson, a new Southern writer; and a novel dealing with the period of Charles II., by Charles Major, author of 'When Knighthood was in Flower," in which Nell Gwynne plays a prominent part. "When Knighthood Was in Flower" will be acted this winter which will make a new demand for the wonderfully successful story. The Canadian editions are selling rapidly, and Sands & Co. have brought it out in London. A volume of essays by Richard Malcolm Johnston was published several years back, and will now be reissued with many new essays added; a new volume has been added to the Ideal Series of Speakers, and is devoted to humorous and dialect recitations; "American Fungi," in which 800 species of toadstools and mushrooms are classified, is by Capt. Charles McIlvaine, and "The Puritan Republic," by Judge Daniel Wait Howe, will give a concise and accurate account of Massachusetts colony.

A. I. BRADLEY & CO. are making preparations for the gift-book season and will provide especially for young people. Hezekiah Butterworth, E. A. Rand, Fannie E. Newberry, Gordon Stables, and other popular authors have written volumes for them. A full list of titles will be found in the preceding list in this issue under the heading Juvenile Literature.

BRENTANO's announcement embraces a varied assortment of "good things" in fiction, and artistic editions of standard favorites, or favorite standards. In fiction a notable volume will be "Cashel Byron's Profession," by G. Bernard Shaw, a clever and whimsical study of English social life, published years ago before the author had attained his fame as a play-writer. Its hero is a prize-fighter and his life-history is a satire on the hypocrisy and inconsistency of society as it exists to-day in almost all countries of high civilization. "The Shellback," by Alec J. Boyd, is a thrilling story of life on the sea in the last generation, giving a vivid picture of fast-vanishing conditions. It has an introduction by Morgan Robertson, the well-known writer of sea tales; "One of Cleopatra's Nights," under which title appears a collection of Theophile Gautier's short stories; and "Michael Dred, Detective," by Marie and Robert Leighton, are just out, and new editions are in preparation of Jessie Fothergill's "The First Violin," with illustrations after wash drawings by George W. Brenneman; and of "Love Letters of a Portuguese Nun," by Josephine Lazarus. Handsome holiday books will be made of "The Standard Opera Glass," by Charles Annesley, with a prelude by James Huneker, detailing the plot of 123 operas, with critical and biographical remarks; of Clement Moore's ever-new "It Was the Night Before Christmas," which will have entirely new illustrations by J. C. Chase; of "An Old Family," describing the Setons in Scotland and America, illustrated with upwards of a hundred illustrations from rare originals; of "The Handbook of Heraldry," by John E. Cussano, with upwards of 400 illustrations; and of a number of Japanese books and calendars. To the Promegranite Series will be added various books by Kipling and editions of Fitzgerald's and McCarthy's "Omar Khayyám;" and to the Pompadour Series will be added "The Ballad of Reading Gaol" and "Clarimonde," by Gautier, translated by Lafcadio Hearn.

BROWN & CO., Boston, announce "Ralph Waldo Emerson," an essay by Dr. Edward Everett Hale, to which are added two little-known essays of Emerson, entitled "The Character of Socrates" and "The Present State of Ethical Philosophy;" "The King and Queen of Mollebusch," a folk-tale by Georg Ebers, translated by Mary J. Safford; "Birds of the Poets," compiled by Lucy F. Sanderson, who has gleaned a great variety of pretty verses about different birds from the pages of English and American poets; and "A Kipling Primer," a concise handbook to the complete writings of Kipling, compiled by Frederic Lawrence Knowles, to which are added bibliographies of first editions, and of reference articles, a biography, a critical analysis of his works, and a complete alphabetical index to the plots of all the stories and ballads.

F. M. BUCKLES & CO., New York City, are getting out some Christmas souvenirs, comprising nine of Kipling's most popular hymns and his far-famed "Recessional." These are handsomely printed in two colors on fine deckle-edge paper, and each copy is enclosed in a transparent envelope with extra envelopes for mailing. The covers each have a photogravure inserted in an impressed panel. There is also another collection of "Kipling Booklets," composed of ten of the most popular poems, including "The Recessional," "Betrothed," "Gunga Din," "Vampire," "Mandalay," "Fuzzy Wuzzy," "Danny Deever," "Belts," "Tommy," and "The Undertaker's Horse." Five volumes of "Kipling's Masterpieces" are also ready, bound in cloth and full leather, and neatly boxed. A friend of Kipling can certainly find his best-known works in handsome shape with the Buckles imprint. Katherine S. Macquoid's "A Ward of the King," a story of the great Constable of Bourbon, and Fergus Hume's "A Hagar of the Pawn-Shop," have been added to the Century Series of novels.

H. M. CALDWELL CO., New York and Boston, have a long list of illustrated editions of standard books, handsome and inexpensive gift-books, various series of fiction, a long line of Handy Volume Classics, and many of Rudyard Kipling's works in a specially pretty edition. Their Illustrated Library of Famous Books by Famous Authors now numbers 172 titles; and The Berkeley Library adds "La Dame de Monsereau," which makes the 141st title for the set. The Belgravia Series of Masterpieces is each complete in two volumes, containing ten full-page etchings. To it will be added "David Copperfield," "Guy Mannering," Nicholas Nickleby," "The Newcomes," "Oliver Twist," and "Vanity Fair," which is specially timely in view of the drama founded upon it now being played in New York City by Mrs. Fiske. A new popular holiday edition of "The Courtship of Miles Standish" will be illustrated by Frank T. Merrill and others; and new illustrated lines of boys' and girls' books, each number twenty-five titles, including the works of T. S. Arthur, Oliver Optic, Ewing, Carey, Molesworth, Douglass, and many others in whom children always delight. The additions expected in the Handy Volume Classics include religious, juvenile, and miscellaneous books, which will be found scattered through various departments of our classified list elsewhere. About 141 of these books appear in a De Novo Library, with covers of new and original design; 112 titles have been put into an Empyreal edition; and fifty selected volumes will be sold in what will be known as the Full Leather edition. An entirely new edition from new plates is made of "The Wandering Jew," which will appear in three volumes in the Dagobert edition. Green's "History of the English People," in four volumes; Macaulay's "History of England," in five volumes; and "Plutarch's Lives," in three volumes, will also be ready for gift purposes. There will be a Popular edition and a Sarony edition of "The Little Minister;" and also a Green Room edition and the Kirriemuir edition. An etched portrait of Miss Maud Adams, suitable for framing, accompanies each one of these editions. An edition of Kipling, in ten volumes, is to be boxed and known as "Kiplingiana." It will have photogravure and half-tone illustrations, and will be printed on fine deckle-edged paper, with rubricated title-pages. There is also a Young Folks' Library, in which the newcomers will be "Wee Willie Winkie," "Water Babies," and "Man Without a Country."

THE CAMBRIDGE ENCYCLOPÆDIA CO., New York City, publishers of historical and reference books, announce six works on money, of which the separate titles are entered in the preceding classified list under the heading Politics, Sociology, and Economics. They will also issue a "Life of the Emperor Hadrian," by Ælius Spartianus, translated by William Maude; and "The Venus di Milo," also by William Maude, pointing out the relation of this statue to Greek worship. Of this there will be an édition de luxe.

WILLIAM J. CAMPBELL, Philadelphia, will publish "The Settlement of Germantown, Pa., and the Beginning of German Emigration to North America," by Samuel Whitaker Pennypacker, Senior Vice-President of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania. The work will have about 100 illustrations, and the edition is strictly limited to 300 copies, so that early orders are the only means of securing one of these books, which will become very valuable with time. He has also in preparation a translation into English of "Magna Charta" and the other English Charters, with a historical dissertation and copious notes, by Boyd C. Barrington, of the Philadelphia Bar. This "Magna Charta" has been out of print so long in the English version that few of the last two generations have seen it.

CASSELL & COMPANY will have ready the volume of "The Magazine of Art" for 1899, with articles containing colored illustrations and upwards of 800 engravings from choice paintings and from original drawings by the leading artists of the day, making a valuable record of the art of the world for 1899 and also a very rich gift-book. They also have in preparation a new edition of "Drawing in Charcoal and Crayon," with introduction, by Charles de Kay, the work of Frank Fowler, a painter and teacher of art, who has sifted its material from a large amount of personal experience in the studio and the class-room. For young people the announcements are "Little Folks' Christmas Volume," printed in color and black, size 8 by 10 inches, bound in illuminated boards; "Bo-Peep," printed in red, blue, and black, composed of original stories and verses by popular authors; and a specially handsome book, entitled "Master Charlie—Painter, Poet, Novelist, and Teacher," in which C. Harrison and S. H. Hamer have combined to invent a diary of a small boy who cannot yet spell correctly, but who has convinced himself he knows much of the world, and has even prepared ludicrous easy lessons in French and German for his less favored companions. Every page of this book is full of funny surprises.

THE CENTURY CO. have planned a holiday book of sure popularity in the fine Continental edition of Dr. S. Weir Mitchell's successful novel, "Hugh Wynne." This will be illustrated with a great number of reproductions of old prints and manuscripts, views of present scenes from photographs and photogravures of Howard Pyle's twelve original drawings; it will be richly bound in two volumes and put up in a buff and blue box. Paul Leicester Ford's study of "The Many-Sided Franklin" will be one of the most interesting contributions to the biography of the great American, being a series of papers dealing with various phases of Franklin's career, and marked by the historical accuracy and literary charm that distinguishes Mr. Ford's work. The tragic story of "Maximilian in Mexico" finds fresh expression in Sara Yorke Stevenson's reminiscences of the French intervention, 1862–67, based upon her own acquaintance in the Mexican imperial court at the time when the disastrous experiment of European government was tried; Frederic Courtland Penfield tells of "Present-Day Egypt," describing the career of the spendthrift Khedive Imail, the gradual changes wrought by English dominance and the strange mingling of civilization and barbarism in the Cairo of to-day, while many illustrations, hints to travellers, etc., add to the value of the book; and a very different field is again exploited in the volume "Tramping with Tramps," in which are gathered the magazine articles of "Josiah Flynt," that expert on Vagabondia, who tells of tramp life and its characteristics in Russia, Germany, England, and the United States. Two new volumes have been added to the dainty little Thumbnail Series in Irving's "Rip Van Winkle and the Legend of Sleepy Hollow," with an introduction by Joseph Jefferson, and a new translation of the "Meditations of Marcus Aurelius," by Benjamin E. Smith; while a timely little volume has been made of the chapters on "Christian Science and Other Superstitions," by Dr. J. M. Buckley, extracted from his earlier work on "Faith Healing, Christian Science, and Kindred Phenomena." There will be two new books of fiction—Morgan Robertson's volume of short stories of the sea, "Where Angels Fear to Tread," and Frank Stockton's original extravaganza, "The Vizier of the Two-Horned Alexander." For children the pages of St. Nicholas may be relied upon to provide holiday fare. This year there will come from this source a capital story for boys, "The Dozen from Lakerim," in which Rupert Hughes continues the adventures of "The Lakerim Athletic Club;" "Quicksilver Sue," a wholesome story of girl life, by Laura E. Richards, showing that "lifelong friendships" are not built in a day; "The Story of Betty," the romance of a little Irish girl who becomes mistress of great wealth, by Carolyn Wells; "The Brownies Abroad," another of Palmer Cox's delightful Brownie books; and "The St. Nicholas Christmas Book," a treasury of pictures, stories, and rhymes.

THE ROBERT CLARKE CO., Cincinnati, announce "East Tennessee and the Civil War," by Oliver P. Temple, author of that epoch-making book, "The Covenanter, the Cavalier, and the Puritan," who is a native of Tennessee and familiar with all the ways and habits of the people he describes. He knew all the leading men connected with the war, and his work will be a brilliant addition to our national annals. He has also under way "The Union Leaders of East Tennessee," a valuable portrayal of the group of strong, brave men who appeared in 1861 and by their dauntless courage and great ability did much to rally their fellow-citizens. Another most timely work will be "A Review of the Constitution of the United States, including the Changes Made by Interpretation and Amendment," by Hon. W. G. Bullitt, of the Frankfort (Ky.) Bar. The publishers will also issue a volume of poems by Thomas J. Moore, entitled "Elecampane, and Other Poems;" and a new volume of Mrs. Laura G. Collins' musical poetry, called "Immortelles and Asphodels." George W. Ranck, under the title of "The Bivouac of the Dead and Its Author," gives the whole story of O'Hara's great poem which Grant, Lee, and Gladstone praised so highly, a biography of the author compiled from material provided by his family, and also reprints the other well-known lyric, "The Old Pioneer."

H. T. COATES & CO. have in preparation three handsome gift-books. "England. Picturesque and Descriptive," is a reissue of Joel Cook's interesting reminiscences of travel in England and Wales, combining history, legend, and description in such fashion as to be of equal interest and value to the idle reader as to the intending tourist. It will be illustrated with fifty fine photogravures, handsomely bound in two volumes and boxed. "Some Colonial Mansions and Those Who Lived in Them," the first and second series of historio-genealogical annals edited by Thomas Allen Glenn, will be brought out in two volumes, lavishly illustrated with twenty full-page photogravures and over three hundred half-tones, and will reveal in full and accurate detail the social life of colonial days in the Northern, Middle, and Southern States, with traditions and accounts of the families who figured in its activities; while J. P. Mahaffy's standard work, "Rambles and Studies in Greece," will appear in a reprint of the last English edition, illustrated with thirty photogravures and a map of the storied country whose natural beauty, past glories, and present characteristics are so keenly observed and interestingly described. As usual several new books for boys will bear this firm's imprint. Alger will be represented by "Rupert's Ambition," Harry Castlemon will have "The White Beaver," Edward L. Ellis "The Secret of Coffin Island;" and "Iron Heart, War Chief of the Iroquois," will give clue in its title to the adventures it narrates.

THE CONTINENTAL PUBLISHING CO., New York, announce "A Daughter of Neptune," by William Winslow, a collection of five short stories of unusual merit. The scenes of the title-story are laid in a New England seacoast town, while the other stories deal with the Far West.

T. Y. CROWELL & COMPANY have a great number of new books and new editions of older books for the season of 1899–1900. Uniform with the Camberwell edition of Robert Browning's works will be issued "Browning's Study Programmes," by Charlotte Porter and Helen A. Clarke, in two volumes. "Newman Hall, an Autobiography," and "A Preacher's Life," the autobiography of Joseph Parker, will be welcomed by the many friends these great English preachers have made themselves in America. Two books filled with valuable thoughts will be "Quiet Talks with Earnest People," by the Rev. Charles E. Jefferson, and "Bringing Up Boys," a study by Kate Upson Clarke, and two books of useful information are promised in "Important Events, a book of dates," edited by George W. Powers, and "The Land of the Pigmies," by Capt. Guy Burrows. Great attention will be given this season to religious works. "The Theology of Civilization" is by Charles F. Dole, author of "The Coming People;" J. R. Miller has written two new books entitled "The Secret of Gladness," which will be illustrated, and "Strength and Beauty;" there will be a paper-covered edition of the Rev. George D. Herron's great ethical study, "Between Cæsar and Jesus," and new editions of George Müller's "The Life of Trust," Fanny B. Bates's "Between the Lights," and Jeanie A. Bates Greenough's "At Dawn of Day." To economic literature, of which this house makes a specialty, will be added "Economics of Distribution," by John A. Hobson; and there has just been issued "Municipal Monopolies," by Prof. E. W. Bemis and others. The newest additions to history are "Duruy's Ancient History," revised by Prof. E. A. Grosvenor, of Amherst College, who has also just ready a volume of "Contemporary History 1848–1899," written with the same spirit that made his "Constantinople" so fascinating. "Twenty Famous Naval Battles," described by Prof. E. K. Rawson, tell of feats of courage on the water from Salamis to Santiago. Dainty editions of standard books are always associated with the firm of T. Y. Crowell & Co. This year there will be a Luxembourg edition, in two volumes, of George Eliot's "Middlemarch," with illustrations by Alice Barber Stephens; and several new volumes will be added to The Copley Series, which has already made itself an enviable reputation among book-lovers. Classified under Literary Miscellany in the preceding list will be found all the separate additions to the Handy Volume Classics, which this year have two new styles of binding; Faience Library, of which there is a Vienna edition in novel leather binding; The Heidelberg Series of Classic Prose and Poetry; The Waldorf Library, and the Laurel Series. There are many new styles of binding also for Crowell's Poets, which will be known as the Abbotsford, the Canterbury Limp Circuit, and Crushed Levant editions. Among the authors added are Arthur Clough, Emerson, Holmes, Kipling, and Shakespeare, and full titles are given in the list under Poetry and Drama. The very popular What is Worth While Series is to be much enlarged. Twenty new titles may be found in the list under heading Birth-Day Books, Bible Text-Books, Booklets, etc. Eight new juveniles are also in preparation for the holidays; "Historic Americans," by Elbridge S. Brooks; "Helps for Ambitious Boys," by William Drysdale; "Christmas at Deacon Hackett's," by James Otis; "Strawberry Hill," by Mrs. C. F. Fraser; "Sunbeams and Moonbeams," by Louisa R. Baker; "The Young Boss," by Edward W. Thompson; and new editions of "Robinson Crusoe;" and "The Swiss Family Robinson."

HENRY A. DICKERMAN & SON issue The Boston Popular Library, in which they will include only books of established selling merit, which will be printed on extra heavy enamelled paper in large type, bound in illustrated covers in two colors. The authors thus far represented are St. George Rathborne, Hall Caine, Conan Doyle, Grant Allen, Mary J. Holmes, Marie Corelli, Anthony Hope, Stanley J. Weyman, and J. Mitchell Chapple.

G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY have many books in preparation, chiefly novels, of which full titles are given in the preceding classified list under the heading Fiction. It is remarkable to find still another new novel by Mrs. Mary J. Holmes, called "The Tracy Diamonds;" and Harold Frederic's "The Return of the O'Mahony" is also in preparation. The most important of their forthcoming books is "Memoirs of Victor Hugo," translated by John W. Harding, with preface by Paul Meurice, Hugo's literary executor, which will appear on October 16 simultaneously in Paris, London, and New York. It will contain some short stories never before published. The memoirs date back to 1825, when Hugo saw Charles X. crowned at Rheims.

DODD, MEAD & CO. have made lavish preparations for the fall bookbuyers, and their list embraces noteworthy works in varied branches of literature. Several handsome holiday gift-books are announced. Shakespeare's "As You Like It" will be put in a volume similar to the charming edition of Hamilton Mabie's "Forest of Arden" published last year. It is illustrated by Will H. Low, who, in addition to five full-page colored drawings, has woven a graceful network of pictures and decorations about the text. Mr. Mabie will be represented by his first and favorite book, "My Study Fire," brought out in a new holiday edition, with original and sympathetic drawings by Maude and Genevieve Cowles, whose illustrative work has won them distinction; Joseph Jefferson's play, "Rip Van Winkle," will be reissued with all the original and several new illustrations, but at half the price of the earlier editions; and George Eliot's "Silas Marner" will be brought out in a pretty, small octavo, with sixty full-page illustrations by Birch. A sumptuous volume has been prepared for a limited public in R. F. Halsey's ceramic study, "Old New York Views on Staffordshire Pottery." Printed and bound without regard to expense, this will rank with such works as the Grolier Club publications and similar examples of fine book-making; it will contain over 160 photogravure and text illustrations, and will be of value alike to collectors of books and of pottery. The edition is limited to 250 copies on hand-made paper and twenty-five copies on Japan vellum. Literature and art are combined again in Dr. Ludwig Volkmann's "Iconografia Dantesca," which traces and analyzes Dante's relation to art and the influence he has exerted on successive generations, and, with its wealth of photogravure illustrations, will be welcomed by all lovers of Dante; while many of the other publications announced touch upon one or the other of these fields. There will be a new volume of Paul Laurence Dunbar's negro verse, entitled "Poems of Cabin and Field," illustrated by the Hampton Students' Camera Club, and appropriately decorated; Brander Matthews' "Ballads of Books" will be brought out in a new attractive edition; Harry Thurston Peck, editor of the Bookman, who wields a pen as entertaining as it is facile, will have two volumes, "What is Good English and Other Essays" and "Grey Stone and Porphyry," the latter being a selection from his poems contributed to current magazines; the delightful "Etchingham Letters," by Sir Frederick Pollock and Mrs. Fuller Maitland, touching gracefully upon varied literary topics and published serially in the Cornhill Magazine, where they aroused general interest. will be brought out in book form; W. Carew Hazlitt has edited a collection of "New Letters of Hazlitt and Lamb," which will supply missing links in the biographical chain of each; and Austin Dobson's "Life of Goldsmith," in a new revised edition, will be issued uniform with the complete edition of Dobson's works published last year. Miss Esther Singleton, who has proved herself a pleasant guide along artistic paths, has prepared two new volumes, "Great Pictures Described by Great Writers," a companion to her previous work, "Turrets, Towers, and Temples," giving reproductions of famous pictures, with descriptive text selected from masters of literature, and a "Companion and Guide to the Opera," being a compilation of extracts from well-known writers referring to the more celebrated operas; Miss Guerber will increase her contributions to musical and mythological literature by a volume devoted to "Legends of Switzerland," retold in simple and popular form; while for music lovers there will be an English translation of Camille Bellaigue's suggestive "Musical Studies and Silhouettes," issued in companion form with his preceding volume, "Portraits and Silhouettes of Musicians." Travel, history, and biography will receive several additions. Miss Mary H. Krout, who told so graphically of the revolution in Hawaii, has now become "A Looker-on in London," where she writes of English civic and social life in entertaining fashion; "Holland and the Hollanders" will be described by David S. Meldrum, whose long acquaintance with Dutch life gives a special authority to his observations; and G. W. Steevens tells, in his terse and graphic manner, of "Imperial India," its brilliancy, its tragic contrasts, and its conditions of society and government. The final (sixth) volume of Schouler's "History of the United States" is also announced; Edmund Gosse has completed his elaborate "Life of Dr. John Donne," Dean of St. Paul's, 1573–1631, which has occupied him as a labor of love for many years, and this will be issued in two volumes with photogravures and facsimiles. The new fiction includes many tempting announcements. "The Autobiography of a Child," published anonymously in Blackwood and later acknowledged as the work of Miss Hannah Lynch, is a dramatic record of a stormy childhood, remarkable for its literary style; Max Pemberton will have a volume of Venetian stories, entitled "The Enchanted Isles;" "The Tory Maid," by H. B. Stimpson, is a romance of the Revolution, as is Paul Leicester Ford's winning story, "Janice Meredith;" Tolstoy will have a new novel with the suggestive title "Resurrection;" Sir Walter Besant in "The Orange Girl" will return to his favorite theme of London in the eighteenth century; Neil Munro will have a strong Scotch romance, "Gilian the Dreamer;" and S. R. Crockett in "Ione March" enters upon a new departure, telling the love-story of an American girl abroad. The fiction announcements also comprise Benjamin Swift's eagerly expected novel, "Siren City," which deals with life and love in Naples; "Heronford," a story of adventure, by S. R. Keightly; "A Son of the State," by W. Pett Ridge; a new novel by "Lucas Malet"; new editions of the two "Mark Rutherford" novels and of the earlier works of Henry Seton Merriman, and other interesting titles, which are listed under the heading Fiction in our classified list. Among theological and miscellaneous books mention should be made of Dr. Farrar's studies in the life of Christ, entitled "The Life of Lives;" Hamilton Mabie's "Life of the Spirit;" and Alfred H. Miles' admirable volume on "Natural History," with its many colored plates. Half a dozen books have been prepared for young people: "Patience, a Daughter of the Mayflower," by Mrs. Champney; "Margaret Thorpe's Trial," by Lucy C. Lillie; "The Heir of Sherburne" and "A Little Girl in Old Philadelphia," by Amanda M. Douglas; a new volume by Miss Finley, telling of "Elsie in Florida;" and "Blue Jackets of 1898," in which Willis J. Abbot narrates the story of the war with Spain.

THE DODGE PUBLISHING COMPANY, New York City, announces the fourth edition of Elizabeth Strong Washington's "How to Cook Husbands;" a book which bids fair to reach holiday needs; a classic edition of Fitzgerald's version of "The Rubaiyat," with side-lights by Edward Herron-Allen, and illustrated title page by Edward Mayer, who has also made the illustrations for a collection of best books of popular authors which already promises to contain Bacon's and Emerson's "Essays;" Jerome's "Three Men in a Boat;" and Ruskin's "Sesame and Lilies," and to which will be added several of Kipling's stories. There will be new editions of "Borrowings" and "More Borrowings," two charming little books of quotations; and a choice collection of old favorites to be called "Fifty Songs of Love." A book of special interest will be "The Original Letters," purporting to be the diary of Cupid, which is to be fully illustrated by Rosalie Arthur, and bound in white and blue as a holiday gift-book; and a clever little story for boys has been written by Marie Morelle, entitled "One Armed Jack."

DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE COMPANY have prepared books for every department of literature. In publications suitable for the gift-season there will be Charles Dana Gibson's "Sketches in Egypt," in which the artist's forceful and suggestive drawings are well reinforced by his written impressions, the whole making an interesting record of the real Egypt from a new standpoint. Of this there will also be an édition de luxe of 250 signed and numbered copies, each accompanied by a portfolio containing art proofs of ten of the most important pictures on Japan silk tissue, mounted on plate paper suitable for framing. An édition de luxe will also be ready of Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac," with fifty illustrations by the best French artists, five of which will be reproduced in color, and a very fine portrait of the author, the work of Thevenot. The publishers will also issue "The Romances," one of Rostand's earlier and much admired plays. Pamela Colman Smith, whose illustrations for some of the best-known stirring old English ballads have given her an enviable place among artists, has prepared "Widdicomb Fair" for an edition to be limited to 500 copies. The words and music add interest to the portfolio of drawings which have been reproduced in color by the stencil process, and will be printed by hand so as to give them almost exactly the effect of water-colors. Another specimen of this artist's fine work will be shown in "The Golden Vanity" and "The Green Bed," fascinating ballads of the time of Sir Walter Raleigh. An aid to the knowledge of our wild flowers will be "Nature's Garden," by Neltje Blanchan, with many colored plates and other illustrations by the author of "Bird Neighbors;" and many other books with illustrations are classified under the heading Juvenile Literature. In fiction this house has a specially strong list. Shan F. Bullock has written "The Barrys," a novel of Irish life; Joseph Conrad has a collection of stories to be issued under the title "The Heart of Darkness;" John A. Hill's "Stories of a Railroad," which have been made a feature of McClure's Magazine, will be brought out in book-form; and Ernest Jarrold's "Mickey Finn's Idylls" are to be brought out once more with Charles A. Dana's introduction. A romance of the Kansas border wars, by William R. Leighton, will be entitled "Sons of Strength;" "Arms and the Woman," by Harold McGrath, is a spirited story of a princess in a modern German state, which has delighted the readers of the New York Evening Sun; merry tales of Irish folklore by Seumas MacManus, will be called "In Chimney Corners;" and Frank Norris, who startled the public with his strong California romance, entitled "McTeague," has written a milder tale called "Blix." In "Dracula," the story of a human vampire, Bram Stoker has written a rather gruesome tale, which shows virility of imagination and dramatic power; and H. G. Wells has collected some of his original stories of what science may make possible under the title "Tales of Space and Time." Many more forthcoming romances are classified in the preceding list under the heading Fiction. Ida M. Tarbell's "Life of Abraham Lincoln" is drawn from original sources, and will contain many speeches, telegrams, and letters hitherto unpublished; and a fitting companion volume will be "Nancy Hanks," the story of Abraham Lincoln's mother, which Caroline Hanks Hitchcock has consented to publish ahead of the "Complete Genealogy of the Hanks Family," on which she is now at work. "The Future of War," by Jean de Bloch, which is supposed to have given the Czar the first idea of his peace rescript, has been translated by R. C. Long and will be issued with a prefatory conversation with the author, the work of W. T. Stead; a volume of "Miscellanies," by Henry George, is to be issued; and also a "Life of Henry George," by his son of the same name. Interesting and instructive books for serious girls will be "The King's Daughter," by Margaret Bottome, president of the International Order of King's Daughters; and "How to be Pretty Though Plain," by Mrs. Humphrey, author of "Manners for Men." There will be a new series of books to be known as the Home Study Circle, which will be edited by Seymour Eaton. These books will be largely made up from material used in successful courses of study. The first three volumes are ready and cover "Literature: Scott, Burns, and Byron;" "First Course in Mathematics," for mechanics and engineers; and "The World's Famous Scientists." Nora Archibald Smith explains "The Kindergarten in a Nutshell," and several other publications of interest are classified in the preceding list under Education, Language, etc. Kipling's writings form the basis of several volumes to be brought out in various dress and styles. "The Brushwood Boy" has an unusual dream quality for this virile and often brusque writer; "Stalky & Co." will tell of a schoolboy trio; "The Day's Work" is entering its 120th thousand; "From Sea to Sea" appears in its 35th thousand; and there is to be a "Kipling Birthday Book," compiled by Joseph Finn. Attractive little volumes, each containing one of Kipling's stories, will be known as the Single Story Series, and five of them are now ready. Doubleday & McClure have taken over from The Macmillan Co. all the stock of Kipling's books formerly issued by them, and they are now all revised and copyrighted. The Shakespearian Library will be composed of eighteen volumes, edited from the best texts. Professor Morley has written an introduction to each play, and to each play are added extracts from the books that Shakespeare used. These books will be sold by the trade on small instalments, including a year's subscription to McClure's Magazine. The list of books to be issued is by no means exhausted, but to find complete titles the preceding list must be consulted under almost every heading. Doubleday & McClure Co. have just acquired the following books formerly issued by Way & Williams, of Chicago: "The Enchanted Burro," by Charles F. Lummis; "A Mountain Woman" and "Pippins and Cheese," by Elia W. Peatie; "Bolanyo," by Opie Read; "A Book of True Lovers," by Octave Thanet; "Afloat on the Ohio," by Reuben Gold Thwaites; "The Story of Ab," by Stanley Waterloo; and "The Real Issue," by William Allen White.

E. P. DUTTON & Co., are preparing a long list of books among which theological and devotional works take an important place. Among them are "The Foundation of Creed," by Harvey Goodwin, Bishop of Carlisle, England; "Leaves from the Golden Legend," chosen by H. D. Madge, with illustrations by H. M. Watts; "Public School Sermons," by H. Montague Butler; and "Life of John Raikes," founder of the Sunday School, with an introduction by Dean Farrar. Other works of biographical importance are "Further Letters and Papers of Benjamin Jowett," "Plays and Players," by Laurence Hutton; "Blanche de Navarre," the addition to "Lives and Times of Early Valois Queens;" "Wagner" and "Mendelssohn" in the Master Musician's Series; "Recollections of an Old Musician," by Thomas Ryan, of the Mendelssohn Quintette Club; and "The Life of Mrs. Elizabeth Pease Nichol," by Mrs. Stoddard; and "Life of Tennyson," by Robert F. Horton, which will be added to the Saintly Lives Series. This house puts its strength into birthday and year books, gift-books and pictures, booklets in color and monotint, Christmas and New Year's cards and souvenirs, fine art color books for adults and children and calendars of every size and kind. Its finest work is done abroad by E. Nister, and every year its entire stock of goods of this kind is sold out before the Christmas bells begin to ring. It is impossible to mention these things in detail. As far as they have been announced they appear in the list elsewhere under the headings Fine Arts, and under Birthday-books, Booklets, Calendars, etc., and Juveniles. Specially notable will be "Funny Folks," made up of F. M. Howarth's comical pictures from Puck, in colors and black and white; and Charles Dickens's "The Holly Tree Inn," which will be added to the Gem Series of Gift Books. Among the authors who have prepared children's books are Mrs. Molesworth, James Otis, Kate Greenaway, and others, bearing names to conjure with among the little folks, and many of the old favorites, such as "Mother Goose," "Swiss Family Robinson," "There Was an Old Woman Lived in a Shoe," and the ever popular "Dutton's Holiday Annual," have put on new clothes for the holiday season of 1899-1900.

EATON & MAINS (Methodist Book Concern) will have ready for early publication "Making of the Million," tales of the Twentieth Century Fund, by John Ackworth; "Foundations of Christian Faith, by Charles W. Rishell, which will be volume IX. of the Biblical and Theological Library; "John Selden and His Table Talk," with notes by Robert Waters; and "Great Sinners of the Bible," a series of revival addresses, by Louis Albert Banks. Of more secular interest will be a new edition of "Sibylline Oracles," translated from the Greek by Milton S. Terry; and "Men and Things I Saw in the Civil War," by General James F. Rushing. This house makes a specialty of Sunday-school literature, lesson-books, and Epworth League reading-matter, of which separate titles are given in the preceding classified list, chiefly under the headings Juvenile or Religion and Philosophy.

DANA ESTES & CO. have prepared fine editions of several standards, and have their usual supply of attractive gift-books and juveniles. Carlyle's "French Revolution" has been put in a beautiful Illustrated Holiday edition in three volumes. It will have thirty photogravures of famous paintings representative of the thrilling scenes and leading characters of that tragic drama, and it will be handsomely printed on deckle-edge paper. The works of Bulwer and Charles Reade will be added to the handsome volumes that have already found place in the Illustrated Cabinet edition; they will be illustrated with many photogravures and etchings by Merritt, Dielman, Garrett, and other artists, and will tempt many who turn with satisfaction from the new to the old in literature. A handsome gift-book has been made of Moore's famous romance, "Lalla Rookh," printed from new plates and containing reproductions of nearly 100 of the fine drawings that appeared in the sumptuous Photogravure edition, while those who seek a book that shall express the message of affection they would send will welcome Grace Hartshorne's compilation of famous love-poems, entitled "For Thee Alone," with its artistic illustrations from great paintings and its dainty cover design. Travel is represented by Wiliam Jameson Reid's volume, "Through Unexplored Asia," in which this enthusiastic member of the Royal Geographical Society tells of his years of travel in China and Thibet, giving maps and plans, and finding for his word-pictures admirable interpretation in the full-page drawings of L. J. Bridgman; and by Mrs. M. French Sheldon's "Adventures in East Africa," a graphic narrative of the experiences of a plucky American woman who made her way in wildernesses heretofore untrodden by white men. Of curious antiquarian and historic interest will be the photographic reproduction of the ancient Latin original of "The Two Books on the Water Supply of the City of Rome," written by Sextus Julius Frontinus, Water Commissioner of Rome in A.D. 97; the reproduction will be accompanied by a Latin reprint and by a translation into English and twelve explanatory chapters by Clemens Herschel, and the volume will contain nearly 100 fine views of Rome and its environs. Of immediate interest to the students of our own country are the various pamphlets on Imperialism, which will include Senator Hoar's notable speech of last January, the addresses of Professor Sumner, Charles Francis Adams, and others, who look with anxiety upon the new American policy resulting from the war with Spain. As usual, this house has made lavish provision for youthful readers. The majority of its juvenile books, perhaps, are designed for the boys, and they are distinctly martial in character. Seven of them deal with American warfare: "The Minute Boys of Bunker Hill," which Edward Stratemeyer adds to his Minute Boys Series, telling the stirring tale of the battle of Bunker Hill and the siege and evacuation of Boston; "On Fighting Decks in 1812," in which F. H. Costello tells of perils aboard piratical craft and of the great sea fights of the frigate Constitution, as seen by two adventurous youngsters; "Captain Tom, the Privateersman," the second volume of James Otis' the Privateers of 1812 Series, dealing with the further experiences of Tom Boyle; two new volumes in the Stories of American History Series, entitled "When Dewey Came to Manila and "Off Santiago with Sampson," both by James Otis, who will also have "The Boys of '98," a stirring history of the Spanish-American War, with many illustrations and portraits; and "Two American Boys in Hawaii," by George Waldo Brown, who finds material for an entertaining story in the political plots and counterplots incident to the recent revolution in Hawaii. The chief book for girl readers will be Mrs. Laura E. Richards' new story, "Peggy," the third volume in the Three Margarets Series, which continues the chronicle of girlish doings so pleasantly carried on from year to year. The various annual publications —Chatterbox, Little Folks' Illustrated Annual, and Oliver Optic's Annual—are all sure of a hearty welcome, and holiday additions to the attractive Young of Heart Series comprise Kipling's two stories, "His Majesty the King" and "Wee Willie Winkie," bound together; "The Boys' Browning;" "Little Tong's Mission," the story of a crippled child, by Miss E. B. Barry; Poe's "Gold Bug;" that quaint, old-fashioned tale, "The Story Without End," and "Harum Scarum Joe," by Will Allen Dromgoole.

R. F. FENNO & CO. have ready for the fall "Voyage of the Pulo Way," by Carlton Dawe, an intensely exciting story of piracy on the high seas; "The Yellow Danger," a graphic account, by M. P. Shiel, of what might happen if the division of the Chinese Empire should estrange all European countries; "Honor of Thieves," by C. J. Cutcliffe Hyne, remarkable for its variety of character descriptions; and "Luther Strong," by Thomas J. Vivian, with scene laid in the region where Vermont, New York, and Massachusetts touch each other among the Taconic Hills, and all the spirit and vitality of the author's "With Dewey at Manila" and "The Fall of Santiago." A very carefully written romance of the time of Queen Elizabeth is Joseph Hatton's "The White King of Manoa," an Anglo-Spanish novel of great literary merit.

A. FLANAGAN, Chicago, has some excellent books on the way. Longfellow's "Evangeline," edited, with introduction and notes and a plan of study, by W. F. Conover, "The Story of Longfellow," by Katherine Beebe, and "Tales About Authors and Their Work," by Ella Reeve Ware, are all gotten up to be used as reading lessons and are calculated to inspire young people to get at the good things of literature. "Rote-Songs for Primary Grades," simple melodies linked to simple words, by Clarence T. Steele, is intended for children to learn long before they can read words or music. Other books in preparation may be found in the preceding classified list under the heading Education, Language, etc.

FORDS, HOWARD & HULBERT have added "Patriotic Nuggets" and "Educational Nuggets" to their popular Nuggets Series, begun with "Don't Worry Nuggets," now in its eighth thousand. The next edition will be "Philosophic Nuggets," which will consist of selections from Carlyle, Ruskin, Amiel, and Charles Kingsley, and will be compiled by Jeanne G. Pennington, who showed such wide reading in the "Don't Worry" selections. New editions are in preparation of "The Sistine Madonna," a Christmas meditation, by Amory H. Bradford, and of "Aucassin and Nicolette," the oft-translated song-story of the twelfth century, which is now embellished with wood-engravings from the drawings of A. Bida, Mary Hallock Foote, W. Hamilton Gibson, and F. Dielman. A new Christmas meditation, by A. H. Bradford, will be entitled "The Holy Family," and there will be a companion to the "Hymnal for Schools," intended for more advanced students, to be called "The Institute Hymnal." Three volumes of talks on familiar science will be known collectively as "Nature's Miracles," and the separate parts will deal with earth, air, and water, or World-Building; the second with sound, light, heat, force, etc., or Energy and vibration; and the third with Electricity and magnetism. A new book for young people, by Edward S. Ellis, will also be added to the True Grit Series.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY announce a new and revised edition of Julian Hawthorne's "Archibald Malmaison," considered the best work the author has produced. It is to be illustrated with pen-and-ink text illustrations and half-tone engravings; and they will also bring out a collection of short stories by various authors under the title of "One of Those Coincidences," the initial story, which is also from the pen of Julian Hawthorne. About the middle of next month "Stars of the Opera," by Mabel Wagnalls, will appear, a book treating of the most notable opera singers and of the operas in which they achieved fame. Many half-tone portraits of singers will lend interest to the book. The publishers also call attention to books just ready, among which the more important are "Assimilative Memory," condensing into one volume the famous Loisette Memory system; "The Expert Cleaner," by Rev. H. J. Seaman; "The Cambro-American Pulpit," a volume of sermons by Welsh-American preachers, compiled by the Rev. Vyrnwy Morgan; "The Gospel in the Fields," talks on the delights of nature, by R. C. Fillingham; and "Studies in Texts," by Joseph Parker.

GINN & CO. are preparing their usual quota of text-books for the coming school season. Full titles of their publications are given in the preceding list under the heading Education, Language, etc.

HARDY, PRATT & CO., Boston, who publish the subscription edition of Balzac announce a new volume, translated by Katharine Prescott Wormeley, from recently discovered unpublished writings of the great novelist. It will be entitled "The Personal Opinions of Honoré de Balzac," and is taken from his correspondence and miscellaneous writings and preceded by the address delivered by the critic Brunetière at Tours, May 6, on the occasion of the centenary of Balzac.

FRANCIS P. HARPER announces for fall publication a new set on Western exploration, edited by Dr. Elliott Coues, which will form volume 3 of the American Explorer Series, to be entitled "The Trail of a Spanish Pioneer," being the diary of Francisco Garces, missionary priest, in his travels through Sonoro, Arizona, and California, 1775–1776, now first translated from the original Spanish manuscript, carefully edited in Dr. Coues' inimitable manner, and enriched with twenty plates and facsimiles. A new volume in the Library Series will be "Essays in Librarianship and Bibliography," consisting of special essays and addresses on bookish subjects, by Dr. Richard Garnett, the veteran keeper of printed books in the British Museum. Under the title "Good Citizenship" will appear a volume of twenty-one essays by eminent authors on social, personal, and economic problems and obligations, edited by Rev. J. E. Hand and Canon Gore, a book designed to urge all classes of men to apply their religious convictions towards better citizenship; and in connection with John Murray will be issued a new, revised edition of Wilfrid J. Cripps's "Old English Plate, its Makers and Marks," a standard work long out of print, the new edition to be illustrated with 123 plates and upwards of 2600 facsimiles of makers' marks. Christiana J. Herringham has newly translated "The Art of the Old Masters," by Cennino Cennini, who told how colors were ground and mixed as far back as 1437, how they made varnishes, etc.—a very valuable reference-book for the artist. In lighter vein will be "Naval Yarns of Sea-Fights, Wrecks, Pirates, etc., 1616 to 1831," collected and edited by W. H. Long, with illustrations from contemporary prints; and "A Cockney in Arcadia," a story of an English village, by Harry A. Spurr, with colored frontispiece and humorous illustrations by John Hassell and Cecil Aldin.

HARPER & BROTHERS' autumn publications will give ample representation to literature evoked by the American history of the past year. Foremost among these, perhaps, in its timeliness and general interest will be the volume devoted to "Admiral George Dewey," in which John Barrett, ex-United States minister to Siam, and later war correspondent at Manila, gives a sketch of Dewey the man based upon familiar acquaintance and full knowledge of the events of his career.

During Mr. Barrett's close association with the admiral he was enabled to gather much information that has not heretofore been made public, and his book, while not an extended biography, will be authoritative and illuminating in its depiction of the character and personality of the American commander. A good companion to Mr. Barrett's book will be found in Frank D. Millet's story of "The Philippine Expedition," in which the dramatic events of the campaign in the far Pacific are described with graphic power; while other regions with which the United States are now so vitally concerned are treated in Caspar Whitney's volume on "Hawaiian-America," a careful study of conditions and possible advantages of American enterprise in the Hawaiian Islands; and in Franklin Matthews' striking record of how General Wood's energy and skill have brought civic order out of the chaos in which "Newborn Cuba" was left when Spanish rule ended. Mention of these books of special American interest should include also note of the forthcoming fourth volume of Rhodes's "History of the United States," which will cover the period from the Compromise of 1850 to Cleveland's inauguration; and Dr. John A. Wyeth's "Life of General Nathan Bedford Forrest," who, in the opinion of Sherman, was "the most remarkable man our war produced on either side." In the fields of art and literature special interest attaches to M. H. Spielman s compilation and study of "Thackeray's Unidentified Contributions to Punch," which will include nearly forty drawings taken from Punch, and will form a welcome addition to Thackeray literature. Lovers of fine books will welcome the handsome Haworth Brontë, in whose seven volumes the works of the famous sisters will take on a fresh attraction. The edition will have a preface by Mrs. Humphry Ward, will include Shorter's annotations of Mrs. Gaskell's "Life," and will have photogravure illustrations; the volumes will be issued monthly, beginning with "Jane Eyre." An attractive holiday volume will be that devoted to "Life and Character" as depicted in fifty drawings by W. T. Smedley, with text by A. V. S. Anthony, and a biographical sketch of the artist by Arthur Hoeber. Lighter literature will receive several accessions. A baker's dozen of short stories of French and French-Canadian life by William McLennan are grouped under the title "In Old France and New;" the amusing housekeeping experiences of a young married couple are set forth in "He, She, and They," by Albert Lee; Mrs. Catherwood will have a volume of "Mackinac and Lake Stories," characteristic of frontier life and carrying a sustained love interest; there will be a new volume of John Kendrick Bangs' cheerful fooling, dealing with "The Enchanted Typewriter," in which the shades of Boswell and Xanthippe chronicle the gossip and news of the society circles of Hades and of its famous denizens; John Fox, Jr.'s, strong and pathetic story of the Kentucky mountaineers, "A Mountain Europa," has been put in an attractive new edition; and S. R. Crockett will have a new Scottish novel in "Kit Kennedy," the story of the gradual reformation of a drunkard of high soul and weak will. For young people there will be a new story by Kirk Munroe, "Forward, March!" dealing with the adventures of a boy in Cuba with the Rough Riders.

D. C. HEATH & CO. announce almost more than their usual prolific supply of educational literature and text-books on an endless variety of subjects. Full titles appear in the preceding classified list under the heading Education, Language, etc. Among the books to be arranged with notes for class reading will be "Silas Marner," "Ivanhoe," "Last of the Mohicans," "Macaulay's Essays," several of Shakespeare's dramas, etc.

B. HERDER, St. Louis, Mo., is preparing many new books and new editions of Catholic religious literature, full titles of which are given under the heading Religion and Philosophy in the classified list elsewhere in this issue.

HINDS & NOBLE are preparing several new text-books, chiefly for the study of foreign languages. Full title entries of these are given in the preceding classified list under the heading Education, Language, etc.

A. J. HOLMAN & CO., Philadelphia, call special attention to the new Holman India paper editions of a long line of text, reference and teachers' Bibles, Bible dictionaries, prayer-books, etc., which are among the fastest-selling, low-priced teachers' Bibles published for 1899–1900. The paper on which these are printed bulks about ⅝ of an inch to 1000 pages, and the impression by virtue of a special quality of texture does not show through to the other side.

HENRY HOLT & CO. have in preparation two books of biography of great interest: "The Memories of Baroness de Courtot," lady-in-waiting to the Princess of Lambelle, edited by Moritz von Kaisenburg, contain a true account of much of the secret history of the French Revolution; and Henry L. Thompson's "Life of Henry George Liddell, D.D." gives a most interesting memoir of the great English lexicographer, whose "Greek Lexicon," and "History of Rome" are text books in the leading colleges of the world. Ch. Seignobos's "Political History of Europe," (1814–1896) has been translated and edited by Prof. S. M. Mac Vane of Harvard University; and uniform with Francis A. Walker's "Discussions in Education," will be published, his "Discussions in Economics and Statistics," which have been edited by Davis R. Dewey from important material found among the papers of this much regretted writer. Krausse's "Russia in Asia" (1558–1899), with appendix, index and twelve maps, covers a period of Russian political history of which the literature is almost inexhaustible, but still continues to throw much light on the most discussed questions. "The Elements of Public Finance," including the monetary system of the United States, by Prof. Winthrop More Daniels, of Princeton, has just been issued; a second impression of James's "Talks to Teachers on Psychology," is making ready, and a new anthology by H. S. Pancoast will be entitled "Standard English Poems," and cover from Chaucer to Tennyson. To come to lighter literature the publishers call attention to "The Hooligan Nights," Clarence Rook's unique diary of an actual criminal; to the second impression of Oxenham's "God's Prisoner," the eighth impression of David D. Wells' "Her Ladyship's Elephant," and the eighteenth impression of Mrs. Voynich's "The Gadfly," of special interest now that it is to be played as a drama. The specialty of this house is educational books, and the coming books in this line are given in the classified list elsewhere under the heading Education, Language, etc.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO.'s autumn list is uncommonly strong in the departments of biography and of poetry. The completion of the American Statesmen Series, at least for the present, will include three volumes additional to the twenty-eight already published. These are Salmon P. Chase, by Professor Hart, of Harvard; Charles Sumner, by Moorfield Storey, an eminent Boston lawyer; and Charles Francis Adams, by his son of the same name. Three volumes of reminiscences much more than ordinarily important are "The Memoirs of Prince Kropotkin," the famous Russian nobleman, who for his revolutionary principles has been compelled to live out of Russia for many years; "The Reminiscences of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe," which cover more than sixty remarkable years, and include anecdotes and allusions to a vast number of the most eminent persons in America and Europe; and the "Letters and Recollections of John M. Forbes," one of the great merchant princes of Boston, who died not long since, and who was even more marked for his strong character and noble public spirit than for his business genius. Other books in this department are a volume on "Dr. Horace Bushnell," very appropriately written by Dr. Munger, who appreciates in an uncommon degree the attitude and the character of the great preacher whom he commemorates; a book by Colonel Higginson, entitled "Contemporaries," and dealing very delightfully with men famous in America and some in Europe during the last half of this century; "Letters of Ralph Waldo Emerson to a Friend," which Charles Eliot Norton edits; and a "Life of Bishop Latimer," by Rev. A. J. Carlyle, in the series of English Religious Leaders. In history the most important announcement is "Dutch and Quaker Colonies in America," in two volumes, by John Fiske, which follow in the order of time the "Beginnings of New England;" a book entitled "Narragansett Friends' Meeting in the XVIII. Century," by Miss Caroline Hazard, the new president of Wellesley College; and "The End of an Era," which describes, with uncommon candor and also with uncommon interest, the closing years of the Confederacy. Perhaps the most important single volume of poetry which this house will publish the coming season is the new Household edition of Tennyson. It is brought out on the same general lines with the former Household edition, but the text has been corrected and conformed to that of the Cambridge Tennyson, the lines of the longer poems are numbered, and indexes are given to titles and first lines; the book is printed from entirely new plates in larger and more attractive type than formerly, and is illustrated with 127 of the best designs ever made for Tennyson's poems. The binding is from an entirely new design. New Cabinet editions are promised of the poems of Tennyson, Longfellow, Holmes, Whittier, Lowell, and Scott. These are so different that they should hardly be called by the same name, the type of the former editions was quite small; this is so large as to be very easily legible. The text in all cases is conformed to the Cambridge editions of these poets, the lines of the longer poems are numbered, the paper is of excellent quality, and the binding is at once tasteful and firm yet flexible, and each volume contains a portrait of the author framed in an engraved border. Other new editions are the octavo Longfellow, which is made complete, and an octavo edition of Scott, both fully illustrated and brought out in a new and handsome library form. The Cambridge edition will be extended to include the "Poems and Letters of Keats" and the "Poems of Mrs. Browning." The Riverside Browning is expanded with introductions and notes by Rev. George W. Cooke, and each of the six volumes has a portrait of Browning. Lloyd Mifflin, who has gained much reputation by his remarkable books of sonnets, has rendered into English verse in sonnet form many selections from the Greek of Bion, Moschus, and Bacchylides; Miss Louise Imogen Guiney has a new and quite notable volume, entitled "The Martyrs' Idyl, and Shorter Poems;" and Miss Alice Brown's thin but choice volume of verse, "The Road to Castaly," is now added to Houghton, Mifflin & Co.'s list. A volume of "Sonnets and Madrigals," by Michael Angelo, has been rendered into English verse by William W. Newell, who wrote the volumes on "King Arthur and the Table Round" two years ago; Wilfred W. Campbell, of Canada, who is less known in the United States than he should be, has a volume of poems entitled "Beyond the Hills of Dream," which is likely to secure for him an enviable reputation. The most important new collection is the "American Anthology," made by Mr. Stedman on the same principles which guided him in the editing of the "Victorian Anthology," which is beyond question one of the most extensive and choice selections of English verse ever included in a single volume. The "American Anthology" promises to be equally supreme in its field. The announcements in fiction of Houghton, Mifflin & Co. include "Square Pegs," by Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney, a thoroughly characteristic story showing how people find great difficulty in adjusting themselves to places in which they do not belong; "The Helpers," a mining story, including more or less villainy, and more love, by Francis Lynde; "The Prelude and the Play," by Rufus Mann, which shows uncommon familiarity with the life and people of a university town, and is very bright in its conversation and excellent in its style; another of Miss Jewett's delightful books of short stories deriving its title from the exquisite tale printed by Miss Jewett in the Atlantic for last March, "The Queen's Twin;" a volume of Hopkinson Smith's graphic and rushing stories, entitled "The Other Fellow;" "Poor People," a story of characters who belong to the lower third but not to the "submerged tenth," by I. K. Friedman, of Chicago; "A Pretty Tory," a story of valor and love during Revolutionary times in the South, by Mrs. Jeanie Gould Lincoln; "Jack Hamlin's Mediation," and other very interesting California stories, by Bret Harte; "A Young Savage," which describes the gradual civilization and refining of a charming Western girl by living with relatives in New York, by Barbara Yechton; a new edition of Miss Alice Brown's very popular "Meadow Grass;" and new Pop- ular and Library editions of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," improved by the insertion of a large number of excellent illustrations in both, and the attraction of new and original binding. For young people Joel Chandler Harris offers a charming new Thimblefinger story, entitled "Plantation Pageants;" Mrs. Kirk will delight the readers of her last year's story, "Dorothy Deane," by a new book, equally good, on "Dorothy and Her Friends;" Mary Hallock Foote has a volume written for young people, for whom she has not heretofore published anything, under the taking name "The Little Fig-Tree Stories;" E. T. Tomlinson adds to his historical stories for boys "A Jersey Boy in the Revolution;" Ruth Hall has a very appetizing book, "Boys of Scrooby;" Rev. F. S. Child, of Fairfield, Connecticut, tells a story of the secret service of the Revolution under the name of "An Unknown Patriot;" Miss Jewett has a delightful girls' book, entitled "Betty Leicester's Christmas;" Norah A. Smith tells a bright Mexican story, "Under the Cactus Flag;" Mrs. Field, a daughter of Mrs. Whitney, writes of "Nannie's Happy Childhood," a story that may be classed with Miss White's "A Little Girl of Long Ago;" and Mr. Scudder has rewritten a "Book of Legends," which cannot fail to be attractive to young readers. Five books in the department of religion should be mentioned—a book by Dr. Washington Gladden, entitled "How Much is Left of the Old Doctrines?" the object of which is to show that very little is left of the old form, and all that is best in ancient dogma still lives; "God's Education of Man," a small book of broad and incisive thinking, by President Hyde, of Bowdoin College; "The Four Gospels from a Lawyer's Standpoint," by the late Judge Bennett, considering how far the validity of the Gospel narratives is established, viewed in the way a lawyer would regard the evidence, his verdict being very favorable; "Religio Pictoris," a book which discusses the nature and relations of religion from the standpoint of an artist, the book being at once very thoughtful and written from a point of view very rarely taken, and, therefore, uncommonly fresh; and Dr. McKenzie's volume of Lowell Institute Lectures on "The Divine Force in the Life of the World." Three volumes illustrated especially for holiday use, printed and bound in very attractive style, are "The Marble Faun," Roman edition, in two beautiful volumes, with about fifty pictures of much interest relating to the art and life of Rome; Mr. Warner's "Blacklog Studies," illustrated by Edmund H. Garrett; and Whittier's "Tent on the Beach," with charming seaside and country illustrations by Charles H. Woodbury and Marcia O. Woodbury. Other volumes which need hardly be classified are the Riverside Aldine Classics, five little volumes, including "Evangeline," "Snowbound," "The Vision of Sir Launfal," "The One Hoss Shay," and "The Snow Image," with additional matter in some of the volumes, beautifully printed with the best art of the Riverside Press and bound in very attractive form; a volume entitled "A Century of Science and Other Essays," by John Fiske; a new edition of Richard Grant White's "Words and Their Uses," from new plates; and "A Dividend to Labor," another book relating to labor and profit-sharing," by Rev. N. P. Gilman, who is an authority in this department of sociology; "The American in Holland," by Rev. Dr. Griffis, who has embodied in an enthusiastic book the results of five trips through that country; a very interesting folk-lore volume, by Fanny D. Borgen, on "Animal and Plant Lore;" an attractive little book on Raphael and fifteen of his best pictures, the first in a group called the Riverside Art Series, by Miss Hurll, who edited the art works of Mrs. Jameson; and Grover Flint's "Marching with Gomez," taken over from Lamson, Wolffe & Co.

HOVENDEN & Co., New York City, have in preparation "Dewey and Our Naval Commanders," covering from Paul Jones to Dewey, which will be brought out as a handsome book illustrated with half-tone and colored plates. Everything bearing the name of Dewey will be of interest this fall.

GEORGE W. JACOBS, Philadelphia, announces books in various departments of literature. Of descriptive interest are "The British Isles Through an Opera Glass," by Charles M. Taylor, Jr., the author of "Vacation Days in Hawaii," with forty-eight illustrations from photographs taken by the writer, who is an expert in this almost necessary adjunct of modern travel; and "Martial Graves of Our Fallen Heroes in Santiago de Cuba," by Henry C. McCook, author of "The Latimers" and the far-famed "Tenants of an Old Farm," which also will be illustrated by photographs, drawings, maps and charts. Young people are to have "Remember the Maine," Gordon Stables spirited story of the war with Spain about Cuba, hurried on by the fatal Maine explosion; "A Sweet Little Maid," by Amy E. Blanchard, a fit companion to her "A Dear Little Girl," with pretty illustrations by Ida Waugh; "Master Martin," by Emma Marshall, a story of a quaint little English boy and his love for a crippled old man; "A Life of St. Paul for the Young," by George L. Weed, whose "Life of Christ for the Young" proved him specially fitted to impress religious truth in immature minds and hearts; and "Prince Dimple and His Every Day Doings," by Mrs. George A. Paull, a delightful account of a real baby by a real mother. A new issue of many of Frances Ridley Havergal's most popular little booklets are gotten up separately and will also be collected in one volume under the title "Kept for the Master's Use and Other Devotional Books." The separate titles of several books are given in the preceding classified list under the heading Religion and Philosophy. A book of literary interest will be "A Group of Old Authors," by Clyde B. Furst; studies endeavoring to add to popular knowledge of old European literature, by giving detailed illustrations of its condition at several periods between the sixth and sixteenth centuries.

WILLIAM R. JENKINS announces various publications in his special lines of Education, Language, etc., of which full titles will be found under that heading in preceding classified list. Ferdinand G. Weichmann has a work of "Science Sketches," dealing specially with "Chemistry: Its Evolution and Achievements." A perpetual calendar has been gotten up by Carolyn Evans Huse, to be known as "Shakespeare: His Critics and Lovers," which has some features new and useful in calendars.

CHARLES H. KERR, Chicago, has just ready "The Elementary Principles of Economics," by Charles H. Chase, an exposition of the fundamental principles of the science of political economy, designed for the general reader. Its chapters on applied economics treat of anarchism, socialism, taxation, debt, etc., and other subjects every thinking person should know the bearings of.

WILBUR B. KETCHAM, New York City, announces a reissue of The Expositors Bible in six volumes, edited by W. Robertson Nicoll, in which every book of the Bible is analyzed, illustrated, and explained by the most distinguished theologians of the day in a thoroughly evangelical and undenominational manner. The series of sermons preached by Dr. Lyman Abbott just before leaving Plymouth Church has been reported stenographically, and has been corrected and revised by the author, and will be issued under the title "The Life That Really Is," and Dr. James Burrell, pastor of the Marble Collegiate Church, New York City, has collected a volume of his sermons delivered during the past year, and will issue them under the title of "God and the People and Other Sermons." A statement of facts and theories regarding Jonah and the biblical book which bears his name has been made by Edgar J. Banks, United States Consul at Bagdad, and will be issued as "Jonah in Fact and Fiction," with an introduction by Dr. Lyman Abbott. Izora Chandler has written a story of "Elvira Hopkins of Tompkins Corners," which is said to abound in homely wit, terse epigrams, and droll observations; and "The Pleasures of Literature and the Solace of Books," arranged by Joseph Shaylor, will have an introduction by Andrew Lang.

LAIRD & LEE have a superb line of standard reference-books, mechanical works, dictionaries (English, French, Spanish, German, etc.), and other little time-savers and question-settlers, and are making some notable additions to this line. There will be a Littré-Webster English-French and French-English Dictionary, compiled by Max Maury, giving 60,000 words, idioms, and meanings, irregular verbs, measures, moneys, etc.; "The Twentieth Century Handy Cyclopædia Britannica," giving facts and dates from all the realms of knowledge—history, mythology, chemistry, geography, physics, etc., a treasure for the desk of the student, professional man, farmer, business man, etc.; "Lee's Guide to Paris and Every-day French Conversation," specially compiled to meet the wants of visitors at the Paris Exhibition next year; and "Laird & Lee's Diary and Time-Saver," published last year, is fitted up for 1900. Fiction holds the next place in Laird & Lee's preparations. "The Carpet-bagger," by Opie Read and Frank Pixley, cannot fail of a brisk market; "A Double Game," by Lawrence L. Lynch, sustains the reputation made by the author in "Shadowed by Three" and "The Last Witness;" and "Two Chums," by Minerva Thorpe, is a fascinating tale of an orphan boy and his dog. A fine edition will be made of Mürger's classic, "The Bohemians of the Latin Quarter;" and one has just been issued of De Amicis' "The Heart of a Boy." Two books sure of a wide interest are Cagliostro's "The Book of Destiny" and "Dreams and Omens," as revealed by Nostradamus, Albertus Magnus, etc., which will both be rendered into English by Madame Carlotta de Barey.

JOHN LANE has in preparation a beautiful edition of White's "Natural History of Selborne" that will delight alike lovers of art and of nature. It is edited by Grant Allen, and Edmund H. Neir has made over 200 illustrations, delineating with grace and sympathy the scenes aud creatures of the haunts described; and it may be had in separate paper parts of private binding or in a handsome quarto volume, richly cased. A special holiday edition has been made of Kenneth Grahame's "Golden Age," set in old-faced type and adorned with eighteen of Maxwell Parrish's quaint and characteristic drawings; while another attractive gift-book will be the new edition of Matthew Arnold's "Poems," illustrated by Henry Ospovat. There will be several volumes of verse: "Florilegium Latinum," a collection of celebrated passages, mostly from English poets, rendered into Latin verse; "The Poetical Works of Robert Stephen Hawker," the eccentric and gifted Vicar of Morwenstow, with prefatory note and bibliography by Alfred Wallis; "The Field of Clover," by Laurence Housman, illustrated by the author; the "Selected Poems of James Clarence Mangan," edited by Louise Imogen Guiney; "The Tompkins Verses," by Barry Pain; a pretty edition of "Shakespeare's Sonnets," illustrated by Ospovat; and a new volume of "The Rubayyat," by Mrs. Cadell, with an introduction by Dr. Garnett. Richard Le Gallienne will have three new books: a study and criticism of Rudyard Kipling, "The Worshipper of the Image," said to be "a tragic fairy tale," and "Sleeping Beauty and Other Prose Fancies;" and also a fifth revised edition of his study of George Meredith. Dr. S. R. Maitland, of Lambeth, will have an exhaustive study of "The Reformation in England," and Prof. Charles Waldstein will discuss a subject of current importance in "The Expansion of Western Ideals and the World's Peace." In fiction there will be several new books, representing such writers as John Buchan, George Egerton, Mrs. Anna Eichberg King, and others, full titles being given in our classified list under that heading. Children will find delight in the new edition of Gulliver, revised and expurgated, with illustrations by Herbert Cole; in the charming volume of La Fontaine's "Fable," with a hundred of Billinghurst's characteristic drawings; and in the reissue of the charming "Walter Crane Toy-Books," devoted to "Baby's A B C," "Sleeping Beauty," and "Bluebeard;" while in addition, there are two new fairy-books, "The Other Side of the Sun," by Evelyn Sharp, and "Suitors of Aprille," illustrated by Charles Robinson.

LEE & SHEPARD have made preparations to bring out gift-books and juveniles in generous measure. "For Love's Sweet Sake," edited by G. Hembert Westley, contains selected poems of love in every mood and will be made an artistic gift-book with decorative designs, rich cover, and all the accessories of a fine book. "The Annals of My College Life" will be illustrated and designed by Frances Freiot Gilbert, and contain rich blank paper on which a girl absent from home can record all about her arrival at college, her chums, fads, spreads, and vacations. This will make a very handsome book for young men to give to their girl acquaintances at college. "Camping on the St. Lawrence; or, On the Trail of the Early Discoverers," by Everett T. Tomlinson, although intended for boys, is worthy of mention among adult literature. Seven new volumes will be added to the uniform edition of Amanda M. Douglas' books, making twenty-three titles in the set. The more important juveniles include "An Undivided Union," begun by Oliver Optic as the sixth and last volume in the Blue and Gray Series, and finished by Edward Stratemeyer, who has also prepared "Under Otis in the Philippines" for the fourth volume of the Old Glory Series, and "To Alaska for Gold" for the third volume of the Bound to Succeed Series. In "Henry in the War" General O. O. Howard tells the story of a model volunteer during the Civil War. This is a companion story to the same author's "Donald's School Days," of which there is to be a thoroughly revised edition, with new illustrations, by A. B. Shute. W. Gordon Parker has written "Grant Burton the Runaway," a companion story to "Six Young Hunters;" and several books suitable for boys are to be added to the American Boys' Series. The preparation for girls has been most successful. "The House with Sixty Closets," by Frank S. Child, tells of strange things that happened in an old New England home the night before Christmas, a story founded on fact; "Told Under the Cherry Tree," by Grace Le Baron, relates the adventures of an orphan boy and a motherless girl in the author's most delicate vein; "Wee Lucy's Secret" is Sophie May's fourth volume in the Little Prudy's Children Series; "We Four Girls," by Mary G. Darling, is a bright, healthy story of a summer vacation; and "Beck's Fortune," by Adele E. Thompson, is intended specially for older girls, and sparkles with humor and interesting happenings.

LENTILHON & Co., New York City, will add to their series of Handbooks for Practical Workers in Church and Philanthropy "Young People's Societies," by Leonard Woolsey Bacon; and "Revivals and Missions," by J. Wilbur Chapman, pastor of Bethany Church, Philadelphia.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. have in preparation a long list of books in varied fields. Biography seems especially favored, a first place here being accorded to Sidney Fisher's study of "The True William Penn," issued in companion form to his "True Benjamin Franklin," with numerous illustrations. Prof. F. P. Stearns has prepared a "Life of Bismarck," viewing the Iron Chancellor from an original vantage-point; Edmond Rostand's study of the art and personality of Sarah Bernhardt has been translated by G. A. Raper, and will have over fifty illustrations showing the great French actress in many rôles; while Pike's volume on "Cromwell and His Time," and Sir John Naughton's contribution to naval biography, "Twelve Great Sailors: Howard to Nelson," carry the list over from America, Germany, and France into England. History holds its own also. It will include a "History of Pre-Columbian America," by Rev. P. De Roo; William Meigs' study of "The Growth of the Constitution;" and the terrible dramatic record of "Robespierre and the Red Terror." The would-be traveller may range far lands at will through the medium of the Lippincott books. "Bohemian Paris" will be depicted for him in words by W. C. Morrow and in pencil by Edouard Cucuel; he may wander in "The Heart of Asia" with Skrine and Ros; he may visit "Intimate China" with Mrs. Archibald Little, or "The Homes and Haunts of the English Pilgrims" with Dr. Alexander Mackennel, or "Jerusalem" with Walter Besant and E. H. Palmer; he may go for change of climate from Knox Little's "Sketches and Studies in South Africa" to the great "Russian Province of the North," and may learn, through William Kirk's "The Klondyke," how men make and fail to make fortunes among Alaska's snow-covered mines. In all these the value of good pictures has been recognized, and pencil and camera have been laid under tribute. Among these books, too, perhaps, should stand that amazing narrative of "The Adventures of Louis de Rougemont," now to be issued in a handsome volume, the veracity of which, in its serial publication, was so burning a question that the Royal Geographical Society was divided, and the supporters and antagonists of M. de Rougemont are not yet at peace. In "Salons, Colonial and Republican," Anne Hollingsworth Wharton adds another volume to her records of the past, telling of the social functions of those stately days and of the men and women who ruled in the polite world, and whose portraits and miniatures give the text an added interest. Friends of literature will note with pleasure the four attractive volumes devoted to "Old English Ballads;" the fine three-volume edition of Shelley; Montesquieu's "Persian Tales" in new guise; and the "Imitation" of A'Kempis in a dainty illustrated form; while both from the literary and the ethnological point of view strong interest attaches to Charles M. Skinner's compilation of "Myths and Legends of Our New Possessions," in which Spanish, Cuban, and Indian superstitions are curiously mingled. For lovers of sport there will be "A Manual of Coaching," by Fairman Rogers; "Our Lady of the Green," a book on golf for women; and a revised and enlarged edition of "Know Your Own Ship;" while the nature student will find satisfaction and suggestion in Mr. Skinner's sympathetic study of "Flowers in the Pane." Fiction is represented by a long list, the titles in which will be found in our classified list elsewhere in this issue. Among them, however, should be mentioned "The Dancing Master," by Adrien Chulot, translated by Pauline Sill; "A Green Mariner," by Howard I. Ireland; "The Shadow of Quong Long," a striking story of the Chinese quarter of San Francisco, by Dr. C. W. Doyle; "A New Race Diplomatist," a story of the American colony in Paris, by Mrs. Jennie B. Waterbury; "The Last Rebel," by Joseph Altsheler; "The Fox-Woman," John Luther Long's characteristic little romance of Japan; "When Rogues Fall Out," by Joseph Hatton; "Ridan the Devil," short stories, by Louis Becke; "A Man, His Mark," by W. C. Morrow, author of the grewsome and fantastic tales "The Ape, the Idiot, and the People;" a pretty five-volume edition of Dickens' "Christmas Stories;" "A Queen of Atlantis," a romance of the Caribbean Sea, by Frank Aubrey; and "The Wreck of the Conemaugh," a new sea-tale, by T. Jenkins Hains. For boys and girls there is likewise full provision. "Mother Goose" will be redi- vivus in a handsome volume, with 250 illustrations by F. Opper; George Gibb will have a volume of hero-tales of the American Navy, entitled "Pike and Cutlass;" there will be an edition of "Pilgrim's Progress for Young Folks;" Frank Stockton has a new book for boys, "The Young Master of Hyson Hall;" and the list contains, in addition, "Miss Vanity," by Amy E. Blanchard; "My Lady Frivol," by Rosa Carey; "The Brahmin's Treasure," by G. A. Henty; "The Spy in the School," by Andrew Horne; and the pretty little volumes of Ouida's "Bimbi Stories for Children." All will be fully illustrated and attractive in letter as well as in spirit. As usual, this house will make additions to its technical and medical publications, these titles being given in our classified list under the headings Arts and Sciences and Medicine and Hygiene.

LITTLE, BROWN & CO. will have in "The Art Life of William Morris Hunt," by Helen M. Knowlton, a work of great interest in its relations to American art. Miss Knowlton, who was for years one of Hunt's pupils, and kept a record of much of his brilliant and suggestive talk, writes of the eminent painter with enthusiasm and knowledge, tracing the development of his work and giving special attention to his companionship with Corot and Millet, while many full-page reproductions of his paintings will add at once to the beauty and significance of the work. This house has arranged for several fine editions of worthy books. Parkman's "Montcalm and Wolfe" will be put in a rich Illustrated Holiday edition, with many fine photogravures, including pictures by Howard Pyle, historical views and portraits, and illustrated title-pages; "Three Normandy Inns," Anna Bowman Dodd's fascinating narrative of travel, will be adorned with many full-page and text illustrations, finely printed, and bound in white and gold; "The Three Musketeers," in two stately volumes, with historical portraits, photogravures, and etchings by Garrett, Oudart, and other artists, will be welcomed by many romance lovers; a new artistic edition will be made of Garrett's favorite collection of "Elizabethan Songs, 'In Honour of Love and Beautie,'" with its many beautiful illustrations; and in companion form with this latter volume will be "Victorian Songs, Lyrics of the Affections and Nature," also gathered and pictured by Mr. Garrett, with an introduction by Edmund Gosse, both volumes being models of artistic care, good taste, and mechanical excellence. There will be an interesting array of new books in varied fields. Lafcadio Hearn has a new volume upon his chosen subject, dealing with fresh aspects of life and letters, "In Ghostly Japan;" in history Ezra Hoyt Byington will supplement his previous study of Puritan environment with a volume devoted to "The Puritan as a Colonist and a Reformer," in which the psychological and spiritual side of Puritan character is seen as influencing the work of colonization; and Captain A. T. Mahan will draw some striking "Lessons from the Spanish War;" while biography and literature find representation in Lilian Whiting's new volumes, "Kate Field," a loving record of a full and eager life, and "A Study of Elizabeth Barrett Browning," in which Mrs. Browning's poems are studied as the reflex of her personality; and in Miss Wormeley's translation and compilation of "The Personal Opinions of Balzac." Poetry and fiction find fair representation. Gertrude Hall will have a volume of new poems, including also some of her best-known verses, entitled "The Age of Fairygold;" "The Night Has a Thousand Eyes," F. W. Bourdillon's famous lyric, will give title to a volume including that and other of his poems; Mrs. Louise Chandler Moulton will add to her previous works a new book of sonnets and lyrics, to be called "At the Wind's Will;" "Out of the Nest: A Flight of Verse" will bring forward the name of Mary McNeil Fenollosa; while the names of an earlier day will be kept green by the charming volume of "Poems by Keats and Shelley," illustrated by E. H. Garrett, and the Handy Volumes edition of the poems of Christina and Dante Gabriel Rossetti and of Keats. There will be a pleasant romance by Mary Devereux, set in the quaint old town of Marblehead in the days when America changed "From Kingdom to Colony;" "The Bronze Buddha," by Cora Linn Daniels, will be a tale of Oriental mysticism set in the unmystical surroundings of modern New York; "Knights of the Cross" is the strong title chosen for Sienkiewicz's new romance of Poland and Germany, in Curtin's translation; "Irresistible Links" will be a volume of short stories by Selma Lagerlöf; "File No. 113" will be the initial volume in a series of entirely new translations of the famous detective stories of Gaboriau including especially those dealing with the immortal "M. Lecoq"; Sheppard Evans makes an essay in historic fiction with "The Sword of Justice," dealing with the tragic story of those Huguenot settlers massacred in Florida, for whose fate stern vengeance was wreaked by Dominic de Gourgues in the early days of the New World; and there will be a translation of Perez Goldos' stirring romance of "Saragossa," telling of the siege of that Spanish city under Napoleon. New editions will comprise Bourget's "Pastels of Men," in Miss Wormeley's translation, compacted into one volume; the Pennells' sprightly record of their pilgrimage "To Rome on a Tricycle;" Drake's "Historic Mansions and Highways Around Boston," being a revision of his "Old Landmarks and Historic Fields of Middletown;" and Mabel Loomis Todd's "Total Eclipses of the Sun," which include additional matter of importance. Additions will be made to the fine library editions of Daudet, Lever, and Edward Everett Hale; the Centenary edition of Balzac will be completed, and Ingraham's three well-known volumes, forming the Prince of the House of David Series, will be put in a new illustrated edition. "Salads, Sandwiches, and Chafing-dish Dainties," by Janet Mackenzie Hill, while not perhaps classifiable in literature, will appeal to the civilized man and woman who "cannot live without cooks," and will prove indispensable to the student of homekeeping. There will be a dozen or more good books for young people: "The Island Impossible," by Harriet Morgan, is an "Alice in Wonderland" tale of fanciful adventures; "A Flower of the Wilderness" will tell of Massachusetts in old colonial days, as viewed by A. G. Plympton; J. Macdonald Oxley has a stirring tale in "With Fife and Drum at Louisbourg;" "Madam Mary at the Zoo" is another of Miss Wesselhoeft's animal books; and such writers as Gertrude Smith, Mary P. Wells Smith, the author of "Miss Toosey's Mission," and Evelyn Raymond are represented by new books, the titles of which are fully given in the classified list under the heading Juvenile.

LONGMANS, GREEN & CO have a varied list of announcements, especially strong perhaps in English history and politics, theology and literature. A special timely interest attaches to the history of "The River War," through which Enlgand under Kitchener regained sovereignty of the Soudan a year ago. This will be told by Winston Spencer Churchill, who served in the two campaigns, and who combines exact military knowledge with dramatic power; it will be edited by Col. F. Rhodes, and will have many maps and illustrations from drawings by Lieut. Angus McNeil. A valuable supplement to Mr. Churchill's book will be the "Redemption of Egypt," by W. Basil Worsfold, who reviews the work of political and industrial development slowly making its way in the Khedive's empire. English home politics has given material for an historical sketch of "The English Radicals," by C. B. Roylance Kent, tracing the evolutions of so-called radical principles; Bishop Creighton's study of "Queen Elizabeth" will be reissued in library style; and a new volume in the Builders of Greater Britain Series will be devoted to "Admiral Philips and the Founding of New South Wales," by Louis Becke and Walter Jeffery. New cheaper editions will be brought out of Burke's "History of Spain" and Corbett's "Drake and the Tudor Navy," while the list of historical publications is rounded out with "The County Palatine of Durham," by Guillard Thomas Lapsley, in the Harvard Historical Studies. In biography there will be new volume in the excellent Masters of Medicine Series devoted to the life of "Claude Bernard," by Sir Michael Foster, and Emily J. Chimeson has edited "Passages from the Diaries of Mrs. Philip Lybbe Powys of Hardwick House, Oxon, 1756–1808." Literature in general finds fair reprentation. There will be a new historical novel, entitled "Parson Kelly," by A. E. W. Mason and Andrew Lang; Rider Haggard will have a departure from his familiar themes in "A Farmer's Year," being a "commonplace book for 1898" with many photogravure and half-tone illustrations; "Peaks and Pines," by J. A. Lees, will be "another Norway book," picturing the beauties of that northern land with pen and camera; while the handsome library editions of Whyte-Melville and Henry Kingsley will be welcomed by the many friends of these old favorites. For the devotee of pawns and rooks a work of great interest is promised in "Mr. Blackburne's Games at Chess," in which the chess champion gives examples of his skill, with annotations and biographical appendixes. Andrew Lang, in addition to his joint essay in fiction, previously noted, shows his versatility again in a new translation of "The Homeric Hymns," with critical introductions, and in a new "color" book—"The Red Book of Animal Stories," being a companion to last year's "Animal Story-Book." Other holiday juveniles comprise "Yuletide Yarns," edited by Henty; "The Prince's Story-Book," edited by G. L. Gomme; and a new "Golliwog" book, in which Florence and Bertha Upton depict "The Golliwogg in War." In religious literature there will be notable additions, first place being accorded to the Oxford Library of Practical Theology, in which Canon Newbolt's exposition of "Religion" will be followed by Dr. Darwell Stone on "Holy Baptism" and Bishop Hall on "Confirmation." There are also "The Doctrine of St. John," by Walter Lowrie; "With God in the World," a series of papers by Dr. Charles Brent; and "New Testament Churchmanship," by Bishop Satterlee, of Washington. This firm will also make additions to its standard medical, educational, and scientific publications, titles of which may be found elsewhere in our Classified List under the appropriate headings.

THE LOTHROP PUBLISHING COMPANY have just issued some very interesting books for the fall trade. Elbridge S. Brooks, whose excellent work in making history palatable for young people has earned him a widespread reputation, this year supplies "The True Story of Lafayette, the Friend of America," the sixth in his series of Children's Lives of Great Men; "In Blue and White," dealing with the American Revolution; and "The Story of our War with Spain," an authentic, up-to-date, and reliable account of the war for Cuban liberation in 1898. "Pansy" (Mrs. G. R. Alden) has written "A Modern Sacrifice," a story of a sweet girl called Kirsie Gordon, and "Yesterday Framed in To-day," a story of the Christ as he would appear to-day in this world of railroads, telephones, electric lights, etc. Marion Harland tells a delightful story of Virginia life in the forties, under the title "When Grandma Was New;" and Margaret Sidney (Mrs. Lothrop) introduces old friends anew in "The Stories Polly Pepper Told." A story of Santiago is told by William O. Stoddard, under the title "The Despatch Boat of the Whistle;" Augusta Hale Gifford has written a popular history of Germany, published as "Germany: Her People and Their Story;" "Captain Kodak" is a story of a photographer and his friends, by Alexander Black; "Shine Terrill," is a Sea Island ranger, by Kirk Munroe; and "Tales of the Maylayan Coast," are the work of Rounsvelle Wildman, Consul-General of the United States at Hong Kong.

A. C. MCCLURG & CO. announce several new books by authors whose names are a guarantee of excellent workmanship. Mary Imlay Taylor has written "The House of the Wizard," a story of English life in the time of King Henry VIII., written with the same knowledge and skill which produced "The Red Staircase." "An Imperial Lover," and "A Yankee Volunteer;" and Marguerite Bouvet in "Tales of an Old Chateau," illustrated by Helen Maitland Armstrong, tells through the person of a delightful grandmother some touching incidents of the French Revolution, of which the old chateau now inhabited by her grandchildren was the scene. Those who remember the success of "Sweet William," "A Child of Tuscany," and "Prince Tip-Top" will not be afraid to stock their shelves with the new volume. Margaret W. Morley, who in "The Bee People" has described bees for the young, now will put her learning in the science of agriculture into a book for adults, to be called "The Honey-Makers;" Katharine Tynan has described "The Dear Irish Girl," who is a gently bred and winsome maiden; and Elizabeth

Wormeley Latimer, whose histories of the nineteenth century in various countries have been among the best-selling books of successive seasons, this year will furnish "From Cyrus to Titus, 537 B.C.–70 A.D." Mary Fisher, whose "Group of French Critics" was universally praised, will bring out "A General Survey of American Literature," a critical and biographical account of all that is permanently valuable in our literature; Frances Weston Carruth will publish a wholesome story, entitled "Those Dale Girls," and Byron A. Dunn, author of "General Nelson's Scout," will have ready in "General Thomas' Staff" a well-written contribution to the literature of the Civil War. The publishers have also in preparation a daintily made edition of a selection by Bertram Dobell from the works of James Thomson, to be entitled "The City of Dreadful Night and Other Poems."

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY announce upward of 100 books which will take their places in every department of literature. They will control biographies of two of the wisest men who have lived in the nineteenth century, Pope Leo XIII. and Abraham Lincoln. F. Marion Crawford has had much of the material needed for his personal study of the Pope and of the conditions which he controls and which control him put at his disposal by the Papal authorities. His work must throw light upon the last twenty years in England, France, Germany, and America, where the changes in the Catholic temporal policy have had far-reaching effects. Norman Hapgood will give as intimate a story of Lincoln's life as possible. "The Man of the People" is his sub-title, and throughout he will look upon Lincoln as the incarnation of the spirit of democracy. "Cardinal Newman as Anglican and Catholic" will be the Edmund Sheridan Purcell's companion work to his "Life of Cardinal Manning," which caused such intense excitement, and the same fearless criticism will no doubt be directed to the part taken by the great English statesman and Catholic Cardinal in the epoch-making developments in English church life during the forties and early fifties. "Drake and His Yeomen" will be written by James Barnes; the "Life and Letters of Archbishop Benson," edited by his son, is nearly ready; and Clement Scott, the veteran dramatic critic, has written his "Autobiography," which will gather up much otherwise ungettable information concerning actors, journalists, and public men who have lived during the latter half of the century. Five new volumes will be added to the Foreign Statesmen series: "Louis XI," by G. W. Prothero; "Ferdinand the Catholic," by E. Armstrong; "Mazarin," by Arthur Hassall; "Catherine II," by J. B. Bury, editor of the series; and "Louis XIV," by H. O. Wakeman; and the tenth and concluding volume of "Pepys' Diary" will appear at once. There will also be biographies by Henry Irving, Millais, Francis Lieber, and Edward Thring, full titles of which must be looked for in the preceding list under Biography, Correspondence, etc.; and there will also be found a list of new editions of biographies with changes of price and new editorial work, among which are the "Life of Gladstone," "A Critical Study of Shakespeare," and "The Letters of Mrs. Elizabeth Barrett Browning." An edition in ten volumes of the works of Alfred Tennyson is to include the "Life of Tennyson," by his son. Historical works of great importance are forthcoming. The second volume of Thomas E. Watson's "Story of France" will cover the revolution; H. Morse Stephen's "Syllabus of European History" will appear in a new edition with very valuable bibliographies covering from 1600–1890; and "The Roman History of Appian of Alexandria," has been translated from the Greek by Horace White, and will appear in two volumes, one covering the foreign, the other the civil wars. The last English translation of Appian was made in 1679, and the last in any modern language was the German one of 1831; so that it is a book that has been practically sealed to the readers of this generation. "The Welsh People, Their Origin, Language and History," by John Rhys and David Brynmor Jones, is a very thorough study of the Welsh people, and contains valuable material concerning their constitutional relations to England; a two-volume "History of the British Army" has been written by J. W. Fortescue; the third volume of Albert Bushnell Hart's "American History Told by Contemporaries," will cover "National Expansion, 1783-1845;" and the first volume of a new history by the same author will be "Sources of American History," and will deal with colonial children. Other forthcoming histories and new editions of standard histories are classified in the preceding list under History, while several stories relating to history will be found under Juvenile Literature. Illustrated books of travel and description are in preparation. Alice Morse Earle has treated "Child Life in Colonial Days" in the same happy manner of "Home Life in Colonial Days;" Clifton Johnson will wander with his readers "Among English Hedgerows," and his book will have an introduction by Hamilton W. Mabie; and "Scotland's Ruined Abbeys" will be described by Howard Crosby Butler. Francis W. Kelsey, Professor of Latin in the University of Michigan, has translated "Pompeii, Its Life and Art," from the German of August Mau, of the German Archæological Institute in Rome; and Budgett Meakin has dealt in a minute and comprehensive manner with "The Moorish Empire." For many more announcements in this department the list must be consulted under the heading Travel and Description. The list of forthcoming fiction is long and promising. Crawford's "Via Crucis" will be ready in October; "Miranda of the Balcony," by A. E. W. Mason, author of "Morrice Buckler," has for a hero a young civil engineer, and for scenic background the historic lands of Spain and Morocco; and Emile Zola's new novel "Fruitfulness" (Fécondité) will appear in October and simultaneously German, Italian, Norwegian and Spanish editions will appear in the respective countries speaking those languages. Zola demonstrates in this work that purity of domestic life is the keystone of power and civilization. I. Zangwill's "They That Walk in Darkness" has also been secured by the Macmillans. It is a collection of ghetto tragedies, some of them taking place in America. Other novels and many new editions of successful novels will be found in the classified list under the heading Fiction. To come from romance to stern reality, special attention has been given to the production of new works dealing with Politics, Economics, Sociology, etc. Franklin H. Giddings' "Democracy and Empire" will be ready in November; John B. Clark's "Distribution of Wealth" proves that the division of the product created by organized industry is controlled by natural laws; and the third volume of R. H. Inglis' very valuable "Dictionary of Political Economy" will be out shortly. Allayne Ireland contributes a study of "Tropical Colonization," an especially timely work at the present moment; and William Smart of the University of Glasgow, writes of "The National Income and Its Distribution." Gustav Le Bon has written "The Psychology of Socialism;" and George Tarde's "Social Laws" have been translated by Howard C. Warren. A list of text books of phenomenal length may be consulted in the classified list under the heading Education, Language, etc.; very valuable works are entered under Arts and Sciences; as also under "Physical and Mathematical Sciences, Medicine and Hygiene and Religion and Philosophy. For young people the preparations are rich, and the books provided for teaching history, literature and the natural sciences by means of entertaining stories, embellished by artistic pictures, must be looked for under Juvenile Literature. Every department of the list contains Macmillan books; and under Literary Miscellany, Collected Works, etc., some rare treasures may be found, for the name of Macmillan stands beyond all else for true literature.

JOHN JOS. MCVEY, Philadelphia, has ready a revised edition of Robert Riddell's "The New Elements of Hand-Railing," containing forty-one plates, thirteen of which are now for the first time represented, which, with accompanying letter-press, give a complete elucidation of the art of stair-building.

M. F. MANSFIELD & A. WESSELS will issue "In the Poe Circle," by Joel Benton, an undoubted authority upon the literature contemporaneous with Poe and his times, and a new edition, with additions of "Emerson as a Poet," to which a bibliography is added brought down to date, also the work of Joel Benton. A dainty gift-book will be made of Dean Farrar's "Westminster Abbey;" and Stanley's "The Poet's Corner," that wonderful historical account of the monuments in the Abbey, which will form a valuable book of reference as well as a holiday volume of rare merit. An édition de luxe will be made of Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland" and "Through the Looking-Glass," with twenty-four illustrations in color from an entirely new series of drawings made for the volumes by Blanche McManus, who also shows fine work in "The Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám," and in "The True Mother Goose," of which the text is the original edition first brought out in Boston in 1719. From this firm may also be expected "Book-plates in Miniature;" a revised edition of Alessandro Filippini's "How to Buy Food, How to Cook It, and How to Serve It," to which a supplement is added; "Concerning Teddy," a new book about children, by Mrs. Murray Hickson; "Ivory, Apes, and Peacocks," a book on the productions of India, by "Israpel;" "London and Londoners;" "The Poet's Corner," a reminiscence of Westminster Abbey, by Francesca Regula; and "Sparks and Flames," by Henry W. Stratton. Kipling will be represented by "A Calendar of Kipling's Beasts," ribbon-tied and boxed; "The Kipling Calendar for 1900;" "A Kipling Note-Book," a periodical with illustrations devoted to Kiplingiana; and a series of bibliographical and biographical facts about Kipling and selections from his works to be entitled "Kiplingiana;" Blanche McManus has prepared "A Smoker's Calendar;" and "Kipling's Beasts," twelve drawings of the jungle beast, which are also used in the calendar mentioned above.

MAYNARD, MERRILL & CO. announce that after several years of preparation they are about to publish a series of school readers under the educational supervision of Henry Pratt Judson, dean of the colleges of arts, literature, and science of the University of Chicago, and Dr. Ida C. Bender, Supervisor of Primary Grades in the public schools of Buffalo, N. Y. These readers will contain a number of colored pictures. They will also issue "Illinois: Its State and Local Government," by Harry Judson Pratt," "The Class Speller," a primary word-book; and new additions to Maynard's English Classic Series, for separate titles of which consult the classified list elsewhere under the heading Education, Language, etc.

G. & C. MERRIAM have just issued "Webster's Collegiate Dictionary," supplying the need for an abridged dictionary which shall be full, accurate, and authoritative, well adapted to the requirements of the scholar, yet practical enough for the business man and the journalist. It is a handsome, well-bound volume of 1116 pages, 948 of which are devoted to the vocabulary proper, and its size, convenient for easy reference, combined with its fulness and reliability, make it a most useful and desirable dictionary for the busy man and the student. The "Collegiate Dictionary" has one feature that is peculiarly its own—that is, the Glossary of Scottish Words and Phrases in the Appendix. Other important and instructive features of this Appendix are a Pronouncing Vocabulary of Scripture, Greek, and Latin Proper Names, with Modern Geographical and Biographical Names; a newly revised Vocabulary of Rhymes, and a list of English Christian Names with foreign equivalents.

THE MERSHON COMPANY, New York City, announce "The Temptation of Olive Latimer," a new book from the pen of Mrs. L. T. Meade, whose books for girls are models of their kind. These volumes, which, taken together, will be known as The Flag of Freedom Series, are by Captain Ralph Bonehill, and are separately entitled: "When Santiago Fell; or, The War Adventures of Two Chums;" "A Sailor Boy with Dewey; or, Afloat in the Philippines;" and "Off for Hawaii; or, The Mystery of a Great Volcano." Together they will give boys quite an idea of the Spanish-American War and the annexation of Hawaii. Another series on their list will be known as The Rover Boys Series, and consists of three books by Arthur M. Winfield. "The Rover Boys at School" is now ready, and will shortly be followed by "The Rover Boys on the Ocean" and "The Rover Boys in the Jungle," dealing with adventures in Africa.

THOMAS B. MOSHER, Portland, Me., has in preparation choice and limited editions of all manner of standard, classic, and privately printed books. To the Old World Series he will add "The Story of Ide," an epitaph on an Etrurian tomb, by Francesca Alexander, with a preface by John Ruskin; "A Child's Garden of Verses," by Stevenson; "Monna Innominata," sonnets and songs, by Christina Rossetti; and "The Tale of Chloe," an episode in the history of Beau Beamish, by George Meredith. Five new additions will also be made to the Brocade Series: "The Tale of Emperor Constans," by William Morris, and the same writer's "The History of Over Sea;" "Emerald Uthwart," by Walter Pater; "Hours of Spring and Wild Flowers," by Richard Jefferies; "Will o' the Mill," by Robert Louis Stevenson; and "Marjorie Fleming," by John Brown. To the Reprints of Privately Printed Books will be added "Wine, Women, and Song," Latin students' songs of the Middle Ages, translated by John Addington Symonds; and "Under the Microscope," by Algernon Charles Swinburne. This author's "Laus Veneris" will be brought out as a companion volume to "The Germ." It will include the entire text of "Poems and Ballads," and also Swinburne's rare pamphlet defence—"Notes on Poems and Ballads," published in 1866; also a very full bibliography and a reproduction of Rossetti's portrait of the then youthful poet.

THE JOHN MURPHY COMPANY, Baltimore, will bring out two dramas, specially intended for representation in Catholic Institutions: "Portia, the Daughter of Pilate," a drama in five acts, by the Very Rev. F. Felix, deals with the household of Pontius Pilate at the time of the Crucifixion; and "The Sheperdess of Lourdes; or, The Blind Princess," by the same author, treats of the wonderful cures of our Lady of Lourdes. An excellent book for history clubs is "Characteristics of the Early Church," by Rev. J. J. Burke. The chapters on the catacombs and on the liturgy of the Catholic Church are full of information. A new large type Bible, translated from the Latin Vulgate, has been prepared at the request of many people, and is furnished with colored maps.

F. TENNYSON NEELY is publishing with great rapidity. His announcements are chiefly novels, and full titles may be found in the classified list under the heading Fiction. Five of the books of Henryk Sienkiewicz have been boxed, and will make an acceptable Christmas offering. The discourses Dr. Madison Peters delivered in his church in New York City are just issued under the title of "Justice to the Jew."

THOMAS NELSON & SONS have secured a new India paper, on which they are printing a new series of "Teachers'," "Reference," and "Text Bibles." The "Reference Bibles" which were issued recently commanded a large sale, on account of the opaqueness of the paper, the high class of the printing, the beauty of the binding, and the thinness of the book. During the past year they have increased their lines and have added the D'Ostervald version of "Le Nouveau Testament Illustré," a new series of "Long Primer 8vo Self-Pronouncing Teachers' Bibles," "Reference Bibles," "Text Bibles," and "Testaments," from entirely new plates. The pronunciation adopted in these Bibles and the diacritical markings used to express it are based upon the "Webster's International Dictionary," latest edition, which will be found a great convenience, as these markings are familiar to almost every reader. The character of the "helps" of "Nelson's Teachers' Bible," which contains the very latest biblical researches written in the most attractive style by the leading scholars of America and Great Britain is well known. These "Teachers' Bibles" are bound in styles to meet the want of all students and readers of the Bible. The publishers announce a new India paper edition of their "Teachers' Bible," and have in preparation a new series of "Text Bibles," also on India paper. Rapid progress is being made with the American Standard edition of the "Revised Bible," which will be fully equipped with references by the members of the American Revision Committee, and will show all the corrections and alterations to the present time. This edition will be issued with the attestation of the American Revisers. In Prayer-Books and Hymnals the publishers have their usual large variety, to which they have added some very choice and exclusive styles of binding. They have also a very attractive list of new books, which includes a new historical tale, "The Heir of Halcombe Hall," by the well-known writer, E. Everett Green; two new books by Herbert Hayens, a favorite writer for boys, "A Vanished Nation" and "A Captain of Irregulars;" "A Tale of Two Terms, Mobsley's Mohicans," by Harold Avery; "A Tale of the Afghan War, Tom Graham, V. C.," by William Johnston; "A Legend of Old Grimsby and Lincoln, Havelock the Dane," by C. H. Whistler; "Phill and I," by Paul Blake; and "The Bible Alphabet," with sixteen colored illustrations. The first volume of the series of the New Century Library of Standard Fiction, "The Pickwick Papers," is just issued. It is splendidly printed from long primer type on India paper. The paper is opaque and so thin that this volume, containing 846 pages, makes a book less than half an inch in thickness—a most convenient size for the pocket. The New Century Library will no doubt have a very large sale.

THE NEW AMSTERDAM BOOK COMPANY will publish extensively this fall, and many of the works in preparation promise to take their place among standard literature. There are to be Oxford editions bound in plain cloth, and in three-quarter levant of the poetical works of Robert Burns, Lord Byron, Walter Scott, and Wordsworth, and also of the "Plays and Poems of Shakespeare," set in large, new type and printed on Bible paper, reducing the weight and bulk of the work and making it a volume to be held comfortably and to be read without fatigue to the eyes. Other announcements of literary importance include "Curious Epitaphs," compiled by W. H. Howe; new editions of Edgar Allan Poe's "Arthur Gordon Pym," "The Gold Bug," and "Murders of the Rue Morgue;" and "Sir Gawain and the Green Knight," abridged, in prose, by Jessie L. Weston, from the Middle-English poem and furnished with title-page design and chapter headings by M. M. Crawford. The department of Fine Arts will be represented by "The Amateur's Guide to Photography;" "The Legend of the Christmas Rose," by A. O'D. Bartholyns, the story of the Wise Men and the first Christmas morn, illustrated by Delapoer Downing; "The Musical Birthday-Book," by Kitty Lofting; and "A Guide to Violin Playing," by Tom Taylor. Sports and amusements will have several additions, among the more important being a "Book of Riddles and Conundrums," "The Witty Man's Companion," containing about 300 retorts, rhymes, jests, bulls, puns, etc.; "What Shall I Recite?" containing selections from best authors; "Parlor Games for Winter Evenings," prepared by Miss L. Warner; "How to Play Chess and Draughts," by H. Peachy; and "Nights with an Old Gunner," by C. J. Cornish. In history the new books announced are "The Pupils of Peter the Great," by R. Nisbet Bain, with reproductions of some rare old portraits, throwing much light on a dark and ill-known time and country; "An Exiled Scot," by J. S. Crompton, giving pictures of life at the Cape during the early Dutch occupation; "The History of Corsica," by L. H. Caird, giving an outline of the successive foreign rules Corsica has passed under—Roman, Moorish, Genoese, and French; "Napoleon's Invasion of Russia," by Hereford B. George; and "Mary, Queen of Scots, 1542–1587," in which extracts from the English, Spanish, and Venetian state papers, and from the writings of Buchanan, Knox, Lesley, Melville, etc., have been edited by Robert S. Raib, exhibitioner of New College, Oxford. Fiction will be well represented. For complete titles in this department the classified list must be consulted under the heading Fiction. Of special interest in this line will be Harry Collingwood's "Pirate of the Caribbees," B. L. Farjeon's "Samuel Boyd of Catchpole Square," Fergus Hume's "The Expedition of Captain Flick," A. W. Marchmont's "A Dash for a Throne," George Ohnet's "Love's Depths," and new editions of the novels of F. E. Smedley in three volumes; and of the novels of Jules Verne in twelve volumes. Of scientific interest will be "Wild Animals in Captivity," by A. D. Bartlett, late superintendent of the Zoological Gardens of Regents Park, compiled and edited by Edward Bartlett, and illustrated by A. Elwes; "A History of Scottish Vernacular," from the earliest times to the close of the eighteenth century, by T. F. Henderson, co-editor with W. E. Henley, of the Centenary Burns; "Seismology," by John Milne, late professor of the science of earthquakes in the Imperial College of Engineering, Tokio, Japan; and Francis Hinde Groome's "Gypsy Folk Tales," which are a valuable contribution to history and the science of languages. The list of the forthcoming publications is not nearly exhausted, but must be looked up in the preceding list. The titles we have not specially mentioned will be found chiefly under Juvenile Literature, Description, Travel, etc., and Education, Language, etc., but the whole list should be looked through to make sure of all the announcements of the house.

OPEN COURT PUBLISHING CO. will issue during the fall "Solomon and Solomonic Literature," by Moncure D. Conway, portraying the evolution of the Solomonic legends in the history of Judaism, Christianity, Hinduism, Buddhism, Parseeism, and also in ancient and modern folk-lore; "Science and Faith," by Dr. Paul Topinard, treating of man as an animal and man as a member of society; "History of Modern Philosophy in France," by Prof. L. Levy-Bruhl, with twenty-three half-tone portraits of the chief French philosophers. "The Evolution of General Ideas," by Th. Ribot, in an authorized translation by Frances A. Welby; and "A History of the Devil," by Dr. Paul Carus. A new authorized edition will be issued in the Religion of Science Library of "A Discourse on the Method of Rightly Conducting the Reason and Seeking the Truth in the Sciences," by René Descartes, translated by John Veitch; and also a new reprint edition of Augustus De Morgan's "Elementary Illustrations of the Differential and Integral Calculus," with subheadings and a brief bibliography of English, French, and German textbooks of the calculus. There are also in preparation a "History of Elementary Mathematics," by Dr. Karl Fish; and "A First Book in Organic Evolution," by Dr. D. Kerfoot Shute, with several colored plates and other illustrations.

OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS (American Branch, Henry Frowde) will issue the second volume of the "History of the New World called America," by Edward John Payne, conspicuous even among scholars for his immense and all-pervading erudition. The ethnographic and linguistic characteristics of the aborigines are set forth with painstaking care, and many interesting matters are presented with minuteness of detail. Volumes 4 and 5 of Murray's "New English Dictionary on Historical Principles" are in course of publication, and every new volume confirms the verdict of scholars that it is "the greatest dictionary of modern times." The house will add to its list of British Anthologies "The Spenser Anthology, 1548–1591 A.D.," "The Dryden Anthology, 1675–1700," "The Pope Anthology, 1701–1744," "The Goldsmith Anthology, 1745–1774," and "The Cowper Anthology, 1775–1800." When finished this series will contain about 2500 entire poems and songs written by some 300 poets. But this firm puts its chief strength and almost unlimited resources into the manufacture of Bibles and Prayer-Books. Twenty new copyright editions of the "Genuine 'Oxford' Teachers' Bibles" and innumerable Authorized American editions are ready. The letter-press of these Bibles is remarkably clear and distinct; the "India" paper on which it is printed has wonderful opacity, great toughness and softness, an agreeable tone, and a special quality that makes its pages very easy to turn. There are "Text Bibles," "Reference Bibles," "Workers' Bibles," "Teachers' Bibles," and "Testaments." The "helps" prepared for these teachers' Bibles are prepared by the most eminent biblical scholars of the day, and are revised up to the latest possible date to keep in line with the latest discoveries of science and the latest lights of interpretation. F. N. Peloubet, an authority on the "International Sunday-School Lessons," highly praises the appendix to the "Oxford Helps," and says they are of special value to him in his work of interpretation for teachers and scholars. Exquisite editions of "Prayer-Books and Hymnals" will be the "'Oxford' Elongated Red Rubric Editions," superbly printed on the finest "Oxford" India paper; a new edition is also preparing of the "'Oxford' 48mo Prayer-Book," and the "New 'Oxford' Long Primer 24mo and New Pica 12mo Hymnals and Prayer-Books." A Large-type edition of "The Revised Bible" was recently issued; and the "Original American Revised Bible, 1870–1884," with copyright marginal reference, and the different readings incorporated in the text, is also ready, at almost every price. Bibles of every sort and size, and prayer-books and hymnals of every kind are ready, ranging from 50c. as high as fine bindings and ornamentation can drive them.

THE PACIFIC PRESS PUBLISHING CO., Oakland, California, will issue during October "Desire of Ages," by Mrs. E. G. White; "Natural Food of Man and How to Prepare It," by Mrs. Dr. J. R. Leadsworth; and "A Friend in the Kitchen," by Mrs. W. A. Colcord. They have just issued "The Return of the Jews," by Henry P. Holzer, which has had a circulation of 13,000 copies.

L. C. PAGE & CO. will add to their Court Memoir Series the "Memoirs of Marguerite de Valois, Queen of Navarre," written by herself; to their Art Lover's Series "Saints in Art," by Clara Erskine Clement, and "Christ in Art," by Joseph Lewis French; and to the Stage Lover's Series "Famous Actresses of the Day in America," by Lewis C. Strong, illustrated with twenty-five full-page plates in photogravure and half-tone. To the Music Lover's Series will be added "Famous Violinists of To-day and Yesterday," by Henry C. Lahee, and "The National Music of America and its Sources," by Louis C. Elson; and in the Cap and Gown Series the additions will be "The Poetry of American Wit and Humor," edited by R. L. Paget; and "On Life's Stairway," a book of poems by Frederick Lawrence Knowles. Several forthcoming novels will be found in the preceding classified list under the heading Fiction. In belles-lettres and miscellany the most important announcements are Edward Fitzgerald's "Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám," edited by Edward Heron-Allen; and the Trinity edition of the same masterpiece, and also of "The Bird Parliament," from the Persian of Attár. A long list of books for boys and girls is classified in the preceding list under the heading Juvenile Literature. For the coming holiday season of merry-making "The Cocktail Book," with the latest recipes for the mixing of drinks, will be appropriate. L. C. Page & Co. have many books in preparation, and our classified list must be thoroughly read to find the titles under their name in many of the departments.

THE PENN PUBLISHING CO. will add to their useful series of small Popular Handbooks four new volumes, "A Dictionary of Mythology," by John H. Bechtel; "Law and How to Keep Out of It," by Paschall H. Coggins; "Practical Palmistry," by Henry Frith; and "Dancing," by Marguerite Wilson. They issue three volumes devoted to the plays of Edwin Booth, two being given to the Shakespearean plays, the other to the miscellaneous dramas, all edited, with notes, by William Winter, and containing the actor's original stage directions and abridgments. A book of "Pennsylvania Stories," by Arthur Hobson Quinn, will picture undergraduate life at the University of Pennsylvania; and William Pittenger will have a stirring narrative of adventure in the Civil War, entitled "The Great Locomotive Chase." The usual provision of books for young people includes "Two Wyoming Girls," a story of homesteading in the West, by Mrs. C. L. Marshall; "A Maid of the First Century," a tale of early Christian days, by Lucy Foster Madison; "My Lady Barefoot," by Mrs. Evelyn Raymond, who describes the privations and adventures of a little backwoods heroine; "The Ferry Maid of the Chattahoochie," by Annie M. Barnes; "On Woodcove Island," a story in which the poet Longfellow figures, by E. S. Brooks; "The Young Gold Seekers," and their Alaskan adventures, by E. S. Ellis; and a simple version of "The Story of the Æneid," by Dr. Edward Brooks.

THE PILGRIM PRESS, Boston, have ready for fall publication several new books, for the full titles of which the preceding classified list must be consulted, chiefly under the headings Religion and Philosophy and Juveniles.

JAMES POTT & CO. announce "An Elementary History of the Church in Great Britain," by William Holden Hutton, Fellow of St. John's College, Oxford, and "A History of the Book of Common Prayer," by the Rev. J. H. Maude, of Hertford College, Oxford, both of which will appear in the Oxford Church Text Series. "The Life of De Koven," by the Rev. William C. Pope, and "The History of the Diocese of Tennessee," by Rev. Arthur H. Noll, are full of biographic and historic interest. "Christ and the Catechism," by the Rev. James Street, will be a book of questions, instructions, and thought for teachers; "Points in Church History for Schools and Colleges," with preface by the Rev. Thomas Richey, of the General Seminary, is in its second edition; and "The Trinity Course of Church Instruction," by C. M. Beckwith, will be a useful book for Sunday-schools for the teaching of the Prayer-Book. The publishers have just issued Handel's "Messiah," with words and music, in the Bagster Gem edition, and will shortly publish Mendelssohn's "Elijah" in the same attractive shape. This house controls the Bagster Bibles in this country, and continually adds to its list Bibles in every variety of size, type, and binding. There will also be a Bagster original edition of "Daily Light on the Daily Path," morning and evening parts complete in one volume.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS' announcement for the autumn of 1899 show the publishers specially strong in works of general literature. Among their holiday publications, "Famous Homes of Great Britain and Their Stories," edited by A. H. Malan, and containing nearly 200 illustrations, must find a place. It will give descriptions of twelve homes of England made familiar ground to students of history, such as Alnwick, Blenheim, Cawdor Castle, Holland House, Warwick Castle, etc., written by the Duke of Marlborough, Lady Warwick, Hugh Campbell, the editor, etc. "Browning, Poet and Man," a survey of Elisabeth Luther Cary, will form a companion to the author's similar work on "Tennyson: His Homes, His Friends, and His Works," and will be as fully illustrated with photogravure illustrations. Lyman P. Powell, the competent editor of "Historic Towns of New England," will do the same work for the "Historic Towns of the Middle States," which is to have an introduction by Dr. Albert Shaw. Each town is treated by an expert who can speak authoritatively on the section of country entrusted to him. J. B. Gilder will treat of New York City, Talcott Williams of Philadelphia, Tarrytown will fall to H. W. Mabie, and all the other towns will be equally well taken care of. Bookbuyers have come to look for the yearly volume of Elbert Hubbard's Little Journeys. This year he has visited "Homes of Eminent Painters," and now gathers his twelve reports into one volume; Marion Harland will describe "More Colonial Homesteads and Their Stories," and will also write Literary Hearthstones, the name to be given to sets of little books appearing in pairs, of which the first announced are "Charlotte Brontë and William Cowper," and "Hannah More and John Knox." James Russell Lowell's "Impressions of Spain" will be edited by Joseph B. Gilder, and will have an introduction by A. A. Adee; and Justin H. Smith, Professor of History in Dartmouth College, has prepared a work in two volumes on "The Troubadours at Home," showing the troubadours as the founders of modern literature, modern music, and modern intellectual culture in general. The author presents the poets in action in their own world, singing their own songs in their original forms, but in English. The text will be fully illustrated, chiefly with half-tones from photographs taken by the author, and the volumes will also contain specimens of troubadour music more authentic than any hitherto published out of Italy. It will be a fine work of travel, history, poetry, and romance, based upon thorough investigation. "The True Story of Bluebeard," known to the world chiefly through "The Tales of Mother Goose," will be told by Thomas Wilson, Curator of the Division of Prehistoric Archæology in the U. S. National Museum. Bluebeard has been identified as representing Gilles de Retz, who lived in the first half of the fifteenth century, and fought with Joan of Arc, reaching the dignity of Marshal of France. As studied up by the learned author, this biography will be a valuable addition to the folklore of nations. A series to be known as the Ariel Booklets will comprise Poe's "Gold Bug;" "Rab and His Friends;" "The Culprit Fay;" "Our Best Society," by George William Curtis; "Sonnets from the Portuguese" and "School for Scandal;" and "Rip Van Winkle" and "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," Irving's world-renowned little classics, will be given a most artistic setting, the borders having been designed by Margaret Armstrong and the other illustrations by the artist, Frederick Simpson Colburn. In Travel and Adventure there will be "The Yang-Tse Valley and Beyond," a new work on China, by Mrs. Isabella Bird Bishop; "A Prisoner of the Khaleefa," by Charles Neufeld, who will describe twelve years of captivity at Omdurman; in "Quaint Corners of Ancient Empires" Michael Myers Shoemaker will picture Southern India, Burma, and Manila; and "Travels in Spain," by an anonymous lady, will be reprinted from the second edition, published in 1692, and will have introduction and notes by Archer M. Huntington. A long array of books of great value will be found listed under Arts and Sciences. Of educational value will be "The Student's Imperial Dictionary of the English Language," edited by Rev. E. D. Price. History and Biography will have many additions. New volumes will appear in S. M. Hamilton's edition of "The Writings of James Monroe" and in Gaillard Hunt's edition of "The Writings of James Madison." "Desiderius Erasmus" and "Theodore Beza" will be added to The Heroes of the Reformation Series; "Bismarck," "Charlemagne," and "Alexander the Great" to The Heroes of the Nations Series; and "China" and "Modern Spain" to The Story of the Nations Series. Several interesting works will also be issued in the department of Religion and Philosophy. Lighter literature also is in preparation. Among the forthcoming novels "Love-Letters of a Musician," by Myrtle Reed, which was printed in limited edition last year, but owing to great demand is now issued without restriction; and "The Treasure of Mushroom Rock," a story of prospecting in the Rocky Mountains, by Sidford F. Hamp. To the Hudson Library will be added "Fra Lippo Lippi," a romance of Florence in the fifteenth century, by Margaret Vere Farrington; and "Bearers of the Burden," a book of short stories, by Major W. P. Drury, and many more contributions to romantic literature will be found classified under Fiction. There are also some important additions to the department of Poetry and Drama.

RAND, MCNALLY & CO. will issue early in the season several important works of fiction. "A Married Man," by Frances Aymer Mathews, is a story strong in its dramatic situations, as might be expected from the writer of "Joan d'Arc," so successfully dramatized for the late Fanny Davenport; "In Hampton Roads," by George Eugene Banks and George Cram Cook, will also be dramatized, and is said to present a most important period of United States history; and "The Bondwoman," by Marah Ellis Ryan, will contain a picture of the degradation of women born in bondage that will be soul-stirring and helpful in settling many yet unsettled questions. Among the other books in press the more important are "A Gentleman Juror," by Charles S. Marsh, "In Satan's Realm," by Edgar C. Blum, and "The Romance of Greylock Manor," by Louise F. P. Hamilton.

THE FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY announce books in almost all departments of literature. Among the volumes of essays are "Great Books as Life's Teachers," by Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, now occupying the pulpit of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, who, under this title, has treated Tennyson's "Idylls of the King," "Ruskin's "Seven Lamps of Architecture," George Eliot's "Romola," Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables," Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter," Browning's "Saul," Emerson's "Conduct and Life," Thoreau's "Walden," etc.; "Right Living as a Fine Art," by the same author, a study of ideal character based upon Channing's "Symphony of Life;" and "The Kingship of Self-Control," under which suggestive title will be issued the editorials William George Jordan wrote for the Saturday Evening Post, which greatly added to the circulation of that paper. In biography there will be the third volume of "The Autobiography of Charles H. Spurgeon," Robert E. Spear's "Biography of H. McA. Beaver," and "Forty Years in the Church of Christ," covering a period of that length in the life of Father Chiniquy. Present-day problems will be treated in "Gambling and Betting," a frank talk, by Robert E. Spear, showing the far-reaching ill-effects of these vices, especially upon the college students of the day; "Woman's Possibilities and Limitations," a message to the young women of today, by Rev. Stephen W. Dana; "From Girlhood to Motherhood," by Mary Lowe Dickinson, who has had special opportunities to study the present life, the needs and desires of the young women of our day; and "Life Problems," by Rev. G. Campbell Morgan, whose preaching made such a stir in the Rev. Mr. Moody's camp this summer. Of fiction written to enforce great lessons, the more important works will be "Black Rock, a Tale of the Selkirks," written in the interest of temperance, by Ralph Connor; "In Primo," by a writer known as "Eniled," who lays the plot of her story in America and enforces some much-needed lessons; and Charles M. Sheldon's "Lend a Hand," and "One of the Two," fitting companions of "In His Steps." A great many devotional books and books on Bible study will be found in the preceding classified list under the heading Religion and Philosophy. Among the notable works on mission work will be "Among the Wild Ugoni," chapters in the history of the Livingstone missions in Central Africa, by W. A. Elmslie; "Pioneering in the San Juan," by the Rev. Geo. M. Darley, giving personal reminiscences of work in Southwestern Colorado; and "Nineteen Centuries of Missions," by Mrs. William W. Scudder, a book written specially for young people. For young people there will be a Gift edition of Amy Le Feuvre's "Probable Sons;" and "What the Wind Did," by the same author, will be added to the Looking Upward Booklets. Nellie Hellis has written "Little King Davie," a story founded on a sermon, by Knox-Little; "Three Times Three," by Pansy, will be added to the Stories of Childhood Series; and there are to be a Children Stories Series in twelve volumes, and a Bible Stories Series in six volumes, besides many more books which may be found entered in the preceding list under the heading Juvenile Literature. A long array of miscellaneous books include "The Gist of the Lessons for 1900," by R. A. Torrey; "The Best Short Poems of the Nineteenth Century," edited by William S. Lord; "Between Heathenism and Christianity," by Charles W. Super; Mrs. I. T. Thurston's "The Bishop's Shadow," supposed to tell the story of Bishop Brooks, to whom it is lovingly dedicated; and many, many more books are announced and listed elsewhere under the proper headings. The wall roll for the coming year, compiled by Mrs. Ella J. Mahony, is entitled "Key Notes for Life's Symphony," and consists of texts chosen from the Scriptures on the great themes of joy, praise, faith, and love.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS are preparing several new novels. "One of the Best," by Seymour Hicks and George Edwards, is founded on a successful drama, and its plot has close affinity to the Dreyfus case; "They Laugh That Win" and "The Kingdom of a Heart" are both by Effie Adelaide Rowlands, and are novels of the domestic order; "The Experiences of Dorothy Leigh," by Frances Home, tells the story of a hospital nurse; and "The Scarlet Woman," by Joseph Hocking, is said to be one of the best efforts of this unusully strong writer.

R. H. RUSSELL, New York City, have in preparation a long line of pretty books most suitable for gifts and souvenirs. At the beginning of a theatrical season which promises to be especially successful there is sure to be a call for Maude Adams's edition of "Romeo and Juliet," for "The Only Way," a dramatization of Dickens's "Tale of Two Cities," which is now running at the Herald Square Theatre, New York City; and "Arizona," a new drama by Augustus Thomas. A collection has been made of drawings by the famous German artist, C. W. Allers, and will be brought out before the holidays. The forty-three drawings will appear in lithographic reproductions in size 11 x 15 inches. "Animal Jokes," by Mary Baker-Baker, will be a collection of comic drawings signed with the symmetrical double B familiar to readers of comic papers; and "The King's Lyrics," by Fitz Roy Carrington, will be a collection of poems of the time of James I. and Charles I., to be illustrated with quaint prints of the period, and will be published uniform with "The Queen's Garland," which proved the skill as a compiler possessed by Mr. Carrington. For the chief holiday book will be issued an édition de luxe of C. D. Gibson's "The Education of Mr. Pipp," the large double page cartoons that have delighted the readers of Life for many months; and the same pictures in plainer dress will also be issued. For children will be produced "Three Bears," comic drawings, and "Acrobatic Animals," both by Frank Varbeck; "The Square Book of Animals," by William Nicholson; and "Songs of the Shining Way," child verses, profusely illustrated by Scrali Noble-Ives. To get a full idea of all R. H. Russell is preparing the foregoing list must be consulted, chiefly under the heading Fine Arts. "Kemble's Sketch-Book," Childe Hassam's "Three Cities" (New York, London, and Paris); J. Campbell Phillips's "Plantation Sketches," the society pictures of Malcolm A. Strauss, and many more are there recorded in full. This publisher also puts much money into calendars and booklets, and for 1900 has gotten up most attractive calendars, showing the work of E. W. Kemble, Chester Loomis, E. C. Peixotto, Frederic Remington, Edward Penfield, A. B. Wenzell, Frank Verbeck, and many other favorites. They range in price from 50c. to $2.50, and at whatever price show the mark of finish that is identified with the name of R. H. Russell.

W. B. SAUNDERS, Philadelphia, has several works in press for publication during the fall, of which the full titles are given in the preceding list under the heading Medicine and Hygiene.

THE SCHULTE PUBLISHING COMPANY, Chicago, will issue at once "Uncle Sam's Bible; or, Bible Teachings About Politics," by Rev. James B. Converse, an attempt by an orthodox clergyman of the Presbyterian Church to solve economic questions by means of divine revelations as handed down in the Scriptures, pronounced by those who have read the manuscript to be most successful in its object of correcting errors in the church without encouraging iconoclastic measures.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS' autumn announcements are full of interest and variety, touching many branches of literature. A superb art work will be brought out in Schoener's "Rome," with its 300 full-page illustrations by the best Italian artists, and its beauties of paper, print, and binding. In this volume the charms of the City of the Seven Hills are set forth with a power and an elaboration that must impress the most untravelled reader, while for those who know the scenes and characteristics so graphically depicted it will have a double attractiveness. In a different field of art will be "Peter Paul Rubens: His Life and Work," a lavishly illustrated biography of the great Flemish artist, similar in style to the previous biographies of Rembrandt, Corregio, and Da Vinci, but richer in detail and in illustrations; "British Contemporary Artists," by Cosmo Monkhouse, will consist of a series of critical and descriptive chapters dealing with the work of Burne-Jones, Watts, Alma-Tadema, Millais, Leighton, Orchardson and Poynter, illustrated with a profusion, perfection, and care that will make it one of the finest and most notable of the season's art works; while in "Nicholas Poussin: His Life and Work," Elizabeth H. Denio reviews and analyzes the qualities of this great painter of the seventeenth century, adding fresh material to the record of his work and seeking to measure that work by a juster standard than has been accorded it. A charming holiday gift-book will be made of George W. Cable's fine novel, "The Grandissimes," to be illustrated with twelve full-page drawings and numerous head and tail pieces by Alfred Herter, and issued, with a cover design by Mr. Herter, in style similar to the holiday edition of "Old Creole Days" published two years ago; in addition to the regular issue there will be a special limited edition printed on Japan paper. The term "gift-book," so far as it indicates artistic beauty, may also be applied to "Santa Claus' Partner," a tender little Christmas story, by Thomas Nelson Page, with eight colored illustrations by Glackens; to "Fisherman's Luck and Other Uncertain Things," Dr. Henry van Dyke's new book of outdoor essays and sketches, for which Sterner, Smedley, Relyea, and French have made many full-page drawings; to "The Trail of the Sandhill Stag," a beautiful prose idyll of forest creatures, by Ernest Seton Thompson, who has made for the story seven full-page colored illustrations and many marginal drawings and devices; and to "Bob: the Story of a Mocking-Bird," in which Sidney Lanier tells of the adventures and joys of his pet mocking-bird in a manner that combines literary charm with a certain humorous philosophy, while the colored illustrations, portraying a mocking-bird in all stages of its growth, have both artistic and scientific value. There will be noteworthy additions to literature proper. Donald S. Mitchell's new volume on "American Lands and Letters" will cover the period from "Leather Stocking" to Poe's "Raven," and will give intimate and incisive characterization to a score of the foremost names in American literary history—Hawthorne, Emerson, Holmes, Thoreau, Lowell, Poe—the text being accompanied by many excellent portraits, views, and facsimiles; the two volumes of "The Letters of Robert Louis Stevenson," edited by Sidney Colvin fully illustrated by Peixotto and Guerin, and containing many rare facsimiles, will be a delight to all lovers of literature, not only in their personal revelation of the buoyant, joyous, impressionable genius, but in the glimpses they give of other literary figures and as documents depicting the evolution of a great writer; "The Letters of Sidney Lanier" will cover selections from his correspondence from 1866–87, being made up of letters addressed to H. Gibson Peacock, Paul H. Haynes, and to Mrs. Lanier, and a series of letters from Lanier and Bayard Taylor, music being a subject especially discussed; while in "Literary Landmarks of Paris" Benjamin Ellis Martin and Charlotte M. Martin will point out the interesting associations of the great names in French literary history with the city of Paris, emphasizing these associations with many portraits and illustrations. To literature also belong the second series of Prof. Max Müller's reminiscences of "Auld Lang Syne," to be devoted to glimpses of his life-work in the interpretation of the literature, philosophy, and religion of ancient India; "The Authority of Criticism, and Other Essays," by Prof. William P. Trent, of the University of the South; and—with some reservations—Robert Grant's volume of "Searchlight Letters," to be issued in companion form with his "Art of Living," in which social, ethical, and other questions of ordinary life are discussed with shrewd humor and philosophy. A handsome illustrated work in preparation is "The Highest Andes," Edward A. Fitzgerald's account of mountain climbing in South America, including his ascent of Mt. Aconagna, the loftiest mountain ever climbed, full of thrilling incidents and of important scientific information, with forty full-page illustrations and a comprehensive map. The camera again affords the material of literature in Alexander Black's "Modern Daughters," a companion to the author's "Miss America," depicting in photography and in witty text such "modern daughters" as the débutante, the chaperone, the club woman, the "gym." girl, and their sisters; while for those who believe that nonsense is often the best sense there will be Oliver Herford's delightful "Child's Primer of Natural History," which, with its absurd drawings and witty jingles, has charmed grown-up children in the Century Magazine for a year past. An interesting addition to the records of the American stage will be "Mrs. John Drew's Reminiscences," rich in entertaining recollections of Macready, the elder Booth, Jefferson, Fanny Kemble, and of plays and players familiar to an earlier generation of theatre-goers. For this John Drew has written an introduction, and old prints, portraits, and views have been sought out and reproduced. Other new books of varied character will be "Nooks and Corners of Old New York," by Charles Hemstreet, in which chapters of old city history now closed and almost forgotten are again revealed; "The Pianoforte and its Music," a new volume in the Music-Lover's Library, by H. E. Krehbiel; "France and Italy," another of Imbert de Saint Amand's historical studies, devoted to the Court of the Second Empire; and "The Hostess of To-day," a book of social hints, by Linda Hall Larned, with drawings by Mary C. Clarke. In fiction there are a dozen attractive new titles. Richard Harding Davis will be represented by a volume of short stories, representing his work for the last three years, to be called "The Lion and the Unicorn," and by a new Olive Leather edition of his works, in six small sixteenmo volumes, with photogravure frontispieces, to be sold only in sets, and including this forthcoming book with his earlier stories, "Gallegher," "Soldiers of Fortune," "Cinderella," and "The King's Jackal." Joel Chandler Harris's "Chronicles of Aunt Minervy Ann" bids fair to set another original character—that of the typical Southern "mammy"—beside the immortal Uncle Remus; in "The Ship of Stars" Q. tells a strong love-story of his familiar Cornish coast; "Dionysius, the Weaver's Heart's Dearest" is the striking title of a posthumous novel by Blanche Willis Howard (Countess von Teuffel,) set in the Swabian highlands; Bliss Perry will have a volume of short stories called "The Powers at Play;" a novel by "Zack" is promised, which will be called "On Trial," and is said to be at once a strong dramatic story and striking study of moral cowardice; while other titles include "The Yarn of a Bucko Mate," by Herbert E. Hamblen; "Dead Men Tell No Tales," by E. W. Hornung; "The White Mail," a railroad novel, by Cy Warman; "Sand and Cactus," by Wolcott Lillian Beard; and a new edition of Stockton's delightful "House of Martha." In the serious fields of philosophy and theology there will be numerous accessions. Dr. Windelband's authoritative "History of Ancient Philosophy" will be issued in an authorized English translation by Herber Ernest Cushman, of Tufts College; H. Clay Trumbull will add to his studies on ancient covenant customs a work on "The Covenant of Salt;" and additions to the various religious series will include "Proverbs," by G. H. Foy, in the International Critical Commentary; "The Babylonians and Assyrians," by A. H. Sayce, in the Semitic Series; and new volumes in the Gifford Lectures, the Historical Series for Bible Students, the Messages of the Bible, the Nicene and Post-Nicene Fathers, and the Epochs of Church History. Titles of these and of several new educational works are listed elsewhere under the headings Religion and Philosophy, and Education, Language, etc. Younger readers are, as usual, well provided for. There will be three new Henty books, "A Roving Commission," telling of the Haytian revolution under Toussaint l'Ouverture; "Won by the Sword," a tale of the thirty years' war; and "No Surrender," dealing with the thrilling and tragic days when the Vendéan peasants fought and died for their faith and their king. The note of adventure is again struck in John R. Spear's stirring sea story, "A Fugitive;" in Paul du Chaillu's narrative of a writer's journey in "The Land of the Long Night;" and in Kirk Munroe's naval tale, "Midshipman Stuart; or, The Last Cruise of the Essex;" while in "The Adventures of a Freshman," Jesse Lynch Williams writes with vivacity and wholesome vigor of a modern college boy's experiences. There will also be new cheaper editions of the Field-De Koven "Songs of Childhood" and "The Stevenson Song-Book."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS' IMPORTATIONS.—As usual this line of the Scribner preparations offers almost irresistible temptations. New volumes will be added to the Gadshill edition of "Dickens' Works and Life;" the Temple edition of "Scott's Novels;" the Centenary edition of "Carlyle's Works;" and to Coleridge and Prothero's edition of "Byron's Poetical and Prose Works." There is to be a Thurston edition in ten volumes of "The Novels of the Sisters Bronté;" and a new edition in eight volumes of "The Spectator," edited by G. Gregory Smith, and printed by Dent. The political conditions now agitating the world, with much physical geography and history of manners and customs, will be handled in "Russia On the Pacific and Siberian Railway," by "Vladimir," author of the "China-Japan War;" "A History of Italian Unity," by Bolton King, covering the political history of Italy from 1814–1871; Robert Louis Stevenson's "Edinburgh Days," by E. Blantyne Simpson; "An Idler in Old France," by Tighe Hopkins; and new editions of "The Reminiscences of Captain Gronow," by Joseph Grego, being anecdotes of camp, court, clubs, and society, 1810–1860; "Chitral: the Story of a Minor Siege," by G. S. Robertson; and "The Philippine Islands," a political, geographical, social and commercial history of the Philippine Archipelago, by John Foreman. Samuel Rawson Gardiner's "Biography of Oliver Cromwell" will be brought out in an Edition de luxe with frontispiece in colors, twenty-nine full-page illustrations and twelve smaller ones, including many portraits obtained from rare originals. "The Cathedral Builders," by Leader Scott, will have eighty full-page illustrations to beautify and explain the story of a great guild; "Authority and Archæology, Sacred and Profane," will be made up of essays, by S. R. Driver, E. A. Gardner, R. C. Headlam, and D. G. Hogarth; and "Greek Sculpture," by A. L. Wherry, will have 110 illustrations. The new volume in the Contemporary Science Series will include "History of the European Fauna," by R. F. Scharf; "The Races of Man," by J. Deniker, with 200 illustrations; and "The Psychology of Religion," by Professor Starbuck, of Leland Stanford University; and "Local Government and State Aid" will be the new addition to the Social Science Series. There will be new editions of "Mediæval Music," a historical sketch by R. C. Hope; and of Isaac Taylor's "History of the Alphabet." Schoener's "Rome" and Mrs. Denis' "Nicholas Poussin" are noticed above among the Scribner publications. The new English juveniles imported include "A Book of Birds," by Carton Moore Park; "The Little Browns," by Mabel E. Watson; "The Princess of Hearts," a fairy tale by Sheila E. Braine; and "Round About Rhymes," written and pictured by Mrs. Percy Dreamer. All these are profusely and artistically illustrated.

GEORGE C. SHAW, 53 Pickering Building, Cincinnati, will publish a work of rare interest to natives of Ohio in "The Hesperian Tree: An Annual of the Ohio Valley, 1900;" John James Piatt is the editor, and the contributors include W. D. Howells, James Lane Allen, James Whitcomb Riley, John Hay, Murat Halstead, Mary Hartwell Catherwood, etc., while the artists who illustrate their text, also from Ohio, include the names of F. C. Steele, F. W. Cawein, T. C. Lindsay, and many others who do excellent work. Mr. Shaw has also in preparation "A Self-Verifying Chronological History of Ancient Egypt, from the Foundation of the Kingdom to the Beginning of the Persian Dynasty," by Orlando P. Schmidt.

SMALL, MAYNARD & CO.'s announcements promise interesting additions in their accustomed field of belles lettres, with a few excursions in other directions. The mirthfulness of holiday literature will be increased by two new books, "An Alphabet of Celebrities," combining the inimitable verses and pictures of Oliver Herford, with decorative borders, letters, and cover designs by Bertram Goodhue; and "In Case of Need," a volume of delightful and absurd drawings, by Ralph Bergengren, whose queer and original conceptions are a manifestation of American humor in a novel direction. Several new volumes of verse are promised. Father John Tabb, whose earnest lyrics and sonnets are known to so many, will make an interesting departure from his previous themes in "Child Verse," a book of "poems grave and gay," which should combine in striking degree the beauty of fancy and the simplicity of utterance that have won for him so wide an audience, and with Goodhue's quaint cover and end-paper decorations should make strong appeal to childish hearts; in "The House of a Hundred Lights" Frederick Ridgely Torrence will have a volume of verse imbued with Oriental color and spirit, yet touching the lighter side of Eastern nature, rather than its passionate aspect as painted by Hafiz and Omar; while Richard Burton will add to his previous poems a collection of "Lyrics of Brotherhood," in which he sounds that note of human sympathy and kinship that strikes a general appeal. Richard Hovey's series of poetic Arthurian dramas will be continued by the publication of a fourth volume, "Taliesin," which is at the same time complete in itself; there will be a translation of Heredia's beautiful sonnet sequence, "The Trophies," made by Frank Sewell, who is said to have caught the essence of the poet's style and spirit; and Ernest Howard Crosby has made a new experiment in his "Plain Talk in Psalm and Parable," which will present in vigorous verse aspects of life and conduct as seen by the modern advocate of social reform. "Mr. Dooley," who "In Peace and In War" won fame in two continents, now takes his place "In the Hearts of His Countrymen" with a new volume in which the men and affairs of to-day are subjected to the pungent philosophy of Archey Rood, and are seen in the light of shrewd common sense and rich humor. There will be numerous additions to the useful little series of Beacon Biographies, comprising "John Brown," by Joseph Edgar Chamberlin; "Aaron Burr," by Henry Childs Merwin; "Frederick Douglass," by Charles W. Chesnutt; "Nathaniel Hawthorne," by Mrs. James T. Fields; and "Thomas Paine," by Ellery Sedgwick; while two volumes of general and timely interest will be "The Future of the American Negro," in which Booker T. Washington, from his long experience and heartfelt enthusiasm in the work of negro advancement, surveys the terrible problem that confronts the republic, and points out the lines along which its solution should be sought; and "The Territorial Acquisitions of the United States," a compact historical monograph on the "expansion" phase of current American history, by Edward Bicknell. Mention should also be made of "The Letters of Thomas Gray," selected and edited by Henry Milnor Rideout; "Things as They Are," a volume of keen satirical essays and fables, by Bolton Hall; and "Little Beasts of Field and Wood," a nature book, by William Everett Cram, who writes with accurate knowledge and sympathetic interest of the "little brothers of the earth" common to our northwestern states, and who has illustrated his text with twenty-four remarkable full-page drawings. In fiction, Hervy White, of the John Crerar Library of Chicago, will have a strong novel dealing with the social contrasts so keenly marked in modern city life, and called "Differences;" "A Local Habitation," by Walter Leon Savage, will deal with the "South End" of Boston, and will paint the gaunt unloveliness of typical boarding-house life; in "The Loom of Destiny" Arthur Y. Sturges will have a book of stories about street children; "The Surface of Things" is the title given to another book of short stories by Charles Waldstein; and in "Their Shadows Before" Pauline Carrington Bouvé has written a dramatic romance of Nat Turner's Insurrection in the Virginia of seventy years ago; while Florence Emerson's volume of "Vagaries" are hardly so much short stories as they are sketches of life and character, drawn withkeen dramatic instinct.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY are making ready a long line of publications and manufactures, including novels by popular authors, an unusual variety of handsome art-books and gift volumes, a bewildering variety of new and artistic calendars, and standard works in a large assortment of handsome bindings, specially suitable for Christmas presents. For many years there has been no more important contribution to English art than will be "The Life and Letters of John Everett Millais," in two large volumes. This biography of the distinguished painter, who was one of the original founders of the pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood, is written by his son. The work will be gotten up with great magnificence of illustration. The owners of Millais' most famous pictures have generously given their consent to their reproduction in this biography, and upwards of 200 pictures and sketches will appear, seven of the most celebrated being reproduced in photogravure. Millais was the friend of the leaders of his day in art, letters, and politics, his home life was of the happiest, and the work will contain letters from the Queen, Gladstone, Beaconsfield, Lord Rosebery, etc., and illustrated communications from Landseer, Leech, and Du Maurier. A tempting gift-book will be "Outdoor Pictures," by Thure de Thulstrup, giving twenty-four pictures of outdoor life at the races, following the hounds, skating at Van Cortland Park, on the links, etc., reproduced by a new color process in facsimile of the artist's water-colors, and twelve half-tone engravings after the artist's designs in black and white. Maud Humphrey has prepared her usual quota of artistic pictures for young and old, this time using her unrivalled talent at drawing children for a book, to be called "Gallant Little Patriots," showing little boys and girls in scenes and costumes suggestive of the late war; and the same illustrations are divided up into two smaller books, to be entitled "Little Heroes and Heroines" and "Little Soldiers and Sailors." Four facsimiles by the same author, accompanied by verses by Dr. Samuel Minturn Peck, will be issued as "The Golf Girl," each picture representing the game at a different season of the year. Valuable works of travel, very fully illustrated, will be "Through New Guinea and Other Cannibal Countries," by H. Cayley Webster, who, as late as 1893, found the natives of New Britain boasting of eating human flesh and holding slaves on purpose to eat them; "Siberia and Central Asia," by John W. Bookwalter, a successful business man and a great manufacturer, who sheds much light from unexpected sides upon the Eastern question; and "Western Life as Seen by Mr. E. W. Deming," consisting of Indian pictures and six facsimiles in water-colors by the author. From his material have also been prepared three interesting books for children: "Indian Child Life," consisting of eighteen stories about Indian children, illustrated in facsimile of water-colors; and two smaller books made from the same material, to be called "Little Red People" and "Little Indian Folk." Another beautifully illustrated book is "The Ship—Her Story," in which W. Clark Russell tells the story of the birth of the ship, her launch, her growth from the "dug-out" to a great ocean steamer or armor-clad ship of war, and H. C. Seppings Wright makes clear the many phases of its evolution by fifty illustrations which the author pronounces perfect. Among the novels to be published this season are "Jennie Baxter, Journalist," by Robert Barr, the story of a young American woman-journalist of the modern school who visits London and introduces American methods into the English and Continental newspapers; "The Crown of Life," by George Gissing, a study of the better class of English society, written with a happier note than the writer's true but depressing pessimism; the eighteenth edition of Harold Frederic's posthumous work, "The Market-Place;" "Active Service," a new novel by Stephen Crane, who was correspondent in the Græco-Turkish war, and takes his scenes from his experiences at that time; and "The Watchers," by A. E. W. Mason, author of "The Courtship of Morrice Buckler," with scene laid in the Scilly Islands. A collection of curious stories by Richard Marsh, which have already reached a third edition in England, will be issued under the title "Curios: Some Strange Adventures of Two Bachelors;" and several other romances may be found in the classified list elsewhere under the heading Fiction. Young people also are to be well provided for. "Jack, the Young Ranchman," by George Bird Grinnell, gives a boy's adventures in the Rockies, and is illustrated by E. W. Deming, the artistic delineator of Western life; "The Lively City o' Ligg" contains a cycle of modern fairy tales for children, by Gelett Burgess, illustrated with full-page colored plates and black and white drawings; "A Little Daughter of the Revolution," by Miss A. C. Sage; and "Loyal Hearts and True," by Ruth Ogden. There are also many novelties and humorous toy-books for children, for which the list must be consulted under the heading Juvenile Literature. "A Nobody's Scrap-Book," by Gordon Browne, the popular English artist for children, is specially notable. There will be over 125 calendars to choose from this year. They show the art of Thulstrup, Zogbaum, Maud Humphrey, Paul de Longpré, Archie Gunn, and many more. These calendars are all of American manufacture, a fact of which the publishers are justly proud. There are still other attractions on the Stokes advertising pages, and in almost every department of the long list elsewhere are publications to be issued by this enterprising firm.

HERBERT S. STONE & CO. will publish "The Life of William Makepeace Thackeray," by Lewis Melville, a work of special interest, as being the first exhaustive biography of the great novelist. It will be in two handsome volumes, illustrated with portraits, facsimiles, and numerous drawings; it is intended to give a complete record of his life, from authentic sources, and it should adequately fill the gap in literary biography that has been caused by Thackeray's reluctance to have his life set forth in detail before the public. They announce several fine books of interest to lovers of the drama. The authorized biography of Sir Arthur Sullivan, by Arthur Lawrence, will be enjoyed by the many who have delighted in the famous composer's music, and will include much interesting material relating to musical affairs; Amy Leslie has compiled a budget of reminiscences and anecdotes regarding "Some Players" of our own day, which will be brought out in a beautiful volume with 100 full-page portraits and facsimiles of many letters and autographs, and will be issued in two editions, one being of seventy-five numbered copies on Japan paper; there will be a book of fifty drawings of Henry Irving and Ellen Terry, by Gordon Craig, printed in colors, and showing the great actors in about ten different rôles; while an attractive monograph upon Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske's performance of Becky Sharp will be issued, with copious illustrations from photographs and drawings. A handsome volume will be devoted to George Bird Grinnell's delineations of "The Indians of To-day," giving fifty full-page portraits of famous Indian chiefs and four pictures in colors, arrangements being made for a special limited edition in addition to the regular issue; "Two Gentlemen of Touraine" will be the title of a book of sketches of travel, to be lavishly illustrated with views of the beautiful French chateau described; Mrs. Aubrey Richardson's "Famous Ladies of the English Court" will be practically a portrait-gallery of historic beauties; and in "Interviews With Authors" Clarence Rook sketches with color and vivacity some of the literary lions of our day. There will also be a collection of "The Greatest American Orations," compiled by Alonzo Beach Gower; and "A Modern Reader and Reciter," prepared by George Riddle. The fiction announcements are long and most attractive, including new novels or volumes of short stories, by Amelia E. Barr, Guy Boothby, Egerton Castle, Mrs. Catherwood, Violet Hunt, Coulson Kernahan, Arthur Morrison, Clark Russell, Stanley Waterloo, and others, full titles of which are given in our Classified List under the heading Fiction. For the little people there will be a new book by Gertrude Smith, in which the creator of the charming "Arabella and Aramenta" will tell "The Wonderful Stories of Jane and John."

STREET & SMITH, New York City, who have been almost wholly identified with paper-covered novels and cheap literature, have now begun to publish cloth-bound books, by standard authors, of fiction, poetry, history, etc. Among books of this kind to appear during the fall are announced the "Life of Admiral Dewey," by Will Clemens; "Cuba-Porto Rico" and "Hawaii-Philippines," both by A. D. Hall; "The Knights of the Cross," by Henryk Sienkiewicz; "The Awakening," by Count Lyof Tolstoi; and "The Vampire and Other Poems," by Rudyard Kipling. Several other forthcoming books may also be found in the preceding classified list under the heading Fiction.

J. F. TAYLOR & CO., New York City, will issue "Canadian Folk Life and Folk Lore," by William Parker Greenough; "Handbook of Wrestling," by Hugh F. Leonard; "Log of the Gloucester," written by its officers; "Trinity Bells," a tale of old New York, by Amelia E. Barr; "Little Leather Breeches," by Francis P. Wightman; and new editions of "The Potentate," by Frances Forbes-Robertson; and "Ezekiel's Sin," by J. H. Pearce, novels formerly published by George H. Richmond & Son.

E. B. TREAT & CO. announce "New Epistles from Old Lands," by Rev. Doctor David Gregg, pastor of the Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn, a series of characteristic descriptive discourses based upon the recent travels of the author in Palestine, illustrated from photographs collected by him; and "The Old Book and the Old Faith," by Rev. R. S. Macarthur, pastor of the Central Baptist Church, New York City, aimed against the modern criticism of the Bible.

TRUSLOVE, HANSON & COMBA, Limited, New York City, have just ready "Embroidery; or, the Craft of the Needle," by W. G. Paulson Townsend (Design Master at the Royal School of Art Needlework), assisted by Louisa F. Pesel and others, with preface by Walter Crane, and seventy illustrations, including many examples from the South Kensington Museum; and the three first issues of the series, to be known as The Bibelots, a series of reprints for the book-lover, edited by J. Potter Briscoe, chief librarian of Nottingham Public Library. These first three volumes are devoted to Coleridge's "Table-Talk," Herrick's "Woman, Love, and Flowers," and Leigh Hunt's "The World of Books." The forthcoming volumes will be devoted to Keats, Marcus Aurelius, and Gay or Shelley. Later will be issued "Pottery and Porcelain," a guide to collectors, by Frederick Litchfield, with 150 illustrations, and an "Illustrated History of Furniture," by the same author, with about 300 illustrations. "Saunterings in Bookland," selected by Joseph Shaylor, will be a companion volume to "The Pleasures of Literature;" and there will be an Edition de luxe of Hans Christian Andersen's "Fairy Tales," with introduction by the Rev. Dr. E. E. Hale, and upwards of 400 illustrations by Helen Stratton.

THE UNION PRESS, (American Sunday-School Union,) Philadelphia, will issue this fall a Student's edition of "Schaff's Dictionary of the Bible," including biography, natural history, geography, topography, archæology, and literature of the Bible, with upwards of 400 illustrations; "A Manual of Sunday-School Methods," by the Rev. Dr. Addison Pinneo Foster, with complete index and bibliography; "Handy Helps for Busy Workers," by Edwin W. Rice; and also by the same author "The Heavenly City;" and "The Celestial Railroad," Nathaniel Hawthorne's satire on worldliness, which has become a classic in English literature. They have also several books for the young, full titles of which appear in the preceding list under the heading Juvenile Literature.

D. VAN NOSTRAND COMPANY have their usual long list of works of applied science and useful arts, of which full titles appear in the classified list under the heading Arts and Sciences. A book of great value will be "Patents and How to Make Money Out of Them," by W. B. Hutchinson, a member of the New York Bar. It is said to be the only book as yet published which gives all the practical details for securing patents, and also a list of needed inventions in which there will be money.

FREDERICK WARNE & CO. bring out Milton's poetical works in an attractive pocket edition, uniform with their Bedford Shakespeare, the four small volumes being finely printed, well bound in cloth or morocco, and sold in a compact cloth or leather case. They announce an artistic nature book, "The Romance of the Wild Flowers," by Edward Step, for which the author, his daughter, and T. Carreras have prepared a series of thirty-two full-page colored plates and over 200 text illustrations; and a volume of "Stories from Shakespeare," by M. Surties Townesend, issued in two attractive styles, with 100 illustrations by the author. In fiction there will be "The Fortress of Yadasa," a romantic historical tale, by Christian Lys; "A Day of Recompense," by Silas K. Hocking; an idyl of Tyrolean peasant life by Edith G. Hoare, called "A Faulty Courtship;" a new edition of Ohnet's "Ironmaster;" and "A Lost Identity," a psychological romance by a new Australian writer, J. D. Hennessy. One of the burning questions in the English political and religious world is treated in George Cusack's novel, "Red Rag of Ritual;" and G. J. Morley will have a detective story, called "£5000 Reward." In books for young people first place should be given to the delightful holiday volume devoted to "The Pelican Chorus" and other nonsense songs by Edward Lear, which will have colored and text illustrations by Leslie Brooke, the artist of the Lang "Nursery Rhyme Book," and will be welcomed by nonsense-lovers of all ages. There will also be "My Friend Anne," a romantic story for girls of the days of Henry VIII. and of fair Mistress Boleyn, by Jessie Armstrong; "Dogs of War" and "The Fortunes of Claude," tales of adventure, by Edgar Pickering; "Hunting for Gold," experiences in the Klondyke, and "Kings of the Sea," dealing with the days of the Spanish Main, by Hume Nisbet; a volume of "Travels for the Fireside," by Gordon Stables; "A Little Mother to the Others," by Mrs. L. T. Meade; and "Bells of St. Clements," by Mary H. Debenham. A pretty fairy tale will be "Prince Cheery-Heart," by Helen Y. Inman; and for even younger readers "Aunt Louisa's Book of Animal Stories" will be added to Aunt Louisa's Instruction Books. Nursery literature, indeed, finds full representation in additions to the Columbia Series of Colored Toy-Books, the various Indestructible Object Books, and the new painting books, titles of which are given in our classified list under the heading Juvenile. "The Language of Flowers" will be added to the attractive series of birthday books issued by this house, which may now be had in two new styles of binding—in figured Dresden designs in boards and silk cloth, and in polished levant.

THE WERNER COMPANY have a reference work at once timely and comprehensive in their "Universal Encyclopædia," in which special effort has been made to bring the record of art, science, and progress up to the immediate present. Among the special subjects treated in its twelve volumes are the Spanish-American war, with biographies of its chief actors, accounts of the new possessions of the United States in the Pacific and the West Indies, with lists of the new governments of the Hawaiian Islands, Philippines, Cuba, and Porto Rico; and special articles on Lord Kitchener, the Klondyke, and other topics of present interest; while special maps, plans, and illustrations add to the value of the work. They have in their Akron edition a series of two-volume sets of histories, biographies, or other standard works that are especially adapted for holiday or presentation purposes, while their list includes also such titles as Dumas' "Mary Stuart," Masson's "Study of Napoleon," Eli Perkins' "Thirty Years of Wit," and John L. Stoddard's several pictorial volumes, in which panorama views and descriptive text illustrate the scenes viewed "From the Atlantic to the Pacific," the "Famous Parks and Public Buildings of America," "Sunny Lands of the Eastern Continent," and "A Tour Through Northern Europe." A good companion to the latter volume is found in F. G. Lamprey's "Descriptive Tour of the World," with its many reproductions of solar prints of natural beauties and famous monuments and places. Three elaborate and comprehensive works have also been prepared. "The United States Army and Navy" is a record of American martial history from the Revolution to the close of the Spanish war, divided into two sections, the text for the army section being by Lieut.-Col. A. L. Wagner, and that for the navy section by Commander J. D. Jerrold Kelley. The illustrations are examples of fine lithographic work, reproducing the evolution of army and navy uniforms from early years to the present, and portraying many well-known historic events, while the printing and binding are specially elaborate. Somewhat similar in style is "Germany's Army and Navy," a history of its development compiled from recent authorities, giving the present strength and character of the German military organization, and containing forty-one full-page colored plates, illustrating the various branches of the service, field equipments, warships, etc.; and the volume devoted to "Unsere Monarchie," commemorating the recent fiftieth anniversary of the Emperor Josef I., and depicting the condition of the Austrian crownlands in German, Bohemian, Polish, and Italian text, and in lavish photographic reproductions. Among the general miscellaneous publications of this house mention should be made of "The Bow-Legged Ghost, and Other Stories," containing humorous sketches, light verses from Judge, Life, and other publications, and other amusing material from the pen of Leon Mead, and an introduction by James Whitcomb Riley; and "Mrs. Gillette's Cook-Book," in which the author of the useful "White House Cook-Book" gives practical directions for cooking and home management, based upon a housekeeping experience of fifty years. There is a long list of juvenile publications, full titles of which may be found in the classified list elsewhere in this issue. Note should be made, however, of three new books for boys by James Otis—"Telegraph Tom's Venture," "Messenger No. 48," and "Down the Slope"—the several volumes of "Bible Stories for Children," and the Werner's Young People's Library and the Werner's Boys' and Girls' Library. There are also "Our Boys" and "Our Girls," collections of stories, verses, and pictures; "Nursery and Kindergarten Stories;" "Songs of Summer," illustrated and compiled by J. Pauline Sunter; "Wonders of the Universe," by Charles Banvard; and a useful exposition of "Business Openings for Girls," by Sallie Joy White.

THOMAS WHITTAKER mentions among his first announcements "The Madonna In Legend and History," by Mrs. Elizabeth C. Vincent, with ten reproductions of famous pictures on the life of the Virgin Mary; "Salad for the Solitary and Social," by Frederick Saunders, a new edition in attractive binding with the pictures re-engraved; "Evenings with the Sacred Poets," by the same author, also reissued, with twelve full-paged illustrations; "The Cathedrals of England," Cloister edition, on large paper, limited to 250 numbered sets; also a reissue of the library edition of the same work, which has been out of print since December last; "A Cycle of Stories," by Barbara Yechton, will be uniform with "We Ten" and other books by this popular author; "Darlington's Hymnal and Music," organ edition, will appear in oblong shape; "The Temperance Problem and Social Reform," by Joseph Rowntree and Arthur Sherwell, which is attracting much attention both here and abroad, is to be issued; McConnell's "History of the Episcopal Church" will have twenty-four illustrations; "Irish Life and Character," by Michael McDonagh; "My Smoking-Room Companions," a satirical story, by William Harvey King; "Chief Things," second series, by Rev. A. W. Snyder; "The Vision of the Madonna," a poem, by Grace L. Slocum, with a photogravure of Dreffreger's Madonna and child; and "The F. B. Meyer Year Book," arranged by Florence Witts, all will reach the popular trade. "Stories of Bible Nations," in simple language for young folks, by Edith Ralph; and "Heart and Hand in Confirmation," by William Reed Huntington, will be additions to Sunday School libraries. In fiction this house will publish "The Herd Boy and His Hermit," by Charlotte M. Yonge; "Seedtime and Harvest," by Mary H. Debenham; "Bugle Minor, of Her Majesty's Marines," by Miss Bremston; "A Gentleman of the Road," a story of the times of James II., and a number of other books of which full titles are classified in preceding list under the heading Juvenile Literature.

W. A. WILDE COMPANY, Boston, have in preparation a long list of books specially adapted for the holiday trade, full titles of which appear in the preceding classified list under the heading Juvenile Literature. They have also ready for 1900 "Peloubet's Select Sunday-School Lesson Notes," acknowledged among the very best helps for the International Lessons.

JOHN WILEY & SONS are getting out some very important works in their special line of applied sciences, and a full list of books in preparation appears in the preceding list under the heading of Arts and Sciences.

WILLIAMS & WILKINS COMPANY, Baltimore, will issue a "School History of Florida," by Edwin L. Green, of Johns Hopkins University, with twenty maps and seventy illustrations, faithfully portraying the physical beginnings and the political history of East and West Florida, with questions upon the text arranged by the author to fit it for a school text-book.

E. & J. B. YOUNG & CO. have the Savoy edition of "Shakespeare's Complete Works," with text conformed as far as possible to the First folio edition, with modernized spelling and the stage directions which seemed absolutely necessary. This is gotten up in a great variety of bindings. They have also nearly ready the New Handy-Volume "Shakespeare," in thirty-nine volumes, in a case, giving a complete play in each volume, with glossary of words and phrases. The complete set, in the case, measures only 10¼ x 3¼ x 5½ inches, and is one of the daintiest and most tasteful sets of Shakespeare ever issued, fully justifying its name of Handy-Volume Shakespeare. From $1.50 to $20 a Shakespeare can be supplied by E. & J. B. Young which is sure to give satisfaction. The publishers also announce a long list of forthcoming publications, many of which are the publications of the London Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge. Among these latter will be ready "Alpheus of Nazareth," by Jules Joseph, describing Galilean scenes and manners in the days of Jesus Christ, which has been translated by Henry Atwell; "What Is Science," a lecture by the Duke of Argyle; "Faith In Outline," by Rev. C. J. Ball; "The Prayer-Book Psalter for Church and School," with renderings of difficult passages from the Revised Version and short explanations by Rev. Arthur Carr; "A Sketch of Mediæval Church History," by Rev. S. Cheetam; and "Illustrated Notes on England Church History," a work in two volumes by Rev. C. A. Lane. Volume 7 in the Church Historical Society Lectures will be "The Later Mediæval Doctrine the Eucharistic Sacrifice," by Rev. B. J. Kidd; and "The Book of Daniel from the Christian Standpoint," by the Rev. J. Kennedy; and the Age of Maccabees," by A. W. Streane, will form volumes 7 and 8 in the Bible Student's Library. There will also be additions to the Early Church Classics; and "Clement of Alexandria," by the Rev. F. R. Montgomery Hitchcock, will be added to the Fathers for English Readers. The sermons delivered at the funeral of the Rev. T. McKee Brown, late Rector of St. Mary's Ritualist Church, New York City, will be issued in a handsome memorial volume; and there will be a volume on "British Birds," by Dr. Bowdler Sharpe, with 300 illustrations. There is also in preparation an entirely new edition of "The Bible Atlas of Maps and Plans to Illustrate the Geography of the Old and New Testaments and the Apocrypha;" and a "Birthday-Book," by Edna Lyall. Many more titles are classified in the preceding list, chiefly under the heading of Religion and Philosophy.

THE YOUNG CHURCHMAN CO., Milwaukee, Wis., in addition to new theological publications, will issue two handsome books especially fitted for use as holiday gifts. Of these "Stories of Great National Songs," by Colonel Nicholas Smith, embodies the matter of a lecture which has been delivered by the author in many cities, and has always been enthusiastically received. The songs are those both of the United States and of other countries. The book is illustrated chiefly with portraits of great song writers. Another new book is "White and Black Under the Old Regime," by Mrs. Virginia V. Clayton, widow of the late Major-General Henry D. Clayton, of the Confederate army, afterward Judge of the Circuit Court of Alabama and President of the University of Alabama. The book contains Mrs. Clayton's reminiscences of anti-bellum and later days, and is fully illustrated. An introduction is written by Frederic C. Morehouse, editor of The Church Eclectic. The same house has also issued an American edition of "The Art of Extempore Speaking," by Harold Ford; a new volume of lectures before the Minnesota Church Club, entitled "Leading Persons and Periods in English Church History," by Bishops Sessums (Louisiana), Seymour (Springfield), Tuttle (Missouri), Grafton (Fond du Lac), and Brown (Arkansas). "The Canonical Church Register," in various sizes, is for parishes of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in accordance with canonical provisions for parish records. "The Holy Priest" is the title of a book for the clergy, by the Rt. Rev. Wm. E. McLaren, Bishop of Chicago. The publications of The Young Churchman Co. may be obtained by the trade in New York, when more convenient from Messrs. E. & J. B. Young & Co.

THE following announcements reached us too late for insertion in their proper places in the alphabet in the preceding department:

ALEX. GROSSET, New York City, is preparing handsome editions of several of Kipling's most popular stories and poems. There will be a Portfolio edition of "The Recessional," with the only recent portrait of the author, a photogravure reproduction of William Strang's etching, "The Vampire," containing a reproduction of Burne-Jones' famous paintings; "Kipling's Poems," with a glossary and fifteen full-page illustrations; "The Light That Failed," with six original full-page drawings; "Child Stories," a collection handsomely illustrated and strikingly bound; and "The City of Dreadful Night," the only exact reprint of the original edition published in India in 1891, and at once suppressed. This publisher will also bring out immediately an edition of FitzGerald's translation of the "Rubáiyát," printed in red and black, with illustrations.

THE HOME PUBLISHING COMPANY, New York City, will shortly issue a new romance entitled "The Fighting Troubadour," by Archibald Clavering Gunter, author of "Mr. Barnes of New York." The time of the story is the same already treated by the author in his successful stories "A Princess of Paris" and "The King's Stockbroker," of which upwards of 170,000 copies have been sold in the United States and Canada, and which have been translated into almost every foreign modern language.

BOUSSOD, MANZI, JOYANT & Co. (Goupil & Co.) will issue several beautiful editions of Worthington Chauncey Ford's "George Washington." The text has the rare personal note that puts life into a book, but the artistic manufacture is specially notable. There will be twelve full-page photogravures from hand-finished plates and thirty-two artistic tail-pieces. The work is in two volumes, and of it there will be an Édition de Bibliophile, an Édition de Luxe, and a Memorial edition, and altogether these editions will embrace only 1500 copies of the book. Ronald Sutherland Gower's "Sir Thomas Lawrence" devotes about 100 pages of text to the great portrait painter and then gives reproductions of all his celebrated works, published in luxurious manner; and there will also be a wonderfully beautiful edition of Henri Bouchot's "Catherine de Medici."

SPON & CHAMBERLAIN announce the following new books and new editions in the press: Ingle's "Chemistry of Fire and Fire Prevention;" Watson's "How to Run Engines and Boilers;" Barnaby's "The Designing and Construction of Marine Propellers;" Moritz and Morris's "The Theory and Practice of the Preparation of Malt and the Fabrication of Beer;" Bayley's "A Pocketbook for Chemists, Chemical Manufacturers, Metallurgists, Brewers, Students," etc.; Robinson's "Gas, Gasoline, and Oil Vapor Engines;" Clarke's "Practical Geometry, Perspective and Engineering Drawing;" Kent's "The Water Meter;" Kempe's "Handbook of Electrical Testing;" Proctor's "Practical Handbook on Tanning;" Spretson's "Practical Treatise on Casting and Founding;" Thompson's "Polyphase Electric Currents and Alternate Current Motors;" and also, by Thompson, "Dynamo-Electric Machinery."

JAMES T. WHITE & Co., New York City, have just ready a most timely book, entitled "Our Three Admirals: Farragut, Porter, and Dewey," by James E. Homans, authentic accounts of the memorable achievements of the three officers who have gained the highest rank in the United States Navy, which have been revised by the sons of Farragut and Porter and by Admiral Dewey himself. A full description of the battle of Manila Bay is included, from which Dewey has eliminated all inaccuracies. This publisher has also prepared for the holidays a new edition of "Captive Memories," the little book of verses and pictures that enjoyed great popularity a few years ago.

OBITUARY NOTES.

GUSTAV E. STECHERT, the well-known importer and bookseller of New York, died suddenly on the 25th inst., at his residence, 1369 Dean Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., aged fifty-nine. We must defer to a future issue a fuller review of his business career.

GEORGE EDWARD POND, for many years an editorial writer on the staff of the New York Sun, died on the 22d inst. at his summer residence at Spring Lake, N. J. Mr. Pond was born in Boston, March 11, 1837, and was graduated from Harvard with the class of 1858 and from Harvard Law School in 1860. For the next two years he practiced law, and from 1862 to 1864 he served in the Civil War as a first lieutenant in a Massachusetts regiment. He then became associate editor of The Army and Navy Journal. When The Galaxy was established in 1866 he conducted its "Driftwood" department under the pseudonym of "Philip Quilibet," until it went out of existence in 1877. His charming essays in this department attracted as much attention in their day as did those of Mr. Curtis's "Easy Chair." In 1868 he became an editorial writer for the New York Times. When the Philadelphia Record was established in 1870, Mr. Pond became its editor-in-chief, which position he filled until 1877 when he returned to New York to join the editorial staff of the Sun. He was an authority on the art of war and wrote for Scribner's Campaigns of the Civil War series the volume entitled "The Shenandoah Valley in 1864." He assisted William Swinton in the writing of his "Campaigns of the Army of the Potomac."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS' FALL ANNOUNCEMENT

IMPORTANT ILLUSTRATED WORKS

The Letters of Robert Louis Stevenson

Edited by SIDNEY COLVIN. Illustrated. 2 volumes, 8vo, $5.00 net.

The most important work of an autobiographical character for many years. No one of modern times had more literary friends of distinction than Stevenson; and these notable letters covering the significant years and events of his life make a work of the deepest interest and of the widest popularity. The thread of biography connecting them, with other illuminating comment, has been supplied by Mr. Colvin, Stevenson's literary executor. The illustrations and fac-similes, from various rare sources, add materially to the richness of the volumes.

"Stevenson's Letters of which we have had such appetizing primeurs in the recent issues of Scribner's, will have perhaps as great interest on the purely literary side as any book to be found among the fall announcements."—New York Evening Post.

Santa Claus's Partner

By THOMAS NELSON PAGE, author of "Red Rock" (now in its sixtieth thousand). Illustrated in color by W. Glackens. 12mo, $1.50.

Mr. Page's Christmas story will appeal to the universal human heart. It has for its theme the influence of childhood in transforming the character of a successful business man whose nature had become hard and selfish in the pursuit of wealth, and is told with all the charm of manner and tenderness of feeling of which the author of "Marse Chan" is the master. The story is now published for the first time, having never appeared in serial or other form.

Fisherman's Luck

And Other Uncertain Things. By HENRY VAN DYKE. Illustrated by Sterner, Smedley, Relyea and French. 8vo, $2.00.

Walton Edition.—Limited to 150 copies, with special features. Per copy, $10.00 net.

A book of woodland sketches and blue-sky philosophy similar to the author's "Little Rivers," which has been variously styled by critics "the Complete Angler of to-day," "that out-of-door classic," "a book of the heart," etc. The papers embody the reflections of a sympathetic student of nature and lover of man in his out-of-door rambles and fireside leisure. Some of the themes are "Lovers and Landscape," "Fishing in Books," and "Who Owns the Mountains?"

British Contemporary Artists

By COSMO MONKHOUSE. With illustrations. Royal 8vo, $5.00.

Mr. Cosmo Monkhouse's book consists of chapters of the highest critical and descriptive value on Burne-Jones, Watts, Alma-Tadema, Millais, Leighton, Orchardson, and Poynter, illustrated with a perfection and care really unprecedented in any similar work, Mr. Monkhouse having had the aid and final approval, in the choice of reproduction of subjects, of the artist himself in almost every case. The author is one of the best known, most highly esteemed, and best equipped of English art-critics. The book will include reproductions of the most celebrated paintings of the British artists of recent years, portraits, studio interiors, etc.

IMPORTANT ILLUSTRATED WORKS

The Lion and the Unicorn

By RICHARD HARDING DAVIS. Illustrated by H. C. Christy. 12mo, $1.25.

In this volume Mr. Davis makes it plain that since the publication of his last book of stories three years ago his knowledge of human nature has deepened and broadened in the same proportion that his work as a literary artist has acquired exquisite finish and precision. The volume contains "On the Fever Ship," "The Man with One Talent," "The Vagrant," and "The Last Ride Together."

Novels and Stories by Richard Harding Davis

Olive Leather Edition. In six volumes, each with photogravure frontispiece. In limp leather, gilt top, small 16mo. Sold only in sets. Per set, $6.00 net.

In response to the popular demand this uniform edition in small, tasteful form of novels and stories by Mr. Davis has been prepared. Each is bound in limp, olive-colored leather, and has a frontispiece in photogravure and a rubricated title-page. No pains have been spared to give the set the stamp of the highest artistic manufacture. The volumes included are "Gallagher," "Soldiers of Fortune" (2 vols.), "Cinderella," "The King's Jackal," and Mr. Davis's new book, "The Lion and the Unicorn."

The Trail of the Sandhill Stag

By ERNEST SETON-THOMPSON. With eight full-page illustrations (one in color), and numerous marginal illustrations from drawings by the author. Square 8vo, $1.50.

 Japan Edition of the above, limited to 250 copies, bound in leather. In Press.

As was the case with his "Wild Animals I Have Known," Mr. Seton-Thompson has given this new book a unique individuality of form, bringing to its embellishment many novel and original ideas. And the story, which is the longest, as it is the most noteworthy, that the author has published, is well deserving of his pains; for never have the glory and the joy of the chase been interpreted so vividly, never the thoughts of the hunted animal so surely read and pictured.

Wild Animals I Have Known

By ERNEST SETON-THOMPSON. With 200 illustrations from drawings by the author. Twentieth thousand. Square 12mo, $2.00.

"These are the stories which have most appealed to us; but all the rest are good, and we have never met with a writer who has surpassed Mr. Seton-Thompson in putting himself 'inside the skin' of the animals he describes. His work may be bracketed with "The Jungle Book,' and it has the advantage in its spirited vignettes, to say nothing of the full-page illustrations."—The Athenæum.

The Grandissimes

By GEORGE W. CABLE. With 12 full-page illustrations and 8 head-and-tail pieces by Albert Herter, reproduced in photogravure. 8vo, $6.00.

 Limited Edition of 204 numbered copies. Japan paper, $12.00 net.

This charming volume of Mr. Cable's will be issued in uniform style with the edition of "Old Creole Days," illustrated by the same artist, which was so successful two years ago.

IMPORTANT ILLUSTRATED WORKS

American Lands and Letters

Leather-Stocking to Poe's Raven. New volume. By DONALD G. MITCHELL. With 150 illustrations. 8vo, $2.50.

The period covered in this volume contains a score of the greatest names in our literary history, and Mr. Mitchell's easy but intimate and incisive characterizations of Hawthorne, Emerson, Holmes, Thoreau, Longfellow, Whittier, Bancroft, Poe, and others, are especially notable in view of the importance of the subjects. The author's acquaintance with many of these men gives a delightful flavor of autobiography to the book. The many portraits, fac-similes and views of literary interest make up an unusually attractive series of illustrations.

 This volume and the companion work covering the period from the Mayflower to Rip Van Winkle. 2 vols., 8vo, in a box, $5.00.

Bob: The Story of Our Mocking Bird

By SIDNEY LANIER. With 16 full-page illustrations in colors from photographs by A. R. Dugmore. 12mo, $1.50.

A charming vein of humor and philosophy runs through Mr. Lanier's affectionately intimate story of his pet mocking bird Bob, giving the book a literary quality of an altogether unusual kind and setting it in a niche of its own. The illustrations have been made with great pains and skill from nature. Reproduced in colors from carefully made and painted photographs, they are as artistic as they are in perfect harmony with the author's delightful narrative, numerous passages of which they illustrate.

Modern Daughters

Conversations with Various American Girls and One Man. By ALEXANDER BLACK. Profusely illustrated from photographs by the author. 8vo, $2.50.

A companion volume to Mr. Black's extraordinarily successful "Miss America" published last season. The conversations are with: A Debutante, a Heroine, a Left-Over Girl, a Chaperon, a Gym Girl, a Club Woman, a Nice Man, a Cynic, an Engaged Girl, and a Bride. Accompanying these entertaining conversations is a series of photographs that form an unusually artistic group of illustrations.

A Child's Primer of Natural History

By OLIVER HERFORD. Illustrated by the author. Small 4to, $1.25.

A series of rhymes with accompanying drawings in which Mr. Herford finds full play for his wit and humorous philosophy of life. One is at a loss to know which are the more amusing—Mr. Herford's grotesquely drawn animals and birds, or the satirical moral reflections with which he tags these unique creations.

How to Know the Ferns

By FRANCES THEODORA PARSONS. A Guide to the Names, Haunts and Habits of Our Native Ferns. With 150 illustrations. Crown 8vo, $1.50 net.

"This is a notably thorough little volume. The text is not voluminous, and even with its many full-page illustrations the book is small; but brevity, as we are glad to see so many writers on nature learning, is the first of virtues in this field. . . . The author has mastered her subject, and she treats of it with authority."—New York Tribune.

IMPORTANT ILLUSTRATED WORKS

Peter Paul Rubens

His Life and his Work. By ÉMILE MICHEL. Translated by Elizabeth Lee. With 29 colored plates, forty photogravures and over 200 text cuts. 2 vols., royal 8vo, $15.00 net.

An elaborately illustrated biography of the great Flemish painter. Émile Michel is well known as the author of a "Life of Rembrandt" which has taken first place among the biographies of Rembrandt, and it is safe to say that this new work, containing, as it does, much newly discovered material relative to the life and work of Rubens, will become the authoritative biography of that artist. In addition to its biographical and literary merit, the illustrative material is unusually varied and rich; these volumes being in every way superior to the lives of Rembrandt, Correggio, and Da Vinci already issued in the same series.

The Stones of Paris, In History and Letters

By BENJAMIN ELLIS MARTIN and CHARLOTTE M. MARTIN. Profusely illustrated. 2 vols. 12mo. In Press.

The wealth of reminiscence, historic and literary, in which the stones of Paris are so rich, appears in ample abundance in Mr. and Mrs. Martin's sympathetic and suggestive volumes. Historic times, from the Merovingian to the present, live again in these vivid pages, and we trace the activities of Moliere and La Fontaine, of Corneille and Racine, of Balzac and Hugo as epitomized in the changes of various places of habitation and frequentation that still remain to verify of them as eloquent eye-witnesses. Mr. Fulleylove's drawings and numerous portraits adequately supplement the text.

The Highest Andes

By EDWARD A. FITZGERALD, F.R.G.S. Including the Ascent of Mt. Aconcagua. With 40 full-page illustrations from photographs by the author, 10 of them in photogravure, and one large map. Large 8vo. In Press.

Mr. FitzGerald here tells of his ascent of the loftiest mountain ever climbed, and of other thrilling experiences in his South American adventures. The book is also extremely valuable from the scientific side, its appendices containing a wealth of exact information regarding these great altitudes. The author's attainment of a height of 23,000 feet on Mt. Aconcagua was an exploit whose mere description supplies plenty of excitement, and the pictures, made during the climb, are especially pertinent and interesting.

Nooks and Corners of Old New York

By CHARLES HEMSTREET. Illustrated by Ernest C. Peixotto. Square 12mo, $2.00.

The pages of this volume are replete with reminiscence, and reveal the quaint and picturesque town of the past gradually assuming its present metropolitan aspect. It is a pocket history of the city recorded in its monuments—a miniature panorama of the vicissitudes of its various districts and communities. The many illustrations by Mr. Peixotto daintily decorating the text and its margins have the merit of faithful portraiture as well as being thoroughly artistic.

Mrs. John Drew's Reminiscences

With an introduction by her son, JOHN DREW. Fully illustrated. 12mo. In Press.

Mrs. Drew's book is rich in entertaining reminiscences of the American stage. Anecdotes of Macready, the elder Booth, the elder Jefferson, of Fanny Kemble, of the Old Bowery and Park theatres, and of forgotten plays and players fill her pages and give them a delightful flavor. The illustrations, which are from many rare sources, will include interesting portraits of old-time actors, rare prints, programmes, etc.

HISTORY AND ESSAYS

How England Saved Europe

The Story of the Great War (1793–1815). By W. H. FITCHETT, author of "Fights for the Flag." 3 vols., 12mo. In Press.

Mr. Fitchett tells, in this work, the great story of the Twenty Years' War with Napoleon—"a resounding epic rather than a drab-colored page of pallid and slow-moving history; an iliad of battles, sieges and invasions." Great figures move across the stage—Napoleon, Pitt, Nelson, Wellington; great events shake the world; passions and heroisms, virtues and vices, all on a colossal scale, more natural to primitive than to modern times, are shown in action. The story of this mighty contest is told by Mr. Fitchett with a graphic power and dramatic intensity worthy of the theme.

Anglo-Saxons and Others

By ALINE GORREN. 12mo, $1.50.

In this book Miss Gorren, who has already shown herself in some serious magazine papers a thoughtful and brilliant student of contemporary conditions, considers the question of Anglo-Saxon superiority, its causes, the likelihood of its permanence, and its effect upon English and American character. The feature of the book is the note of warning which the author utters, the weaknesses of the race being analyzed with fulness and fearlessness.

The Authority of Criticism

And Other Essays. By Prof. W. P. TRENT, of the University of the South. 12mo, $1.50.

A collection of essays on literary topics by a writer whose work has placed him in the very front rank as a profound thinker, and as the master of a style of singular power and grace. The broad scope of the volume is shown by the titles of the essays: The Authority of Criticism, the Nature of Literature, Literature and Morals, The Basis of Criticism, On Teaching the Spirit of Literature, On Translating Horace, Mr. Howells and Romanticism, Tennyson and Musset Once More, The Byron Revival, and Apropos of Shelley.

A Literary History of Ireland

From the Earliest Times to the Present Day. By DOUGLAS HYDE, LL.D. 8vo, $4.00

"Dr. Hyde, in his 'Literary History,' has shown great learning, industry, patience, and ingenuity in summarizing the conclusions that the ablest scholars have hitherto put forward."—The Academy.

France and Italy

By IMBERT DE SAINT-AMAND. With portraits. 12mo, $1.50.

This volume is the fourth in the series devoted to the Court of the Second Empire, and records the history of the war with Austria for the liberation of Italy. The narrative includes the best accounts extant of the battles of Magenta and Solferino, as well as graphic pen-portraits of MacMahon, Victor Emmanuel, and other great figures in the drama.

The Pianoforte and its Music

By H. E. KREHBIEL. With 8 portraits. The Music Lover's Library. 12mo, $1.25 net.

A new volume in the series of which Mr. Henderson's "The Orchestra and Orchestral Music" ($1.25 net) was the first. Historical, biographical, descriptive, and anecdotal, the book presents an epitome of the entire literature of the subject.

BIOGRAPHICAL AND SOCIAL

Search-Light Letters

By ROBERT GRANT. 12mo, $1.50.

Another contribution by Judge Grant to the art of living, written with that rare combination of humor and uncommon sense that makes whatever he writes so justly popular. It is the outgrowth of his previous books, "The Reflections of a Married Man," etc., and those who have enjoyed these will be glad to know that "Fred" and "Josephine" are still alive and that they discuss these letters together.

The Art of Living

By ROBERT GRANT. New edition. 12mo, $1.50.

An entirely new edition of these cheerful, original and kindly satirical observations on the art of living. The Boston Transcript says, "There are passages, half serious, half playful, so full of a quiet knowledge of life that one gasps a bit at the man's grasp of the modern spirit." This new edition is uniform with "Search-Light Letters," both books being printed in a charming old-style format the Merrymount Press.

Letters of Sidney Lanier

Selections from his Correspondence, 1866–1881. With two portraits. 12mo, $2.00.

This volume is made up of the letters of Sidney Lanier addressed to H. Gibson Peacock and Paul Hamilton Hayne; a series of letters to his wife regarding his impressions, both as a listener and as a performer of music; and the letters which passed between Bayard Taylor and Mr. Lanier. The book has a decided autobiographic value, the portrait of Lanier's personality unconsciously drawn by himself, being complete and finely shaded.

Auld Lang Syne

Second Series. My Indian Friends. By Prof. F. MAX MÜLLER. 12mo, $2.00.

In this second series of his engaging reminiscences, Professor Müller shares with his readers an intimate knowledge, covering many years, of the literature, philosophy and religion of Ancient India. No scholar living is better fitted to give a popular interpretation of the position of India in the world's history.

Primitive Love and Love-Stories

By HENRY T. FINCK, author of "Romantic Love and Personal Beauty," "Wagner and His Works," etc. Crown 8vo. In Press.

Mr. Finck's new work, the fruit of thirteen years of research among original authorities, is destined to create a new epoch in the sociology of love and marriage, and to attract the widest attention among students of the evolution of marriage. From the very nature of its subject the work is not written virginibus puerisque; but the fulness and frankness of the discussion, which is fortified by an extraordinarily large and varied collection of love stories of primitive races, make the book of the highest scientific value.

A Private Soldier of the Third Republic. By LIONEL DECLE. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.25.

"The book is a terrible arraignment of modern militarism; it is applicable to a larger field than the author intended. A strong arraignment of a system that, in France at least, has logically culminated in the Dreyfus case."—New York Mail and Express.

NOVELS

The Chronicles of Aunt Minervy Ann

By JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS. Profusely illustrated by A. B. Frost. 12mo, $1.50.

Mr. Harris has succeeded in creating a second original character as whimsically charming and individual as "Uncle Remus." Aunt Minervy Ann, whose many experiences are delightfully detailed in these pages, is an old-fashioned negro mammy of a sort now fast dying out in the South. These "Chronicles" embody the best delineation of negro character published in many years.

The Ship of Stars

By A. T. QUILLER-COUCH (Q). With frontispiece. 12mo, $1.50.

A love story of the Cornwall coast, full of beautiful and tender color—the sea, old houses, old families, quaint characters, and strange, stirring happenings—with a bit of Oxford life. Beginning with the hero's odd boy-life, with its dreams and adventures and its whimsical sweetness, the later chapters rise to a high key of adventure and action. Imaginative and poetic and yet full of incident, the novel will take high rank.

Dead Men Tell No Tales

A Novel. By E. W. HORNUNG. 12mo, $1.25.

A thrilling story of adventure. The London Spectator describes it as "A modern story of piracy on the high seas and of the romantic rivalry between the narrator and a young Yorkshire farmer for the hand of the chief pirate's step-daughter. Rattray, the wicked but fascinating suitor, reminds us not a little of Raffles, the unscrupulous but engaging hero of Mr. Hornung's last story 'The Amateur Cracksman.'"

The Yarn of a Bucko Mate

His Adventures in Two Oceans. By HERBERT E. HAMBLEN. 12mo, $1.50.

This new romance by the author of "On Many Seas" has all the raciness and humor that made that story popular. Mr. Hamblen's intimate knowledge of things nautical enables him to give the true salt-sea flavor to his tale. The hero's adventures on the Atlantic, in Peru, and Chili, and in search of treasure on an island in the Pacific make a spirited and fascinating tale.

Dionysius the Weaver's Heart's Dearest

By BLANCHE WILLIS HOWARD (MME. VON TEUFEL). 12mo, $1.50.

A novel in which the author of "One Summer," "Guenn," "The Open Door," etc. returns to her earliest and most sympathetic manner. The story centres in the daughter of a Swabian peasant family at service in a German noble household, and, beside capital pictures of German life, contains a strong and original motive characteristically handled.

The White Mail

A Railroad Novel. By CY WARMAN. 12mo, $1.25.

A lively and adventurous story by a writer who knows the reality and feels the romance of the railroad as does no one else. The varied and inevitably picturesque career of the youth who begins at the very bottom and rises to the top of the railway ladder has been long awaiting celebration, and Mr. Warman has here adequately described it in his familiar manner.

FICTION AND MISCELLANEOUS

On Trial. By "Zack"

A Novel, by the author of "Life is Life." 12mo, $1.50.

A book marked by a striking dramatic quality, the plot being fresh and the dénouement thoroughly artistic. In a psychological way the book is noteworthy, no novel in years containing a more absorbingly interesting analysis of a mental state than is here given of moral cowardice. From every point of view, in fact, the novel is a work of the highest importance.

King Noanett

A Story of Old Virginia and the Massachusetts Bay. By F. J. STIMSON (J. S. of Dale). New edition. 12mo, $1.00.

A new edition, without illustrations, of Mr. Stimson's American historical novel, which the New York Tribune declared to be "a book designed for all ages," and of which the Boston Transcript said "Certainly nothing fresher or more original has found its way into our literature for many a year. The volume possesses a distinct historical value."

The Powers at Play

By BLISS PERRY. 12mo, $1.25.

These stories by Bliss Perry, the new editor of The Atlantic Monthly, have a peculiar freshness and flavor, which comes of a thoroughly wholesome view of life presented with all the literary skill and charm that are too often put at the service of pessimism. His stories also show a certain sympathy and mellow humor, the quality of which Mr. Perry almost monopolizes among our younger writers.

Sand and Cactus

By WOLCOTT LE CLÉAR BEARD. 12mo, $1.50.

A collection of stories which has given their author unique distinction as an interpreter of life and character among the frontier conditions of Arizona and the extreme Southwest. They include, with others, "Bisnago's Madeline," "Tizzard's Castle," "Liver's Responsibility," "The Martyrdom of John the Baptist," and, in a humorous vein, "Rouge et Noir."

The Hostess of To-day

By LINDA HULL LARNED. Fully illustrated by Mary C. Clarke. 12mo, $1.50.

As is implied in the title Mrs. Larned's book is for the use of the lady of the house and is intended as a guide for the preparation and correct service of dinners, luncheons, etc. The author is the founder of the Syracuse School of Domestic Science, and is well known in society. Her book is on novel lines, and is not to be confused with ordinary cook books.

PHILOSOPHY AND THEOLOGY

A System of Ethics

By FRIEDRICH PAULSEN. Translated and edited by FRANK THILLY, Professor of Philosophy in the University of Missouri. 8vo, $3.00 net.

"Of this work it may be said that it has taken its place as a standard authority on the subject, and its style, moreover, is so fascinating that a subject ordinarily regarded as heavy and didactic is invested with a genuine human interest. We know of no work in which the ethical impulses of Christianity are more clearly described."—New York Tribune.

The Moral Order of the World

In Ancient and Modern Thought. By A. B. BRUCE, D.D., Professor of Free Church College, Glasgow. (The Gifford Lectures for 1898.) Second Series. Crown 8vo, $2.00.

An answer, in the author's engaging style, to the historical inquiry: "What have the wisest thought on the great theme of the Moral Order of the Universe in its reality and essential nature?" The recent death of Dr. Bruce adds a pathetic interest to this last work from his pen.

Can I Believe in God the Father?

By W. N. CLARKE, D.D., author of "An Outline of Christian Theology." 12mo, $1.00.

This book is made up of a series of lectures which Dr. Clarke delivered at the Harvard Summer School of Theology this year. The subjects, which are treated with a clearness of style and breadth of sympathy characteristic of the author, deal with the practical argument for the Being of God, Divine Personality, the relation between God and Man, and the moral effect of the Doctrine of God.

BY THE SAME AUTHOR: WHAT SHALL WE THINK OF CHRISTIANITY? 12mo, $1.00.

General Introduction to the Old Testament

The Text. By Prof. W. H. GREEN, of Princeton. Cr. 8vo. In Press.

Dr. Green's new book deals with the Text, as the one published last year dealt with the Canon, of the Old Testament. The high scholarship of the author will make this the authoritative presentation of the conservative position on this subject.

The Covenant of Salt

As based on the Significance and Symbolism of Salt in Primitive Thought. By the Rev. H. CLAY TRUMBULL, D.D. $2.00.

A companion volume to the author's two previous works, "The Blood Covenant" and "The Threshold Covenant," and embodying the results of his further researches in the field of primitive thought and customs.

The Book of Proverbs

By CHARLES H. TOY, Professor of Hebrew in Harvard University. New volume in the International Critical Commentary Series. 8vo, $3.00 net.

A critical and exegetical commentary on the book of Proverbs. In this great commentary have already appeared volumes by Professors Driver, of Oxford; Moore, of Andover; Sanday, of Oxford; Gould, of Philadelphia; Plummer, of Durham; Vincent, of New York; Abbott, of Dublin; and Smith, of Amherst.

The Semitic Series

Edited by Professor JAMES A. CRAIG, of University of Michigan. Designed to present in brief and compact form a knowledge of the more important facts in the history of the Semitic family. The first volume to appear will be BABYLONIANS AND ASSYRIANS. Their Life and Customs. By the Rev. A. H. SAYCE, Professor of Assyriology at Oxford. Later volumes will be by Professor J. F. MCCURDY, of the University of Toronto; Professor A. V. HILPRECHT, of the University of Pennsylvania; Professor HOMMEL, of the University of Munich, etc. $1.25 net.

Historical Series for Bible Students

This series, edited by Professors KENT and SANDERS, is intended to present a complete and connected picture of the social, political, and religious life of the men and people who figure most prominently in the biblical records.

EDUCATIONAL

A History of Ancient Philosophy

By Dr. W. WINDELBAND, Professor of Philosophy in the University of Strassburg. Authorized translation from the second German edition by HEBERT ERNEST CUSHMAN, Ph.D., Instructor in Philosophy in Tufts College. 8vo, $2.00 net.

This work has been pronounced by a competent judge to be the most important contribution of the year to English philosophical literature. It aims to give the student an insight into early Greek and Roman philosophies through the history of affairs. Among the distinctive features of Professor Windelband's treatment are the separation of Pythagoras from the Pythagoreans, the juxtaposition of Democritus and Plato, and the conception of Hellenic-Roman philosophies and of Patristics as a progressive application of science. Aside from its historical merit, its accuracy and thorough scholarship, it is a work of great brilliancy and power from a literary point of view.

Practical Public Speaking

By Professors S. H. CLARK and F. M. BLANCHARD, of the University of Chicago. 12mo, 300 pp., $1.00 net.

This book represents the joint work of the two authors in the Department of Public Speaking, and is characterized by these superior features: It may be used regardless of any particular school of elocution, and without a teacher one can gain many practical hints. Professional training is not essential. It is the first book to distinguish between public speaking and reading, recitation, etc., and is based on conceptions derived from the greatest orators. There are a great number of complete selections, not merely examples, but vital and interesting.

Scribner Series of School Reading

In Uniform Binding; each 12mo, 60 cents net.

Lobo, Rag and Vixen

By ERNEST SETON-THOMPSON, author of "Wild Animals I Have Known." 12mo, 150 pp., 60 cents net.

This book contains four of the stories which appeared in "Wild Animals I Have Known," the most successful book for young and old lovers of animal stories published in years.

OTHER VOLUMES

FANCIFUL TALES. CHILDREN'S STORIES IN AMERICAN LITERATURE. POEMS OF AMERICAN PATRIOTISM. TWELVE NAVAL CAPTAINS. THE HOOSIER SCHOOL BOY. THE EUGENE FIELD BOOK. THE CABLE STORY BOOK. ODYSSEUS, THE HERO OF ITHACA.

Logic and Argument

By Professor J. H. HYSLOP, of Columbia University. 16mo, 249 pp., 75 cents net.

The author aims at the most elementary instruction given in the ordinary college course. He combines Rhetoric with Logic in his volume, which is practical and convincing. An admirable text-book for Colleges and Normal Schools.

BOOKS FOR YOUNGER READERS

The Adventures of a Freshman

By JESSE LYNCH WILLIAMS. Illustrated by Fletcher C. Ransom. 12mo, $1.25.

The hero of Mr. Williams's new story is a representatively American young fellow, who comes east to work his way through college. What hazing did for him, what he did for himself, how he was a hero and how he was not, how he failed and succeeded, as student, as athlete and as a boy full of human nature—is the story.

The Fugitive

A Tale of Adventure in the Days of Clipper Ships and Slavers. By JOHN R. SPEARS. Illustrated by Walter Russell. 12mo, $1.25.

A stirring story, following the adventures of the hero from his country home in Vermont through his experiences at sea, on the coast of Africa, and finally on a slaver from which he escapes. It is full of adventure, and gives an accurate picture of life at sea in the days of old.

The Land of the Long Night

By PAUL B. DU CHAILLU. With 24 full-page illustrations. Square 12mo, $2.00.

A romantic narrative by the eminent traveller of a winter's journey from southern Sweden to the extreme North and back. The author has a host of friends among younger readers who will eagerly follow his adventurous course in reindeer sledge and on snowshoes, through snow storms and over frozen rivers, on bear and wolf hunts and fishing trips.

Midshipman Stuart

Or, the Last Cruise of the Essex. By KIRK MUNROE. Illustrated. 12mo, $1.25.

A naval story of the war of 1812, belonging to the same series as the author's "In Pirate Waters," published last year. It is the thrilling account of a young midshipman's adventures in the Southern Pacific before and during the naval war with Great Britain.

Three New Books by G. A. Henty

Each, with illustrations 12mo, $1.50.

A ROVING COMMISSION. A thrilling story of adventure on sea and land. The scene is laid at the time of the great revolt of the Blacks by which Hayti became independent. Toussaint l'Ouverture appears and an admirable picture is given of him and his power.

WON BY THE SWORD. The scene of this story is laid in France during the latter part of the Thirty Years' War. The hero is the orphaned son of a Scotch officer in the French army, whose skill and feats of valor gain him promotion after promotion.

NO SURRENDER. The story of the dramatic and bloody struggle of the peasants of La Vendee in the defense of their religion and their rights as free men, which took place towards the end of the last century.

Field's Songs of Childhood

HARPER & BROTHERS, Publishers

New York and London

A List of the Books to be Published During the Fall by

HARPER & BROTHERS

FRANKLIN SQUARE, NEW YORK

Edwin A. Abbey — New Holiday Editions

Cheaper editions have been prepared for the Christmas season of three famous books illustrated by Edwin A. Abbey, with Decorations by Alfred Parsons. The books are:

"Selections From the Poems of Robert Herrick."

"The Quiet Life," by Andrew Marvell and Others. Certain Verses by Various Hands, the Motive set Forth in a Prologue and Epilogue by Austin Dobson.

"Old Songs." A Collection from Numerous Sources.

Large Quarto Volumes, Bound in Handsome Ornamental Cloth Covers and Printed on Superfine Paper. Design on Both Covers. Gold Lettering on Back. $4 00 each.

ALSO

A New Holiday Edition of Goldsmith's She Stoops to Conquer, with Mr. Abbey's Illustrations. Cloth, Ornamental, $5 00.

Tappan Adney — The Klondike Stampede

Copiously Illustrated. About 538 pages, 125 Illustrations. Crown 8vo, Cloth, $3 00.

This book includes a short sketch of the history of the Klondike region, but the greater part is taken up with a vivid description of the scenes during the gold fever of 1897–98. The author was one of the pioneers of the Klondike, and lived there during the development of the region. His book, therefore, is not the hasty story of a brief visit; it is the adequate record of one of the most interesting chapters in the history of civilization.

James Lane Allen — A Kentucky Cardinal

A New Edition from New Plates. Illustrated. 16mo, Bound in Attractive Cloth Covers, Ornamental, $1 00; Half Calf, $2 00.

James Lane Allen — Part 2d of A Kentucky Cardinal—Aftermath

Uniform with the above, $1 00; Half Calf, $2 00.

Although these two works have been published but a few years, they have already won for themselves a sure place among the classics of American literature.

James Lane Allen — The Blue-Grass Region of Kentucky

And Other Kentucky Articles. New Illustrated Edition. 8vo, Cloth, $1 50.

Written from the standpoint of personal affection, it is also temperately fair and just in statement and treatment, and as such we heartily recommend it.—Literary World.

Edwin Arnold — The Gulistan

Being the Rose Garden of Shaikh Sa'di. First Four Babs or "Gateways." Translated from the Persian by Sir Edwin Arnold. 237 pages. 16mo, Cloth, Ornamental, Uncut Edges and Colored Top, $1 00. (In Odd Number Series.)

The Gulistan for over six hundred years has been considered one of the world's masterpieces. The author of "The Gulistan" was a celebrated Persian sage, Shaikh Sa'di of Shiraz, who was born about 1184 A.D. and died in 1294, at the age of 110 years, having devoted his entire life to philosophy, poetry, and travelling.

A LIST OF HARPER & BROTHERS' FALL PUBLICATIONS

Howard Payson Arnold. Historic Sidelights

Illustrated with Portraits, Facsimiles, and Characteristic Illustrations. About 300 pages. Crown 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, Deckel Edges and Gilt Top, $2 50.

The nominal subject of this book is the selection of the great seal of the United States, but this is only a starting-point for delightful and instructive digressions into the side-alleys of history. The book is an olla podrida of curious facts and forgotten lore hung together by a well-defined thread of association.

Frederic Bancroft The Life of William H. Seward

With Two Photogravure Portraits. 2 vols. About 1100 pages in all. Crown 8vo, Cloth, with Uncut Edges and Gilt Tops, $5 00.

This biography is written in a direct, candid, and intelligent style, and throws new light on many subjects which are of absorbing interest to the students of American history and politics in the story of Seward's labors as Secretary of State. There is much that will be new even to those who are well posted on the history of the period. Many of the subjects —such, for instance, as the Trent affair—are handled with such vigor, and from such an original point of view, that they are certain to arouse wide discussion.

John Kendrick Bangs Coffee and Repartee, and The Idiot

In One Volume. 230 pages, including 51 Illustrations. Cloth, Ornamental, $1 00.

A convenient form in which to possess two of Mr. Bangs's most successful works.

John Kendrick Bangs The Enchanted Type-writer

171 pages. Illustrated. 16mo, Cloth, Ornamental, Uncut Edges and Colored Top, $1 25.

The Enchanted Type-writer is a machine and not a woman. It is of antiquated make, and its owner finds it turning out copy on its own account with no visible manipulation. Investigation shows that it is being used by Boswell and Xanthippe, who are the editors of a Sunday newspaper—in Hades. The material consists largely of special articles furnished to the Stygian Gazette by eminent literary people of Hades. There are recollections of Munchausen and Sherlock Holmes; some account of a lawsuit between the city of Cimmeria and Apollyon over an unpaid dog-tax on Cerberus; interesting comments by Xanthippe on the new woman movement in Hades; an account of the political situation below, and Boswell's description of golf in Hades.

Hon. John Barrett Admiral George Dewey

A Sketch of the Man. With 24 Illustrations. 294 pages. 16mo, Cloth, $1 25.

This is a sketch of Admiral George Dewey, the man, by John Barrett, late United States Minister to Siam, and ten months war correspondent at Manila, from May, 1898, to March, 1899. No man not in the navy saw more of the Admiral during the long exacting period in which he was put to the test, than Mr. Barrett, and on account of his experience as a foreign representative, and his being a fellow-Vermonter, the Admiral from the first placed special trust and confidence in him. During all this period he kept careful notes of everything of material interest in connection with Admiral Dewey, and now publishes for the first time the results of his study. So much has been written about the hero of Manila, that it would seem almost impossible for a biographer to find much that has not already been told. Mr. Barrett, however, has collected a wealth of information that is not only entirely new, but also intensely interesting. It is not an extended biography, but an attempt to give an adequate representation of the character and personality of the foremost American of the present day.

Brontë The Haworth Edition of the Life and Works of the Brontë Sisters

With Photogravures and Other Illustrations. Preface to each Novel, by Mrs. Humphry Ward. Introduction and notes to Mrs. Gaskell's "Life of Charlotte Brontë" by Clement K. Shorter. Seven Vols., Crown 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1 75 per volume.

The edition is to be issued at monthly intervals, beginning with "Jane Eyre," in October.

A LIST OF HARPER & BROTHERS' FALL PUBLICATIONS

William Allen Butler Nothing to Wear, and Other Poems

With Photogravure Portrait. 241 pages. Crown 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, Deckel Edges and Gilt Top, $1 75.

This volume includes the famous "Nothing to Wear," the long religious poem "Oberammergau," "Poems of Travel," translations from the German poet, Uhland, "Miscellaneous Poems," and "Poems for Children."

Mary Hartwell Catherwood Mackinac and Lake Stories

10 Illustrations. About 260 pages. Post 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1 50.

This is a collection of twelve short stories which portray the picturesque side of life on the islands of the Great Lakes. Almost all the stories are characterized by a strong love interest.

Mary Cholmondeley Red Pottage

Post 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1 50.

A New Novel. By the Author of "Sir Charles Danvers," "The Danvers Jewels," and "Diana Tempest."

S. R. Crockett Kit Kennedy—Country Boy

With 6 Illustrations. 408 pages. Post 8vo, Cloth, $1 50.

Mr. Crockett is an author who has steadily advanced. His recent work, "The Black Douglas," has been one of the books of the year, and the publication of Kit Kennedy, a love-story in which he returns to the scenes of his early successes, is certain to add to his popularity.

George William Curtis Prue and I

With 3 Illustrations and Portrait. 223 pages. Post 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, 50 cents.

There is not in the English language a more sympathetic and charming sketch of the life of a husband and wife, who, though old, have not lost any of the warmth, tenderness, and consideration of true conjugal affection. Prue and I is a collection of essays which for pure charm of style and sentiment can be compared only to Lamb's "Essays of Elia."

Dreyfus The Letters of Captain Dreyfus to His Wife

Translated by L. G. Moreau. With an Introduction by Walter Littlefield. With Portraits. Pages 260. Post 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1 00.

The letters included in this volume cover the period from December 5, 1894, to February 25, 1899.

H. Fielding Thibaw's Queen

Illustrated. 294 pages. Crown 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1 50.

This work has the value and interest of both history and romance. It sets forth the story of the reign of Burmah's notorious King and Queen, from the point of view of a sympathetic member of their court. The author's intimate knowledge of Burmah and the Burmese, and the skill and charm in his manner of imparting it, are known to readers of "The Soul of a People."

John Fox, Jr. A Mountain Europa

192 pages. With Photogravure Portrait. Post 8vo, Cloth, Deckel Edges and Colored Top, $1 25.

A Mountain Europa is the story of a wonderfully beautiful girl of the Kentucky mountains, who is loved by a young wanderer from civilization. The love-affair ends in marriage. On the wedding-day the bride, while shielding her husband from the drunken rage of her father, is killed. The mountain region which forms the setting of this story is vividly depicted.

The edition is to be issued at monthly intervals, beginning with "Jane Eyre," in October.

A LIST OF HARPER & BROTHERS' FALL PUBLICATIONS

Daniel C. Gilman Life and Letters of James D. Dana

With Portraits and Map. Crown 8vo, about 470 pages. Cloth, Ornamental, $2 50.

This biography of the celebrated geologist is delightful reading for two classes of people, the friends and acquaintances of Professor Dana and his family, and all who are interested in the history of the natural sciences in America. The book is interesting, and the editorial work has been admirably done.

Grote History of Greece

In Ten Volumes. Small 8vo, Cloth, $17 50 per set.

A handsome library edition of this standard work.

Leila M. Herbert The First American—His Homes and His Households

Profusely Illustrated. Crown 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, Uncut Edges, Gilt Top. In Press.

An account of Washington's home and family life before entering into politics and after his retirement. The author deals with that part of "the first American's" career which has been neglected by previous biographers, and brings to light much that is new and intensely interesting concerning his character and personality.

William Dean Howells Their Silver Wedding Journey

Two Volumes. About 400 pages each. Special Illustrated Edition. Crown 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, with 84 Full-page Illustrations, 81 Vignette Headings in Text, Uncut Edges and Gilt Tops, $5 00.

This is a story, in Mr. Howells's well-known and charming vein, of Europe revisited by a staid married couple after an absence of twenty-five years. Mr. and Mrs. March, two of Mr. Howells's best characters, rediscover the continent during a sabbatical summer. Throughout the story, mingled with the incidents of the travel, are told the romantic adventures of two youthful Americans whose love-affair is the chief interest of the novel.

Prince Bojidar Karageorgevitch Enchanted India

With Portrait. 305 pages. Gilt Top, Uncut Edges, Crown 8vo, Cloth, $1 75.

The author of this book is a Prince of Servia, who was one of the most intimate friends of Marie Bashkirtseff, and whose name is found very frequently in the pages of her journal. Prince Karageorgevitch has contributed many papers on Art to French and English periodicals, and Enchanted India is dedicated to M. H. Spielmann, editor of the London Magazine of Art. It is simply a description of an extended tour of India, which includes accounts of visits to thirty-eight of the chief cities of the empire. Each city is portrayed in turn with a wealth of description and with a style that fits in admirably with the dreamy sensuousness of the land and people described. The scenes of plague and famine are described with great effect.

Little Books of Lasting Charm

This series of the best selections from best authors has been especially prepared for the holiday trade. The books are dainty little oblong 16mo volumes, of such a size that they may appropriately be used in place of the old-fashioned Christmas card. They are bound in blue cloth, with title and design in silver on both covers. They are printed on cream-tinted laid paper, and each volume contains a frontispiece.

THE FOLLOWING VOLUMES ARE NOW READY:

Ruth McEnery Stuart	The Woman's Exchange
Mary E. Wilkins	Evelina's Garden
John Kendrick Bangs	Cobwebs from a Library Corner (Verses)
Octave Thanet	The Captured Dream
Lew. Wallace	The First Christmas (from "Ben-Hur")
Frederic Remington	Stories of Peace and War
Margaret Deland	Good for the Soul
Richard Harding Davis	Episodes in Van Bibber's Life
James Lane Allen	Two Gentlemen of Kentucky

WITH FRONTISPIECE. FIFTY CENTS A VOLUME

A LIST OF HARPER & BROTHERS' FALL PUBLICATIONS

Albert Lee — He, She, and They

Illustrated by H. B. Eddy. 141 pages. 16mo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1 00.

These sketches, as the sub-title indicates, are descriptions of "woful enjoyments and joyful woes" of a young married couple who are just settled in their housekeeping, and who attend receptions, weddings, house-parties, and other social functions. A veiled romance furnishes continuity to the several sketches, and the little story is told in the form of dialogues at the dinner-table.

Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge — The War with Spain

Profusely Illustrated. 276 pages. Crown 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $2 50.

The first part of this history discusses the entire Cuban question, and the relations which have existed between the United States and Spain during the present century. Of the war itself, its conduct, its campaigns and battles, Senator Lodge gives an admirable description and criticism of the entire fight both on land and sea. It is certainly the only complete and comprehensive history of the war, by an able historian, that will be offered to the American public, and as such deserves a place in every home. It contains no less than eighty full-page illustrations by such artists as R. F. Zogbaum, Carlton T. Chapman, Howard Chandler Christy, Frederic Remington, T. de Thulstrup, and from photographs.

Brander Matthews — A Confident To-Morrow

Illustrated by W. L. Jacobs. About 350 pages. Post 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1 50.

The story is that of a young journalist who comes from Topeka, Kansas, to try his fortune in New York. He becomes editor of a weekly paper, publishes a novel, and eventually, after many ups and downs, marries the girl of his choice.

Franklin Matthews — The New-Born Cuba

391 pages, including 75 Illustrations. Crown 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $2 50.

Appeared first in HARPER'S WEEKLY under the title "The Reconstruction of Cuba." It describes the conditions which existed in Cuba at the end of the war; the difficulties which faced our military representatives on all sides, and the methods by which they gradually brought order out of chaos, and reorganized national, municipal, and individual institutions.

William McLennan — In Old France and New

About 275 pages. With 19 Illustrations. Post 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1 50.

This volume of seventeen short stories by William McLennan, author of "Spanish John" (and, with J. N. McIlwraith, of "The Span o' Life"), opens with a series on the French Revolution. The other stories deal exclusively with the French-Canadian and his surroundings, from historic times down to the present, and include the series "Mon Confrere Melchoir," which was published in HARPER'S MAGAZINE in 1891–92. The interest of the book is enhanced by the excellent drawings of the late Charles S. Reinhart.

Henry Seton Merriman — The Sowers

New Edition. With Illustrations by Charles Mente. 390 pages. Post 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1 50.

F. D. Millet — The Philippine Expedition

Fully Illustrated. About 350 pages. Crown 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $2 50.

F. D. Millet, the author of this work, is an old-time war correspondent, who won fame and fortune in the Turko-Russian war, along with such "specials" as Archibald Forbes, and others equally well known. His narrative is an account of the campaign down to the surrender of Manila. The style is clear and simple and the incidents are grouped with the superior judgment of an old campaigner.

A LIST OF HARPER & BROTHERS' FALL PUBLICATIONS

Charles Moore — The Northwest Under Three Flags

About 300 pages With 60 Illustrations and 3 Maps. Crown 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $2 50.

This book is important because it adds many details to the story of the pioneers of civilization in the Northwest, and corrects also a number of errors and misapprehensions which have been sanctioned by previous narratives. The author also presents the known facts in a more compact form than any historian who has preceded him.

Kirk Munroe — "Forward, March!"

With 20 Illustrations by W. A. Rogers, and from Maps and Photographs. 254 pages. Post 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1 25.

The hero of this tale, like all of Mr. Munroe's boys, is an active, adventurous, self-reliant young man, who enlists as a private in Colonel Roosevelt's regiment of Rough Riders. He speaks Spanish fluently, and on this account is sent as a messenger into Cuba. In making his way across the island he has many narrow escapes, being caught both by the Cubans and the Spaniards. He is imprisoned and sentenced to death by the latter, but manages to get out of his dungeon and finds his way into the mountains, where he meets the Cuban General Garcia. He finally gets into Santiago just before the bombardment of the city, and secures much valuable information for the government. He meets Admiral Cervera, and sees Hobson in prison. He gets safely back to his regiment in time to fight at Las Guasimas and San Juan Hill. He takes part in the destruction of Cervera's fleet, is wounded in the assault on Santiago, and has many other adventures and escapes.

Peter Newell — Pictures and Rhymes

Oblong Quarto, Ornamental, Cloth Covers, Printed in Colors with Gold Lettering, $1 25.

A special holiday collection of the best of Mr. Newell's humorous drawings, with accompanying verses from the pen of the artist. Mr. Newell is a humorist whose droll fancy and fantastic style have made him a favorite with magazine readers of all ages. The present volume includes the best of his drawings which have been published, and should be one of the best holiday books of the season.

Charles M. Pepper — To-Morrow in Cuba

With Maps. Crown 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $2 00.

A philosophical treatise on government in Cuba, and on the people, laws, and customs of the island, with a full discussion of what might be called the "grand politics" of the present situation and the future. It contains much of the history of the various steps that brought about the present condition of affairs in Cuba, much about Campos, Weyler, Blanco, and the various Cuban conspiracies. With great good judgment the moving impulses of the past and the political problems involved in reconstruction are pointed out. The author gives evidence throughout of keen scholarship in research, as well as in political investigation personally.

Julian Ralph — A Prince of Georgia, and Other Tales

162 pages. With 16 Full-page Illustrations by A. E. Sterner, T. K. Hanna, Harry Fenn, and from Photographs. Post 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1 25.

This is a collection of seven of Mr. Ralph's short stories, most of which have appeared in Harper's periodicals. The volume includes "A Prince of Georgia," "When the Clouds Fell Down," "A Dandy at His Best," "The Sad Fate of a New Woman," "Mrs. Ruppert's Christmas," "My Borrowed Torpedo-Boat," and "Bruce's Mighty Weakness."

James Ford Rhodes — History of the United States

Vol. IV. With 12 Maps. About 570 pages. 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $2 50.

The first volume of Rhodes's History of the United States was published in 1893. The history when complete will cover the period from the Compromise of 1850 to President Cleveland's inauguration.

The fourth volume begins with "McClellan's Peninsular Campaign," and ends with the "Re-election of Lincoln."

superior judgment of an old campaigner.

Molly Elliot Seawell Gavin Hamilton

Sometime Lieutenant in the service of the Empress Queen, and afterwards Sir Gavin Hamilton, of Hamilton, Ayrshire, North Britain. A dashing, rattling fellow, of infinite courage, and well acquainted with some of the greatest spirits of the age. A Story of the days of Frederick II. With 6 Illustrations by Edward Edwards. 311 pages. Crown 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1 50.

A good, healthy story of adventure which will be enjoyed by readers of every age.

W. T. Smedley Life and Character

A Special Holiday Collection of Fifty Drawings by W. T. Smedley. Accompanying Text by A. V. S. Anthony. With Portrait Frontispiece and Biographical Sketch of Mr. Smedley by Arthur Hoeber. Quarto, Cloth, Ornamental, 116 pages, $5 00.

G. W. Steevens The Tragedy of Dreyfus

Post 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1 25.

Mr. Steevens is one of the best known English newspaper correspondents, and his recent work, "With Kitchener to Khartoum," has won him a wide reputation as a keen observer and a forceful writer. In The Tragedy of Dreyfus he has made a most important contribution to the literature of this celebrated case. The book is really a vividly drawn picture of the second trial, with a brief résumé of the history of the case from the arrest of Dreyfus up to the order for revision.

Lew Wallace Ben-Hur

New Illustrated Holiday Edition. With Marginal Drawings by William Martin Johnson, and Full-page Illustrations. Two Volumes. 854 pages. 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $4 00 a Set.

H. B. Marriott Watson The Princess Xenia

Illustrated. About 338 pages. Post 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1 50.

A stirring tale of the present day, full of startling situations and adventure.

West Recollections of Sir Algernon West

With Photogravure Portraits. About 550 pages. Crown, 8vo, Cloth, $3 00.

The author of this book was for many years private secretary to Mr. Gladstone, and afterwards chairman of the Inland Revenue Board. The book is of the same character as "Collections and Recollections."

Caspar Whitney Hawaiian-America

With 50 Full-page Illustrations. 357 pages. Crown 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $2 50.

During the summer of 1898 the author made a thorough investigation of the conditions existing in the Hawaiian Islands and of the industrial opportunities they offer to Americans. The result of this survey is contained in Hawaiian-America, which is not only a guide-book for Americans who contemplate Hawaii as a field for industrial enterprise, but also an interesting account of the people and their life.

Dr. John A. Wyeth Life of General Nathan Bedford Forrest

50 Illustrations. 653 pages. 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $4 00.

General Forrest was, perhaps, the greatest cavalry leader that the Civil War produced, and his life was filled with the picturesque incidents which make this biography as interesting as romance. Dr. Wyeth was himself a soldier in the Confederate army, and has devoted years to gathering from private sources and government records the material for this Life.

E. S. Van Zile With Sword and Crucifix

About 300 pages. Illustrated. Post 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1 50.

This is a story of de la Salle's last voyage on the Mississippi. The hero is a French nobleman who had wandered to America to seek his fortune. The heroine is a Spanish beauty, shipwrecked while in search of mining properties granted to her father in Mexico, and rescued by the Sun-worshippers.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN AND COMPANY'S AUTUMN ANNOUNCEMENT OF NEW BOOKS AND NEW EDITIONS

In preparation and to be published during the Autumn of 1899. Arranged alphabetically by names of authors and titles of series

[Prices named are subject to change on publication]

American Statesmen.

Biographies of Men famous in the Political History of the United States. Edited by JOHN T. MORSE, JR.

TWENTY-EIGHT volumes have already appeared in this Series, which ranks among the most valuable books published in America, and which represents in the attractive form of biography the most salient features in the political history of the United States, beginning with the years just preceding the Revolution and coming down to the close of the Civil War. Three more volumes will soon be added, namely: —

Salmon P. Chase. By ALBERT BUSHNELL HART, Professor of History in Harvard University.

Charles Sumner. By MOORFIELD STOREY, Esq., of the Boston Bar.

Charles Francis Adams. By CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS, author of "Richard Henry Dana," "Three Episodes of Massachusetts History," etc.

Each in one volume, with a full index, 16mo, gilt top, $1.25.

These will be important additions to the Series of American Statesmen, giving it a certain completeness up to the conclusion of the epoch of the Civil War. In that epoch these three men were conspicuous figures, representing at once the ablest statesmanship, the most unimpeachable patriotism, the most efficient endeavor to promote in different ways the safety and honor of the nation. The great career of Salmon P. Chase, the Anti-Slavery advocate, United States Senator, Governor of Ohio, Secretary of the Treasury, and Chief Justice of the United States, is adequately depicted by Professor Hart, whose valuable works on American History command general respect; the majestic devotion of Charles Sumner to the highest political ideals before and during his long years of lofty service to Freedom in the United States Senate, is fitly delineated by Mr. Moorfield Storey, who writes with discrimination yet with fine appreciation; and the sturdy character, the unflinching resolution, and the wise statesmanship of Adams in America, and the masterly ability and consummate diplomatic skill displayed by him while Minister to England, will shine in the vigorous narrative of his distinguished son.

Edmund H. Bennett.

¶ THE FOUR GOSPELS FROM A LAWYER'S STANDPOINT. By EDMUND H. BENNETT, late Dean of the Law School of Boston University. 1 vol. 16mo, $1.00.

JUDGE BENNETT, who for many years held the office of Dean of the Boston University Law School, was recognized as an authority in his profession ; a man of uncommon clearness of mind and with a profound sense of the value of facts. An important paper read by him before a Church Congress is now reproduced in the book above named. It is an argument to show from the point of view of a lawyer that the testimony to the historical validity of the four Gospels is such as to convince any rational mind. He glances at the peculiarities of each Gospel, cites confirmations of their truth from the several Gospels, discusses their variations and alleged inconsistencies, and concludes that "by undesigned coincidences, by indirect confirmations, by unexpected corroborations, by natural and for the most part easily reconcilable differences, scattered throughout these four histories, may we be abundantly convinced of the truth and the harmony of the Gospels."

Fanny D. Bergen.

¶ ANIMAL AND PLANT LORE. Vol. VII. of the Memoirs of the American Folk-Lore Society. Collected from the Oral Tradition of English-Speaking Folk. Edited and annotated by FANNY D. BERGEN, editor of Vol. IV., entitled "Current Superstitions." With Introduction by J. Y. Bergen. 1 vol. 8vo, $3.50 net.

MOST of the facts embodied in this volume are derived not from books, but largely from persons who have communicated them to the author. The various superstitions, customs, and beliefs here recorded are, therefore, a distinct addition to the literature of folk-lore. No collection made in Great Britain is in any degree comparable in richness and instruction to Mrs. Bergen's two volumes. They throw a flood of light on the popular beliefs and usages of the less cultivated English-speaking people. Both the chapters devoted to Animal Lore and those devoted to Plant Lore treat of amulets, charms and divinations, omens, weather signs, and folk-medicine. The book is a treasure-house of curious and fantastic theories and consequent practices adopted by various peoples, and becoming a part of the traditions which are so important to the historian and the student of human nature.

Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

¶ COMPLETE POETICAL WORKS OF ELIZABETH BARRETT BROWNING. Cambridge Edition. With a Biographical Sketch, Introduction, Notes, Indexes to Titles and First Lines, a Portrait and an engraved Title-page with a vignette. 1 vol. large crown 8vo, $2.00.

THIS is an excellent addition to the Cambridge Edition of Poets. There is no question of Mrs. Browning's title to a place in the noble company. Her great intellectual power, her breadth of scholarship, her wide range of sympathy, her imaginative genius, and her mastery of poetic expression, give her a high rank among the poets of this century. Her poems will appear in a single volume edited by Miss Harriet Waters Preston, and produced in the style of the Cambridge Edition, which is generally recognized as an almost ideal form for the comprehensive and orderly grouping and judicious editing of the works of the great poets.

Robert Browning.

ℭ THE COMPLETE WORKS OF ROBERT BROWNING. New Riverside Edition. With Introductions and Notes by GEORGE WILLIS COOKE, and Portraits. 6 vols. crown 8vo, gilt top, bound in new and attractive library style, $9.00. (Sold only in sets.)

THIS is a very desirable Library Edition of Browning's Complete Poetic and Dramatic Works. It is based upon the previous Riverside Edition, which conformed to the latest London Edition revised by Mr. Browning; and it is enriched with a valuable body of Notes by G. W. Cooke, author of the admirable "Guide-Book to the Poetic and Dramatic Works of Robert Browning." These Notes are so discriminating and written from so full knowledge that they afford just the help needed by many students of Browning. The volumes contain six portraits of Browning taken at various stages of his literary career.

W. Wilfred Campbell.

ℭ BEYOND THE HILLS OF DREAM. Poems by W. Wilfred Campbell. 1 vol. 16mo.

MR. CAMPBELL has for years enjoyed an enviable reputation among Canadian lovers of poetry, but he has not won in the United States the generous reading to which his undoubted gifts as a poet entitle him, because his poems have not been published in this country. A handsome volume of these will be brought out this season, including those which Mr. Campbell regards as of greatest worth, and it is altogether within bounds to claim for the book a genuine popularity among those who can appreciate its sterling qualities of variety, thoughtfulness, high and serious purpose, wide range of fancy, and distinct power of lyrical expression.

A. J. Carlyle.

ℭ LIFE OF BISHOP LATIMER. By Rev. A. J. CARLYLE. 1 vol. 12mo, $1.25.

THIS volume on Latimer fitly belongs in the Series of English Religious Leaders. In the first half of the sixteenth century the temptation was very strong to induce a man who had any opinions in politics or religion to keep out of sight as much as possible. But Latimer was conspicuously in sight when not under arrest, and his record as a preacher, a bishop, a reformer, and at last as a martyr, with Ridley, gives the story of his life an enduring interest.

Charles W. Chesnutt.

¶ THE WIFE OF HIS YOUTH AND OTHER STORIES. By CHARLES W. CHESNUTT, author of "The Conjure Woman." 1 vol. 16mo.

"THE Conjure Woman" has produced so strong an impression of Mr. Chesnutt's power and literary skill as a story-writer that a new volume of stories from him will be heartily welcomed. Especially will it appeal to all who read the title-story when it appeared in The Atlantic Monthly, and was generally recognized as one of the most effective and convincing stories of the year. The other tales in this volume cover a wide field of subjects, but all possess a kind of interest which is rarely excited by a book of short stories. These may well be called short novels, they are so strong and full of character.

Frank Samuel Child.

¶ AN UNKNOWN PATRIOT. By FRANK SAMUEL CHILD, author of "A Puritan Wooing," etc. Illustrated. 1 vol. 12mo.

LYING near Long Island Sound, within reach of attacks from British men-of-war, and situated on the highway between New York and Boston, the town of Fairfield, Connecticut, is fitly chosen as the scene of a hitherto unwritten chapter in the history of the War for Independence — the Secret Service. Major Tallmadge, one of Washington's confidential agents and the officer who cared for Major André after his arrest, had charge of the Secret Service; and this shore town was made a centre of whaleboat warfare and spy activity.

The principal actors in the story are a brother and sister, David and Desire Hardy, whose home is the constant meeting-place of the young patriots in Fairfield, and Duane Hardy Livingstone, their cousin, a personal friend of Tryon, the royal governor of New York. These three are in constant communication with the leaders of the Revolution. Aaron Burr was their comrade; Nathan Hale was well known to them; Dorothy Quincy invited them as her friends to her wedding with John Hancock; Washington they met when he visited the town.

The story opens picturesquely, giving an excellent account of the Revolutionary disturbances in Connecticut, weaving into the romance a large amount of historical material recently discovered and now first given to the public. The leading characters stand out clearly — living and delightful personages.

Charles H. Davis.

¶ LIFE OF CHARLES HENRY DAVIS, Rear Admiral, 1807–1877. By his son, Captain CHARLES H. DAVIS, U. S. N. With a photogravure Portrait. 1 vol. 8vo, gilt top, $3.00.

ADMIRAL DAVIS was one of the most noteworthy of the men who have held high rank in the American Navy. He was distinguished for the capacity and efficiency which caused him to rise steadily through the successive grades in the navy, and for the great services he rendered to his country in the War for the Union at Fort Pillow, Memphis, Vicksburg, and other points; and beyond most admirals he was distinguished as a man of science, and for years was the Superintendent of the Naval Observatory at Washington. His son here tells the story of his life in a clear, strong style, and the book possesses much positive value for those who are interested in the War for the Union or in the growth of the United States Navy. One feature of the work, of special interest, is that it gives an insight into the superb system of discipline and training which has made the navy what its remarkable history has shown it to be under the great admirals of the past, and under Dewey and Sampson in our own day.

Caro Atherton Dugan.

¶ THE KING'S JESTER, AND OTHER SHORT PLAYS FOR SMALL STAGES. By CARO ATHERTON DUGAN. 1 vol. square 12mo.

THESE Plays, written for and acted by the children of Mrs. Henry M. Whitney, of Brookline, Mass., must be a great boon to persons who are looking for short, simple, natural plays for use in private theatricals, or in schools. There are eleven of them, all carefully and skillfully written, and all free from the sentimentality which spoils so many plays otherwise acceptable. Among the plays are fresh and delightful settings of old favorites such as Cinderella, the Sleeping Beauty, the Apple of Discord; and others somewhat less known or a little more elaborate, — The Queen's Coffer, a story of the Douglas; Pandora; The King's Jester, a story of King Francis; Nino's Revenge, from a story of Naples in the Middle Ages, etc. The plays are thoroughly good, and Miss Dugan furnishes stage directions, costumes, and music for such songs as are given.

Ralph Waldo Emerson.

¶ LETTERS AND PASSAGES FROM LETTERS OF RALPH WALDO EMERSON TO A FRIEND, 1838–1853. Edited by CHARLES ELIOT NORTON. 1 vol. 16mo, $1.00.

THESE letters will make a little book about the size of the Correspondence between John Sterling and Mr. Emerson. Who the fortunate friend was to whom Mr. Emerson wrote them, the public is not to know at present. But it is enough that the letters are Emerson's. No assurance is needed of the high order of thinking, the kindness of judgment, and the felicitous form of utterance. Those who value Mr. Emerson's genius and character will gladly welcome such expression of these as this volume contains. They will value it all the more that it appears with the editing of Mr. Norton.

Caroline Leslie Field.

¶ NANNIE'S HAPPY CHILDHOOD. By CAROLINE LESLIE FIELD, author of "The Unseen King, and Other Verses," and "High-Lights." With a cover design and illustrations by Walter S. Green. 1 vol. square 12mo, $1.00.

THIS story is very much what its name suggests. It is a story of children, and is quite sure to give delight; for Mrs. Field has in her own home had the best of opportunities to observe what children like most to do, what thoughts and fancies people their minds, what visions and dreams make life a Fairyland to them. These form the basis of her story, which records the bright sayings and interesting doings of Nannie and her companions, and weaves into it many a pleasant thread of kind suggestion, a wise and winning interpretation of childhood's oracles, and a loving sympathy that never fails. In short, it is a very attractive story for children and their mothers, falling in the same charming class with "The Story of Little Jane and Me," "A Little Girl of Long Ago," etc.

John Fiske.

THE DUTCH AND QUAKER COLONIES IN AMERICA. By JOHN FISKE. With 8 Maps. 2 vols. crown 8vo, gilt top, $4.00.

THIS work, which is one of the most significant portions of Mr. Fiske's American history, is a work of remarkable importance and probably the most distinctive contribution of this year to historical literature. It comes next in sequence to Mr. Fiske's "Beginnings of New England." It begins with a concise survey of the political and social condition of the Netherlands in the Middle Ages, and the first chapter concludes with the mutterings of revolution soon after the accession of Philip. The second chapter points out the remarkable influence exerted by the Netherlands upon England from the fourteenth to the seventeenth century, and traces the rapid growth of Dutch maritime power after 1580. The third chapter deals with the voyages of Verrazano and Hudson, and has something to say about Norumbega. Next comes the founding of the Dutch West India Company and the earliest Dutch settlements on the Hudson River. Graphic sketches are given of the directors of New Netherland, — Van Twiller, Kieft, and Stuyvesant. The fortunes of the patroons, the disputes with the men of New England, Kieft's terrible war with the Indians, and the struggles of the Dutch colonists for self-government, are described with considerable detail. The changing relations between the governments of England and the Netherlands are always kept in sight, and the first volume comes to a dramatic conclusion with Stuyvesant's surrender of Manhattan to that most genial of conquerors, Colonel Nicolls. The second volume contains a description of the city of New York in 1680, an account of the Duke of York's autocratic governors and their administrations, and a brilliant narrative of the Leisler troubles. A sketch of the rise of the Quakers and the early life of William Penn leads to the "holy experiment" of the founding of Pennsylvania. A chapter entitled "The Citadel of America" gives the history of New York as the pivotal province in the great struggle with France, which began with the accession of William III.; it covers the administrations from Fletcher to Cosby, ending with the famous trial of Peter Zenger for libel. Sketches of Knickerbocker society and the Quaker commonwealth follow, and the volume ends with an account of the results of the liberal Dutch and Quaker policy in introducing into North America a large population from France, Germany, and the north of Ireland.

A CENTURY OF SCIENCE AND OTHER ESSAYS. By JOHN FISKE. 1 vol. crown 8vo, $2.00.

Contents: A Century of Science; The Doctrine of Evolution, its Scope and Purport; Edward Livingston Youmans; The Part played by Infancy in the Evolution of Man; The Origins of Liberal Thought in America; Sir Harry Vane; The Arbitration Treaty; Francis Parkman; Edward Augustus Freeman; Irish Folktales; Forty Years of Bacon-Shakespeare Folly; Some Cranks and their Crotchets.

THIS volume illustrates in some good degree the range and variety of Mr. Fiske's intellectual interests. It includes science, evolution, biography, political science, folk-lore, and the freak side of human nature. The three personal papers concerning friends are models of brief biography, showing admirable discrimination, generous appreciation, and noble sympathy.

The other papers, notably A Century of Science, The Doctrine of Evolution, The Origins of Liberal Thought in America, and The Arbitration Treaty, are masterpieces of broad survey, skill in grouping facts and tendencies, and condensing into a brief space the results of wide study and well-marshaled thoughts. The book is one of the most interesting and most valuable group of essays in recent literature.

Grover Flint.

℄ MARCHING WITH GOMEZ. A War Correspondent's Field Note-Book, kept during Four Months with the Cuban Army. By GROVER FLINT. Illustrated by the author, from Sketches made in the Field. With an Historical Introduction by JOHN FISKE. 1 vol. 12mo, $1.50.

THIS book has heretofore been published by Messrs. Lamson, Wolffe & Co. It is not one of the numerous books on the American war with Spain, but deals entirely with the operations of the Cuban insurgents against the Spanish army. The Nation says of it: "He gives us not only the most novel and entertaining relation of the insurrection yet written, but so far as it goes the most authentic. Mr. Flint was peculiarly fitted for his task." Mr. Fiske's introduction adds much to the value of the book. It gives a sketch of the general history of Cuba, and an account of events leading to the late war, and a comparison of English and Spanish methods of civilization.

Mary Hallock Foote.

℄ THE LITTLE FIG-TREE STORIES. By MARY HALLOCK FOOTE, author of "Cœur d'Alene," "The Led-Horse Claim," etc. With a cover design and Illustrations. 1 vol. square 12mo.

NINE stories make up this appetizing book for youthful readers. Their titles are as follows: Flower of the Almond and Fruit of the Fig, The Lamb that could n't "Keep Up," Dream-Horses, An Idaho Picnic, A Visit to John's Camp, November in the Cañon, The Gates on Grandfather's Farm, The Garret at Grandfather's, The Spare Bed-Room at Grandfather's. This is a very attractive list, and the stories fulfill the good promise of their titles. Whether writing of the Rocky Mountains or of New York or New England, Mrs. Foote keeps her foot on the solid ground; she is a very truthful story-teller, and very interesting. Her stories grow out of her own rich experience and careful observation, and it is believed that these Fig-tree stories will easily rank among her best. A pretty cover design and illustrations add to its attractions.

John Murray Forbes.

℄ LETTERS AND RECOLLECTIONS OF JOHN MURRAY FORBES. Edited by his daughter, SARAH F. HUGHES. With Portraits. 2 vols. 8vo, gilt top, $5.00.

SEVERAL features combine to render this work one of uncommon interest. Mr. Forbes was a man of remarkable force and quality of character, a leader among business men, a prince among public benefactors. He had in a rare degree the power in the world of affairs which Turgot had in military affairs, to "organize victory;" and he had an almost ideal public spirit, comprehending what was best for his town and State and country, and having the efficient will to bring it to pass. Mr. Emerson, who was a shrewd judge of character, held Mr. Forbes to be an American of the noblest type.

Mr. Forbes wrote an autobiography, which is highly interesting for its views of men and events and in its comments and reflections. As he was acquainted with nearly all the leading Americans of his time, the personal allusions are numerous and of great interest.

This autobiography has been carefully edited, and many letters by and to Mr. Forbes have been added. The book is one of the most notable which the year will bring in the department of biography.

I. K. Friedman.

¶ POOR PEOPLE. A Novel. By I. K. FRIEDMAN, author of "The Lucky Number." 1 vol. 16mo.

THIS is the age of Success, especially in the struggle for Money. But therefore it is also the age of Failure, the conspicuous triumph of the few very often entailing loss on the many. Mr. Friedman is interested in the "under dog;" he has carefully studied tenement life, and this novel deals with its experiences, its labor, its hardships, its follies, as well as its heroisms and fidelities, its views of life and its romance. The characters include a playwright, a watchmaker, a woodcarver, a furniture-maker, a saloon-keeper, a shoemaker who is also a witch doctor, a fortune-teller, and others. Mr. Friedman's story shows the conscientious care with which he has observed life in this social level, by no means the lowest; also the kindly sympathy he feels for those who need it. The story ought to find a wide reading.

Nicholas P. Gilman.

¶ A DIVIDEND TO LABOR. By NICHOLAS P. GILMAN, author of "Socialism and the American Spirit," "Profit Sharing between Employer and Employee," etc. 1 vol. crown 8vo.

THIS is the attractive title of a forthcoming novel and instructive volume. Professor Gilman conceives the dividend to labor (outside of wages, which he does not here discuss) as direct or indirect. The indirect dividend is the subject of the larger part of the volume. After three preliminary chapters on the moralization of the labor contract, the model employer, and Robert Owen the manufacturer, the author presents in concise form a large body of authentic and cheering information about "employers' institutions" in Europe and America. The closing portion of the volume — on the direct dividend — is devoted to profit sharing. Extended accounts of four notable applications of this system and a careful summary of its present condition bring the narrative down to date. Like Professor Gilman's work on "Profit Sharing," A Dividend to Labor should have much interest for liberal-minded employers and students of social questions.

Washington Gladden.

¶ HOW MUCH IS LEFT OF THE OLD DOCTRINES? By WASHINGTON GLADDEN, D.D., author of "Who Wrote the Bible?" "Seven Puzzling Bible Books," etc. 1 vol. 16mo, $1.25.

DR. GLADDEN'S voice on religious questions is always so clear and calm that multitudes are glad to listen to it. They will heartily welcome his new book, which aims to show how the doctrines of the Christian Church have been modified by recent thought, and especially by the prevalence of evolutionary theories; in what form they are held to-day by the most thoughtful people in the evangelical churches. The fifteen chapters treat: The Belief in God; How the Worlds were made; What is the Supernatural? What is the Bible? Is there a Personal Devil? What do we inherit? The Doctrine of the Trinity; The Word made Flesh; How Christ Saves Men; Predestination; Conversion; The Meaning of Baptism; The Significance of the Lord's Supper; The Hope of Immortality; The Thought of Heaven. The book will surely do much to clear the thinking and confirm the faith of those who read it.

William Elliot Griffis.

¶ THE AMERICAN IN HOLLAND. Sentimental Rambles in the Eleven Provinces of the Netherlands. By WILLIAM ELLIOT GRIFFIS, D. D., author of "Brave Little Holland," "The Pilgrims in their Three Homes," etc. With a Map and Illustrations. 1 vol. 12mo.

DR. GRIFFIS likes Holland very much, and the Hollanders seem to like Dr. Griffis equally well. He has made five journeys in Holland, has studied its history on the spot, has written of its virtues and glory; and Holland has virtually if not formally given him the freedom of all her cities, dikes, castles, and churches. In this book he gives in an unconventional way the rich results of his tour through Holland. He takes the eleven provinces in order, and tells what he saw and what he knows of the places visited, — describes the towns, the story of their battles and sieges, their share in the Pilgrim inheritance. At Dokkum in Friesland he sees the "giants' graves," the Frisian women with golden headplates, and the peasants who naturally believe Friesland the mother-land of the whole world.

On his journey he gathers legends, the stories of castles, the unwritten history of the country; at Middleburg he is peculiarly enthusiastic, for this is the native town of the Dutch Reformed Church, the earliest stronghold of religious liberty, the cradle of English and American freedom. All this is merely a hint of the varied interest of the book, which ends with a description of the Coronation of Queen Wilhelmina, which Dr. Griffis had the good fortune to witness.

Louise Imogen Guiney.

¶ THE MARTYRS' IDYL, AND SHORTER POEMS. By LOUISE IMOGEN GUINEY, author of "A Roadside Harp," "A White Sail," "Songs at the Start," etc. 1 vol. 16mo.

THIS is Miss Guiney's first book of verse since "A Roadside Harp" appeared, in 1893. The title poem is historical and falls gracefully into dramatic form. It is the story of the imprisonment and death of Saint Didymus and Saint Theodora, who are commemorated on the same day, in April, in the Roman Calendar. Didymus and Theodora perished at Alexandria in the Diocletian persecution of the Christians. Miss Guiney has handled detail with an imaginative hand, however, and has not hesitated to introduce several original episodes.

The shorter poems, about twenty-five in number, are all lyrical, and perhaps a shade more grave than "A Roadside Harp;" but they show more repose, greater depth of feeling, with no loss in force or in thought. Miss Guiney's poetry appeals distinctly to lovers of verse, and she can confidently assure herself, in Sir Philip Sidney's phrase, that its music is "to some ears not unsweet."

Ruth Hall.

¶ THE BOYS OF SCROOBY. By RUTH HALL, author of "In the Brave Days of Old." With a Frontispiece illustration. 1 vol. 12mo, $1.50.

READERS of "In the Brave Days of Old" will find "The Boys of Scrooby" an equally novel and exciting tale of the colonies.

It relates the adventures of three brothers, Hugh, Jack, and Stephen Crisholm, separated by the chances of their period and, after the Independents' flight from England in 1608, concerned in notable events on both sides of the sea. Hugh is kidnapped by the "spirits," wrecked in the Sea-Venture, and becomes a witness to the Jamestown massacre; Jack, as attendant of the Princess Elizabeth, suffers in the first of the Thirty Years' War before he reaches Fort Orange, where Albany now stands, in the days of the Patroons; Stephen is one of the Pilgrims, and the chapters relating to his life are crowded with strange, true stories of Plymouth.

The book ought to be even more popular than its predecessor. It weaves historic facts into a series of sharply-drawn pictures, while it inculcates the highest lessons of honor and duty without a word of direct moralizing.

Ella Isabel Harris.

¶ TWO TRAGEDIES OF SENECA. Rendered into English Verse, and with an Introduction, by ELLA ISABEL HARRIS. 1 vol. 12mo, 75 cents.

THIS book belongs in the series of translations of Classics inaugurated by Professor George H. Palmer's noble version of the Antigone of Sophocles, and continued by Mr. Paul E. More's adequate translation of the Prometheus Bound of Æschylus. It is worthy of this honor because of the high character of the original, the evident scholarship of the translator and her thorough comprehension of Seneca, and the effective form of the translation. It is not a student's "pony;" it is literature, — Seneca rendered into English which English scholars, as well as lovers of the Classics, can respect and enjoy.

Joel Chandler Harris.

¶ PLANTATION PAGEANTS. By JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS, author of the Thimblefinger and Uncle Remus stories, "Sister Jane," etc. With illustrations by E. BOYD SMITH. 1 vol. square 8vo, $2.00.

THIS is a continuation of Mr. Harris's delightful Thimblefinger stories, although Little Mr. Thimblefinger does not figure in it. But Sweetest Susan is here, also Buster John and Drusilla, and other characters well known to Thimblefinger readers, — Aaron, Big Sal, Jemimy, and Aunt Minervy Ann.

The scene opens on the plantation just after General Sherman's army has marched away on its course to the sea and the negroes are declared free. Aunt Minervy Ann visits the plantation and tells the children a story of "Brer Rabbit and the Goobers;" a strange wagoner drives by with a baby christened Billy Biscuit; the children meet Mr. Bobs, who blows a big bubble, into which they enter and meet the fairies of dreams; Aaron takes them to see a fox of his acquaintance, named Scar-Face, and with him a fine fox-hunt is planned, with Hodo, the champion fox-hound, as leader of the chase; the fate of old Scar-Face is described; Cawky, the crow, Mr. Coon, and Flit, the flying-squirrel, relate their biographies; the story of Brother Fox's Diamond Mine is told; and so on, with other adventures as interesting as Mr. Harris ever created, and described in his simple and most engaging style. Stories and pictures make this one of the most interesting of the Thimblefinger books.

Bret Harte.

℄ MR. JACK HAMLIN'S MEDIATION, AND OTHER STORIES. By BRET HARTE. 1 vol. 16mo, $1.25.

THE other stories are: The Man at the Semaphore; An Esmeralda of Rocky Cañon; Dick Spindler's Family Christmas; When the Waters were up at Jules'; The Boom in the Calaveras Clarion.

Jack Hamlin bids fair to be immortal, and Mr. Harte's readers will be delighted to have him so. He is a most available character, so superbly alert, so rough and ready, so omniscient in his way, and frequently doing judicious, thoughful, humane acts which seem hardly to fall within the requirements of his profession. He figures very creditably in the first story of this volume, and brings order to a chaotic family. The other stories are all of California, the scenes and characters are wholly Bret Harte's, and the stories are told with the perfection of narrative skill, the humor, the graceful abandon, and the inimitable literary charm which make Mr. Harte's books the delight of readers.

Nathaniel Hawthorne.

℄ THE MARBLE FAUN. By NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE. Roman Edition. With Forty-eight full-page Pictures. 2 volumes.

THE remarkable success attending the publication of the Holiday Edition of the Marble Faun, and the continual demand for this classic in illustrated form, have led the publishers to prepare a new and less expensive edition, which will combine the features of a handsome gift-book with a richness of illustration which will make it the vade mecum of every visitor to Rome. The full-page pictures will be forty-eight in number, the volumes carefully printed, and attractively and appropriately bound in the Roman style.

℄ WORKS OF NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE. Concord Edition, handsomely printed and bound with flat full-gilt backs. Sold only in sets. 25 volumes, small 16mo, price $25.00.

A NEW and beautiful edition, finely printed on choice paper. Each volume will contain a handsomely decorated title-page and frontispiece, prepared specially for this edition. The binding will be most attractive, the books being finished with flat full-gilt backs and gilt top. The size, small 16mo, together with the flexibility of the binding, renders the Concord Edition most comfortable for the reader, as well as a handsome addition to the library shelves.

The great fame of Hawthorne justifies the publication of his works in every form which shall commend them to the means and tastes of readers. This edition will present them in an uncommonly attractive form, yet at a very moderate price.

Caroline Hazard.

¶ THE NARRAGANSETT FRIENDS' MEETING IN THE EIGHTEENTH CENTURY. With a Chapter on Quaker Beginnings in Rhode Island. By CAROLINE HAZARD, author of "Narragansett Ballads," "College Tom," etc. 1 vol. crown 8vo.

IN her previous writings Miss Hazard has proved the diligence and thoroughness with which she has studied the history of Rhode Island, and has justified the honorable pride she takes in its good fame. The Narragansett country is to her classic ground, and she delights in the vigor, the virtues, and the customs of those who have dwelt in it. In her present book she draws from unprinted records a clear and interesting account of its social and religious life in the eighteenth century, and devotes a valuable chapter to the Quaker beginnings in Rhode Island. Though necessarily somewhat local in character, Miss Hazard connects the events she describes with the larger historic movements of the time.

Thomas Wentworth Higginson.

¶ CONTEMPORARIES. By THOMAS WENTWORTH HIGGINSON, author of "Cheerful Yesterdays," etc. 1 vol. 12mo, $2.00.

The subjects treated in this interesting volume are: Emerson, Alcott, Theodore Parker, Whittier, Whitman, Lanier, An Evening with Mrs. Hawthorne, Mrs. Child, Helen Jackson ("H. H."), John Holmes, Dr. Thaddeus W. Harris, A Visit to John Brown's Household, Garrison, Phillips, Sumner, Dr. S. G. Howe, General Grant, The Eccentricities of Reformers, and a group of celebrities whom Colonel Higginson met in England.

THIS book has much of the charm which made "Cheerful Yesterdays" so uncommonly delightful. It is a book of reminiscences, of character sketches of famous persons whom Colonel Higginson knew — most of them intimately; and is marked by the perfect clearness, discrimination, kindly judgment, delicious humor, and the literary felicity which in so high and rare degree characterize Colonel Higginson's writings.

THE AFTERNOON LANDSCAPE. Poems and Translations. $1.00.
THE MONARCH OF DREAMS. 16mo, 50 cents.
WENDELL PHILLIPS. 4to, paper, 25 cents.

THESE books have been taken over by Messrs. Houghton, Mifflin & Company from Messrs. Longmans, Green & Co. They furnish an admirable representation of Colonel Higginson's literary versatility, since they include romance, essay, biography, history, and poetry; they also show in very delightful fashion the firm lightness of his touch, his fine humor, and the rare literary charm of his style.

Florence Holbrook.

¶ THE HIAWATHA PRIMER. By FLORENCE HOLBROOK, Principal of the Forestville School, Chicago. German Edition. Fully illustrated. 1 vol. 16mo, cloth, 75 cents.

THE Hiawatha Primer in English has been so highly successful that it has been translated into German for the use of the many thousands of school children who each year begin the study of that language. A portion of the book has already been used in classes of these children with highly satisfactory results. The Hiawatha story, from Longfellow's "Song of Hiawatha," is put in a form very attractive to children, and the illustrations, both plain and colored, add greatly to its interest. The Primer contains 139 pages of reading text, 8 full-page colored illustrations, 4 full-page black and white illustrations, and 65 part-page illustrations in black and white or silhouette. It is printed from clear German type and script. This last is vertical, which has been proved vastly superior to the slanting script.

Oliver Wendell Holmes.

¶ COMPLETE POETICAL WORKS OF OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES. Cabinet Edition, printed from entirely new plates, with a fine Portrait surrounded by an engraved border which frames it very attractively, numbered lines, and Indexes to Titles and First Lines. 1 vol. 16mo, gilt top, $1.00.

WHEN the Cambridge Edition of Dr. Holmes's poems was published, it contained in an Appendix a number of early poems which had been dropped out of many editions of the poet's writings, though retained for the most part in the Riverside Edition. In making this Cabinet Edition it has been thought best to include these early poems, since they have acquired a firm hold on the affections of readers. This edition therefore contains, without reserve, everything which has appeared in verse from the hand of Dr. Holmes, and in its compact form, large type, with full indexes, and line numbers for the longer poems, is the handiest single volume of his poetry yet issued. The portrait is exceptionally satisfactory, and with its framed border has an attractive distinction. The binding is firm, simple, and tasteful.

¶ THE BREAKFAST-TABLE SERIES. By OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES. Including "The Autocrat of the Breakfast-Table," "The Professor at the Breakfast-Table," "The Poet at the Breakfast-Table," and "Over the Tea-Cups."

Atlantic Edition. Printed from large type, on choice paper, and bound in specially attractive style. 4 vols. crown 8vo, gilt top, in box, $6.00. (Sold only in sets.)

THE famous Breakfast-Table series is here presented in a moderate priced, compact yet handsome form, apart from the other writings of its distinguished author. In the Atlantic Edition will be found large type, a very high grade of paper, fine press work, and a binding admirably adapted in its decoration to the contents of the volumes.

Perhaps the most distinct impression Dr. Holmes made in the field of literature was that produced by his Breakfast-Table books. The delightful combination in them of wisdom, agility in presenting a subject in various lights and illuminating it with irresistible humor, appreciation of the views and limitations of others, and special facility in illustrative analogy, gave these books an indescribable charm. The Atlantic Edition groups them in a very inviting form.

A. A. Hopkins.

¶ GERALDINE. A Souvenir of the St. Lawrence. By A. A. HOPKINS. New Edition. With Illustrations. 1 vol. crown 8vo, $1.50.

THIS capital story in verse, which has often been compared to Owen Meredith's "Lucile," for years enjoyed a remarkable popularity, although none of its thousands of readers knew who was the author. The wide acquaintance of Mr. Hopkins and the many attractions of the story, the charm of its poetic qualities and its association with the St. Lawrence River, give "Geraldine" a strong hold on popular favor. A new edition will soon appear, bound in attractive style and illustrated with many effective designs from nature.

Julia Ward Howe.

¶ REMINISCENCES, 1819–1899. By JULIA WARD HOWE. With twenty-four illustrations, including many Portraits. 1 vol. 12mo.

MRS. HOWE is unquestionably one of the small number whose reminiscences are sure to be worthy of preservation. Her wide experience in the best society of America and Europe, her fine intellectual equipment and culture, her noble devotion to the highest philanthropies of her time, and her literary eminence, — all these guarantee the large variety, the uncommon personal interest, and the flavor of a rich nature in the volume of reminiscences which Mrs. Howe has written. A list of the distinguished and interesting men and women Mrs. Howe has known would comprise nearly all of the most illustrious persons of America in her day and of those best worth knowing in Europe. Besides her anecdotes and allusions concerning these, her book contains the facts and memories of her life which have left the deepest impression on her mind, her views of literature and life, her aspirations for womankind and for the race, and her mature reflections on the interests and principles which most ennoble humanity and make life worth living.

¶ IS POLITE SOCIETY POLITE? AND OTHER ESSAYS. By JULIA WARD HOWE. With a Portrait of the Author. 1 vol. square 8vo, $1.50.

THE title essay of this book, "Is Polite Society Polite?" was written for a course of lectures given some years ago by the New England Woman's Club of Boston. The other papers comprise "Greece Revisited," first read before the Town and Country Club of Newport; "Aristophanes" and "Dante and Beatrice," written for the Summer School of Philosophy at Concord; "The Halfness of Nature," first read before the Boston Radical Club; "The Salon in America," prepared for the Contemporary Club of Philadelphia; and an essay on Paris which has been read before many audiences in all parts of this country.

The book in some good degree represents the variety and range of Mrs. Howe's intellectual interests and moral sympathies, the breadth of her culture, her equal appreciation of genius and of common sense, and her ideal of a thoroughly sane and just civilization.

William De Witt Hyde.

¶ GOD'S EDUCATION OF MAN. By WILLIAM DE WITT HYDE, D. D., President of Bowdoin College, author of "Practical Idealism," etc. 1 vol. 16mo.

DR. HYDE is distinctly modern in the activity and progressiveness of his spirit, yet he holds in highest reverence the great legacies of thought and faith which we inherit from the past. He seeks to state the commanding doctrines of the religious life and thought in forms that appeal to the experience of men to-day. In this book Dr. Hyde considers God as a teacher, and all humanity as belonging to the Divine school, in process of education. The spirit of this education, its method, its purpose, its successes, and its seeming failures, — these are treated with much acuteness of thought and set forth in a style of great vigor. The book is akin to Dr. Gordon's "The Christ of To-day," and will commend itself to a wide circle of thoughtful readers.

Joseph Jacobs.

¶ AS OTHERS SAW HIM. A Retrospect, A. D. 54. By JOSEPH JACOBS. New and Enlarged Edition. 1 vol. 16mo, $1.25.

THIS is one of the most interesting and suggestive books ever written on the relation between Jesus and the conscientious, cultivated Jews about him. Mr. Zangwill speaks of it as "a remarkable reconstruction of the life of Christ as seen through the eyes of a Jew of his day, yet in reality expressing the changed attitude of the Jew of our own day toward Jesus, and paving the way to a possible compromise between modern Judaism and modern Christianity." The new edition contains a chapter continuing the "retrospect" to a later date than that of the previous edition, and lending fresh interest to a very notable book.

Sarah Orne Jewett.

¶ THE QUEEN'S TWIN, AND OTHER STORIES. BY SARAH ORNE JEWETT. 1 vol. 16mo, $1.25.

THIS volume will contain the following stories: The Queen's Twin; Where's Nora? Bold Words at the Bridge; Martha's Lady; The Coon Dog; Aunt Cynthy Dallett; The Gray Mill of Farley; The Night before Thanksgiving.

When "The Queen's Twin" appeared in The Atlantic Monthly, it was greeted with the heartiest welcome as one of the best stories of the year, and one of Miss Jewett's most delightful tales. Of its kind it is simply perfect, and its kind is one of the most interesting and most wholesome elements in modern literature. If the Queen were to read the story, she would love her loyal, simple-hearted twin, and be glad that so true and sympathetic an artist had portrayed her. This story properly holds the place of honor in Miss Jewett's new volume, but it is only the first of a group of stories of which all bear the impress of fine observation, notable skill in description, generous humor, and a peculiarly delicate yet firm literary touch.

¶ BETTY LEICESTER'S CHRISTMAS. By SARAH ORNE JEWETT. With a cover design and other illustrations. 1 vol. square 12mo, $1.00.

WHEN "Betty Leicester" appeared, this very judicious comment was made: "It is rather difficult to find the right kind of books for girls of fifteen and sixteen, and they are apt to experience a craze at this age for the silliest and most harmful kind of third-rate novels; but 'Betty Leicester' is just the right kind of story to put into such a girl's hands. It is bright, healthy, natural, and interesting to the reader from first to last. It is thoroughly friendly and companionable." Betty went to England soon after she inspired that story, and there she had a charming variety of good times, seeing famous places and people, and enjoying all her unfamiliar experiences. The most remarkable of these were connected with the Christmas season, and they are delightfully described in the story Miss Jewett tells. The book is brought out in an attractive style, and will be an unusually suitable holiday gift.

John Keats.

¶ THE COMPLETE POETICAL WORKS AND LETTERS OF JOHN KEATS. Cambridge Edition. With Biographical Sketch, Notes, Indexes, a portrait, and an engraved title-page with a vignette. 1 vol. large crown 8vo, $2.00.

THE Poems of Keats, which belong to the world's permanent and delightful literature, will be brought out in the same form and with the same general treatment which have proved so satisfactory in the volumes already issued in the Cambridge Edition. The editorial equipment will include accuracy of Text, a Biographical Sketch, Notes, and Indexes to Titles and First Lines; and the lines of the longer poems will be numbered.

The Letters of Keats, beside their specific reference to his poems, so illustrate and interpret the poet's character and aims, that the editor has included the entire body of them in this volume, to the great advantage of the special student and general reader.

Ellen Olney Kirk.

¶ DOROTHY AND HER FRIENDS. By ELLEN OLNEY KIRK, author of "The Story of Margaret Kent," "Dorothy Deane," etc. With illustrations. 1 vol. 16mo, $1.25.

A LADY who had read to her eight-year-old boy again and again Mrs. Kirk's "Dorothy Deane" wrote to Mrs. Kirk to express her obligation to her on the ground that "there are so very few bright, healthy, child-like stories, though plenty of childish ones," adding, "from you who write for the older ones this seems to have come as a happy inspiration, so I venture to ask you, Won't you please do it again?"

Mrs. Kirk has complied with this pleasant request, and has done it again. Very many children in different parts of the country have asked Mrs. Kirk to tell them what happened to Dorothy after she went to live near New York, and how Marcia grew up. This has led Mrs. Kirk to write the story of "Dorothy and Her Friends." Besides the old friends of Dorothy, there are a half-dozen or more new ones: the odd acquaintances which Jinny picked up in a queer way, the four children at the rectory, and the delightful Bevises and their attractive place, and Captain Narraway, who introduces them to all sorts of sea adventures. This book promises to be no less popular and every way charming than "Dorothy Deane."

Prince Kropotkin.

¶ REMINISCENCES OF MY LIFE. By P. KROPOTKIN, author of "Fields, Factories, and Workshops." With two Portraits. 1 vol. small 8vo.

HARDLY any man of this generation has had a more varied and adventurous career than that of Prince Kropotkin, the famous Russian revolutionist. He belongs to the oldest Russian nobility, was for some years a page in the imperial court, became chamberlain to the Czarina, and early achieved distinction as a scientific student. Becoming involved in the revolutionary movements in Russia, he was arrested as an anarchist in 1873, his property was confiscated, and he was imprisoned in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul in St. Petersburg. After an imprisonment of three years he escaped under most thrilling circumstances, and continued to preach revolution in Switzerland and later in France, where he was again imprisoned. Latterly he has resided in England, where he has written much in favor of his social and political theories.

In this volume Prince Kropotkin tells the extraordinary story of his life, and apart from the intense interest of it as personal experience, it is of very great value as interpreting and illustrating European political and social conditions.

Jeanie Gould Lincoln.

¶ A PRETTY TORY. By JEANIE GOULD LINCOLN, author of "Marjorie's Quest," "A Genuine Girl," "An Unwilling Maid," etc. 1 vol. 12mo, illustrated.

THE scene of Mrs. Lincoln's "Pretty Tory" is laid in and around Savannah, Georgia; the time is the closing period of the American Revolution, 1780 and '81; and the book ends with the battle of Cowpens. One of its leading characters is Colonel Tarleton, a British officer, then but twenty-six years old. The hero is Roy Selfair, a patriot, one of Marion's men. Both Tarleton and Selfair are desperately in love with the "pretty Tory," and the story revolves about the development of this romantic situation. Colonel Marion, "the Swamp Fox," and General Morgan, the "Border Eagle," figure in the story, which abounds in dramatic and exciting incidents. Readers of Mrs. Lincoln's other books know how well she tells a story and will enjoy this Revolutionary romance.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

ℭ COMPLETE POETIC AND DRAMATIC WORKS of HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW. New Cabinet Edition. From new plates, with fine Portrait, numbered lines, and Indexes to Titles and First Lines. 1 vol. 16mo, gilt top, $1.00.

THIS Cabinet Edition of Longfellow's Poetic and Dramatic Works includes "Christus," which did not appear in previous editions with his poems; it also includes all the translations made by Longfellow except Dante and some short translations not embraced in his latest collective edition. It holds the entire body of poetry authorized by the poet, together with the posthumous poems published by his representatives after his death. The edition is printed from new plates, of type much larger than that of the former Cabinet Edition; the lines in the longer poems are numbered; and prefixed to the volume is a fine portrait framed in an engraved border which sets it forth very effectively. The book is brought out in a strong, tasteful binding, and is in all respects a remarkably good inexpensive edition of Longfellow's poetical works.

ℭ THE COMPLETE POETIC AND DRAMATIC WORKS of HENRY WADSWORTH LONGFELLOW. Illustrated Octavo Edition. With a Portrait and between 300 and 400 illustrations. 1 vol. 8vo, full gilt, $3.50.

THE Illustrated Octavo Edition of Longfellow on which this is based has always deserved the popularity it has enjoyed. It is now made more desirable than ever before, by including poems not contained in former editions, so that it is now complete; and by considerable additions to the illustrations, which were already very numerous. It is a far more convenient book than the previous edition, although containing considerably more matter, and is bound in an entirely new and very attractive style.

James Russell Lowell.

ℭ COMPLETE POETICAL WORKS of JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL. New Cabinet Edition, from new plates. With a fine Portrait, numbered lines, and Indexes to Titles and First Lines. 1 vol. 16mo, gilt top, $1.00.

THE last year of his life Mr. Lowell carefully revised his poems for the Riverside Edition. Subsequently his literary executor, Mr. C. E. Norton, issued a final posthumous collection, and the Cambridge Edition followed, including all the poems in the Riverside Edition, and the poems edited by Mr. Norton. The present Cabinet Edition contains all the poems in the Cambridge Edition. It is made from new plates, of type much larger than that of the former Cabinet Edition, and for the convenience of the student the longer poems have their lines numbered, and indexes of titles and first lines are added. A very fine portrait of Mr. Lowell is prefixed, framed in an engraved border which gives it a noble distinction. The binding is simple, tasteful, and durable, and Lowell's complete poetical works are here presented in a form compact, inexpensive, and altogether attractive.

Francis Lynde.

¶ THE HELPERS. By FRANCIS LYNDE, author of "A Romance in Transit." 1 vol. 12mo, $1.50.

THIS is a present-day story of the New West. Henry Jeffard, a young civil engineer of New England, goes to Denver to make a fortune. Here he gets out of the virtuous path he had securely walked before and becomes a castaway, until he is rescued by a simple-hearted miner who takes him afield on a prospecting trip. The quest for silver fails, but Jeffard discovers gold on his friend's abandoned claim, and from the impulse this gives, and the helpings of Constance Elliott and other loyal hearts, comes the regeneration of the castaway.

The charm of the story is in its strong human interest. The characters, especially the hero and heroine, are very real; the dialogues and descriptions are particularly good; and the style is careful and felicitous. In short, it is a thoroughly enjoyable story, and Mr. Lynde tells it effectively.

Alexander McKenzie, D. D.

¶ THE DIVINE FORCE IN THE LIFE OF THE WORLD. By ALEXANDER MCKENZIE, D. D., author of "A Door Opened." With Photogravure portrait. 1 vol. 12mo, $1.50.

THIS volume, which contains Dr. McKenzie's Lowell Institute lectures, was formerly published by Lamson, Wolffe & Co. Rev. Dr. Richard S. Storrs, writing of it in The Congregationalist, says: "The volume is alive with fine, various, animating thought, conveyed in a literary form of singular freshness, vigor, and piquant beauty. The series of subjects presented is of vast compass, reaching from the creation to the final coming on earth of the Divine Kingdom. The fine intelligence and the liberal learning with which each is handled are always in evidence." Dr. Thomas S. Hastings in the New York Evangelist, after describing the work, remarks: "We close this volume refreshed and strengthened. It nerves one's faith, renews one's courage, and it fills one with a new hopefulness to read such a book as this."

Rufus Mann.

¶ THE PRELUDE AND THE PLAY. By RUFUS MANN. 1 vol. crown 8vo, $1.50.

THE scene of the first part of this story is laid in one of our oldest university towns. Its heroine, a college girl of talent and distinction, marries the captain of a victorious eleven. They go West to live; absorbed in business and politics the husband gives less than due thought to his wife and home. Disappointed, she goes to Europe, and he follows later to win her back. This is a meagre outline of an uncommon story. In the brilliant conversations and in the conduct of the narrative the author shows great familiarity with the actual life as well as with the ideals of a university. Much skill and subtle discrimination are evinced in picturing the gradual alienation of husband and wife and in reuniting them when each better understands the other. The story is evidently written by one moving in a large world of thought and experience and is likely to cause no little discussion.

Helen Bigelow Merriman.

¶ RELIGIO PICTORIS. By HELEN BIGELOW MERRIMAN, author of "What Shall Make Us Whole?" Artistically printed and bound. 1 vol. 12mo.

MRS. MERRIMAN became very favorably known to a large circle of readers by her previous book above named. She is also known as an artist of high gifts and as grasping in an uncommon degree the principles and methods of art. In her present volume, from the standpoint of an artist, and making her appeal to the methods and principles which are accepted in the world of art, with much insight and originality she endeavors to unfold the fundamental unity which exists between things material and spiritual, secular and religious. She seeks to show that in the relation and interaction of the two the secret of existence is to be found. This conception is developed with much acuteness and power, and has helpful illustrations throughout the book in the practical questions of both belief and conduct. The book deals with the problems of life and religion in a profound and illuminating way. Its spirit is deeply reverent, and the book is well fitted to give inspiration and leading to multitudes who to-day, distracted by the conflicts between knowledge and faith, find little or no comfort in formal creeds.

Lloyd Mifflin.

¶ SONNETS, rendering into English Selections from Bion, Moschus, and Bacchylides. By LLOYD MIFFLIN, author of "The Slopes of Helicon" and "At the Gates of Song." 1 vol. 12mo.

MR. MIFFLIN, whose remarkable mastery of the sonnet as well as his genuine poetic gift has been proved in the two volumes he has before printed, now undertakes the difficult task of reproducing in English sonnets poems of three of the most famous of Greek lyric poets. He does not attempt to give a strictly literal rendering, but to preserve the spirit of the original in an English form more poetical. This method, which would hardly satisfy pedantic scholarship, is infinitely wiser, since it presents these charming lyrics so as to delight lovers of poetry who do not read Greek, but to whom all genuine poetry is a joy. Mr. Mifflin's sympathetic appreciation of Oriental life and manners adds a special grace to his translation.

Theodore T. Munger, D. D.

¶ HORACE BUSHNELL. By THEODORE T. MUNGER, D. D., author of "On the Threshold," "The Appeal to Life," etc. With two Portraits of Dr. Bushnell. 1 vol. 12mo, $2.00.

BOTH the writer and the subject of this book strongly commend it to public attention. Dr. Bushnell was for many years one of the brightest and clearest lights of the American pulpit. With a mind of uncommon originality, a poetic imagination, a profound love and reverence for truth, and a remarkable power of clear and forcible statement, he was of a character to illustrate and reinforce the truths he preached. He had the misfortune, or the good fortune, to be in advance of the main body of the ecclesiastical army to which he belonged; and this exposed him to the bullets of those in his rear as well as the arrows of those in front. He received both in the manliest fashion; he could truthfully say: "I have fought a good fight; I have kept the faith."

And both the fighting and the keeping have given him a great name among American religious leaders.

Dr. Munger would seem to have been foreordained to write Dr. Bushnell's Life. Having so much in common with Dr. Bushnell, with so deep sympathy with his religious views and attitude, and with strong admiration of his character and work, Dr. Munger is peculiarly fitted to interpret him to this generation, and to erect an enduring memorial to him.

William Wells Newell.

℄ SONNETS AND MADRIGALS OF MICHEL ANGELO BUONARROTI. Rendered into English verse by WILLIAM WELLS NEWELL. With Italian text, Introduction, and Notes. 1 vol. 16mo.

IF the verses of Michel Angelo had come down as the work of an anonymous hand, their extreme beauty would have obtained for the unknown writer a place among poets of the first rank. Considered as the productions of the first of artists, of whose emotions and character they constitute an intimate revelation, they possess an additional value quite exceptional. Of these poems Mr. Newell has selected fifty, which he has provided with lucid renderings, intended to be read with pleasure simply as English poems. An account of Michel Angelo as poet and suitable notes supply a key to the verse. The addition of the Italian texts will be appreciated by readers who desire to possess the thoughts of the artist in their original form.

Omar Khayyám.

℄ THE RUBÁIYÁT OF OMAR KHAYYÁM. Rendered into English verse by EDWARD FITZGERALD. Edited with Introduction and Notes by WILLIAM AUGUSTUS BROWN. Edition de Luxe, limited to 300 copies printed on hand-made paper. 8vo.

THE Second Edition of Fitzgerald's superb translation of the Rubáiyát of Omar Khayyám for some cause has never been treated with the special consideration it deserved, since it contained several quatrains of rare excellence, not included in some other Editions. This is now reprinted, together with additional quatrains from the First Edition and variants found in the Third and Fourth Editions.

Advantage has been taken of this issue to produce a book which in all details shall be a distinct contribution to the number of rare and artistic volumes. It will be printed on carefully selected hand-made paper, in a beautiful English type little known in this country.

The book will be printed in red and black throughout, but, with the exception of several initial letters cut on wood, will carry no decoration or illustration, reliance being placed on the dignity and simplicity of its typography to secure that harmony of effect inseparable from the best book-making. The binding will be in keeping with the character of the work, simple and artistic.

The Edition is so limited that the volume cannot fail to become at an early date a rare and exceedingly valuable book, unique in collections of the Rubáiyát.

Elizabeth Stuart Phelps.

¶ LOVELINESS: A STORY. By ELIZABETH STUART PHELPS, author of "A Singular Life," "The Story of Jesus Christ," etc. Illustrated. 1 vol. square 12mo, $1.00.

INTO this very striking story Mrs. Ward has put the most effective touches of her genius, and with characteristic grace has lent it to the support of a humane cause. Loveliness is a dog, a silver Yorkshire terrier, blue of blood and delicately reared, although he had had his sensibilities disturbed by such unflattering epithets as window-washer, scrubbing-brush, feather-duster, and footmuff. He is the pet, almost the object of worship, of his little five-year-old invalid mistress. The sagacity and charm of the terrier, his many canine virtues, his affection for his little mistress, and the intelligence and self-sacrifice with which he saved her life, — all these are set forth in Mrs. Ward's most effective style. So are the dismay which is caused by the stealing of the dog, the possible peril of his falling a victim to experimental "science," the learned helplessness of the professor in attempting to find his darling's treasure, and what followed. It is not only a deeply interesting story, but a pungent appeal for humaneness. Several illustrations add to the effect of the story and its moral.

The Riverside Art Series.

THE primary object of this series is to furnish books which shall supply a manifest lack in the equipment of American schools to-day. There is a special demand for small, inexpensive volumes which shall furnish clear, simple, intelligent guidance to a knowledge of the world's masterpieces of Art, and to an appreciation in some degree of the different styles and products of the greatest artists.

The Riverside Art Series will not consist of technical handbooks of Art, but will give such an account of the characteristic works of great artists as will enable youthful readers to gain some fair conception of the special pictures brought to their attention, and will inspire a love of Art.

A bibliography will be added of the best books relating to the lives and works of the several artists. The volumes will be of moderate size, and both in contents and in price will be specially adapted for the use of schools.

The first volume in the series will be ¶ RAPHAEL. A collection of Fifteen Pictures and a Portrait of the Painter, with Introduction and Interpretation. Edited by ESTELLE M. HURLL, author of "The Life of Our Lord in Art," and editor of the Illustrated Edition of Mrs. Jameson's Art Works. 1 vol. 16mo.

THIS book opens with an admirable brief Introduction on Raphael's character as an artist, followed by a sketch of Books of Reference, an Historical Directory of the pictures by Raphael given in the book, Collateral Readings from Literature, an Outline Table of the principal events in Raphael's Life, a list of Raphael's Contemporaries. Then somewhat full descriptions are given of The Madonna of the Chair, Abraham and the Three Angels, The Miraculous Draught of Fishes, The Sacrifice at Lystra, Heliodorus driven from the Temple, The Liberation of Peter, The Holy Family of Francis I., St. Catherine of Alexandria, etc.

In preparation:

REMBRANDT. MICHAEL ANGELO.

The Riverside Aldine Classics.

A NEW series of books designed to set forth examples of the most eminent American writings in prose and verse in a form which shall carry forward the traditions of the great Venetian printer, Aldus Manutius, as revived and confirmed for English readers by William Pickering, the disciple of Aldus. As the Chiswick Press, under Mr. Pickering's guidance, produced in the middle of this century the choicest books, as regards harmony of type, page, and paper, free from eccentricities, and justly termed elegant by virtue of the proportions they regarded, so the Riverside Press now undertakes at the close of the century to follow these incomparable models, and to issue a series of books which shall please cultivated taste by their unaffected beauty and simplicity.

The following volumes will shortly appear in this series: —

H. W. LONGFELLOW.

EVANGELINE.

JOHN G. WHITTIER.

SNOW BOUND AND OTHER PERSONAL POEMS.

JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL.

SIR LAUNFAL AND THE GREAT ODES.

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES.

THE ONE HOSS SHAY, AND OTHER POEMS.

NATHANIEL HAWTHORNE.

THE SNOW IMAGE AND OTHER TWICE TOLD TALES (making a new selection of these last.)

These volumes will be 16mo, printed and bound in artistic style. Price, 50 cents each.

Riverside Literature Series.

THIS sterling group of books, containing in admirable form the best literature for use in schools, carefully edited and annotated, now comprises one hundred and thirty-four regular numbers. To these will soon be added, —

135. CHAUCER'S PROLOGUE, AND THE NUN'S PRIEST'S TALE. Edited, with Introductions, Notes, and a Glossary, by FRANK JEWETT MATHER, Jr., Assistant Professor of English and the Romance Languages in Williams College, Williamstown, Mass. Paper, 15 cents, net.

136. CHAUCER'S KNIGHT'S TALE. Edited, with Introductions, Notes, and a Glossary, by Professor Mather. Paper, 15 cents, net.

(135 and 136 in one volume, linen, 40 cents, net.)

Other numbers in preparation.

The Octavo Scott.

¶ THE COMPLETE POETICAL WORKS OF SIR WALTER SCOTT. Revised, corrected, and edited, with Notes and Commentaries, by WILLIAM J. ROLFE. With 350 illustrations. 1 vol. 8vo, $3.50.

THIS is probably the most satisfactory illustrated edition yet published of the Complete Poetical Works of Sir Walter Scott. Dr. Rolfe, who is widely known by his editions of many poets, has done a vast deal to render this edition of Scott complete and accurate; and the pictorial features of the work are so numerous and so attractive that this edition should find its way into all libraries and all households that take delight in Scott. It is brought out in much more convenient form than before, and is bound in an entirely new and attractive style.

Horace E. Scudder.

¶ THE BOOK OF LEGENDS. Gathered and rewritten by HORACE E. SCUDDER. With a frontispiece. 1 vol. 16mo.

MR. SCUDDER some years since published The Book of Fables and The Book of Folk Stories, for which he rewrote in simple style the most popular fables and folk stories, — and these books have proved so popular with young readers and so acceptable to their parents and teachers, that he now offers a similar book of legends. He has chosen some twenty of the most famous legends, — The Flying Dutchman, William Tell, The Wandering Jew, The Legend of Saint Christopher, The Dog Gellert, The Proud King, The Bell of Justice, etc., and has rewritten them in a simple but attractive style. They make a little book for which it is safe to promise a delightful success.

F. Hopkinson Smith.

¶ THE OTHER FELLOW. By F. HOPKINSON SMITH, author of "Caleb West, Master Diver," "Tom Grogan," etc. With illustrations. 1 vol. 12mo, $1.50. Large-Paper Edition, limited to 300 copies, printed on hand-made paper, and bound in boards with paper label, $3.00 net.

"The Other Fellow" includes: Dick Sands, Convict; A Kentucky Cinderella; A Water-Logged Town; The Boy in the Cloth Cap; Between Showers in Dort; One of Bob's Tramps; According to the Law; "Never had no Sleep;" The Man with the Empty Sleeve; "Tincter ov Iron;" Five Meals for a Dollar.

MR. SMITH'S genius is equally good for a short spurt or a long pull. It is quite needless to tell our readers what sort of novels "Caleb West" and "Tom Grogan" are. The hundreds of thousands who have read them with eager delight are swift witnesses to the freshness, the strength, the grasp, and the uncommon interestingness of these novels. And the readers of "A Day at Laguerre's" and "A Gentleman Vagabond and Some Others" are just as prompt to testify to the pleasure which these two volumes of stories have given them.

Mr. Smith's new book contains eleven stories told with the dash, the practiced skill, and the dramatic effect of his other volumes; and the fortunate hosts who have read these, and those who have heard him read his own stories, will eagerly welcome this attractive volume.

The Large-Paper Edition, limited to 300 copies, will be substantially uniform in style with the beautiful large-paper editions of "A Gentleman Vagabond" and "A Day at Laguerre's," which were in such demand that they were taken up immediately on publication.

Nora Archibald Smith.

¶ UNDER THE CACTUS FLAG. A Story of Life in Mexico. By NORA ARCHIBALD SMITH, author of "The Children of the Future;" joint author, with Mrs. Wiggin, of "The Republic of Childhood," "The Story Hour," and "Children's Rights." With 8 illustrations. 1 vol. 16mo, $1.25.

THE flag of Mexico has in its centre an eagle perched upon a cactus plant. This suggests the title to the story of Mexican life which Miss Smith has written. Even in her story-telling she is loyal to the profession of teacher, in which she has done such admirable work. Her own experiences furnish the incidents, the haps and mishaps, of the heroine, who is a teacher; and the winning traits of the Mexican boys and girls of the story are those which charmed her in her pupils. While in Mexico Miss Smith learned many folk-songs which have not before been recorded, and these she weaves into her tale, which is quite out of the beaten track and ought to find a host of eager readers.

Edmund Clarence Stedman.

¶ AN AMERICAN ANTHOLOGY. By EDMUND CLARENCE STEDMAN. 1 vol. large 8vo.

THIS companion volume to "A Victorian Anthology" has been eagerly awaited since the appearance of the latter book in 1895–96. The English collection is in continuous demand, but, to American readers at least, this volume has even more elements of interest than its predecessor. The two books are uniform in shape, design, and editorial detail. The relation between "Victorian Poets" and "A Victorian Anthology" is repeated in that between "Poets of America" and "An American Anthology," except that in his new book Mr. Stedman has extended his view beyond the limit of the American critical treatise in order to represent the work of various recent poets. As a legacy from the nineteenth to the twentieth century, this final compilation thus derives a more inclusive value.

A book so purely American could not be better timed than at a crisis which bids fair to be the inauguration of a new era in all fields of our national life and art. It would be hard for the anthologist to find a range more inviting than is covered in these 800 pages, containing a record of our lyrical production from the early years of the nation to the present day.

On its technical side the work is, in logical and chronological order, the last of Mr. Stedman's remarkable series on modern poetry of the English tongue. "Nature and Elements of Poetry," "Victorian Poets," "Poets of America," "A Victorian Anthology," and "An American Anthology" form a group which henceforth must find a place in every well-chosen library.

Harriet Beecher Stowe.

¶ UNCLE TOM'S CABIN. By HARRIET BEECHER STOWE. New Library Edition. With an Introduction by Mrs. Stowe giving an account of the writing and reception of the story, a Portrait, and over 100 illustrations. 1 vol. 12mo, $1.50.

THIS is believed to be a more thoroughly satisfactory library edition of Mrs. Stowe's world-famous story than has ever before appeared. It is printed in large type on good paper and bound in entirely new and handsome style. It contains Mrs. Stowe's Introduction, which gives in full the extremely interesting account of the writing of Uncle Tom's Cabin. It has a photogravure portrait of Mrs. Stowe, a photogravure frontispiece and title-page, and over one hundred illustrations. In its pictorial features, typography, paper, and binding, it is an admirable library edition of this marvelous tale.

¶ UNCLE TOM'S CABIN. New Popular Edition. With an Introduction giving the history of the writing of the story, a Portrait, and 15 full-page Illustrations by E. W. KEMBLE. 1 vol. 12mo, $1.00.

THE Popular Edition of Uncle Tom's Cabin has in this greatly improved issue been enriched with fifteen full-page pictures by Mr. Kemble, whose genius in depicting negro characters is well known; and with its type of good size and its new and attractive binding it is now a remarkably desirable, inexpensive edition of a book which is of so peculiar significance and has so unique a history that it should be owned by every American family.

Alfred, Lord Tennyson.

¶ THE POETIC AND DRAMATIC WORKS OF ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON. New Household Edition. With a Biographical Sketch, numbered lines, Indexes to Titles and First Lines, a Portrait, and 127 Illustrations. 1 vol. crown 8vo, $1.50; full gilt, $2.00.

THIS is an entirely new and excellent library issue of Tennyson's Poetic and Dramatic Works in the popular Household Edition. It is produced on practically the same lines as the original edition, but with entirely new plates of larger type, and with such a revision of the illustrations as was possible under the improved conditions. The text is that of the Cambridge Edition, scrupulously followed. A brief biographic sketch has been provided, and suitable indexes have been furnished. The illustrations have been selected with great care from the best designs, made to accompany the poems by English, American, and French artists, and have been reinforced also by portraits and representations of historic buildings. In repeating the important series by Millais, Rossetti, La Farge, Vedder, and others, recourse has been had to early impressions, and sometimes to the original blocks, to secure clearness of line and freshness of color. The total number of illustrations has been largely increased, and this is the most thoroughly illustrated Tennyson thus far offered to the public.

The large body of Tennyson's poetic and dramatic works, when thus increased in bulk by so many illustrations, makes the problem of producing a convenient single volume very difficult; but by the choice of a compact page, the use of a thin opaque paper, and great care in printing, the problem has been very successfully solved. The binding is from a new and artistic design, and is treated so as to secure firmness and a readiness in opening which is very agreeable.

¶ POETIC AND DRAMATIC WORKS OF ALFRED, LORD TENNYSON. New Cabinet Edition, from new plates, with a fine Portrait, numbered lines, and Indexes to Titles and First Lines. 1 vol. 16mo, gilt top, $1.00.

THIS new Cabinet Edition of Tennyson's Poems is based on the admirable Cambridge Edition, recently published, and edited with scrupulous care by Dr. W. J. Rolfe to secure accuracy of text. This text is here reproduced word for word, with the punctuation, and line numbers are inserted in the longer poems. The volume is printed on opaque paper from entirely new plates of much larger type than that of the former Cabinet Edition. A new portrait is prefixed, framed in an engraved border which gives it distinction. The binding is strong and tasteful, and the book would seem to be in all respects an ideal, inexpensive edition of Tennyson.

Everett T. Tomlinson.

¶ A JERSEY BOY IN THE REVOLUTION. By EVERETT T. TOMLINSON, author of "The Boys of Old Monmouth," etc. With Illustrations. 1 vol. crown 8vo, $1.50.

THE skill of Mr. Tomlinson in recalling the events and illustrating the heroic spirit of the Revolutionary days is no less conspicuous in this book than in "The Boys of Old Monmouth." The story is founded on the lives and deeds of some of the humbler heroes of the Revolution. For the most part the incidents and adventures of the tale are historical, and based on actual records. Mr. Tomlinson describes the perils and efforts of these forgotten men and women to protect themselves and their homes against invading armies, and also against lawless Americans, who took advantage of the stormy times to plunder friends as well as foes. New Jersey suffered heavily from these harpies, and Mr. Tomlinson graphically describes their villainies and the sturdy pluck of the nameless patriots. His book stimulates admiration for the great principles and worthy actors of the Revolutionary struggle, and tells a thoroughly interesting story.

Charles Dudley Warner.

¶ BACKLOG STUDIES. By CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER. Holiday Edition. With twelve illustrations and thirteen chapter heads by EDMUND H. GARRETT. 1 vol. 12mo. Edition de Luxe, limited to 250 copies, printed on hand-made paper, with the illustrations on Japanese paper.

MR. WARNER'S distinguishing qualities as a writer have never been more attractively exemplified than in his Backlog Studies. With a delightful mingling of observation, description, wisdom, and humor, he here writes of criticism, the great New England pie-line, the furnishing of rooms, women novelists, the clothes question, life at Concord, social popularity, and the personality of authors in their books. The book has enjoyed a high degree of popularity, which will now be increased by twelve full-page illustrations and thirteen chapter heads by Mr. Garrett, who has given abundant proof of his special skill in illustrating books relating to New England life. The book will be brought out in attractive style, and ought to form a very acceptable addition to the catalogue of Holiday gifts.

Letters to Washington.

¶ LETTERS TO WASHINGTON, VOL. II. 1756–1758. Edited by STANISLAUS MURRAY HAMILTON. 8vo, $5.00, net.

THE term covered by the letters in this volume is between two and three years. The letters are from many men, for the most part influential Virginians. Governor Dinwiddie contributes several letters, largely about military affairs which were so much in Washington's charge. There are some from John Carlyle, of Alexandria, reporting his efforts to procure London finery, tools, blankets, etc. Captain

Peter Hog writes that he has a fine supply of beef, but a deficiency of cash. Honorable Speaker John Robinson writes at length about the ravages of the enemy on the frontiers, and about properly garrisoning the forts. Other correspondents are Colonel John Stanwix, Colonel William Fairfax, Colonel Fielding Lewis, Captain George Mercer, and scores besides. Like the previous volume it throws illuminating sidelights on the time and on the character of the men who figured prominently as leaders and advisers.

Benjamin Ide Wheeler.

¶ DIONYSOS AND IMMORTALITY: The Greek Faith in Immortality as affected by the rise of Individualism. Being the Ingersoll Lecture for 1899. By BENJAMIN IDE WHEELER, President of the University of California. 1 vol. 16mo, $1.00.

THIS is the third Ingersoll Lecture delivered at Harvard University, the first being Dr. Gordon's "Immortality and the New Theodicy," and the second, Professor James's "Human Immortality: Two Supposed Objections to the Doctrine." President Wheeler's lecture is a noble continuation of the high order of thought reached in the first two lectures, but differs widely from them. His firm historic grasp of Greek life and philosophy, his fine appreciation of the range and quality of Greek thought, and his uncommon power of clear and definite statement, give remarkable value and interest to this volume.

Richard Grant White.

¶ WORDS AND THEIR USES. By RICHARD GRANT WHITE, author of "Every-Day English," "Studies in Shakespeare," etc. New Edition, from new plates. 1 vol. crown 8vo, $2.00. School Edition, 16mo. $1.00, net.

MR. WHITE performed an excellent service when he wrote this book. He was a cultivated gentleman, fastidious though vigorous in his use of language, sensitive to unjust treatment of words as if he were their protector. The book has called the attention of multitudes to infelicities and inaccuracies of expression, and it is altogether safe to say that hundreds of thousands of Americans speak more exactly and more properly from having read or studied Mr. White. The constant demand for this book has required the preparation of a new edition which will soon appear, from new plates, more attractive in form, equipped for a new lease of life in families and schools.

Adeline D. T. Whitney.

¶ SQUARE PEGS. By ADELINE D. T. WHITNEY, author of "Faith Gartney's Girlhood," "Real Folks," "We Girls," etc. 1 vol. 12mo, $1.50.

THE frequent attempt to put square pegs in round holes has suggested to Mrs. Whitney the title of the present story. Its fitness is illustrated in the pronounced individuality of the leading characters and the difficulty they find in adjusting their convictions to the conventional framework of society.

It touches some of the continual problems of life, taking them as they present themselves to the experience of a young girl who enters early into their questions and determines them for herself, simply but positively.

It is young in life, but mature in interpretation; there are young and old in it; there are fun and seriousness; there are the ideal and the practical. Mrs. Whitney endeavors to reconcile all these into their fitness and service one to another.

Mrs. Whitney has chosen to set it in a period which she has known best, rather than in that from which time and habit have retired her; but it holds the human nature and essential truth which belong to all periods, and cannot fail to be read with profound interest by the large circle to which a new book by Mrs. Whitney brings peculiar joy and inspiration.

John Greenleaf Whittier.

℄ THE TENT ON THE BEACH. By JOHN GREENLEAF WHITTIER. Holiday Edition. With 12 full-page photogravure illustrations, by CHARLES H. WOODBURY and MARCIA O. WOODBURY. 1 vol. 12mo.

THE Tent on the Beach is a delightful product of Whittier's imagination. It may be described as falling into the same pleasant group with Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales" and Longfellow's "Tales of a Wayside Inn." The Tent was located on Hampton Beach, which was the scene of "The Wreck of Rivermouth." The three friends, the guests of summer time, included Mr. James T. Fields, —

> "A lettered magnate lording o'er
> An ever-widening realm of books;"

Mr. Whittier, —

> "a dreamer born,
> Making his rustic reed of song
> A weapon in the war with wrong;"

and Mr. Bayard Taylor, —

> "One whose Arab face was tanned
> By tropic sun and boreal frost."

The three recited brief poems, including The Wreck of Rivermouth, The Changeling, The Maids of Attitash, and others.

"The Tent on the Beach" will now appear in Holiday array, the special attraction being twelve full-page designs by Mr. Charles H. Woodbury and Mrs. Marcia O. Woodbury, whose skill in depicting New England scenery and characters is well and most favorably known. The book promises to be a Holiday favorite.

℄ COMPLETE POETICAL WORKS OF JOHN G. WHITTIER. New Cabinet Edition, from new plates, with a fine Portrait, numbered lines and Indexes to Titles and First Lines. 1 vol. 16mo, attractively bound, $1.00.

THIS Cabinet Edition contains the poems collected, arranged, and revised by Mr. Whittier, not long before his death, for the Riverside Edition of his writings, and which are included in the Cambridge Edition. It is printed from new plates, of type much larger than that of the previous Cabinet Edition; the lines of the longer poems are numbered, and indexes to titles and first lines are added. Prefixed to the volume is a fine portrait, surrounded by an artistic engraved border which frames it beautifully. The book is brought out in strong, tasteful binding, and is a compact, attractive, and inexpensive edition of Whittier's Complete Poetical Works.

Kate Douglas Wiggin.

¶ THE BIRDS' CHRISTMAS CAROL. By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN. A New Edition from new plates. With Illustrations. 1 vol. square 12mo, in new and attractive binding, 50 cents.

THE great popularity of this story, of which hundreds of thousands of copies have been sold, has made it necessary to bring out a new edition from a new set of plates. It is bound in a new style, so that it now appears in a more attractive form than ever before. The wonderfully interesting and touching story, which is already one of the best known of American books, bids fair to have a long lease of yet greater popular favor.

John S. Wise.

¶ THE END OF AN ERA. By JOHN S. WISE. 1 vol. crown 8vo, $2.00.

THE era here described is that which for the Southern States came to an end with the surrender of General Johnston to General Sherman in 1865. The author is the son of Henry A. Wise, who was one of the leaders of Virginia, and his acquaintance with what was best in Southern society was intimate. His story describes antebellum life in Virginia, its social charm and its peculiar characteristics; the excitement of the John Brown invasion, and the interior political and social life of Richmond when his father was governor. It recounts his years in the Virginia Military Institute, his participation in battles before he was seventeen, his experience and observations in Petersburg during its siege and in Richmond before the city was taken, his hunt for Lee's army by direction of Jefferson Davis, and his presence at the surrender of Johnston. It gives a remarkably vivid and accurate inside view of the Confederate States, and is at once very valuable and interesting.

Barbara Yechton.

¶ A YOUNG SAVAGE. By BARBARA YECHTON, author of "We Ten," "Derick," etc. 1 vol. 12mo.

JUANITA KYLE is the "young savage," whose father had rapidly made a fortune in Colorado. She had led the free, unconventional life of the far West, riding, shooting, dancing with ranchers. Her father, wishing to give her social training, secures her a home in a New York family, once rich but reduced in fortune, refined and judiciously kind. How she at first shocked the Latimers; how she was gradually "tamed" by the patient invalidism of the mother, the alarming illness of a daughter, and yet more by the presence of a son, — all this is told in an attractive style, and makes a thoroughly wholesome and readable story.

Doubleday & McClure Company's

NEW BOOKS FOR THE FALL OF 1899

ARRANGED ALPHABETICALLY BY AUTHORS

DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE CO., 141–155 EAST 25TH STREET., N. Y.

Baker, Ray S. The Boys' Book of Inventions

The author here tells for the younger generation stories of some of the most noteworthy marvels of modern science, such as the Sea Motocycle (or Submarine Boat), Liquid Air, Telegraphing without Wires, Automobiles, Flying Machines, Great Kites, and so on,—nearly all the subjects being splendidly illustrated. The fascination of such a volume for a boy is only equaled by its instructiveness and value.

Size, 5¾x8¼; Pages, 350; Type, 10-point; Binding, cloth, decorated; Illustrated with about 200 pictures. Price, $2.00.

Blanchan, Neltje Nature's Garden

AN AID TO KNOWLEDGE OF OUR WILD FLOWERS
WITH MANY SUPERB COLORED PLATES AND OTHER ILLUSTRATIONS
BY THE AUTHOR OF "BIRD NEIGHBORS"

An unequaled array of colored and other photographs made directly from the living wild-flowers enables the novice to instantly name their counterparts when met afield. The flowers have been classified according to COLOR, which the colored photographs splendidly emphasize. A list classifies them according to their MONTHS OF BLOOMING; another list shows their PREFERRED LOCALITIES or habitats; and finally the division of the flowers into their PROPER FAMILIES by that scientific classification adopted by the International Botanical Congress, which has now superseded all others, makes the book an indispensable popular guide. Special attention has been given in the floral biographies to the wonderfully interesting relationship existing between plants and insects.

Size, 7¾x10⅜; Pages, about 400; Binding, cloth, decorated; Type, 11-point; colored plates and many other full-page illustrations; Printed on fine paper with full margins. Price, $2.00 net.

Bloch, I. S. The Future of War

IS WAR NOW IMPOSSIBLE?

TRANSLATED BY R. C. LONG AND WITH A PREFATORY CONVERSATION WITH THE AUTHOR BY W. T. STEAD

M. Bloch's work, which created a profound sensation throughout Russia and the Continent, is generally credited with having furnished the Czar with the initial idea of his definite Peace Rescript. This book gives the most vital and significant portions of the original, showing, in the most striking way, the burden which has been laid on the world's shoulders by the constantly increasing armaments, and arguing, with much skill and convincingness, that the time is approaching when war will become impossible from the very multiplicity and deadliness of offensive weapons. Nothing on the subject has ever approached M. Bloch's work in scope or authoritativeness, for it deals in an encyclopaedic way with everything connected, directly or indirectly, with war and its consequences.

Size, 5½x8¼ ; Pages, about 500; Many maps and illustrations; Binding, cloth ; Price, $2.00.

Brady, Jasper Ewing Tales of the Telegraph

THE STORY OF A TELEGRAPHER'S LIFE AND ADVENTURES IN RAILROAD, COMMERCIAL AND MILITARY WORK.

The author's own career—from a telegraph operator to a Captain in the U. S. Signal Service (and now a Lieutenant in the 19th U. S. Infantry)—has supplied most of the material for this picturesque narrative. The arduous responsibilities and dramatic adventures of a train-despatcher make up a picture of real contemporary life and work quite unknown to the vast public who daily put their lives into these men's care.

Size, 5x7½ ; Pages, about 300; Binding, cloth ; Illustrations, 8 full pages. Price, $1.25.

Bullock, Shan F. The Barrys

A charming novel of Irish life by this rising young author, who has already made a marked impression through his tales of country life in Ireland. Nan, the heroine, is a figure whose strong and wholesome character and charm will cause her to be long remembered.

Size, 5x7½ ; Binding, cloth, decorative design ; Pages, 375 ; Type, 10-point. Price, $1.25.

Dickens, Charles Temple Edition

The Doubleday & McClure Co. have pleasure in stating that in co-operation with J. M. Dent & Co., of London, they have undertaken to present an ideal edition of the novels of Dickens in small volumes, put forth with the same exquisite taste displayed by Mr. Dent in his various Temple editions. The set will be complete in forty volumes ; and the end of the series is now in sight. Dainty colored frontispieces are a feature of the edition, and it may fairly be said that the books represent the most perfect work yet accomplished in England and certainly the best edition of Dickens, for they are printed from new plates and every detail has been carefully worked out. The prices are remarkably low. The volumes are arranged as follows and will be issued at the rate of three volumes a month:

The Pickwick Papers	3 vols.	Christmas Books / Christmas Stories	3 vols.
Sketches by Boz	2 vols.
Nicholas Nickleby	3 vols.	Bleak House	3 vols.
Oliver Twist	2 vols.	Hard Times	1 vol.
Dombey and Son	3 vols.	A Tale of Two Cities	1 vol.
Barnaby Rudge	2 vols.	The Uncommercial Traveler	1 vol.
Old Curiosity Shop	2 vols.	Little Dorrit	3 vols.
Martin Chuzzlewit	3 vols.	Great Expectations / Master Humphrey's Clock	2 vols.
David Copperfield	3 vols.
Our Mutual Friend	3 vols.

Size, 4x6; Average pages, 300; Binding, flexible red leather, gilt top, silk book mark, book plate and colored frontispiece, with decorated title-page. Type, 10-point. Price, Regular Trade Edition, 80 cents per volume. Complete in 40 volumes.

Doubleday, Russell — Cattle Ranch to College

BY THE GUNNER OF "A GUNNER ABOARD THE YANKEE"

This is a true story of a boy's life in the far West ten years ago. Living in a frontier town of Dakota, John Worth passes through a variety of exciting experiences: fighting Indians, hunting, mining, sheep herding, "broncho-busting," cattle-ranching, and chasing down desperadoes. Every incident related actually happened to the "original" of the hero, who is now a college man, and who has told all the details to the author.

Size, 5¾x8¼; Pages, about 300; Illustrations, about 100; Type, 11-point; Price, $1.50.

Fleming, Wm. H. — How to Study Shakespeare

SERIES II

The success of Mr. Fleming's manual has resulted in a wide-spread demand for another volume containing the most important plays not included in the first book. "Hamlet," "Lear," "Romeo and Juliet," "Henry V," and "As You Like It," are here analyzed and prepared for study in the same suggestive way which gave the author's former work unique value. A special feature not found in any other book on Shakespeare is the interesting key giving the pronunciation of names.

Size, 5x7; Pages, about 350; Binding, cloth; Type, 8-point; Price, $1.00 net.

Gibson, Charles Dana — Sketches in Egypt

"Egypt," says Mr. Gibson, "has sat for her likeness longer than any other country." The recent important events that have turned all eyes toward the Upper Nile have not disturbed in the least the ancient composure and serenity of the Land of the Pharaohs, and few countries offer such a tempting field to the artistic pen. Mr. Gibson's forceful and suggestive drawings are well reinforced by his written impressions—more complete than he has ever before published; and the whole makes up a uniquely interesting record, from an artist who occupies a peculiar position among us. It is the real Egypt from a new standpoint. No pains have been spared to produce a true art work, giving really adequate presentations of Mr. Gibson's drawings.

Size, 7¾x10½; cloth decorated; Pages, 150; Type 12-point. Regular edition, $3.00 net. Edition de Luxe, 250 signed and numbered copies, each accompanied by a portfolio containing art proofs of ten of the most important pictures, on Japan silk tissue and mounted on plate paper suitable for framing. Price, per copy, $10.00 net. AS SOON AS ACTUALLY PUBLISHED THE PRICE ON ALL DE LUXE COPIES NOT SUBSCRIBED FOR WILL BE RAISED.

Hamblen, Herbert E. — We Win

THE LIFE AND ADVENTURES OF A YOUNG RAILROADER

Mr. Hamblen's railroad stories are about as characteristic and American as anything in the world of books. "We Win" brings before the boys, for whom it is primarily intended, a vivid picture of the life of a railroad man. Needless to say, however, the story is the main thing and it holds the attention from the start.

Size, 5¾x8¼; Pages about 300; Binding, cloth, decorated; Illustrated; Price, $1.50.

Heron, E. & H. — (See Prichard)

Hill, John Alexander — Stories of the Railroad

Every reader of McClure's Magazine will remember the exceptional verve and reality of these tales by a former locomotive engineer on the Rio Grande Railroad. The romance in an occupation ordinarily thought of as the most begrimed and prosaic possible, has rarely been presented in such telling fashion. Mr. Hill not only knows the life from many years of personal experience, but he knows also how to write a story that will appeal alike to the initiated and to those ignorant of the inside facts.

Size, 5x7½; Illustrated with 8 insets; Pages, about 300; Binding, cloth; Price, $1.50.

Hitchcock, Caroline Hanks — Nancy Hanks

THE STORY OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S MOTHER

Mrs. Hitchcock here establishes for the first time, by new documents and facts obtained in her genealogical researches, the true story of the life of President Lincoln's mother. She has consented to publish this brief sketch, the historical and biographical value of which is evident, in advance of the complete genealogy of the Hanks family on which she has long been working. This straightforward account will wipe away forever the mystery which has surrounded Mr. Lincoln's mother.

Size, 4x6; Pages, about 100; Illustrated; Price, cloth, 50 cents net; full leather, $1.00.

Home Study Circle Edited by Seymour Eaton

We have inaugurated in conjunction with the Chicago Record a series of volumes for Home Study, dealing with almost every department of knowledge. The books will be largely made up from the material used in the Record's very successful courses which have proved and are still proving their benefits to many thousands of people, old and young. The aim of the Circle is to educate those who, from any reason, cannot pursue their studies at school or college; and its twenty or thirty volumes deal not only with Literature, Geography, History, Natural Science, Mathematics and all the other customary subjects of study, but also with such topics as Art and Architecture, Trade, Commerce and Finance, Stenography, Lessons for Working Boys, Trade Geography, Governments of the World, Great Musicians—Scientists—Artists, and so on. The list of the contributors to the Literature volumes gives an idea of the authoritativeness and excellence of the work. It includes such names as Edward Everett Hale, Hamilton W. Mabie, Brander Matthews, John Ebenezer Bryant, Thomas Wentworth Higginson, Vida D. Scudder, Albert S. Cook, Lewis E. Gates, Bliss Perry, Harriett Prescott Spofford, and many others.

The arrangement is such as to meet the needs of all, these volumes being graded so as to permit primary as well as more advanced instruction.

The following volumes will be issued first:

LITERATURE: Sir Walter Scott, Robert Burns, Lord Byron.
FIRST COURSE IN MATHEMATICS: For Mechanics and Engineers.
THE WORLD'S GREAT SCIENTISTS.
GOVERNMENTS OF THE WORLD TO-DAY.
LITERATURE: Hawthorne, Emerson, Longfellow, Holmes, Whittier, Lowell, Bryant, Poe, Irving, Cooper.
HOME STUDIES FOR YOUNG BUSINESS MEN.

Size, 5½x8; Pages, 300; Type, 10-point; Many Illustrations; Binding, cloth; $1.00 net each.

Humphry, Mrs. How To Be Pretty Though Plain

The author of "Manners for Men" here presents the most practical and common-sense treatment ever given of the whole question of a woman's personal beauty; how it may be secured, with actual advice and specific recipes for retaining the beauty of face, figure, hair and health.

Size, 4x6; Type, 10-point; Illustrated; Pages about 200; Price, cloth, 50 cents; full leather, $1.00.

Jarrold, Ernest — Mickey Finn Idylls

INTRODUCTION BY C. A. DANA

Mr. Dana was a man whose judgment on literary matters was too renowned to need any adjectives. Not only did he prove his faith in these unique stories (presenting chapters from the life of a boy "squatter" on the edge of a city, his goats, pet crow, turtle, sparrow, and other birds and beasts) by printing them in the Sun, but his introduction speaks enthusiastically of "the humor, pathos and human nature of the work." "Taken from nature," he says, "the book contains the most admirable delineation of character, together with a rare felicity in the description of the woods and fields."

Size, 5x7½; Pages, about 300; Type, 10-point; Binding, cloth; Price, $1.25.

Jokai, Maurus — The Poor Plutocrats

This picturesque romance, of coiners and robbers, the nouveau riches and the lawless old aristocracy of Hungary—has been very widely translated. Since "Szegény Gazdagok" appeared at Budapest in 1860 there have been dozens of versions in German, Swedish, Danish, Dutch, Polish, etc.; but this is the first English rendering, made by R. Nisbet Bain from the fourth Hungarian edition. The translator says: "I know of no more stirring incident in contemporary fiction than the terrible wrestling match between Strong Juan, the goat herd, and the supple bandit Fatia Negra, in the presence of the two trembling women."

Size, 5x7½; Pages, about 325; Binding, cloth, decorated; Price, $1.25.

Kipling, Rudyard — The Brushwood Boy

ILLUSTRATED BY ORSON LOWELL

"The Brushwood Boy" is quite unlike anything else Mr. Kipling ever wrote, and some of his admirers think its dream-quality and its almost mystical, poetic love-story show the author in his happiest mood. Mr. Lowell has treated this delicate fantasy in the sympathetic way that is characteristic of his artistic work, and the result is a truly charming volume. Elusive and suggestive as the story is, the artist has been surprisingly successful in embodying its spirit.

Size, 5x7½; Type, 12-point; Pages, about 150; Binding, cloth, with decorative design; Illustrations, 40, by Orson Lowell, including decorative title, lining pages, etc.; Price, $1.50.

Kipling, Rudyard — Stalky & Co.

Mr. Kipling's school-boy trio have made for themselves as distinctive a place in his readers' hearts as that possessed by the "Soldiers Three," who first made him famous. They are real, manly, honest, rough-and-tumble boys; boys whose daring intrigue and strategy surely foreshadow the strong, resourceful men upon whose shoulders rests the mighty responsibility of England's colonial governments. Indeed, the author's aim seems to be to emphasize this point, for one of the stories shows these "three musketeers" of England in after years, when as men they have taken up "the White Man's Burden" in India.

Size, 5½x8¼; Pages, about 350; Type, 10-point; Binding, cloth, decorative design; Illustrated. (Uniform with "The Day's Work.") Price, $1.50.

Kipling Birthday Book, The

This little volume is compiled by Joseph Finn, and is authorized by Mr. Kipling. The left-hand pages all through contain selections from the author's writings, there being two quotations for each day of the year, in many cases from uncollected matter; on the right-hand pages are blank spaces, one for each day, in which birthday sentiments may be inscribed.

Size, 4x6; Type, 8-point; Pages, 250; Illustrations, 12, one for each month, from drawings by J. Lockwood Kipling. Price, $1.00.

Kipling, Rudyard — Single Story Series

These attractive little volumes, each containing one of Mr. Kipling's masterpieces, are uniformly bound with handsome decorated covers. They give in handy form some of the tales which have specially helped to give the author an international reputation as the first of modern story-tellers. The five now ready are:

The Man Who Would Be King.
The Courting of Dinah Shadd.
The Incarnation of Krishna Mulvaney.
The Drums of the Fore and Aft.
Without Benefit of Clergy.

Size, 4¼x6½; Type, 14-point; Pages, 100; Binding, cloth decorated. Price, 50 cents each.

Kipling, Rudyard — Kipling Kalendar for 1900

THE MOUNT FROM A BAS-RELIEF BY MR. J. LOCKWOOD KIPLING

The 365 selections for this calendar are from copyrighted material, and have been made under the author's supervision. Mr. Kipling, Sr., has modeled an extraordinary plaque representing a profile likeness of the author, flanked by two elephants' heads, with a figure of Mowgli and his jungle companions below. This has been reproduced exactly, in relief, in embossed brass, making a very striking and unusually artistic calendar. A particularly attractive photogravure portrait forms the cover to the pad.

Size, 10x15; Price, $3.50.

Ladies' Home Journal Series

A combination has been formed by the Doubleday & McClure Company and the Curtis Publishing Company for the publishing of a series of dainty books under the above title, which have been extensively made known to what is believed to be the largest list of book buyers ever reached by any direct communication.

The Jamesons, by Mary E. Wilkins.
The Minister of Carthage, by Caroline A. Mason.
The Spirit of Sweetwater, by Hamlin Garland.
A Minister of the World, by Caroline A. Mason.
The People of Our Neighborhood, by Mary E. Wilkins
*The Kindergarten in a Nutshell, by Nora A. Smith.

The Business Girl, by Ruth Ashmore.
Home Games and Parties (with Evening Refreshments, by Mrs. Rorer).
Church Sociables and Entertainments.

Particulars of each book can be found under the name of the author or title. The volumes are well made, many illustrated by photogravures and at low prices.

Price, per volume, cloth, 50 cents ; full leather, $1.00.

Lighton, William R. — Sons of Strength

A ROMANCE OF THE KANSAS BORDER WARS

Mr. Lighton's vigorous short stories have attracted much attention in the magazines, but this admirable novel is his first long work. It is the life history of a foundling child who, when grown, goes to Kansas and takes part in the stirring events which marked the struggle between the friends and opponents of slavery in that State. As a romance dealing with a period of American history and a portion of our country practically untouched in fiction, the tale is therefore notable. It is, however, quite as unusual in execution as in scene, being a quiet, masterly narrative in which the characters are pictured with a keen incisiveness, and which breathes the broad, true, healthy and self-reliant spirit that marked the best of Western pioneers.

Size, 5x7½ ; Pages, about 250 ; Type, 11-point ; Binding, cloth, decorated ; Price, $1.25.

Lusk, H. H. — Our Foes at Home

Mr. Lusk has spent several years in the United States and was for a long time a member of the New Zealand Parliament. He has brought to bear upon some problems of American government an observation trained yet fresh and a complete knowledge of affairs both here and abroad, producing a volume of extraordinary interest, which no American can read without enlightenment on many vital points. The author does not present "iridescent" theories: he shows what has actually been done in New Zealand and contrasts this strikingly with American conditions.

Size 5x7½ ; Pages, about 300 ; Binding, cloth ; Price, $1.00.

MacGrath, Harold — Arms and the Woman

This spirited romance, hinging upon the personality of a charming princess of a minor German state, won immediate popularity upon its appearance serially: the appreciation accorded it by the half a million readers of the New York Evening Sun, the Chicago Record, the Pittsburg Times, Detroit News-Tribune, Providence Journal, Memphis Commercial-Appeal, and Spokane Spokesman's Review, and specific requests from all over the country, have resulted in its publication in book form. The author has an unusually strong hold upon one's interest and the light touch and romantic verve of the tale fully explain its success.

Size, 5x7½; Pages, about 300; Type, 10-point; Binding, cloth; Price, $1.25.

Mac Manus, Seumas — In Chimney Corners

MERRY TALES OF IRISH FOLK-LORE

Mr. Mac Manus's "Through the Turf Smoke," and his many recent magazine contributions have established his reputation here as a delineator of Irish peasant wit and folk-lore. This volume is devoted entirely to those tales of giants, witches, kings and invincible "Jacks," which are so Celtic in character and in quick invention. Miss Pamela Colman Smith has drawn for the book a series of colored illustrations altogether unusual in their imaginative and decorative strength.

Size, 5½x8¼; Pages, about 325; Type, 10-point; Binding, cloth, decorated; Illustrations, 8 full pages in color, and head and tail pieces, by Pamela Colman Smith; Price, $1.50 net.

Markham, Edwin. — The Man With the Hoe

AND OTHER POEMS. Fifth Printing

It has been many years since any poem has excited so much interest as has Mr. Markham's now-famous voicing of the protest against life's inequalities which he saw in Millet's painting. In a few weeks after its appearance, the author had received hundreds of letters from prominent literary people all over the world commending the work highly. Prof. James, of Harvard, for instance, wrote, "The poem is magnificent and reeks with humanity and morality." This is Mr. Markham's first collection of poems, with a frontispiece reproduction of the painting which inspired his best effort.

Size, 5x7½; Pages, 134; Frontispiece photogravure; Type, 10-point; Price, $1.00 net.

Norris, Frank — Blix

It would be difficult to imagine anything more different from Mr. Norris's last book than this charming little love idyll. Yet it shows the same vivid reality which caused Mr. Howells to point out "McTeague" as an "altogether remarkable book," and to say that it "abounds in touches of character at once fine and free, in little miracles of observation, in vivid insight, in simple and subtle expression." There is no longer any question that Mr. Norris's work is an element of real and serious importance in the development of American fiction.

Size, 5x7½ ; Pages, about 250 ; Binding, cloth ; Price, $1.25.

Ollivant, Alfred — Bob, Son of Battle

15TH THOUSAND

NEW EDITION IN NEW STYLE

Mr. Ollivant's fine and dramatic novel is rapidly coming into its own. Though it has taken almost a year for it to reach a circulation of fifteen thousand copies, it is now selling much faster than ever before and promises to equal any of the new books in popularity this fall. Blackwood's Magazine classed the story "as one of the most remarkable literary feats of the year" and declared Red Wull and Owd Bob "the best dogs on paper."

Size, 5x7½, uncut ; Pages, 356 ; Binding, cloth, decorated ; Price, $1.25.

Palmer, Frederick — George Dewey, Admiral

IMPRESSIONS OF ADMIRAL DEWEY AND THE OLYMPIA ON THEIR HOMEWARD PROGRESS FROM MANILA

Mr. Palmer saw and talked with the Admiral at Manila and at many of the ports on the way home. Particularly interesting is his account of the way in which Admiral Dewey received a suggestion that he might have been made Governor-General of the Philippines—and again that the Presidency of the United States was not impossible. Besides these pen sketches of the "Hero of Manila Bay" there are amusing versions of the famous fight from the forecastle standpoint.

Size, 5x7½ ; Pages, about 250 ; Binding, Paper, decorated ; Illustrated ; Price, 50 cents.

Pendered, Mary L. — Michael Rolf, Englishman

The author has here written a love story of quiet English middle-class life in a country town—a return to the manner of Jane Austen—which manifests real charm and genuine feeling.

Size, 5x7½; Pages, about 300 ; Binding, cloth; Price, $1.25.

Perry, Bliss, Editor — Little Masterpieces

Professor Perry has prepared a new series of these widely popular little books, which aim to give in the most attractive form the vital work of the writers who have had a foremost part in the making of modern literature. The volumes are well printed on rough edged paper with gilt top and photogravure portrait frontispieces, and are bound in flexible cloth and leather. The need of them is best evidenced by the fact that 76,000 have been printed of those already issued, many of the leading colleges and schools having adopted them in their routine literature work.

Fourth Series now ready:

Vol. X. Thackeray Vol. XI. Lamb Vol. XII. DeQuincey

First Series:	Second Series:	Third Series:
Vol. I. Poe	Vol. IV. Franklin	Vol. VII. Macaulay
Vol. II. Hawthorne	Vol. V. Webster	Vol. VIII. Ruskin
Vol. III. Irving	Vol. VI. Lincoln (including the "Lost Speech")	Vol. IX. Carlyle

Size, 4x6; Binding, flexible silk cloth and leather; Pages, above 200; illustrations, photogravure portrait; Type, 8-point. Price, cloth, 30 cents per volume, 90 cents per set of 3 volumes in wooden box; leather, 60 cents per volume; $1.80 per set in wooden box.

Prichard, K. & Hesketh — A Modern Mercenary

This is a bright and dashing romance laid in an imaginary small kingdom, whose political atmosphere is surcharged with the intrigues of its more powerful neighbors. Plots and counterplots are woven about a very attractive love-story, the book being a clever representative of the school of fiction in which Mr. Anthony Hope's name occupies a prominent position. The authors (Mrs. Prichard and her son) have been making themselves a reputation lately for eminently readable stories under the names of "E. & H. Heron."

Size, 5x7½; Binding, cloth, decorated; Type, 10-point; Price, $1.25

Raymond, Walter — A Tangled Web

Mr. Raymond has here written an idyll of that Western English country life which he knows so intimately. With two main key-notes,—first of one brother's supplanting the other in his sweetheart's affections; then, of a pair of lovers and a miserly father,—the quiet drama moves forward inevitably and overwhelmingly to a pitch of tragic intensity, wonderfully heightened by the entire realism with which the details of the rustic life are portrayed.

Size, 5x7½; Pages, 300; Type, 10-point; Binding, cloth; Price, $1.25.

Reade, Charles — Peg Woffington

WITH 70 ILLUSTRATIONS BY HUGH THOMSON

Besides the many charming illustrations which Mr. Thomson has made for this holiday edition of Charles Reade's masterpiece, he has also drawn initial letters and a cover design. His peculiar charm and power of presenting scenes from the days of old have consequently had full sway, and all admirers of his Jane Austen illustrations can imagine the attractiveness of this edition. Mr. Austin Dobson has written a characteristically happy introduction to the work.

Size 5x7½; Pages, 416; Binding, cloth, elaborately decorated in gilt; Illustrations, 70; Price, $2.00.

Rostand, Edmond — The Romancers

(" LES ROMANESQUES ")

This is, perhaps, the best of the earlier plays by the author of " Cyrano de Bergerac." It is a very artistic little comedy, the keynote of which may be found in the stage direction that " the scene may be laid anywhere, provided the costumes are pretty." As full of poetry as is "Cyrano," it is like a Watteau painting in its characteristic delicacy and lightness. The translation is by Miss Mary Hendee, and is issued with M. Rostand's sanction.

Size, 4x6; Pages about 175; Type, 8-point; Binding, flexible cloth; Price, 50 cents net.

Smith, Pamela Colman — Widdicombe Fair

EDITION LIMITED TO 500 COPIES, EACH WITH ORIGINAL SKETCH

Miss Smith has made a dozen remarkably fine illustrations to this stirring old English ballad, which have been reproduced in color by the stencil process printed by hand, so as to give almost exactly the effect of the original drawings. The text of the words and music add interest to the portfolio of drawings, and each of the 500 copies contains an original sketch in colors by the artist, besides being numbered. The work is extraordinarily effective in color and decorative feeling.

Size, 12x14; edition strictly limited to 500 copies; the pictures printed by hand on imitation Japan and mounted; binding, cloth, in different colors, with illustration affixed to front and back; each copy with an original sketch in colors on the inside cover. Price, $5.00 net.

Smith, Pamela Colman
The Golden Vanity and The Green Bed

These fascinating old ballads have a flavor all their own. " The Golden Vanity," one of the best known, was first printed as: " Sir Walter Raleigh sailing in the Lowland, showing how the famous ship, called the Sweet Trinity, was taken by a false galley; and how it was recovered by the craft of a little sea-boy, who sunk the galley." This book contains the words and music to both songs, with fourteen large stencil reproductions of drawings by Miss Smith. It is a subject which seems to appeal peculiarly to this talented young artist, and the pictures show a quaint vigor and beauty of coloring altogether noteworthy.

Size, 11x13; Pages about 60; Illustrations, 14, stencilled on imitation Japan paper; Binding, cloth. Price, $2.50, net.

Smith, Nora Archibald
The Kindergarten in a Nutshell

The whole Kindergarten idea is here for the first time explained in a small book by the best kindergarten authority in America, author of "The Children of the Future," and joint author with Kate Douglas Wiggin of "The Republic of Childhood" and "The Story Hour." She tells what it means, how it is carried out: the gifts, the occupations: the songs: the stories,—and how Froebel's wonderful work can be applied to the smallest community or followed in any home.

Size, 4x6; Type, 10 point; Illustrated; Pages about 200; Price, cloth, 50 cents; full leather, $1.00.

Stallard, J. H. The True Basis of Economics

This work is in the shape of a correspondence between the author and Prof. David Starr Jordan, of Stanford University, on the doctrines of Henry George. The book proper consists of a thoughtful and suggestive essay by Mr. Stallard on the law of independent and collective human life in which he answers some objections to Mr. George's theories formulated by academic opponents.

Size, 5x7½; Pages, about 125; Type, 10-point; Price, paper, 50 cents net; cloth, $1.00.

Stoker, Bram Dracula

The author has here produced an exceedingly strong and dramatic story of a human vampire, which has attracted wide attention in England, and as a serial in America. Many competent critics have pronounced it the most daringly successful work of imagination that has seen the light for a long time. It should not be read by people who are afraid of a rather gruesome tale, but those with stronger nerves will surely find it thrilling, and its hold upon the interest is beyond question.

Size, 5x7½; Pages, about 450; Binding, cloth. Price, $1.50.

Tarbell, Ida M. The Life of Abraham Lincoln

DRAWN FROM ORIGINAL SOURCES AND CONTAINING MANY SPEECHES, LETTERS AND TELEGRAMS HITHERTO UNPUBLISHED

Miss Tarbell has at last completed her fine life of the American statesman par excellence. The book contains a great deal of material necessarily omitted from McClure's Magazine, where the two series of articles on the Early and Later Life of Lincoln made a record as successful magazine "features." There is a vast amount of entirely new data presented, especially in connection with the President's first Inaugural, and with Lincoln's relations to General Grant and the management of the War. It is safe to say that Miss Tarbell's work must supersede all other biographies, and take place as the authoritative record of Abraham Lincoln and of that stormy period in our history when he was the nation's head.

Size, 6¼x9½; two volumes, each about 400 pages; Type, 10-point; 32 full-page illustrations; Binding, cloth; Price, $5.

Tarkington, Booth The Gentleman from Indiana

Mr. Tarkington has produced an extraordinarily strong and realistic novel of the "Middle West." As a "first book" it augurs a speedy addition to the ranks of successful American novelists. The pictures of a country editor's life in Indiana are extraordinarily real, but the final charm of the tale lies in the delicacy and romance of the love story that forms its basis as well as in its sustained interest.

Size, 5½x8¼ ; Binding, cloth, decorated ; Pages, about 400. Price, $1.50.

Thanet, Octave A Book of True Lovers

NEW EDITION

A new edition of some of Miss French's love stories. This volume, just purchased from Way & Williams, has gone into a second printing. It includes "The Strike at Glasscock's," "The Judgment on Mrs. Swift," "The Dilemma of Sir Guy the Neuter," "The Court of Last Resort," "Why Abbylonia Surrendered," "The Ladder of Grief," and "The Captured Dream."

Size, 4½x7 ; Type, 10 point ; Pages, 278 ; Binding, cloth decorated ; Price, $1.25.

Tilton, Howard W. Lay Sermons

To reach a class of readers apt to be indifferent to the more formal and profound utterances of the pulpit has been Mr. Tilton's aim in these homely, personal talks. Their value has been already proved. When published in the columns of the Council Bluffs Nonpareil (of which the author is the editor) so many acknowledgments and appreciations of their simple, effective and direct lessons were received, that a few were gathered into pamphlet form. The immediate success of the venture has resulted in the present volume, which can hardly fail to help any reader to a clearer vision and higher aims.

Size, 5x7½ ; Pages, about 250 ; Type, 10-point ; Binding, cloth. Price, $1.00.

Warner Classics, The Studies of Great Authors from the Library of the World's Best Literature

In these four volumes are included a number of the best biographical and critical essays from Charles Dudley Warner's great "Library." They are written by such authorities as Leslie Stephen, W. E. H. Lecky, Dr. Richard Garnett, Charles Dudley Warner, Charles Eliot Norton, Henry van Dyke, Henry James, and so on ; and they supply really authoritative yet concise estimates and accounts of these famous writers.

VOL. I. Philosophers and Scientists
VOL. II. Novelists
VOL. III. Poets
VOL. IV. Historians and Essayists

Size, 4⅛x6¼ ; Pages, about 200 ; Price per volume, cloth, 50 cts.; 4 volumes in box, $2.00.

Weeden, Howard — Bandanna Ballads

WITH INTRODUCTION BY JOEL CHANDLER HARRIS

This volume includes, with new material, the poems and pictures issued by the author, as "Shadows on the Wall," of which several thousand copies were sold in a short while. "Nobody," says Mr. Harris, "has ever depicted the old-time negro as faithfully as Howard Weeden. By the side of her portraits the Uncle Remus stuff is a flimsy dream." Miss Weeden is as clever with the pen as the pencil and her unpretentious volume presents the mammies, house servants and farm hands with wonderful reality and feeling.

Size, 5x7½; Pages, about 100; Illustrations, 19, from drawings by the author; Binding, cloth; Price, net, $1.00.

Wells, Amos R. — Sermons in Stones and in Other Things

The familiar objects of each man's daily life have furnished the author with themes and similes for a number of short and pithy talks on the higher matters of existence. Mr. Wells (who is one of the editors of the Christian Endeavor World, and has already published a dozen books that have had considerable popularity) draws upon stones and stars, photography, telephones, printing, gardening and many other human activities for his analogies, which are thus brought home to the reader with altogether new force and effect.

Size, 5x7½; Pages, about 300; Type, 10-point; Binding, cloth. Price, $1.00.

Wells, H. G. — Tales of Space and Time

The author has succeeded in striking a distinctly original note in his tales dealing with future developments of modern science. Many of these present stories—such as "The Crystal Egg," "The Man Who Could Work Miracles," "The Heir of the Past," "The Vacant Country," "The Star," etc.,—are in his best vein, entertaining and thoroughly convincing in spite of their bold imagination.

Size, 5½x8¼; Binding, cloth, decorative design; Pages, about 300. Price, $1.50.

White, William Allen — The Court of Boyville

Mr. White has few equals as a delineator of the joys and woes of that strange genus, the Boy. His boys happen to live in Kansas, but they might be inhabitants of anywhere as far as the universality of their characteristics is concerned; what does add a "local color" to these very entertaining and humorous tales is the broad feeling of limitless possibilities—that is to say, the big-hearted optimism—which the West breeds in its children. The attractive illustrations, by Orson Lowell and Gustav Verbeek, give an added distinction and point to the book.

Size, 5x7½; Binding, cloth, decorated; Pages, about 370; Type, 12-point. Price, $1.50.

White, William Allen — The Real Issue

NEW EDITION

A "Book of Kansas Stories" which reached its fourth printing within a few months of publication. Mr. White (who wrote "What's the Matter with Kansas?"—included in this book) is rapidly becoming known as one of the most vigorous personalities in the group of western writers, which is acquiring such importance in our literary development.

Size, 4½x7; Type, 10-point. Pages, 212; Binding, cloth decorated; Price, $1.00.

A TREASURE TROVE OF LAUGHTER.

The Bow-Legged Ghost, and Other Stories.

By LEON MEAD.

With an Introduction by the Greatest American Poet, JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY.

An Illustrated Volume of Original Humorous Sketches, Verse, Facetious Paragraphs and Colloquies.

A book which will not disappoint the reader, because it enters a new and heretofore unexplored field of humor.

LEON MEAD is quite as fantastic in his conceptions as FRANK R. STOCKTON, as droll as MARK TWAIN at his best, and as true in his ludicrous portrayal of life as Miss MARY E. WILKINS.

A Book to be Read Aloud and Enjoyed Among Your Friends.

The author's cosmopolitan experience as a journalist and shrewd observer is evinced in every line of this eagerly read and cordially welcomed collection.

The following are some of the titles of subjects dealt with, and indicate the general character of the contents:

THE BOW-LEGGED GHOST.
WHEN EZRA FIRST SANG BASS.
THE WOMAN IN YELLOW.
THE MAN WHO COULDN'T LAUGH.
EUGENE FIELD AND BILL NYE.
WILDER'S LATEST.
"REVELS OF THE MUSES."
STORY OF FOUR CARRIER PIGEONS.
HAPPY HOPPER.
THE MIND CHILDREN.
AN ASSUMED WEAKNESS.
POSSIBLE TITLES OF FUTURE BOOKS.
POLLY.
MRS. TUBB'S MANŒUVRES.
A LIVING TOMBSTONE.
SELLING LOCKS OF HAIR.
NO WOMAN, NO FAD.
FAT MEN AND LEAN.
SOCIETY ACTRESSES.
ETC., ETC., ETC.

The book includes a number of pages of the author's lighter verse which first appeared in JUDGE, TRUTH, LIFE, and other leading periodicals.

If you wish to be entertained and amused, read "THE BOW-LEGGED GHOST, AND OTHER STORIES."

Artistic Cover Design. 12mo, Cloth, $1.25.

Mrs. Gillette's Cook Book.

By the Author of the Famous "WHITE HOUSE COOK BOOK."

The Art and Science of Cooking

Comprises: Cooking, Toilet and Household Recipes, Menus, Dinner Giving, Table Etiquette, Medical Items, Diet for Invalids, THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

The author has had FIFTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE in practical housekeeping. She has just celebrated her Golden Wedding Anniversary.

Adapted alike to the TOWN, CITY, OR COUNTRY LIFE, and is strictly up-to-date American cookery.

Not a mere compilation of recipes, but a complete and thorough outline of culinary ideas, accumulated throughout an every-day housekeeping experience of fifty years.

All the recipes have undergone thorough and practical tests, and can in every way be absolutely relied upon to give entire satisfaction.

Special Features:

Contains important chapters on Carving, Diet for Invalids (this department comprises a book in itself and is worth more than the price of the whole book), Chafing Dishes, Dinner Giving and Laying of Table, Garnishing Dishes, Menus, Table Etiquette, Valuable Household Items.

Style and Finish of the Book:

The binding, cover, and general typographical features of the book are the latest and most applicable for the purpose. Its pages are broad; the type large and clear. Bound in enamel cloth, which may be easily cleaned.

PRICE, $2.50.

THE UNITED STATES ARMY AND NAVY, 1776-1899.

Text for the Army Section.
By Lieut.-Col. A. L. WAGNER,
Assistant Adj.-Gen. U. S. A.

Text for the Navy Section.
By Commander J. D. JERROLD KELLEY,
U. S. N.

Their History from the Era of the Revolution to the Close of the SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR, with accounts of Organization, Administration, Duties.

The illustrations which embellish the work, and which are beautiful specimens of the highest lithographic art, exquisitely produced in from ten to twelve tints and colors, are from drawings especially made for this volume by able artists. They represent correctly the uniforms worn by the Army and Navy at the different periods of the Country, and in many instances portray well-known historical actions and events. In this particular respect this volume is probably the most costly which has ever been placed on the market of this country.

Fine Alligator Grain Keratol, $10.00.

GERMANY'S ARMY AND NAVY.

Compiled from the latest authorities, including specially contributed articles from the well-known military writer, Major-General Von Specht, of Berlin.

An authentic history of Germany's Army and Navy from the earliest period, with their present strength, organization, and efficiency.

This publication corrects many erroneous ideas that are prevalent in regard to Germany's military institutions.

The work appears in an English-German edition, and is therefore of great interest not only to the Germans who reside in the United States of whom many fought and bled for the Fatherland, but will also be welcomed by the American public with the same interest which it always manifests toward all important works of literature and national achievements.

The illustrations represent accurately the uniforms of the different branches of the service in the field and parade equipment, the different types of warships, with representations of marine uniforms.

MECHANICAL EXECUTION.

A large quarto, with bevelled edges. Bound in morocco grained keratol of a rich brown color. The cover design is a masterpiece embossed in six colors and gold.

Contains forty-one full-page illustrations and one hundred and eighty pages of text. The illustrations are exquisitely produced in from ten to twelve colors on the best quality enamelled paper. The text is printed on heavy velvet-finished book-paper.

Price, $10.00.

UNSERE MONARCHIE (Our Monarchy).

The Austrian Crown-lands at the time of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Reign of EMPEROR JOSEF I. A national art work of photographic reproductions of the most prominent Provinces, Cities, and Buildings, with graphic descriptions in German, Bohemian, Polish, and Italian Text.

In all its appointments the book bears the stamp of distinction. The happy selection of the most beautiful pictures, the perfect presswork, the finest paper, all combine to make this a worthy literary memorial of Emperor Josef's glorious reign.

To those who have visited the beautiful provinces and cities portrayed here, the book will recall many inspiring scenes and pleasant memories as they turn over its pages. Those who have never beheld the works of nature and man in this empire will find the volume a key which will reveal to them the secrets of a great nation.

Original Cover Design, Bound in Cloth, $12.00.

THE WERNER COMPANY'S FALL PUBLICATIONS.—Continued.

MARY STUART, QUEEN OF SCOTS.

HER MOTIVES, HER CHARACTER, AND HER ACTS.

By ALEXANDRE DUMAS. Translated by J. M. HOWELL.

The story of Mary Stuart, Queen of Scots, as told by Alexandre Dumas, reads more like fiction than history, being devoid of dry details and touching the heart of the matter in every incident related of her checkered career. The unhappy queen seems once more, on the pages of this book, to live her exciting and ill-starred life.

This excellent translation gives us a vivid picture of the turbulent times in which this woman of strangely mingled strength and weakness strove to rule the unruly Scots. The times were exciting and picturesque, and Dumas knew well how to make us feel the thrill of that excitement and see the drama with fascinated eyes.

Polished Buckram, Gilt Top, Gilt Stamped, $1.25.

NAPOLEON, LOVER AND HUSBAND.

By FREDERIC MASSON. Translated from the French by J. M. HOWELL.

This handsome volume sketches the youth of Napoleon, and shows clearly the influences that early in his notable career gave him such prominence in the world's history.

The meeting with Josephine de Beauharnais and the subsequent marriage is told in a very charming way; also how the divorce was brought about by questions of policy, and by false insinuations of Fouche and designing women.

"The book is interesting, well written, and well translated."—New York Herald.

"One of the most remarkable books of the year."—Boston Courier.

"This book is one of the most interesting additions to the bright side of Napoleon's life, and as such it must command universal attention."—American Newsman.

320 Pages, Cloth, Gilt Top, Gold Stamped, $1.25.

THE PEOPLE I'VE SMILED WITH.

By MARSHALL P. WILDER, the American Humorist.

A reflex of the author's own happy, buoyant nature. The recollections of a life which has known no evil, and which reflects every pleasant rainbow hue which has fallen upon it.

To this brave and philosophical youth has been given the richest of dowers—the power to make others happy. He is a living illustration of how kindly the world receives those who come to it smiling and bearing in their hands offering of good-will.

Large clear type. Bound in English silk cloth, with special cover design in gold.

12mo, $1.25; Paper, 50 Cents.

ELI PERKINS' THIRTY YEARS OF WIT.

By MELVILLE D. LANDON (Eli Perkins).

This book contains the best anecdotes, the best wit and humor, and the brightest sayings of the Nineteenth Century.

Amuses every reader. Contains mirth on every page and laughter in every line. In it are found the masterpieces of merry minds. It is the death of melancholy, the grave of sighs, and the treasure-house of gladness.

The merriment of an age condensed into one volume.

Printed from large clear type on fine laid paper. Beautifully bound in English silk cloth, with splendid cover design in gold and inks.

12mo, Cloth, $1.25; Paper, 50 Cents.

JOHN L. STODDARD'S NEW PICTORIALS.

From the Atlantic to the Pacific.

An illustrated tour with descriptions by JOHN L. STODDARD, author of "Glimpses of the World."

A grand panorama of the famous scenes and noted places on our own Continent. It is the duty of every one to be familiar with his own country. He should read that page of the world first.

These one hundred and twenty-eight glimpses and descriptions will prove most valuable to the student of ART, SCIENCE, and LITERATURE.

Famous Parks and Public Buildings of America.

Described by JOHN L. STODDARD. One hundred and twenty-eight full-page views, which portray the marvellous works of nature and man in the New World.

To read forcible descriptions of famous scenes and places gives pleasure in itself, but that pleasure is infinitely increased when the reader can turn from time to time and see depicted in beauty and perfect accuracy such scenes.

Sunny Lands of the Eastern Continent.

A pictorial journey through the tropical countries of the Eastern Hemisphere, with descriptions by JOHN L. STODDARD, the well-known traveller and lecturer.

These printed and pictorial pages will awaken the mind, and will result in that large expansion and growth that broaden experience and widen charity, which are the fruits of real travel.

A Tour Through Northern Europe.

The famous cities, parks, buildings, and palaces as seen and described by JOHN L. STODDARD. All reproduced from photographs by the perfected half-tone process. These illustrations are symbols of facts. They unlock many libraries and inspire one to learn the history of accomplished and fascinating races. They awake and stimulate the intellect and make the scenes and places described permanent and intelligible possessions of our minds.

Handsomely bound in cloth. Best grade of paper, printed on one side only.

Price, Each, $2.00.

A DESCRIPTIVE TOUR OF THE WORLD.

Embracing the principal buildings and scenery of all countries of the globe. Compiled by F. G. LAMPREY.

Furnishes, with the aid of solar prints, an opportunity for thousands to see the wonderful works of nature and man which otherwise, through lack of time and means, would be denied to them forever.

Neither work nor expense has been spared to place before the spectator a panorama that will improve his mind and open to him the world and its vast field of travel. To those who have seen their grand originals, these pictures serve as charming souvenirs.

The book also contains five other interesting stories, among which is a description of a Quaker Wedding, and the history of the Girl Who Had Patience to Practice—Camilla Urso.

SHETLAND PONIES,

And Other Stories.

A short description of the Shetland Islands, and the homes of the favorite ponies.

Also some facts about the Shetland women, their work, costumes, and manners.

ST. BOTOLPH'S TOWN.

This volume contains an interesting description of the ancient St. Botolph's Town, as well as of the modern city, which is our Boston of to-day.

THE JEWELED TOMB.

A most interesting description of the grandest sepulcher in the world, built by the King of India, which is not a marble shaft or granite block, but a chapel containing many beautiful gems.

THE CHILDREN OF THE KOPPENBERG,

And Other Stories.

This book describes the mountain in which disappeared the Piper of Hamelin and the one hundred and thirty children charmed by his music. A new version of the famous old German Legend.

JOE, THE CHIMPANZEE,

And Other Stories.

An account of a lady's visit to the cage of the famous Chimpanzee of London, and all the interesting things he did to amuse her.

Seven other stories which will hold the child's attention and teach him many new facts about foreign countries.

AUNT POLLY SHEDD'S BRIGADE.

A story of Colonial times, and a description of Aunt Polly's brigade as it marched away from Hampden during the battle.

INDIAN CHILDREN AND THEIR PETS.

A good description of the different pets of the Indian children, and how they are treated by their owners.

CHOOSING ABE LINCOLN CAPTAIN.

This story describes the unique manner in which Lincoln's friends elected him Captain during the Black Hawk War, and how the unexpected honor was received by Lincoln.

There is also another quaint little story contained in this volume, entitled "Sally's Seven-League Shoes," which carried their owner to Canada and back.

A HERO IN PEACE AND WAR.

A short character sketch of Israel Putnam, and his bravery at the Battle of Bunkerhill.

Also, "The Only Woman in the Town," a sweet old lady of Boston, who was magnanimous enough to entertain her enemies during the siege of Revolutionary times.

A HERO,

And Other Stories.

A tale of Revolutionary times, of how a small boy escaped from the British officers and protected an American spy.

All of the above, with the exception of SECRETS OF SUCCESS (which is bound in Cream Pebble Grain, stamped in green and silver), are bound in Cloth with special cover designs in inks. No two alike.

John Ruskin, Social Reformer.

By J. A. HOBSON. An excellent and most thorough exposition of John Ruskin's social teaching.

12mo, cloth, gilt tops.....$1 50

"The main part of this book is devoted to a statement and a vindication of Mr. Ruskin's claim to have placed Political Economy upon a sounder scientific and ethical foundation than it had hitherto possessed, and to have built upon that foundation an ideal of a prosperous human society. The particular qualities and defects of Mr. Ruskin's criticism and constructive policy are examined in some detail, his repudiation of democratic ideas and institutions receiving special attention. The important contribution which he made to educational theories and experiments, and its bearing upon the wider social polity, are separately discussed, and chapters are accorded to certain themes, such as his attitude toward machinery and his view of the position of woman, which seem to demand separate treatment. Finally, some account is given of the constitution of the Society and Guild of St. George, and of the industrial and educational experiments, either directly associated with the Guild, or animated by the spirit of Mr. Ruskin's social teaching."

The Two Books on the Water Supply of the City of Rome, of Sextus Julius Frontinus, Water Commissioner of the City of Rome, A.D. 97.

THE LIFE AND LETTERS OF SIR JOHN EVERETT MILLAIS, PRESIDENT OF THE ROYAL ACADEMY.

By John G. Millais.

These two magnificent volumes contain the authoritative biography by his son of the most distinguished and popular painter of the last half of the century. They contain the story of his extraordinary boyhood, of his early struggles, of the founding of the Pre-Raphaelite Brotherhood, now first given to the world in authentic detail, of the painting of most of his famous pictures, of his friendships with many of the most distinguished men of the day in art, letters, and politics, of his home life, and of his sporting tastes and amusements.

There are a large number of letters to his wife, describing the circumstances under which many of his famous pictures were painted; letters from the Queen, Lord Beaconsfield, Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Watts, Sir William Harcourt, Lord Rosebery, Lord Leighton, etc., etc. Among them are several illustrated letters from Landseer, Leech, and Du Maurier. The last letter that Lord Beaconsfield wrote before his death is reproduced in facsimile. Sir George Reid, Sir William Richmond, Sir Noel Paton, and Mr. H. W. B. Davis contribute their reminiscences; and Mr. Val Prinsep has written a long and most interesting chapter to the same purpose.

Not the least attractive and remarkable feature of this book will be the magnificence of its illustrations. No more complete representation of the art of any painter has ever been produced on the same scale. The owners of Sir John Millais' most famous pictures have generously given their consent to their reproduction in his biography, and over two hundred pictures and sketches which have never been reproduced before, and which in all probability will never be seen again by the general public, will appear in these pages. Seven of Millais' finest pictures are reproduced in photogravure.

The early chapters contain sketches made by Millais at the age of seven. There follow some exquisite drawings made by him during his Pre-Raphaelite period, a large number of studies made for his great pictures, water-color and pen-and-ink sketches, and drawings humorous and serious. There are ten portraits of Millais himself, including one by Mr. Watts. There is a portrait of Dickens, taken after death, and a sketch of D. G. Rossetti.

One of the most beautiful gift-books ever published.

OUT-DOOR PICTURES.

By Thure De Thulstrup.

Containing 24 exquisite pictures of out-door life. Twelve of these are facsimiles of water-colors, and their variety is shown by their titles, which are as follows: "At the Races," "Following the Hounds," "Coaching Parade," "Polo at Newport," "Reception Day on the 'Brooklyn,'" "Skating at Van Cortlandt Park," "Bathing at Narragansett Pier," "A Day on a Steam Yacht," "Sleighing in Central Park," "West Point," "Yale-Princeton Football Game," and "On the Links."

These facsimiles are produced by a new color process, which preserves absolutely the artist's drawing. In addition to the facsimiles are 12 half-tone engravings, after designs in black and white by Mr. de Thulstrup, also depicting scenes of out-door life and sports.

The size of the pictures is so large that the artist's work loses little in reproduction.

Travels among unknown people.

THROUGH NEW GUINEA AND OTHER CANNIBAL COUNTRIES.

By H. Cayley-Webster.

This volume describes the results of Captain Webster's explorations from 1893 to the present time. Among other features, it is particularly rich in the author's extraordinary observations of cannibal life. In New Britain he found the natives boasting of eating human flesh, the chiefs in many instances keeping slaves on purpose to kill.

In preparing this book for the public, Captain Webster endeavored to describe, as accurately as possible, the different customs and manners of these unknown tribes.

Very fully illustrated from photographs, and with maps, diagrams, and photogravure frontispiece.

A valuable work of travel.

SIBERIA AND CENTRAL ASIA.

By JOHN W. BOOKWALTER.

Mr. Bookwalter took a trip through Siberia and Central Asia last year, and this book is the result of his journey. Owing to the exceptional advantages offered him for studying the inhabitants and conditions of these countries, his work is a valuable contribution to the literature on the Eastern question.

A successful business man and a great manufacturer, Mr. Bookwalter's observations are of especial value because always practical. One most important feature of the book are the numerous illustrations. Mr. Bookwalter is an enthusiastic photographer, and everything that he saw of interest has been reproduced. There are nearly 350 half-tone engravings of infinite variety which add materially to the value of the text. With map.

The most beautiful handiwork of man.

THE SHIP, HER STORY.

By W. CLARK RUSSELL.

The story of the birth of the ship, her launch, her growth from the "dugout" to a great ocean steamer or an armor-clad ship of war, is described in this work. In his introduction Mr. Russell says:

"My pages will not be accepted as a very learned and gravely important contribution to the literature of the ship. They will be regarded as mere prattle, as we wander about the ship-building yard. We tell what we know and what we believe to be the truth, and if we are wrong we apologize. . . . At the same time, it is perhaps due to myself to say that this book is the issue of considerable reading, and of my life-long admiration of that most beautiful and sentient expression of the handiwork of man—the sailing ship."

With 50 illustrations by H. C. Steppings Wright, which Mr. Russell pronounces beautiful and in many respects faultless.

An impartial study of the status of the modern Jew.

THE MODERN JEW.

By ARNOLD WHITE.

Mr. White, who is the author of "Problems of a Great City," "English Democracy," etc., has written a very comprehensive account of the status of the Jew at the present time, in all parts of the world, in a perfectly impartial manner. Mr. White was engaged for years in carrying out the philanthropic work of the late Baron Hirsch, and he has had most unusual opportunities for studying his subject.

The work includes chapters on the Jew in Russia, Austria, France, England, America, and South America, and there is also a description of the origin of modern anti-semitism.

THE CLANS OF THE SCOTTISH HIGHLANDS.

By R. R. MCIAN.

This work, as originally published half a century ago, in two large quarto volumes, is most artistic and sumptuous, but it can only be purchased at prices ranging from $50 to $75.

The work is most valuable and interesting, and is the only one giving the costumes of the various clans, in their true tartans, displayed in natural folds on the person. The portraits were painted by a veritable Highlandman, an able artist, familiar with the whole subject—dress, weapons, armorial bearings, crests, etc.; while the accompanying descriptions and historical memoranda of characters, manners, customs, mode of life, folklore, etc., are by Mr. James Logan, a Celtic scholar of authority.

The present volume, which is a reproduction of the original two volumes, contains two plates of coats-of-arms and 72 finely colored illustrations of representatives of the clans. The letter-press is printed without alterations and carefully indexed.

The Balkan Question discussed without prejudice.

TRAVELS AND POLITICS IN THE NEAR EAST.

By WILLIAM MILLER.

This work is the result of four trips to the Balkan peninsula, and of many years study of the Eastern question. Mr. Miller, in his introduction, states that while he has read all the works published on this subject, he has relied almost entirely on the results of his own inquiries and observations. He has made an especial effort to be impartial in narrating his history of the peninsula. With an excellent map, and nearly 100 illustrations.

THE CONQUESTS OF THE PACIFIC.

By OSCAR KING DAVIS.

Mr. Davis was the special correspondent of the New York Sun, with the army of occupation, from May to December, 1898, and his letters from Manila during that period attracted great attention. He is a most interesting and graphic writer, and his descriptions of our operations there, the Filipinos and their picturesque mode of life, Aguinaldo and the other leaders, are of absorbing interest. Illustrated by 16 half-tone engravings of photographs taken by Mr. Davis.

Size 4¾ x 7½ inches, 352 pages, cloth, with a design of a Filipino stamped in ink on the cover, ... $1.25

FROM SPHINX TO ORACLE.

By ARTHUR SILVA WHITE, F.R.S.G.S.

This work, which is by the author of the "Development of Africa," etc., describes a trip through the Libyan Desert to the oasis of Jupiter Ammon. It contains 56 illustrations from photographs by the author, with a frontispiece by R. Talbot Kelly, R.B.A. With two maps in color, and complete index.

8vo, cloth, 277 pages, ... $4.50

FICTION.

The works that are published by the Frederick A. Stokes Company have all been selected with the greatest care and are all copyrighted.

They are manufactured in the most perfect manner possible, are well printed and bound, and in most instances have ornamental covers designed by well-known artists.

Among the novels published this fall are:

Jennie Baxter, Journalist.

By ROBERT BARR.

Jennie Baxter was a young American woman, a journalist of the modern school, pretty, bright, and audacious. Visiting London, she began to introduce her American methods into the English and Continental newspapers. Mr. Barr, as a veteran newspaper man, tells the story of her adventures in his spirited and humorous style. Jennie Baxter is a unique character in the world of fiction, and a most interesting one.

12mo, cloth, ... $1.25

The Strong Arm.

By ROBERT BARR.

This story is one of the same region—the Rhine and Moselle country—and of about the same period as "Tekla," the most successful of Mr. Barr's works. It is a romance full of action, and the reader is never wearied. Ten shorter stories are given in the book following "The Strong Arm."

"Good fighting" and love are delightfully handled by Mr. Barr, and his thousands of admirers will enjoy this new work thoroughly.

Size 4¾ x 7½ inches, 336 pages, cloth, uniform with "Tekla," $1.25

The Crown of Life.

By GEORGE GISSING.

A strong novel by the author of "In the Year of the Jubilee," "Eve's Ransom," etc.

Mr. Gissing's latest work. In this, as in "The Town Traveller," he shows little of the cynicism that marked his early books. The work, as might be expected, is a social study, but of the better class of English society.

Size 4¾ x 7½ inches, cloth, ... $1.50

The Market-Place.

By HAROLD FREDERIC.

The last work of the greatest American author of this decade, and the author of "The Damnation of Theron Ware," "March Hares," etc.

This work has only been out three months and is already in its 23d thousand.

A story of finance and business schemes for men—and of social struggles and English country life for women.

It deals in part with a phase of English life that has no counterpart in this country, and that was fully exposed in the Hooley scandals. It compares so closely with these disclosures that recently shocked London that it would seem almost as if the talented author had the gift of prophecy.

Combined with the story of company flotation and financial magnates are descriptions of social life at the West End and English country life that make the book the most fascinating one that Mr. Frederic wrote.

With excellent illustrations by Harrison Fisher.

"It is hard to refuse to Harold Frederic a claim to genius."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

"One of the most notable books of the year."—Mail and Express.

"This novel is intensely human."—Newark Daily Advertiser.

"A strong and intensely interesting story."—Chicago Evening Post.

Size 4¾ x 7½ inches, cloth, ... $1.50

Active Service.

By STEPHEN CRANE.

A new novel by Mr. Crane, the first important one he has written since "The Red Badge of Courage." Mr. Crane was in the Græco-Turkish war as a correspondent, and he has laid the scenes of his story in the region where this occurred. Both the hero and the heroine meet with many exciting adventures, and the interest in the story is never allowed to flag. The general nature of the work is the same as that of the author's most successful book, "The Red Badge of Courage."

Size 4¾ x 7½ inches, cloth, ... $1.25

The Watchers.

By A. E. W. MASON,

Author of "The Courtship of Morrice Buckler."

The scene is laid in the Scilly Islands. It is a story of adventure, and is as interesting and exciting as the author's first success.

Size 4¾ x 7½ inches, ... $1.25

For the Sake of the Duchesse.

By S. WALKEY.

A story of adventure, being a page from the life of Vicomte de Championnet. The scene is laid in the early days of the last French empire.

Size 4¾ x 7½ inches, boards, ... 50 cents

An Eclipse of Memory.

By Dr. MORTON GRINNELL.

The characters are all Americans, but the scene of the story is laid in New York, the West Indies, and Egypt, with a very interesting plot, including a trip up the Nile under most romantic circumstances.

Size 5 x 7½ inches, boards, ... 50 cents

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY'S ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Curios; Some Strange Adventures of Two Bachelors.

By RICHARD MARSH.

A collection of curious and interesting stories that have met with great success in England, where the book is now in its third edition.

CONTENTS: The Adventure of the Pipe; The Adventure of the Phonograph; The Adventure of the Cabinet; The Adventure of the Ikon; The Adventure of the Puzzle; The Adventure of Lady Wishaw's Hand; The Adventure of the Great Auk's Egg.

The book is handsomely illustrated by full-page engravings after designs by J. Ayton Symington.

Size 4 x 5½ inches, 287 pages, cloth, ... $1.50

Cupid and the Footlights.

By JAMES L FORD,

Author of "Dolly Dillenbeck," "The Literary Shop," etc.

A very interesting and unique little love-story. Told entirely by the documents in the case. It gives some episodes from the lives of an actress and a newspaper man, and is marked by Mr. Ford's delightful humor. Archie Gunn has illustrated this profusely with some most striking pictures.

Especially suitable for a Christmas present.

Size 9 x 12 inches, with an ornamental cover, . $1.50

Letitia Berkeley, A.M.

By STEFFENS, JOSEPHINE BONTECOU.

A powerful novel by a new writer of the greatest promise. Dealing with New York life, but including a description of the career of a medical student in Paris. It deals also with the sex problem, but in a way that attracts rather than repels.

Size 4¾ x 7½ inches, 297 pages, cloth, ... $1.25

Pabo the Priest.

By S. BARING-GOULD.

An interesting historical romance laid in Wales, dealing with the invasion of that country by the Norman rulers of England. An interesting picture of the times, the people, and their manners and customs is presented. The hero of the tale is a Welsh priest, whose adventures and those of the heroine give a touch of romance to the work.

Size 4¾ x 7½ inches, 274 pages, boards, . . 50 cents.

Sidelights on the Santiago campaign.

THE FUN AND FIGHTING OF THE ROUGH RIDERS.

By TOM HALL,

Author of "When Hearts are Trumps," "When Love is Lord," etc.

Mr. Hall was adjutant of the Rough Riders, and went through all the Santiago campaign. In this book Mr. Hall has brought out all the picturesque features of Col. Roosevelt's troopers, and has omitted the dry details and facts that have been told in other works.

Size 4¾ x 7½ inches, boards, ... 50 cents

WHEN LOVE IS LORD.

By TOM HALL.

Sparkling "vers de société," witty, light, and gay. Uniform with "When Hearts are Trumps."

Size 4 x 6¾ inches, with borders by Will Bradley. Daintily bound in blue or white cloth, stamped in gold after design by F. Berkeley Smith, ... $1.00

Artistic pictures for young and old.

MAUD HUMPHREY'S NEW BOOKS.

Collections of facsimiles of water-color sketches by this famous artist, which have never been equalled in the beauty of the designs or the excellence of the reproductions. As a painter of children, Miss Humphrey is admitted to be the most successful in the world.

Gallant Little Patriots.

With twelve facsimiles of designs of little boys and girls, in scenes and costumes suggestive of the late war. One, entitled "The Returning Hero," represents a little boy, in a United States uniform, leaning on a crutch, and there is a bandage around his head. On either side is a pretty little girl, one holding his toy sword, while the other is offering him a bouquet of roses. Other pictures are "Naval Reserve Girl," "The Military Band," "Roosevelt's Rough Riders," "Hobson and the 'Merrimac,'" "A Red Cross Nurse," etc.

These pictures represent the children acting out these scenes just as they would imagine them, and the effects produced are very dainty and fascinating.

With appropriate text for each picture by Miss Mabel Humphrey, printed in inks of different colors, and with numerous designs in black and white by her.

Size 9 x 11 inches, boards, with covers in colors, . $2.00

Little Heroes and Heroines.

Little Soldiers and Sailors.

These books are made up of selections from "Gallant Little Patriots," each containing just half the illustrations and text in the larger volume, and bound in exactly the same manner.

Size 9 x 11 inches, boards, ... $1.25

The Golf Girl.

Four attractive facsimiles of water-colors, by Miss Humphrey, of girls playing golf, each picture representing a different season of the year. The costumes are bright and attractive, and the pictures are full of life.

Each picture is accompanied by verses by Dr. Samuel Minturn Peck, the popular Southern poet.

Size 9 x 11 inches, heavy boards, ... $1.00

A book of adventure for boys.

JACK, THE YOUNG RANCHMAN,

OR A BOY'S ADVENTURES IN THE ROCKIES.

By GEORGE BIRD GRINNELL.

Jack Danvers was a young New York boy whose health was not good, and who was sent in consequence by his family to spend some months on a Western ranch. This was before the extermination of the buffalo and the wild Indian, and when the cattle business was at its best.

On the ranch Jack met with many adventures, learning to ride and shoot, killing an antelope, an elk, riding a wild horse, and finally returning to New York the proud possessor of a tame wolf. The story is founded on fact, and is an excellent, healthy book to put in the hands of a boy.

With numerous beautiful illustrations by E. W. Deming, the great delineator of Western life.

The cover is also after a design by Mr. Deming, and contains representations in colored inks of three elks, Jack's pony, and a Western cowboy.

Size 4¾ x 7½ inches, cloth, ... $1.50

Works for old and young by a delightful and original humorist and artist.

BOOKS BY GELETT BURGESS.

The Lively City o' Ligg.

A cycle of modern fairy tales for city children by Gelett Burgess, formerly editor of The Lark, author of "Vivette," etc.

In this series of fables Mr. Burgess has taken for his characters and heroes, instead of the old-fashioned dramatis personæ of fairies, giants, wizards, princesses, and dragons, a more modern people, and, in the Lively City o' Ligg we meet such interesting inhabitants as The Pert Fire Engine, The Lazy Lamp Posts, The Bothersome Brig, The Terrible Train, The Bold Balloon, The Very Grand Piano, and The House Who Walked In Her Sleep, making the collection a sort of Hans Andersen up-to-date. The book is prefaced by a whimsical mock-essay on "Cidivation of Inanimate Things."

Illustrated with 8 full-page color plates, and 45 black and white drawings.

4to, full cloth, ... $1.50

Nonsense Almanac.

An almanac and calendar combined for the year 1900. Contains 14 humorous drawings in black and white, with nonsense quatrains, distorted proverbs, etc. A most original and striking novelty. Cover design by Mr. Burgess, printed in two colors on dark-brown antique English paper.

Size 7 x 10 inches, 32 pages, ... 50 cents

Some wonderful pictures of the red man.

WESTERN LIFE AS SEEN BY E. W. DEMING.

Indian Pictures.

Mr. Deming's pictures of Indian life are pronounced both by art critics and Western men most powerful and accurate. There is no artist of the present time who understands and can depict Indian life as well as Mr. Deming. He spent some years on the plains, where he made a close study of the different tribes, their traditions and customs, which has made him unrivalled in this field.

Containing six facsimiles of water-colors by Mr. Deming.

Large folio, 12½ x 17½ inches, with cover in colors after a design by Mr. Deming, boxed, ... $4.00

Three very interesting books for children by Mr. Deming are also offered.

Indian Child Life.

This consists of 18 stories about Indian children. Each one tells some anecdote, illustrating some phase of their life, describing their customs, their pets, and curious and interesting facts connected with their childhood.

These are illustrated by 18 facsimiles of water-colors, and 25 half-tone engravings after designs in black and white by the author, done in his inimitable style. The little Indian children playing with their dogs, bears, ponies, and pumas, are so life-like that they seem almost ready to step out of the pictures.

Size 8½ x 11 inches, boards, with cover after a design by Mr. Deming, ... $2.00

Little Red People.

Little Indian Folk.

Each of these books contain just half the illustrations and text in the preceding volume.

Size 8½ x 11 inches, boards, with cover in colors, $1.25

A delightful book for children.

A LITTLE DAUGHTER OF THE REVOLUTION.

By Miss A. C. Sage.

This new work by Miss Sage is in the same field as her successful work, "A Little Colonial Dame." It is a story of child life during the exciting period of the War for American Independence, and the scenes are laid in Boston, in Philadelphia, and in New York. The young heroes and heroines play their small parts in various historical events, including the famous tea party and the inauguration of Washington. The book is one that possesses as much interest for boys as for girls.

Size 6¾ x 8¾ inches, cloth, illustrated, ... $1.50

A new work by a favorite author for boys and girls.

LOYAL HEARTS AND TRUE.

By Ruth Ogden.

A new book by this popular author, whose work has so endeared her to the children. This story concerns the adventures of a group of young children who form themselves into "The Dry Dock Club," and who have their headquarters near the Brooklyn Navy Yard. The war with Spain brings out their patriotic spirit, which they show in many ways. Profusely illustrated by Harry C. Ogden.

Size 4¾ x 7½ inches, cloth, with a cover designed by F. Berkeley Smith, ... $1.50

THE TREASURE SEEKERS.

By E. Nesbit.

A charming book for children. It concerns the history of the Barnstable children, and originally appeared in the Pall Mall Magazine, where it met with great success. With numerous illustrations by Gordon Browne.

A NOTABLE WORK.—Just Published: Volume II.

History of the New World Called America

By EDWARD JOHN PAYNE, Fellow of University College, Oxford. Crown 8vo, cloth. Vol. I., $3.00; Vol. II., $3.50.

"It is beyond question a remarkable book. . . . No one who pretends to acquaintance with American aboriginal conditions can afford to neglect Mr. Payne's work. . . . It is a storehouse of information drawn from out-of-the-way sources, quite beyond the reach of any except the most favored students."—Journal of Education.

"The ethnographic and linguistic characteristics of the aborigines are set forth with painstaking care, and many interesting matters are presented with minuteness of detail."—The Dial (Chicago).

"Conspicuous is the author of these volumes for his immense and all-pervading erudition."—New York Times.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

A New English Dictionary on Historical Principles.

Founded mainly on Materials Collected by the Philological Society. Edited by Dr. J. A. H. MURRAY, with the assistance of many Scholars and Men of Science.

Already published: Vols. I. and II., by Dr. MURRAY; Vol. III., by Dr. MURRAY and Mr. BRADLEY. In course of publication: Vol. IV., by Mr. BRADLEY; Vol. V., by Dr. MURRAY.

To suit the convenience of those who may desire to commence subscription in installments for the Dictionary, a new issue, beginning with the letter A, has been commenced. It will be in monthly parts, each of 88 pages; price, 90 cents per part.

The DICTIONARY has hitherto been issued in three forms:

In Sections of 64 pages, one or more appearing quarterly, at a published price of sixty cents.

In Parts of 320 pages, at a published price of $3.25.

In Volumes, bound in half morocco, at a published price of $13.00.

All these issues will be continued, and at the original price, which was fixed so low that each page costs the purchaser about a cent—no more than the page of any other large Dictionary.

"The Greatest Dictionary of Modern Times."

JUST PUBLISHED:

MODERN LAND LAW.

By EDWARD JENKS, M.A. 8vo, cloth, $3.75.

This book, which is uniform with and on the same lines as Sir William Anson's well-known work on the Law of Contract, is the result of Mr. Jenks' many years' experience as a teacher of Real Property Law; and presents in clear and compact form a comprehensive outline of the subject, which can afterwards be filled in by the study of larger and more technical treatises.

STUDIES IN DANTE.

Second Series. Miscellaneous Essays. By EDWARD MOORE, D.D. 8vo, cloth, $3.10.

"The relation of the present collection of Studies to that which was published three years ago is that of another Series rather than that of a Second Volume. I have endeavored to make them as far as possible independent of one another, since some of the various subjects here treated of may (it is hoped) have an interest for many who would not care to purchase a volume entirely devoted to a subject so special and technical as the use by Dante of Scriptural and Classical authors."—From the Preface.

AN INTRODUCTION TO THE FIFTH BOOK OF HOOKER'S TREATISE OF THE LAWS OF ECCLESIASTICAL POLITY.

By the Very Rev. FRANCIS PAGET, D.D., Dean of Christ Church. Medium 8vo, cloth, $1.90.

For the convenience of purchasers, Vol. II. of the Three-Volume Edition of Hooker's Works (Ecclesiastical Polity, Book V.) edited by Drs. Keeble, Church, and Paget, is sold separately, price $3.00.

FALL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

TWENTY NEW COPYRIGHT EDITIONS OF THE GENUINE

"OXFORD" Teachers' Bibles

AND AUTHORIZED AMERICAN EDITIONS.

SOME CHARACTERISTICS.

Paper, Printing, Helps, Illustrations,

IN ADVANCE OF ALL OTHERS.

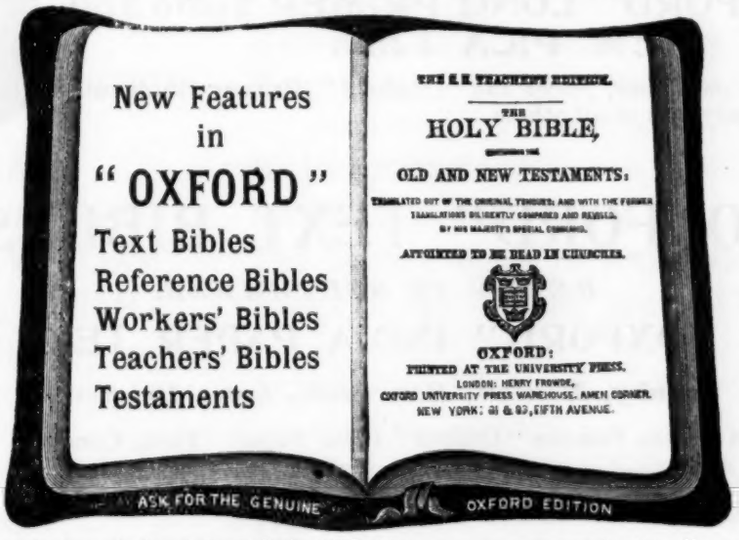
"Since 1880, the 'Oxford' Teachers' Bible has been acknowledged the greatest book marvel of modern times. The publishers have just brought out an edition with revised Helps which again puts this work clearly in advance of all others."—Sunday-school Magazine.

The Paper.

"The India paper, in which we believe this company leads the world, has made a revolution in the art of printing."—The Living Church.

No other paper has yet been made that can approach it for its wonderful opacity, great toughness and softness, and its agreeable tone, nor for the ease with which

The Pages Can Be Turned.



The Printing

"Its letterpress is remarkably clear and distinct. This is appreciated the more because it is uncommon in Bibles. Long and close attention to the print of ordinary Bibles strains the strongest eyes, but the 'Oxford' is not an ordinary Bible in this or any other respect."—The Christian Nation.

A distinguishing characteristic of the "Oxford" India paper, as compared with all so-called India paper, is that the impression on one side does not show through when the other side is being read.

The Helps.

Rev. F. N. Peloubet, D.D., author of "Peloubet's Notes on the International Lessons," says, January 14, 1899:

"I have been comparing the two editions of the 'Oxford' Helps, your new one with mine dated 1893. Your appendix, and especially the new plates, and more especially the descriptions of them, which are a wholly new feature, add greatly to the value of these Helps. I shall refer to them as often as I can in my 'Notes on the Lessons.'"

The Christian Advocate, Nashville, Tenn.

"The Helps are real helps. Unlike those in many of the cheap Bibles, they are not simply thrown together in hodge-podge fashion, but represent the freshest and ablest work of the foremost modern scholars."

The Interior, Chicago, Ill.

"Helps prepared for this work by the most eminent Biblical scholars of the day, and revised up to the latest possible date, to keep in touch with the last discoveries of science, the last lights of interpretation. This edition has reached, in former issues, a sale of over two million copies, and it is safe to say that nothing offers even fair competition with it in general favor."

The Illustrations.

The Sunday-school Times, September 17, 1898.

Referring to the illustrations: "In this department this Bible is probably far superior to any other of those commonly called Teachers' Bibles. Probably there does not exist another equally compact collection of the kind."

THE WORMELEY BALZAC

THE COMÉDIE HUMAINE OF HONORÉ DE BALZAC

CENTENARY EDITION. Translated by KATHARINE PRESCOTT WORMELEY. Illustrated with nearly 100 photogravure plates by French artists. Complete in 33 vols. 12mo, cloth, gilt top. Price, per volume, $1.50.

"A conscientious and impartial comparison of Miss Wormeley's translations with those of her predecessors and present rivals must leave a conviction that for accuracy, sympathy, discretion, and editorial judgment she stands alone. Her style is clear, supple, animated, and has sufficient color; but if it is not the style of Balzac, which English prose could not pretend to be, it is at any rate the most satisfactory equivalent which we know." —NEW YORK TRIBUNE.

Richard Carvel

130th Thousand
15th Edition
CLOTH, $1.50

130,000 in 3 Months

"RICHARD CARVEL—one of the most delightful and fascinating studies of manners and stories of adventure which has yet appeared in our literature."—H. W. M. in The Outlook.

"A third satisfaction to be derived from a reading of this book lies in the conviction that first dawns upon the reader's mind, and then grows in force and positiveness as he proceeds with the story that we have in this new writer one who has studied his art and, to an extraordinary degree, mastered it. . . . As a whole, it is a production which not only the author, but his countrymen, have every reason to be proud."—Literature.

"RICHARD CARVEL . . . is in every way strong, original, and delightful, . . . entitled to high place on the list of successful novels. . . . It is a charming story."—Buffalo Commercial.

"RICHARD CARVEL is a historical romance of Revolutionary days, with the scenes laid partly in Maryland and partly in the London of George III. In breadth of canvas, massing of dramatic effect, depth of feeling, and rare wholesomeness of spirit it has seldom if ever been surpassed by an American romance. . . . It is one of the novels that are not made for a day."—Chicago Tribune.

"RICHARD CARVEL seems, verily, to possess every quality that goes to make a genuinely great work of fiction. It has the reassuring solidity and the charming quaintness of 'Henry Esmond' or 'The Virginians,' with an additional zest that must perforce be the author's own."
—New York Home Journal.

"RICHARD CARVEL is the most extensive piece of semi-historical fiction which has yet come from an American hand; it is on a larger scale than any of its predecessors, and the skill with which the materials have been handled justifies the largeness of the plan."—HAMILTON W. MABIE in The New York Times.

OTHER NEW NOVELS

MASON

Miranda of the Balcony. By A. E. W. MASON, author of "The Courtship of Morrice Buckler," etc. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

Scenes in Spain, Morocco, etc.

SHERWOOD

Henry Worthington, Idealist. By MARGARET SHERWOOD, author of "An Experiment in Altruism," "A Puritan Bohemia," etc. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

A vigorous study of social and economic problems, underlying which is a simple, attractive love story.

HEWLETT

Little Novels of Italy. By MAURICE HEWLETT, author of "The Forest Lovers," "Pan and the Young Shepherd," "Earthwork out of Tuscany," etc. Cloth, $1.50.

A volume of short "novels," in the Italian use of the word.

GIBSON

My Lady and Allan Darke. By CHARLES DONNEL GIBSON. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50. Ready in Oct.

GARLAND

Main Travelled Roads. By HAMLIN GARLAND, author of "Rose of Dutcher's Cooly," "Prairie Folks," "The Trail of the Gold Seekers," etc. New Edition, with additional Stories. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

DIX

Soldier Rigdale. HOW HE SAILED IN THE "MAYFLOWER" AND HOW HE SERVED MILES STANDISH. By BEULAH MARIE DIX, author of "Hugh Gwyeth, a Roundhead Cavalier." In the series of Stories from American History. Cloth, 8vo, $1.50.

Miss Dix's "Hugh Gwyeth," was, it will be remembered, the book of which the Saturday Review (London) wrote "We found it difficult to tear ourselves away from the fascinating narrative."

CASTLE

Young April. By EGERTON CASTLE, author of "The Pride of Jennico." Cloth, 12mo, $1.50. Ready in Oct.

In this book, as in its forerunner, there is a rare degree of beauty and distinction of literary style. Full of dash and color, it is illustrated with ten full-page half-tones from drawings by Wenzell.

CANAVAN

Ben Comee. A TALE OF ROGERS, RANGERS. By M. CANAVAN. Illustrated by George Gibbs. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50. Ready in Oct.

BRUN

Tales of Languedoc. By SAMUEL JACQUES BRUN. With an Introduction by Harriet W. Preston. New Edition. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50. Ready in Oct.

Folk-lore and fairy tales beautifully illustrated by Ernest C. Peixotto.

CRAWFORD. Via Crucis: A ROMANCE OF THE SECOND CRUSADE.

By F. MARION CRAWFORD, author of "Saracinesca," "Corleone," "Ave Roma Immortalis," etc. With twelve full-page illustrations by Louis Loeb. Buckram, 12mo, $1.50. Ready in October.

A strong story evincing a thoroughly intimate knowledge of the times, and that deep sympathy with the characters created which gives Mr. Crawford's story such compelling interest.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY, Publishers, NEW YORK

HERBERT S. STONE & COMPANY

GEORGE ADE

FABLES IN SLANG. By the author of "Artie," "Doc' Horne" and "Pink Marsh." With twenty-five full-page illustrations by Clyde J. Newman. 18mo, cloth, $1.00.

AMELIA E. BARR

WAS IT RIGHT TO FORGIVE? By the author of "A Bow of Orange Ribbon," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

Mrs. Barr considers this new novel as quite the best of her recent work. It is characterized by the same skilful handling and interesting love story that have made her other books popular.

GUY BOOTHBY

LOVE MADE MANIFEST. By the author of "Dr. Nikola," etc. Illustrated by Lucy Kemp-Welch. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

Mr. Boothby is already too well known to need any introduction here. His new story is as thrillingly interesting as anything he has done.

MARY HARTWELL CATHERWOOD

SPANISH PEGGY. By MARY HARTWELL CATHERWOOD. Illustrated by J. C. Leyendecker. 4to, cloth, $2.00.

A story of young Abraham Lincoln and his life in New Salem, Illinois. A pretty, romantic love story which will serve as an admirable book for Christmas and the holidays.

EGERTON CASTLE

MARSHFIELD THE OBSERVER. By the author of "The Private Jennico," "Young April," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

This is a volume of short stories which show the same striking ability that mark Mr. Castle's earlier books. It is likely to obtain a very wide sale.

MRS. SCHUYLER CROWNINSHIELD

SAN ISIDRO. By Mrs. SCHUYLER CROWNINSHIELD. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

A romance of the early part of the century in the West Indies. It shows all the vivid coloring of the islands and scenes in which Mrs. Crowninshield is so much at home.

COULSON KERNAHAN

SCOUNDRELS & CO., LIMITED. By COULSON KERNAHAN. 16mo, cloth, $1.25.

An exciting story of a company of scoundrels organized for criminal purposes. It is very exciting, full of action and incident.

VIOLET HUNT

THE HUMAN INTEREST. A Study in Incompatibilities. By VIOLET HUNT. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

A light and very amusing novel, written in a brilliant epigrammatic style. It is in no sense a problem story and is intended for entertainment alone.

ARTHUR MORRISON

TO LONDON TOWN. By the author of "A Child of the Jago." 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Mr. Morrison is recognized as not only the best informed, but the most dramatic writer on life in the Whitechapel district in London. His previous books have attracted wide attention, and this present volume is in a sense a continuation of the pictures presented in them.

MARIA LOUISE POOL

A WIDOWER AND SOME SPINSTERS. By MARIA LOUISE POOL. With a memoir and Portraits. 12mo, cloth, uniform with "A Golden Sorrow" and "Sand 'n' Bushes," $1.50.

A large number of readers who have delighted in Miss Pool's stories will be pleased to hear that a new volume is now ready. The title appropriately characterizes the collection, for most of the stories refer to old maids.

E. H. COOPER

RESOLVED TO BE RICH. By EDWARD H. COOPER. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

Mr. Cooper achieved considerable reputation through his brilliant story entitled "The Marchioness Against the County." Since then he has published a book of short stories only. This new novel is likely to give him a firm position before the reading public.

HERBERT S. STONE & COMPANY

THE LIFE OF WILLIAM MAKEPEACE THACKERAY

By LEWIS MELVILLE. With portraits, facsimile of handwriting, and several drawings, many now printed for the first time. In two volumes, demy 8vo, cloth gilt, $10.00.

Although five and thirty years have passed since his death, until now there has never been published a life of Thackeray which has had any pretensions to finality. The present work has been written to fill this void in the literary history of the century. It is a complete record of the career of the great novelist, and throws many new lights upon his private as well as his public life. Thackeray is presented as novelist, poet, artist and art critic, and his friendships and tastes are recorded.

SIR ARTHUR SULLIVAN. His Life Story, with Letters and Reminiscences. By ARTHUR LAWRENCE. With many illustrations. 8vo, cloth, $3.50.

This is the authorized biography of the great composer. It has been prepared under his personal supervision and revised by him in proof. It contains many of his letters and much intimate personal matter of great interest.

THE INDIANS OF TO-DAY. By GEORGE BIRD GRINNELL. With fifty full-page portraits of the most famous chiefs and four pictures in color. 4to, buckram, $5.00. Also a special limited edition of one hundred copies on hand-made paper, $10.00 net.

It is generally acknowledged that Mr. Grinnell is the authority on American Indians. For the first time in many years a serious attempt is made to deal fairly with the Indian of to-day: his past, his present conditions, and his future chances. The book is illustrated with a remarkable series of photographs, taken by Mr. F. A. Rinehart during the Congress of Indians at the Omaha Exposition.

THE GREATEST AMERICAN ORATIONS. Edited by ALONZO BEACH GOWER. 8vo, buckram, $2.00.

Mr. Gower has collected in one large volume of over six hundred pages the greatest orations delivered in America. Up to now there has been no handy edition, and the present volume will go far to supply a want which has been felt in libraries and schools.

FAMOUS LADIES OF THE ENGLISH COURT. By Mrs. AUBREY RICHARDSON. With over one hundred portraits and illustrations. 8vo, cloth, $3.50 net.

Mrs. Richardson has chosen a fascinating subject and has treated it in the most interesting manner. She has told the story of the principal beauties of the English Court, their lives, their friends and their scandals. It is a gossipy volume, made possible only through the courtesy of many titled persons, who have furnished details, letters, and portraits.

A MODERN READER AND SPEAKER. Adapted to schools and colleges and containing the most representative collection of pieces suitable for public recital. By GEORGE RIDDLE. 12mo, buckram, $1.50.

It is unlikely that any man in this country is better suited to undertake the task of preparing a reader and speaker than Mr. George Riddle. His long experience before the public has enabled him to choose the most popular pieces, while his own excellent taste and judgment have given dignity to the work.

TWO GENTLEMEN IN TOURAINE. With many full-page illustrations reproduced in photogravure. 8vo, cloth, $5.00 net.

A delightful account of the wanderings of an American gentleman and a member of the French nobility through the historical chateaux in Touraine. It gives the stories of the various castles, anecdotes of the famous people who lived in them, and admirable descriptions of the country. It is a book suited for the holidays and for general reading.

THE RELIGION OF TO-MORROW. By Rev. FRANK CRANE. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

A series of essays on religion from a rational point of view. A book for serious readers.

MY FATHER AND I. By the COUNTESS DE PULIGA. With several portraits. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

This is not a translation. It is essentially a book for daughters, being the story of a girl's up-bringing by her father and their long relationship of charming love and trust. The Countess de Puliga is the daughter of the Count d'Orsay.

HENRY IRVING-ELLEN TERRY. A Book of Portraits. By GORDON CRAIG. 4to, boards, $1.00. Also an edition of one hundred copies printed on special paper, bound in cloth, $3.50.

Mr. Gordon Craig (Miss Terry's son) has for some time been known in England as a clever artist of the Nicholson school. His work is extremely simple and brilliant. He has made portraits of his mother and Sir Henry in their best known parts. The pictures are all reproduced in color.

LESSER DESTINIES. By SAMUEL GORDON. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

A story of the East End of London. Not perhaps as unpleasant as "Tales of Mean Streets," but with much of the same forcefulness and knowledge.

JUST ABOUT A BOY. By W. S. PHILLIPS (El Comancho). 16mo, cloth, $1.25.

The story of a boy's life out of doors; it is a book that will delight all lovers of nature.

THE PERILS OF JOSEPHINE. By LORD ERNEST HAMILTON, author of "The Outlaws of the Marches." 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

A novel which once begun is not likely to be dropped until finished.

ROSE ISLAND. By W. CLARK RUSSELL. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

It is almost needless to say that Mr. Russell's new book deals with love and adventure at sea. It is perhaps worth while mentioning, however, that "Rose Island" is fully worthy of the author of "The Wreck of the Grosvenor."

THE WONDERFUL STORIES OF JANE AND JOHN. By GERTRUDE SMITH, author of "Arabella and Ariminta." With many illustrations in color by Alice Woods. 4to, cloth, $1.50.

RUNNING THE CUBAN BLOCKADE. By WILLIAM O. STODDARD, author of "Crowded Out o' Crowfield," "The First Cruiser Out," etc. With many illustrations. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

A new book for boys by this popular writer of adventure stories.

THE SEEKERS. By STANLEY WATERLOO, author of "The Story of Ab," "The Wolf's Long Howl," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Mr. Waterloo has written a powerful novel dealing with some phases of the Christian Science movement. It is in a way, perhaps, to be compared with the "Damnation of Theron Ware," and is certain to provoke wide discussion and criticism.

A NEW BOOK BY MISS MARY IMLAY TAYLOR.

THE HOUSE OF THE WIZARD.

12mo, $1.25.

This is a story of English life in the time of King Henry VIII. The reader will find in it the same dramatic power and vivid portraiture which have placed the author in the foremost rank of writers of the historical novel. In the course of the love-story of Betty Carew, maid-of-honor to two of Henry's Queens, the court life of the time is clearly and faithfully portrayed, and the manners, superstitions, etc., of old England quaintly represented.

MISS TAYLOR'S FORMER WORKS:

On the Red Staircase	12mo, $1.25
A Yankee Volunteer	12mo, 1.25
An Imperial Lover	12mo, 1.25

MISS MARGUERITE BOUVET.

TALES OF AN OLD CHATEAU.

Illustrated by Miss Helen Maitland Armstrong. 16mo, $1.25.

The author here tells, in the character of an aristocratic old French lady, some touching incidents of the French Revolution. Grand'Maman relates to her grandchildren the stirring scenes of which the old chateau has been the centre, and through which she herself has passed.

MISS BOUVET'S FORMER BOOKS:

Sweet William	Illustrated,	$1.25
My Lady	"	1.25
A Child of Tuscany . . .	"	1.25

THE DEAR IRISH GIRL.

By KATHARINE TYNAN.

12mo, $1.50.

A charming story, in which the central figure is a gently bred and winsome Irish maiden.

"It has delightful bits of character, quaint pictures of places and people, the true Irish atmosphere of sunny innocence and quick mirthfulness, the social ease and insouciance, the ready humor which is not to be analyzed—all the characteristics we look for are there."—The World, London, Eng.

A NEW BOOK BY MISS MARY FISHER.

A GENERAL SURVEY OF AMERICAN LITERATURE.

12mo, gilt top, deckle edges, $1.50.

This is a critical and biographical account of all that is permanently valuable in our literature. The literary estimates are expressed with such admirable soundness and fairness as to make the work one of high value to the student, while the general reader will find the story of the development of American letters set forth in these pages as fascinating as any novel.

BY THE SAME AUTHOR:

A Group of French Critics. 12mo, $1.25.

THOSE DALE GIRLS.

By FRANCES WESTON CARRUTH.

Illustrated. 12mo, $1.25.

"Many are the delightful stories written of girls who are forced to battle with the world, but few are as vigorous and spirited as this narrative."—The St. Paul Globe.

"'Those Dale Girls' makes a capital young girl's book. It is wholesome, high-principled and inspiring, with just enough sentiment to make it interesting."—New York Sun.

TWO NEW BOOKS BY MISS MARGARET W. MORLEY.

THE BEE PEOPLE.

With many illustrations. 12mo, $1.25.

"A work brimming over with joyous, healthy interest. It was written especially for children. So much cleverness and literary excellence entitle Miss Morley to a rank among the foremost writers for children."—The Beacon, Boston.

THE HONEY-MAKERS.

With many illustrations. 12mo, $1.50.

In "The Bee People" Miss Morley wrote lovingly for young people about bees and their ways. "The Honey-Makers" is intended for adults, for lovers of natural history, for apiculturists, and all who care to go abroad into the fields to investigate in Nature's sweet-smelling laboratory.

A NEW BOOK BY
MRS. ELIZABETH WORMELEY LATIMER.

JUDEA, From Cyrus to Titus, 537 B.C.-70 A.D.

8vo, $2.50. (In press.)

There are many readers—familiar with the Bible narrative and well posted in historical matters generally—to whom the relations of the Hebrew race to foreign nations, such as the Persians and Romans, are quite obscure; and these will welcome a clear and interesting narrative of facts which have hitherto required much laborious research among authorities not easily accessible.

Mrs. Latimer's Histories named below are well known and widely popular. Each volume is handsomely illustrated with numerous portraits.

France in the 19th Century.
Russia and Turkey in the 19th Century.
Europe in Africa in the 19th Century.
England in the 19th Century.
Italy in the 19th Century.
Spain in the 19th Century.

A NEW BOOK IN "THE YOUNG KENTUCKIANS SERIES" BY BYRON A. DUNN,
Author of "General Nelson's Scout."

ON GENERAL THOMAS'S STAFF.

Illustrated. 12mo, $1.25.

Encouraged by the hearty reception accorded the stirring narrative of "General Nelson's Scout," published last fall, Mr. Byron A. Dunn, the author, has embodied in this volume memories of his further experiences of the Civil War. In a historically accurate framework is set forth a moving story of daring action and adventure, which will delight the youthful reader. The career of the hero of the former tale, Fred, now Captain Shackelford, his hairbreadth escapes and daring and gallant services, will be followed with interest not only by the young, for whom the stories are especially written, but also by veterans of the war and their families, and indeed by all who are keenly interested in that marvellous chapter of history.

BY THE SAME AUTHOR:

General Nelson's Scout. Illus. 12mo, $1.25.

THE CITY OF DREADFUL NIGHT, And Other Poems.

Being a Selection from the Poetical Works of James Thomson ("B. V.") 16mo, gilt top, uncut edges, $1.25.

The only American edition of this collection of the poems of James Thomson, who died in 1882. The handsome little volume contains thirty-three poems, selected by Bertram Dobell, a personal friend and admirer of the poet, the longest being the celebrated descriptive poem, "The City of Dreadful Night."

Master Charlie,

Painter, Poet, Novelist and Teacher, with numerous examples of his work collected by C. Harrison and S. H. Hamer.

Master Charlie is a small boy who has not yet attained the proficiency of correct spelling, but who has had wide experience and has seen considerable of the world. Instruction and amusement are combined in the extracts from his diary. The text is humorously illustrated with full-page reproductions in different drawings. Each page is a funny surprise to the children. Size 8 x 10 inches. Bound in boards with a portrait of Master Charlie on the front cover. Price, $1.00.

The Magazine of Art.

The complete yearly volume for 1899, with exquisite photogravures, articles illustrated entirely in colors, and about 800 choice engravings from famous paintings and from original drawings by the first artists of the day, making a valuable record of the art world, as well as an exquisite gift book; handsomely bound in cloth gilt, gilt edges. Price, $5.00.

Drawing in Charcoal and Crayon.

New edition, with introduction by CHAS. DE KAY. For the use of Students and Schools, with eight studies from original designs by FRANK FOWLER, reproduced by the Heliotype process on heavy paper, size 12 x 18 inches. Price of volume, bound in cloth, and the eight plates in box, $2.50.

Free-hand drawing with charcoal and crayon is the foundation of training in art, and for the class-room and for people studying alone this little manual by Mr. Fowler will be found of great use. It is the work of a painter and teacher of art who has sifted its paragraphs from a large amount of personal experience in the studio and the class-room.

The Library of Natural History Romance.

The Romance of Wild Flowers. By EDWARD STEP, F.L.S., with upwards of 200 original illustrations in the text by M. E. Step, and 32 full-page plates, printed in monotint from photographs taken from nature, and specially engraved chapter headings by T. Carreras. Small 8vo, cloth, gilt top, $2.00.

 A most interesting volume for all lovers of nature. Intended rather for the non-scientific rather than for the botanist, this little work will invest these beautiful plants with greater interets by calling attention to those details of their structure, origin, environment, and reproduction, which suggest the term romance.

A New and Interesting Gift for the Young.

Stories from Shakespeare. By M. SURTEES TOWNSEND With upwards of 100 original illustrations by the author. Small medium 8vo, stylishly bound in cloth gilt, gilt edges, $2.50.

Simplified by conversion, as far as possible, to narrative form, and assisted by copious illustration, this selection of the immortal dramas should meet with a hearty welcome from all who are in search of something that will interest the young of "all the ages."

The Art of Thinking. By T. S. KNOWLTON. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

EXTRACT FROM THE PREFACE.—"What you want to develop is the art of thinking, and thinking is an art which stands a very good chance of perishing from amongst us altogether." "I think the Press, with all its merits, is one of the greatest enemies of independent thinking. . . . People read a great deal more than they used to do—there is more to read—but they think less."

The Birthday Book of Beauty: Being Selections from Various Authors relating to Beauty in Art and Nature. Arranged by ED. W. HANSCOMB. 48mo, "Dresden" art style, 50 cents; polished levant leather style, boxed, $1.00.

Bashful Fifteen.—Betty: A Schoolgirl.—Children of Wilton Chase.—Four on an Island.—Girls New and Old.—Out of the Fashion.—The Palace Beautiful.—Polly, a New-fashioned Girl.—Red Rose and Tiger Lily.—A Ring of Rubies.—A Sweet Girl Graduate.—A World of Girls.—Good Luck.—A Girl in Ten Thousand.—A Young Mutineer.—Wild Kitty.—The Children's Pilgrimage.—The Girls of St. Wode's.

FLAG OF FREEDOM SERIES.

By CAPTAIN RALPH BONEHILL.

Three Volumes. Illustrated. Bound in Cloth, with a very Attractive Cover. Price, $1.00 per Volume.

WHEN SANTIAGO FELL; or, The War Adventures of Two Chums.

Two boys, an American and his Cuban chum, leave New York to join their parents in the interior of Cuba. The war between Spain and the Cubans is on, and the boys are detained at Santiago de Cuba, but escape by crossing the bay at night. Many adventures between the lines follow, and a good pen picture of General Garcia is given. The American lad, with others, is captured and cast into a dungeon in Santiago; and then follows the never-to-be-forgotten campaign in Cuba under General Shafter. How the hero finally escapes makes reading no wide-awake boy will want to miss.

A SAILOR BOY WITH DEWEY; or, Afloat in the Philippines.

The story of Dewey's victory in Manila Bay told in a new form—not as those in command witnessed the contest, but as it appeared to a real, live American youth who was in the navy at the time. Many adventures in Manila and in the interior follow, giving true-to-life scenes from this remote portion of the globe.

OFF FOR HAWAII; or, The Mystery of a Great Volcano.

Fact and romance cleverly interwoven. Several boys start on a tour of the Hawaiian Islands. They have heard that there is a treasure located in the vicinity of Kilauea, the largest active volcano in the world, and go in search of it. Their numerous adventures will be followed with much interest.

THE ROVER BOYS SERIES.

For Young Americans.

BRENTANO'S NEW BOOKS.

The Standard Operaglass.

By CHARLES ANNESLEY, with a prelude by JAMES HUNEKER, containing the detailed plots of 123 celebrated operas, with critical and biographical remarks, dates, etc. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.50.

The Shellback.

By ALEC. J. BOYD. A thrilling story of life on the sea in the last generation, and giving a vivid picture of conditions that are fast vanishing. MORGAN ROBERTSON, the well-known writer of sea tales, contributes an introduction. Illustrated. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Cashel Byron's Profession.

By G. BERNARD SHAW. A clever and whimsical study of English social life. There has been no desirable edition hitherto issued in America. The work fairly bristles with wit from beginning to end, but the utmost good sense lies at the bottom of the story. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.25.

Romances of the Old Seraglio.

By H. N. CRELLIN, with 28 illustrations by STANLEY L. WOOD. Are stories that are wonderfully well told, some of them absorbing in their nature, and all stirring up the imaginative faculty in no small degree. 1 vol., 12mo, illuminated cover, $1.25.

The First Violin.

By JESSIE FOTHERGILL. An entirly new one-volume edition, with 38 illustrations after wash drawings by GEORGE W. BRENNEMAN. 1 vol., cloth, gilt top, $1.25.

One of Cleopatra's Nights.

By THEOPHILE GAUTIER. Translated by LAFCADIO HEARN. This collection of remarkable translations was published several years ago, but has been inaccessible in any good edition for some time. New plates have been made, and many original head and tail pieces added. 12mo, cloth, gilt top, $1.50.

Michael Dred, Detective.

By MARIE and ROBERT LEIGHTON. A thoroughly interesting detective story, written in a clever manner; the reader is hardly liable to put the book down before finishing. Illustrated. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

The Night Before Christmas.

By CLEMENT MOORE. An attractive edition, with entirely new and original illustrations in black and white, by J. C. CHASE. Square 8vo, boards, 50 cents.

What Makes a Friend? In Friendship's Name.

Two volumes compiled by VOLNEY STREAMER are an attractive addition to the list. The two volumes are particularly suited for gift-books, being beautifully bound in pliable covers and enclosed separately in pasteboard boxes. Bound in parchment covers, each, $1.25.

FALL ANNOUNCEMENTS BY THE ROBERT CLARKE COMPANY.

East Tennessee and the Civil War.

By Hon. OLIVER P. TEMPLE, author of "The Covenanter, the Cavalier, and the Puritan." 1 vol., 8vo, cloth. About 600 pages. (Ready in October.) Net . . . . . $3.50.

The object of the author in this work is to portray the history of the determined struggle in East Tennessee for the preservation of the Union, and to set forth the unyielding constancy and the heroic sacrifices of the Union people in its behalf. No such splendid patriotic devotion can be found in our National annals. The author has had peculiar opportunities for describing the thrilling incidents connected with the war. He knew all the leading men, and most of them intimately. A native of East Tennessee himself, he is familiar with all the ways and habits of the people he describes.

The Union Leaders of East Tennessee.

By Hon. OLIVER P. TEMPLE, author of "East Tennessee and the Civil War," "The Covenanter, the Cavalier, and the Puritan." 1 vol., 8vo, cloth. About 600 pages. Net, $3.50.

The object of this history is the portrayal of the group of strong, brave men who appeared in 1861 as the leaders of the people. In no part of the land could such a combination of dauntless courage, high ability, and iron determination have been found as within this small region of country.

A Review of the Constitution of the United States,

BOOKBINDING FOR PUBLISHERS

IT is easy enough to solicit and obtain business when you can offer low prices. But it is necessary to have something besides low prices. A good reputation, good work and the ability to live up to contracts are some of these qualifications. There are many bookbinders who will take work for a low price and then cheapen the binding and delay the work because they have not the facilities of turning it out, thus defrauding the publishers.

In my new place of business, in the building at the corner of Centre and Leonard Streets, where I have a floor space of over 40,000 square feet, filled with the very latest and most modern machinery, such as automatic cutting and trimming machines, rapid quadruple folding machines, new model Smyth sewing machines, the most powerful smashing machines, the very latest improved Crawley rounding and backing machines, Smyth bookcase machines, and the very finest stamping department in this city, all run by my own electric plant, also a very extensive marbling and edge gilding department, managed by the most skilled mechanics. My capacity is over 15,000 cloth bound books per day, and I can do the best work at the lowest prices. I can safely say that I can save publishers who have large editions to be bound from 10 to 20 per cent. on all bindings. I am now ready to make arrangements for bindings for the year 1900.

This is not a plant run by capitalists, or any other moneyed trust or syndicate as a venture, but a well-appointed bindery, managed by a practical man who has made a life study of bookbinding, and has risen from apprenticeship to ownership.

A New Book.

JOHN KING'S QUESTION CLASS.

The new book is notable, first, because giving another of Mr. Sheldon's striking and purposeful stories; and, second, because woven into the story are the author's own answers to the multitude of questions which have arisen in the discussion over his former books, such as "Are these plans feasible?" "Have they been tried?" "What ought to be done in my special case?" etc. Every Sheldon reader will therefore wish to read this story.

Is not behind the others in interest; strung upon a very attractive little story are a great many practical lessons in faith and work and morals. The whole is arranged in a way to stimulate piety and good works.—Herald and Presbyter.

WILL SHORTLY ISSUE A NEW ROMANCE ENTITLED

THE FIGHTING TROUBADOUR,

By ARCHIBALD CLAVERING GUNTER,

AUTHOR OF

"Mr. Barnes of New York," "A Princess of Paris," "M. S. Bradford, Special," etc., etc.

This novel is divided into four tremendous episodes:

Book I. THE GIFT OF THE BATTLE FIELD.
Book II. THE PRINCESS MARIA.
Book III. THE SINGING GIRL OF CREMONA.
Book IV. A WILD NIGHT IN MIRANDOLA.

It ends with probably the most extraordinary and powerful climax ever put in the pages of a book or on the stage of a theatre.

The time of the story is the same as Mr. Gunter treated in "The Princess of Paris" and "The King's Stockbroker," two books which have probably been as successful as any historical novels ever written, the first sales of them being over 170,000 copies in America and Canada, exclusive of the English editions and translations in all the modern languages.

NEW NOVELS

The Scarlet Woman

BY JOSEPH HOCKING, author of "Mistress Nancy Molesworth," "All Men Are Liars," "The Story of Andrew Fairfax," "Ishmael Pengelly, an Outcast," "The Monk of Mor Saba." 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

One of the Best

By SEYMOUR HICKS. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

This novel is founded on the celebrated Adelphi drama, by Seymour Hicks and George Edwardes, which has been one of the greatest successes of modern times.

The plot in its main lines has a close affinity with the Dreyfus case, the hero, a gallant young officer, being wrongfully accused of selling information to the enemy. He is tried by court martial, and condemned, the colonel's daughter, who alone knows the true facts, giving false evidence, in order to screen her lover, the actual offender. In the end, virtue is rewarded, and vice punished, in accordance with the best traditions of poetical justice.

The book abounds in exciting situations, and cannot fail to attract a very wide circle of readers.

They Laugh That Win

By MRS. EFFIE ADELAIDE ROWLANDS, author of "A Faithful Traitor," "The Fault of One," "The Spell of Ursula," "My Pretty Jane." 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

A novel of the domestic order, but with ample incident. The interest is well sustained, and the characters are skilfully drawn.

There is an element of mystery about the story, the heroine having, by the shock of a railway accident, lost her memory of all that has taken place during the previous few months, the blank covering the whole period of her courtship and marriage, so that she believes herself still unmarried. Her husband has been killed in the railway accident, which takes place on the very day of the wedding. Hence various complications, the reader being throughout in the secret of the real facts, though the personages of the story are in ignorance of them. All is finally made clear, and the story has a happy ending.

The Kingdom of a Heart

BY EFFIE ADELAIDE ROWLANDS. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

The Experiences of Dorothy Leigh

By FRANCES HOME, author of "Against the Odds." 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

A capitally written novel, in which the experiences of a spirited young lady in the capacity of a hospital nurse are made to form the background of a fascinating love story. Dorothy Leigh's rebellion against the supposed tyranny of the resident medical officer, a handsome young doctor, and the gradual steps by which she is first made amenable to discipline, and finally led to an entire reversal of her feelings for him, are described with much skill and humor. Few readers will lay the book down till the last page is reached.

"We regard the book as one that is well worth reading."—The Athenæum.

"All through the book there is a fine touch of sentiment, which greatly impresses the reader, and the author deserves to have her work widely read."—Scotsman.

"Miss Home's whole book is very fresh and is nearly all delightful. She has a genuine and charming talent, and we shall certainly be on the alert for her next story,"—Newcastle Daily Leader.

GOUPIL & CO., of Paris,

TO BE READY IN DECEMBER:

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

By WORTHINGTON CHAUNCEY FORD.

IN TWO VOLUMES.

The general note of Mr. Ford's work will be the personal. It will be the surveyor, the young colonel of a Colonial Regiment, the planter, the slave holder, the General, and the President who will be described.

The illustrations will form a special feature of this work, and are to consist of 12 full-page photogravure plates and one hand-finished water-color facsimile frontispiece in each volume, including 19 single portraits and 5 plates, each containing 5 portraits. In addition there will be 32 tail-pieces, 16 in each volume, engraved on wood, comprising portraits and personal relics of Washington and his family. Nearly all the portraits and relics are photographed direct from the originals, and all are reproduced specially for this book, many of them for the first time.

The work will be complete in two volumes, and issued in the following styles:

EDITION DE BIBLIOPHILE.

Limited to 50 numbered copies, Imperial octavo, 7½ x 11 inches, printed on Dutch hand-made paper, with full-page illustrations on India paper, and initial letters printed in two colors. There will be two extra sets of all full-page illustrations apart from the text, including the two frontispieces, namely:

1 set on Japan paper in bistre, and
1 set on antique paper in blue camaieu tint; also
2 extra title-pages and 2 indexes, so that the work may be extended to 4 volumes.

Price per Copy, Bound in Boards, . . $75.00.

DE LUXE EDITION.

Limited to to 200 numbered copies, on Ruisdael hand-made paper, size 7½ x 10½ inches, with one extra set of all full-page illustrations in bistre.

Price per Copy, Bound in Full Straight Grain Morocco with Special Tooling, $50.00.

MEMORIAL EDITION.

Limited to 1250 numbered copies, printed on Dickinson all-rag deckle-edge paper, size 7 x 10 inches, with one set of all illustrations in monotint.

Price per Copy, in Half Leather Binding, $20.00.

N.B.—The entire edition is strictly limited to 1500 copies, as above announced, to be printed from type which will be immediately distributed after completion.

Subscriptions will be booked in the order they are received, and should be sent in as early as possible.

TO BE READY IN NOVEMBER:

SIR THOMAS LAWRENCE.

By Lord RONALD SUTHERLAND GOWER, F.S.A.,

A Trustee of the National Portrait Gallery. With a Catalogue of the Artist's Exhibited and Engraved Works. Compiled by Algernon Graves, F.S.A.

The text of the story of Lawrence's life and art will consist of about one hundred pages; these will be fifty-two full-page illustrations (consisting of facsimile frontispiece, three other plates in the colors of the originals, and forty-eight in black or monochrome), and a dozen smaller illustrations.

THE WORK WILL BE ISSUED AS FOLLOWS:

EDITION DE GRAND LUXE.

On Whatman and India paper, 15 x 12 inches, limited to 200 numbered copies. These copies will be provided with a duplicate set of the forty-eight large plates in black or monochrome, and of the twelve smaller plates.

Price per Copy, $100.00.

Only Fifty Copies of this Edition are reserved for America.

FINE PAPER EDITION.

Limited to 600 numbered copies, with the text and plates on paper specially manufactured by Blanchet and Kleber, of Rives, measuring 13 x 10 inches, but without the duplicate set of the portraits.

Captive Memories.

By JAMES TERRY WHITE.

"The most beautiful gift-book I ever saw."—MARGARET E. SANGSTER.

A book of delicious verse, commemorating the anniversary days of life, and arranged to portray in natural sequence the awakening, development, and affections of a lifetime. All the world loves a lover, and an ideal one will be found in this exquisite volume, which might be called "The Memoirs of a Lover." The beauty of the words attracted Mr. Ethelbert Nevin, who set them to music in a musical composition.

The author is a bookseller of thirty-six years' experience, and has prepared this book from the dealer's standpoint, it being adapted as a Gift-book for Christmas, New Years, Easter, Thanksgiving, Birthday, Betrothal, Wedding, Paternity, Christening, Parting, etc., there being sixty commemorative days. Over 7000 copies have already been sold at the price of $3.00 and $4.50. Small 4to, 108 pp. Illustration on every page. To close out the remainder of the edition the price has been REDUCED TO $1.50. TRADE DISCOUNT 50 Per Cent.

WHAT LITERARY EXPERTS SAY.

S. WEIR MITCHELL—"An amazingly beautiful book."

EDWARD E. HALE—"My wife and I are delighted."

FRANK R. STOCKTON—"Through all its exquisite pages there is delicate art and tender sentiment."

ANDREW D. WHITE—"Wonderfully beautiful from every point of view."

HON. JOHN HAY—"Charming lyrics and exquisite illustrations, which form one of the most attractive gift-books I have ever seen."

KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN—"It is, indeed, a thing of beauty."

ALFRED AUSTIN, POET LAUREATE—"A very beautiful book."

J. M. BARRIE—"Your beautiful book gave me great pleasure."

T. B. ALDRICH—"The graceful lyrics appear to be one piece with the graceful illustrations."

LITERARY NEWS—"It is the most beautiful book published in years, and one which everybody will wish to own, for it is a lovely gem in an exquisite setting."

MARY A. LIVERMORE—"One of the most exquisite gift-books I have ever seen."

ELIZABETH STUART WARD—"It is altogether a delight."

RT. HON. WM. E. GLADSTONE—"'Captive Memories' is a very lovely book."

SIR EDWIN ARNOLD—"A most beautiful book."

Roses

By AMY LE FEUVRE, author of "Probable Sons," etc. An intensely interesting story. The quaint sayings and experiences of the children described interest from the beginning to the end. It appeals not only to the young but the old. The Independent recently said that her writings are among the brightest, most charming, and irresistible of child's creations in our recent literature.

One volume; Binding, cloth; Size, 5 x 7½ inches; pages, 266; Cover stamped in design; four illustrations by Sidney Cowell; price, 75 cents.

Elvira Hopkins of Tompkins Corners

By IZORA CHANDLER, author of "A Dog of Constantinople," "Anthè," "Three of Us," etc. The book purports to be written by the "comfortably-off maiden woman." It is written in the quaint country dialect of Central New York, and furnishes a continual series of pictures to the mind of the reader. There are many delightful character sketches. It abounds in homely wit, terse epigrams and droll observations, and is altogether interesting and amusing.

One volume; Binding, cloth; Size, 5 x 7½ inches; pages, 196; Cover designed by author; price, 75 cents.

The Pleasures of Literature and the Solace of Books

Selected and arranged by JOSEPH SHAYLOR, with an introduction by ANDREW LANG. A volume containing short selections of pertinent extracts selected from the writings of our great statesmen and men of letters which are well worth detaching from their surroundings, and including amongst other gems some from our early masters of English literature.

One volume; Binding, cloth; Size, 5¼ x 7¼ inches; pages, 148; Illustrated title; Frontispiece of Meissonier's painting, "A Reading at Diderot's House"; Cover design; price, $1.00; Also a limited edition of 250 numbered copies, printed on Genuine Japan Vellum, at $3.00 net.

God and the People, and Other Sermons

By DAVID JAMES BURRELL, D.D. The sermons were delivered during the past year, and are reported from the author's own lips. They abound in strong common sense, in effective interpretation of Scripture, in successful application of truth to the thoughtful hearer, and in that deep, spiritual fervor without which no sermon ever strikes home with lasting effect.

One volume; Binding, cloth; Size, 5¼ x 7¾ inches; pages, 350; price, $1.50.

Jonah in Fact and Fancy

By EDGAR J. BANKS, Ph.D., United States Consul at Bagdad, with an introduction by Lyman Abbott, D.D., LL.D. The aim of this book is to present to the large body of busy clergymen and Biblical students a clear, simple statement of all the facts which are known and many of the fancies which are entertained of Jonah and the Biblical book which bears his name, and to place before all classes of people the means of forming an intelligent opinion of the historical and the religious value of Jonah.

One volume; Binding, cloth; Size, 5 x 7½ inches; pages, 194; Illustrated; price, 75 cents.

The Life that Really Is

By LYMAN ABBOTT, D.D., LL.D. Editor of The Outlook, etc. The sermons contained in this volume were delivered during the last year that the author was pastor of Plymouth Church. They will be found suggestive and are full of knowledge and power, combined with an aptness of illustration and beauty of diction which can not fail to both impress and charm the reader. They will provoke discussion.

One volume; Binding, cloth; Size, 5¼ x 7¼ inches; pages, 350; price, $1.50.

The Expositor's Bible

EDITED BY W. ROBERTSON NICOLL, LL.D. The complete work, which is now published in forty-nine volumes, is being reprinted and is to be issued in six large octavo volumes of 800 pages each. In no way is the original edition to be condensed, but the entire contents is to be reprinted. Cloth binding, six volumes, $20.00 net; in half morocco, gilt top, $27.00 net. It is our intention to publish one volume a month, commencing with December, but if competing editions are published the volumes will be put on the market at once. We purchase odd volumes of the old edition from any who desire our edition.

Complete descriptive catalogue on application.

GENERAL LIB. UNIV. OF MICH.

The Memoirs of Victor Hugo.

Victor Hugo

THE great literary event of the year is the appearance simultaneously in Paris, New York and London of the long-looked-for Memoirs of Victor Hugo. The rights of translation and publication in the United States and Great Britain of this important work were acquired by the G. W. Dillingham Company from M. Paul Meurice, the celebrated playwright and novelist and Victor Hugo's literary executor, who has written a preface specially for the English version, which is from the pen of John W. Harding.

The Memoirs, which date back to 1825, when Hugo witnessed the coronation of Charles X. at Rheims, are of absorbing interest. They constitute a series of vivid pen pictures of persons whose names are writ large in the annals of French art, literature, politics, and the stage, and of events in which he took a leading part, events that shook the world and have their lasting pages in the history of the nations.

Some of the most piquant and interesting chapters in the work are those containing Hugo's reminiscences of the Court of the Tuileries when Louis Philippe was on the throne. The poet was in high favor with the Royal Family and the King was wont to make him his confidant. Louis Philippe expressed his views upon current political affairs unreservedly. The Emperor of Russia, he said, lacked tact and was a fool. Sir Robert Peel also found little favor in his sight, but he was a warm admirer of Pitt, whom he considered to be the greatest English statesman he had known. He explained to Hugo the methods of the Parliament, and mimicked a member of the House of Commons in the act of making a speech. All this was in relation to the dangerous tension between Great Britain and France over the protectorate of Haiti, which the King deplored.

Louis Napoleon's political début and his elevation to the presidency of the Republic were events that naturally impressed themselves upon Victor Hugo's mind, and he details the first dinner given by the President after he had installed himself at the Elysée, at which he was a guest.

The stirring scenes in Paris during the Revolution of 1848, and the Siege of Paris in 1871, are described with a vividness and breadth that make these pages some of the finest ever penned by the master.

In addition to the memoirs proper there are some miscellaneous essays and short stories. These are altogether charming and essentially Hugoesque. "The Hovel," "The Easter Daisy," "A Dream," and "Love in Prison," are exquisite masterpieces.

Some hitherto unpublished details of the execution of Louis XVI. and the arrival of Napoleon I. in Paris, in 1815, which were recounted to the poet by eye-witnesses, are also given. The details of the execution were related to him by an old man. Hugo from these has pictured the scene with such inimitable art that one is positively chilled by the cold of that bleak, gloomy, January morning, and seems to witness the martyrdom of the "King in White" as a spectator in the bizarre, lugubrious crowd.

The Memoirs form a most welcome and valuable addition to the works of Victor Hugo. No library will be complete without it. Advance orders for nearly the entire first edition have already been received from bibliophiles anxious to secure first-edition copies.
